Chrysler today called back several thousand men after months of layoff. They were the first of 42,000 workers coming back. Chrysler's full work force is about 90,000.

By mid-November the workers recall is expected to number into the scores of thousands. The future will tell how far coming by year is to compare with the recession-ridden 1958 year.

POLICE TO MEET

SARNIA (CP)—The 26th annual convention of the Ontario Police Association, which is expected to be attended by more than 250 officers and their wives, will open here Aug. 20 and will continue on until Aug. 22. The Ontario Police Women's Auxiliary will jointly hold its annual business session and election of officers.

2 Armed Bandits Captured Shortly After Robbery

TORONTO (CP) — Two armed bandits were captured here today by a lone constable minutes after gunmen raided a men's wear store on Queen St. west.

P. C. Robert Dougall drew a gun and cornered one suspect on Soho St. and handcuffed him to a fence. He then set off after the other man and nabbed him in a parking lot disarmed one of the men of a .22 calibre revolver loaded with five shells.

The proprietor of the shop was forced to the rear of the store during the holdup.

The proprietor pointed out to Dougall the direction he thought the pair had fled and the policeman, on duty at a nearby University Students Information Office, took off after them.

When he saw them he yelled at them to stop, drew his gun, and managed to overtake the man.

"He did a wonderful piece of work," said Inspector Herbert Harrison.

COLLINS BAY PEN

The outbursts started shortly after baseball games in the recreation yard were called off because of rain. As the men were filing indoors a group broke off and ran to one of the dormitories, out of the line of sight of the nearest guard towers 400 feet away.

As guards equipped with tear gas sprinted to head them off they set fire to the dormitory and moved on to other buildings.

HELD BY BLUFF

A provincial policeman said he and four others held the penitentiary's south wall with sheer bluff. The officer, who declined to give his name, told reporters:

"I was afraid. We thought for sure they were going to run the south gate as a body. All we had were three pistols, one rifle and some tear gas bombs. But we put on a little show of force and made them think we were much stronger and they prepared than we were."

He didn't explain further.

Three rigs from Kingston township and Kingston city fire departments were called to shelter the area until the way had been cleared of prisoners throwing bottles and stones.

The flames were under control about four hours after the started.

Canon Minto Swan, penitentiary chaplain, said he usually is "in the know" when such events are planned. He said he had spoken to the men at church just before the ball game and had no idea what was coming. He believed the riot was spontaneous.

The penitentiary's Roman Catholic and Anglican chapels, which lie in the path of the rioters' destructive rampage, were not touched.

Warden Richmond said only 12 shots were fired.

Most of the prisoners in Collins Bay are bedded in dormitories, only a few are lodged in rooms secured cell blocks. The institution is largely a rehabilitation centre with the prisoners employed learning trades.

SMASH SPY RING

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Profit-taking continued to dominate the stock market today for the second straight session as all sections were lower today in light morning trading.

Industrials, the big losers Friday, led the way down today, dipping more than one point on index. Base metals were off one-quarter while golds and western oils were fractionally lower.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 804,000 shares, the lightest first hour figure of the month and compared with Friday's 1,090,000 at the same hour. Steels were hardest hit. Losses of ¼ went to Algoma and 30¾ and Steel Company of Canada at 64¼.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line was the big winner adding 3 at 50. Bell Telephone and Massey-Ferguson each gained ¼.

In base metals senior mines were the major losers and again showed little tendency to go in either direction. Hollinger was ¼ off at 34¾ but several junior were up a few cents.

Firemen Answer Twelfth Call To Sawdust Pile

TRENTON — Trenton firemen made their 12th call in three weeks to the sawdust and shavings pile bordering the railway track and the bay shore, just south of the softball park, yesterday afternoon when huge clouds of smoke brought in an alarm.

Yesterday, for the second time in two days they poured tons of water onto the pile and were also assisted by a heavy downpour of rain shortly after they finished dousing the smoulder-ing wood chips.

On Friday Fire Chief Clarence Orser and his men had hoped they had eliminated any further trouble from this area when the ten firemen soaked the area for three hours with water pumped from the bay.

Since last Friday firemen have answered 12 calls to quell the smouldering sawdust. Their second call within the recent weeks came on July 31. In August things were quiet for much worse. They went out again on, August 2, twice on August 3, twice on August 4, twice on August 5, twice on August 15 and once yesterday.

They hope now there will be no more trouble after making sure they have given the pile. On many of the calls it was necessary for them to use a line of hose which takes several fire-men to do.

At the last meeting of the town council the matter was brought to their notice by the fathers and they decided to send a crew from the works' public department down to clean out the shavings and trim the bush-es. Some of the trees have been done, mostly in trimming the bushes and willows. It was reported the town bulldozer is on the way to do this work. He and sinks too deeply into the shavings and sawdust to help push the pile back.

It was also brought out at the council meeting that the fires were probably being started by children who hide in the bushes to either smoke cigarettes or with matches. Trimming the bushes would eliminate the hid-ing place and perhaps help to control any outbreak of further fires. Trees and bushes are also cutting down some of the smaller bushes.

TRENTON BABY

lege Street, who was looking out of her window at the time.

The boy was rushed to the hospital in the car by his father but died about an hour later.

Dr. J. B. Byrne, said an inquest into the death will not be held as he has of the opinion he was completely accidental.

It was the first fatality in Trenton this year caused by a motor vehicle.

TRENTON — Sheila Everson, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Everson, Glen Miller, died a few minutes after she was struck by a car near the Van Clief Store in Glen Miller Saturday night at about 9.30 p.m.

The driver of the car, Jack Sharpe, 33, of Frankford, has been charged with drunk driving by the Ontario Provincial Police. A passenger in the car at the time of the mishap was Mel McGeachy also of Frankford.

The girl was rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital by Wes-ton's ambulance but she died only minutes after arrival from a fractured skull and a fractured neck. Dr. J. B. Byrnes, coroner, said yesterday an inquest will not be held due to the charge which has been laid against the driver of the car.

It was reported that the girl was on her way home from a friend's home when the accident occurred. John C. Garrett, vice-principal of Trenton High School, said the victim and his daughter, Joan, had returned from swimming and had arrived at the Garrett house to change their clothing. While there Sheila was called by her mother to return home and had refused an offer of a drive be-cause she was close to home by her.

She told the Garretts she did not intend to ride the bike be-cause it was too dark and would push it to her home with the op-posite side of the Trent River.

Joan decided to walk part of her way home with her friend and when they had gone a little way along the highway they had met a couple of friends and the girls decided to chat. While they were talking Joan said she saw the headlights of a car ap-proaching and rushed the chil-dren by yelling, "Look Out". The other three managed to jump back out of the way but the on-coming car struck Sheila in her back. It dragged both the girl and the bike for a con-siderable distance before it came to a stop in front of the store. She was rushed to the hospital by Weston's ambulance called to rally from her injuries.

Sheila was a carrier girl in Glen Miller for the Ontario Intelligencer.

Hundreds of persons were attracted to the scene of the mis-hap which was investigated by the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Funeral services were held Tues-day at 2 p.m. from the Weaver Funeral Home in Trenton.

Sheila's mother and father the girl is survived by a young-er brother and sister.

TRENTON — Edmond Bur-yea, 59, father of four children, a farmer near Wooler, died in the Belleville General Hospital from injuries received in a two-car accident while on his way to church in the town yesterday at 10.25 a.m.

Injured in the same accident was Paul Bruyea, 15, who suf-fered deep cuts to the right hand and bruises on the face and head.

Mr. Bruyea was rushed to the Belleville hospital by the Weav-er ambulance in Trenton, but he died a few hours later.

Paul Bruyea was treated in the Belleville hospital by the Weav-er ambulance in Trenton, but he was released to right after the accident.

The accident occurred at the intersection just north of Wooler and was investigated by the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

It was reported the car driven by Paul Newman was proceeding east at the intersec-tion when it was struck broad-side.

Damage to both cars was estim-ated at over $1,000.

It was reported Mr. Bruyea suffered severe head and inter-nal injuries which undoubtedly caused death, although an offic-ial report from medical authori-ties has not been released as yet.

It was also reported the victim suffered a fractured leg.

Paul Newman, the driver of the second car, was alone in the vehicle and was not injured in or scratches and bruises.

Mrs. Glen Elliott, a passenger in the family car, was not in-jured.

It is not known if an inquest into the death will be ordered.

CRASHES IN TRENT CANAL

Albert Elliott Shannon, 80, of Bloomfield, was killed Saturday afternoon, and Ted Sanderson, 33, Wellington, was seriously in-jured when their single-engine light plane crashed into the Trent Canal after it had stalled shortly after taking off.

Two fishermen, Ernest Caron, Toronto, and Stanley Cable, of North York, sat in their row-boat and watched the plane climb 25 feet into the air, start to turn and then plunge back into the water. The plane then pinned in the cockpit.

Mr. Caron said "I made a tight arc to the right," said Mr. Car-on.

"Just as the plane cleared the trees a downgust of wind-wing and seemed to drive it straight down into the canal. It struck the water the plane flipped over on its back. We rowed like hell to see if we could help."

Mr. Caron jumped into the water beside the plane and swam to Mr. Sanderson who was clinging to a piece of wreckage.

Mr. Sanderson is in Camp-bellford Memorial Hospital suf-fering from severe shock and back injuries. His condition is fair.

Mr. Shannon, a garage mech-anic, was cited this week as one of the most experienced seaplane pilots in the Quinte area.

Frank Foley, manager of the Prince Edward Flying Club, told The Ontario Intelligencer that Mr. Shannon was one of the or-iginal charter members of the flying club and had many hours of experience in both land and float-equipped planes.

"Elliott was a very, very fine pilot," said Mr. Foley. "He was perhaps the most experienced float-plane pilot in this area. I'm sure the accident was not caused by carelessness."

WOMAN, YOUTH INJURED

Mrs. Beatrice Maynard, of Deer-horn, Ont., and a young woman-ized shortly after midnight when a car driven by George Elgi, 16, left the road and went down a 50 foot embankment.

The southbound car went off the right side of the road and struck a tree after it had left the em-bankment throwing its four oc-cupants out.

Taken to hospital at Belle-ville by Bush's Ambulance along with Mrs. Maynard were Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Smart, R. R. 3 Belleville. They escaped with a shaking up.

Just off the York Road, 4 miles east of Belleville, a motorcycle ridden by Glen Mar-celle, R. 1 Carrying Place, driven by Audrey Maracle, 20, Marysville collided, sending the youth to Belleville hospital. De-tails of his injuries were not learned.

A four vehicle rear-end collis-ion on No. 2 highway near Bay-side Saturday caused damage to as many vehicles last night.

Provincial police said that cars driven by Delbert Waltman, R. R. 3 Belleville; George A. Thompson of Corbyville; Thomas Grost 82 Everett Street and a tractor trailer driven by Ronald Thompson of Bothwell, Ont., were involved in the mishap. No one was injured.

Bicycle Brakes Fail, But Boy Only Scratched

TRENTON — Seven-year-old Larry Sharpe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sharpe, 10 Alfred Street, had a narrow escape from serious injury late yesterday when the brakes on his bicycle failed and carried him into the side of a car.

The youngster was knocked from his bike, which was also dam-aged, but the boy suffered only minor scratches and a shaking up.

Ralph Zwerry, driver of the car, of 8 Rossy Terrace, Belle-ville police he was going north on Sidney Street and was just ap-proaching the intersection of Wilson Crescent when the boy on the bike appeared in front of him. He said he was not going fast at the time but was unable to prevent the left front wheel of his car from hitting the rear wheel of the bike, upsetting it but throwing the child clear.

The youngster said his brakes on the bike failed when he tried to stop it when approach-ing the intersection.

INJURES BACK

Russell Hill, 39, of R. R. 5, Trenton, was rushed to the Tren-ton Memorial Hospital last night at 10.20 p.m. by Weaver Ambu-lance, suffering from a painful back injury.

It was reported that Mr. Hill, driver of five children was com-ing out of the front door of his home when he slipped and fell on the door step.

He was treated by Dr. J. B. Byrne and is still at the hospi-tal but the exact extent of his injuries will not be determined until the X-rays have been studied.

Ford and Division Corner Picked for Police Station

TRENTON — The corner of Ford and Division has been tentatively picked as a site for the proposed new police station, Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chair-man of the protection to persons and property committee stated at a meeting with members of the local press.

Councillor Worrall said he had brought the matter up at the last meeting of the town's Planning Board and it was the members of his committee agreed this is the most desir-able spot for the new station. The lot is owned by the town and this would eliminate any extra cost for the purchase of land. Shaped in a rough triangle, the lot has a 158-foot frontage on Division Street and 138-foot frontage on Ford Street and "the spot" is the lot is 80 feet.

TOLD SITE SUITABLE

Mr. Worrall stated two archi-tects from Ottawa had been brought in to look over the lot and they assured the town councillors it would be an ideal spot for such a building. He also said the Ontario Provincial would like to see the area known as the "Bottle House" lot in use where the present police station stands, as open space.

Some time ago it was thought if the entire Market Square was cleared of buildings it would be an ideal public parking lot which would be close to the east end business section and to the town as well as the commercial area's businesses. Another thought expressed is the opinion that the old police station build-ing should be left standing as a "historic site" of by - gone days in Trenton.

COMBINATION PLAN OUT

Mr. Worrall said the possibil-ity of building a combination fire hall and police station is also definitely out.

The matter will be brought up at the council meeting tonight.

Want to Give Hammarskjold Peace Mission

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A Western-supported resolution was put before the United Nations General Assembly today propos-ing that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold be given a new Middle East peace mission.

The new plan was whipped into final form in a busy weekend of consultations among the chief sponsor, Deputy Foreign Minis-ter Hans Engen of Norway, and other key delegates.

It was given to the Norwegian resolution:.

1. Hammarskjold would make such arrangements as he may find adequate in upholding the principles and purposes of the charter in relation to Lebanon and Jordan.

2. The assembly would reaffirm that all UN members should re-frain from acts, direct or indi-rect, aimed at fomenting civil strife in other countries or at sub-version.

3. Hammarskjold would be asked to continue his studies on the practicability of setting up a force for the Middle East. He also would be asked to report that with the Arabs on the possibility of setting up an economic reg-ional development authority.

4. A report would be requested Sept. 30, when the Canadian fall assembly will be in session.

WITHDRAWAL UNSTATED

A diplomat said some Arab and Asian countries had objected that the resolution did not say spec-ifically that the United States and Britain withdraw their troops.

Hasty Pees Recruits Win Trophy at Kingston Parade

The first Eastern Ontario Area Summer Recruit Concen-tration held at Kingston on Sat-urday was favored with perfect weather conditions and was considered highly successful by participants and spectators in at-tendance. The program official-ly opened with a full scale cer-emonial parade. The 350 youth-ful recruits, all of high school age and members of Militia re-cruit courses from Belleville, Brockville, Cobourg, Peterbor-ough and Kingston, put on a very impressive military display which started with the General Salute on the arrival of the in-specting officer, Lieutenant Eric Snow, OBE, CD.

This was followed by a com-plete inspection of the ranks by Brigadier Snow. He was accom-panied by Lieut.-Col. A. McC. Kibbon, AA & QMG at HQ, Eastern Ontario Area, and a panel of three judges, RSM J. P. Sininger, RMC Kingston, RSM C. Addy, Royal Canadian School of Signals and RSM R. S. Bren-nan, R.C.E.M.E. School, who were given the responsibility of selecting the outstanding unit or parade based on their general military efficiency as well as their bearing and appearance of troops. Following the inspection the entire parade moved off in march past in two column left again in column of route. The ceremonial concluded with the entire parade advancing in line in review order to give the General Salute to Brigadier Snow.

GUESTS WELCOMED

In his opening remarks Brig-adier Snow paid a special wel-come to all guests and pointed briefly the aims and objectives of military summer recruit cen-tres. "To the recruits he said "I am most satisfied with the ex-cellent type of military training this morning. Your ef-forts are particularly gratifying when one considers that just six weeks ago the majority of you had little or no previous military training of any kind. During the inspection recruits re-flected determination and en-thusiasm and again during the march past they showed clearly the pride you have in your unit and in the uniform you are wearing. It has been our aim to instil in all you young men a sense of responsibility not only to your family but as citizens of your community and to the great country of ours. I urge you to give your schooling every attention possible. Only a third of giving up school until your education is complete for I can assure the time will come when you would regret such a decision."

DRUMHEAD SERVICE

A Drumhead service was con-ducted following the parade and special guests and visitors at-tended. The service was conduct-ed with the recruits donning sports attire to compete in tradi-tional sports including softball and volleyball. In the afternoon track and field events were held at the Royal Canadian School of Signals sports field and the day's program concluded with the troops formed up in front of the reviewing stand while win-ners of the various team and individual events were called forward and presented with crests by Brigadier Snow. The Brigadier commended the boys on their wonderful display of sportsmanship and added a special congratulation to the winners.

Highlight of the day came when the Brigadier announced the winner of the Area Comman-der's Shield to the unit judged to be best on the ceremonial parade. He said that Regimental Sergeant Majors Sininger, Addy and Brennan confessed they found it difficult to select the outstanding squad but agreed that, while the decision was very close, the winning recruit course was the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment parade. Belleville's Captain David Vaughan, Officer Commanding the Belleville course, accepted the shield from Brigadier Snow. and received a great ovation from the happy recruits and all in attendance.

Winners of the track and field events were:

100-yard dash, Pte. Fitzpat-rick, Belleville, 11.3 sec.

SUPER FLY EXTERMINATOR

In a recent editorial comment was made on what filthy pests the common house flies are and that certain insecticides, if used properly, helped to keep the flies in control around the house. There are other ways, of course, which can be used to advantage - - some good and others which could not be recommended. We recall the time a close relative many years ago answered an advertisement he saw in an American magazine on a sure-fire way for killing flies. The coat was only two dollars so he sent for the gadget and in due course it arrived. There were two wood blocks and nothing else except the directions which were "to place the fly on the bottom block and press the other block on top."

Happening to glance over the letters-to-the-editor in the Brantford Expositor we were interested in a letter written by Tom Brown of 12 Terrace Hill Street, in which he discussed his system of exterminating flies. According to his letter it is most successful. Whether his fly trap is being manufactured for sale or not he does not say, but we are glad to give him some free publicity, for anything that can reduce the fly population, which is worse than usual this year, deserves some assistance.

Mr. Brown's letter in part follows: "I read in The Expositor that scientists are greatly alarmed at the ever-increasing numbers of disease-carrying pests something must be done about it. But who is going do the job? It won't be done by using the method spider used when he invited the fly into his parlor.

"A pleasant elderly lady discussing with me these disease-carrying pests, said, 'I just use the spray when y get into my parlor.'

"I destroy more of the pests in one day than this ly would in a life time with less effort.

"Another man I talked to about the pests, said, have my doors and windows well screened." I replied tle screens are necessary but they don't destroy insects. After reading in The Expositor the story of my fly trap a lady was enthusiastic about getting a trap. However she tells me that her father-in-law advised her not to, saying, 'I wouldn't have one in the house.' Neither would I. They are made for use outside the house and to lure the flies away from the house.

"Also published the story of my trap I sent you the next six days' catch which was 69,363, or nearly 10,000 a day. Since the weather became hotter, the pests have been swarming around my traps in greater numbers. My catch from July 21-27 was 87,377, an average of 14,562 a day.

"The total for 81 days of operation this season is 650,275. To the average householders who don't bother about them this may seem unbelievable. — Tom Brown."

SEPTEMBER RIVALS JUNE

Will you love me in September as you did in June? That isn't quite the way the song goes the question, that is, which was the answer, apparently, would be "almost as well."

September is catching up with June as a month of weddings. Last year there were 18,670 June weddings in Canada, but 17,553 couples were wed in September.

Some may not be surprised at this development since September weather is very much like that in June.

There is, however, one important and vital difference between the two months.

June is ante-vacation and September is post-vacation.

The romantically minded may view the increase in September weddings as proof of the powerful spell cast by summer love affairs.

The cynic will argue that it just proves that many young engaged couples would prefer not to spend their vacations together.

The married folks will merely wonder how anybody has enough money left after a vacation to pay for a honeymoon.

BEWARE THE BULL

It isn't necessary to wave a red flag to make a bull angry. Too many of the animals can get angry, and dangerous, without any such teasing. An experienced Tillsonburg area farm hand was gored to death the other day by one.

The younger animals usually are relatively placid and easily managed. With age most become increasingly cantankerous. One must ever be on the alert, as they can go suddenly berserk. An angry bull is fearsome indeed.

THE PESSIMISTS

The pessimists have prophesied
Plagues and disasters far and wide.
Since first this good old world began,
The gloomy fellows, to a man,
Have grievingly foretold a crash
When everything would go to smash.

I've heard it since I was a boy:
Despair would put an end to joy,
Calamity would strike us low,
Unto the dogs the world would go.
But, nothing ever yet has come
To strike the lips of friendship dumb.

Nothing has ever put to rout
The beauty that is strewn about.
Despite the pessimistic wail
Joy, love and laughter still prevail;
This good old world just jogs along
And proves that pessimists are wrong.

Bird-Feeding Quandary

Fergus News-Record

There's a question arises in the minds of bird lovers, "to feed or not to feed during the summer months". It is fine during the winter to put out food when natural sources are not available, but when there must be plenty of food around. The birds can hunt for themselves. Does it spoil them if they get their living too easily?

We have seen cases where people have fed birds all winter and then quit and because the birds hung around in summer and ate the strawberries and green peas. That's another problem.

The neighbors have been lucky in getting desirable species of birds in winter — cardinals, chickadees, blue jays, nuthatches and evening grosbeaks, to name the ones that are always on hand. They all like sunflower seeds best of all. There are few English sparrows and no starlings. The grosbeaks are the only ones that are missing now. Some chickadees went north but at least two pairs stayed in Fergus.

These varieties are still the only ones that patronize the bird feeder. Maybe other varieties don't get sunflower seeds. We feel it is worthwhile to feed them to have their company. Sometimes we run out of seeds and they stop coming but we hear them around and as soon as we get a new supply, back they come again.

So far, we haven't lost anything from the garden but at noon today there was a blackbird looking over the pea patch. Apparently, the only blackbirds we see are the hundreds which fly overhead going east, an hour or so before dark each fine night. This fellow might have been scouting for the troops. We didn't encourage him. We've planted a good deal of sunflower for seed but we're not growing green peas for blackbirds.

Some Disposal of Waste

The Vancouver Province

In other parts of the country they are meeting waste disposal problems sensibly. A few weeks ago we commented on a practice developed in Switzerland by which garbage is ground into fine particles, mixed with peat dust separated from the organic materials, and the dust is sold for industrial purposes and the organic material used as fertilizer.

In this area we are willing to spend millions to eliminate garbage, sewage and waste to see that hope that tide and wind won't spread it to beaches, dump septic tank sludge on vacant land.

And yet we don't seem to be willing to explore thoroughly the possibilities of reclaiming these materials, methods that are being practised in some parts of North America and Europe. And despite the fact that we are zealous to buy expensive fertilizers to keep our gardens and farms and thereby increase their productivity.

We are wasting some of our most organic materials, the very things that maintain the fertility of our limited amount of arable land, and spending millions on sewer outfalls, incinerators and garbage dumps to do so.

In North America we are heading the end of the-ers of pillage and waste. More and more we are beginning to realize that exploitation of the next century will have to be followed by policies of careful conservation.

As laymen we don't pretend to know how much of the waste products can be reclaimed. But we are not deterred by the usual reaction to the question claims that such reclamation would cost more than it is worth.

It might not pay for itself but the sale of processed waste products would help to pay for their reclamation. And we would prefer to see this source of organic material being shot out to sea, dumped on vacant ground or burnt up.

American Tourism

Chicago Daily Tribune

In 1957 the American public set new record in foreign travel, spending nearly a billion dollars getting across the border and while on the far side of it.

This record was made despite the depressing effects of the Suez crisis in 1956. But the real indication is that in 1958 American travel abroad will reach new heights.

The pattern of Americans' foreign travel changes slowly. Though air travel has increased more than doubled since 1952, the proportion of travelers by plane in 1957 was only a little greater than in the year before. (The number going by ship was a little under the 1953 figure.) The percentage of Americans bound travelers who are foreign born slowly declines, as the periods of heavy immigration recede into history. Correspondingly, the average number of countries visited inches upward as American travelers become more and more tourists bent on pleasure and less and less natives returning to their former homes.

The biggest change in the distribution of tourists' spending in Europe was a larger, share for Germany, a smaller for France there, and in Switzerland, appreciated in the new. The others are substantially as before, including Spain's lead over Ireland — rather surprising since relatives of Ireland outnumber native Spaniards in this country by 10 to 1, and often profess a lively attachment to the old sod.

Tourism, important to the economy of the countries that most benefit from it, is one kind of foreign aid of obvious benefit to Americans, too. It is a responsible as well as an agreeable way of exchanging dollars for experiences. Current recipients of passports are reminded of this in a letter over President's Eisenhower's signature which reads in part:

"As you travel abroad, the respect you show for foreign laws and customs, your courteous regard for other ways of life, and your speech and manner may help mold the reputation of our country. Thus you represent us all in bringing assurance to the people you meet that the United States is a friendly nation and one dedicated to the search for world peace and to the extension of the well-being and security of the community of nations."

Old Enough To Know Better

Montreal Gazette

"I am not the representative here of the Pardons Service of the Department of Justice," said Judge Armand Cloutier of Friday. He was speaking across the dock to eighteen-year-old, who pleaded guilty to two burglaries and a robbery with violence.

"I could send you to prison for life for the highest sentence the law order you lashed for the robbery with violence," said the judge. "I am not going to do that severe but I must do something to you to prevent another from the temptation of others who might think of committing such crimes."

The judge sentenced the youth to two consecutive terms of five years each, 10 years in all.

There is a world of difference between the child who breaks the law once, without thought or with out knowledge. To treat him as a criminal would be unjust. He is most likely way to make him a criminal.

But the youth who consistently and habitually breaks the law does not deserve such treatment, particularly when he adds violence to his crimes. Society, the family of the victim who is killed or brutally beaten there is little difference between murder and failing in or 20.

It must be hoped that Judge Cloutier's sentence, and others like it, will "strike the imagination of others who might think of committing such crimes."

The prospect of being given their just deserts under the law may change their minds.

"The only thing we've had out of it so far is a polaio bug for Junior's insect collection."

THE PACKSACK

I wish they would leave t h e moon alone. How many of us want to know what is on the other face of it? If a census were taken, I bet ninety-nine and forty-four one hundredths of us would express the most supreme indifference about the hidden face of the moon looks like.

It is the human race, riding with a serenity that has been utterly unaffected by three, f o u r thousand years of human rule, that is dear to us, and has been dear to all our fathers and mothers across all those centuries of troubled time. The gentle, silver, familiar face of the moon is perhaps the supreme symbol of serenity in all mankind. Its face is in a thousand poems in a hundred languages. OFF THE RECORD

By Ed Reed

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I want a family but I haven't been able to become pregnant. Could you tell me on which day or days a woman ovulates? Some say it is 14 to 15 days after starting the menstrual period, some say 10 or 12. Is it one or more days, and which days are the most fertile? I have heard that one can tell by temperature. Is this true, and how? — Mrs. J. M."

The information you've had is good. Knowing when ovulation takes place will help, because the ovum can be fertilized only when it is present, and this isn't for a long time.

The ovum, of course, is expelled from the ovary, and may be fertilized from that moment until (approximately) it has moved down the length of the Fallopian tube.

Let's not say that conception cannot take place outside this time. In theory at least, an ovum might possibly be present at some other time. But we are not interested in theory so much as in useful facts, and for practical purposes ovulation will occur at the following times.

The date is commonly specified as the 15th day after the beginning of menstruation — or, by the same token, 14 days before the beginning of the next. This may cycle occurs. However, there is every reason to think that this varies somewhat in different individuals, and very obviously it will vary among women whose cycle, instead of being two to a week shorter, or a week or more longer.

TEMPERATURE RISES ARBITRARY

That is where the temperature comes in. Regardless of the length of cycle, and regardless of other differences, the temperature rises abruptly at the time of ovulation. Not a large rise — about 5-or-6-tenths of a degree — but easily readable, on a clinical thermometer.

Many women keep a daily temperature chart to find out their ovulation cycle. Rectal temperatures are more reliable, final oral. After three or four months, it is quite common for a woman when this sudden rise in temperature occurs. And that, of course, marks the beginning of the time of fertility. Allowances for possible vagaries.

Authorities agree generally that this fertile period lasts only from 12 to 48 hours at most, with emphasis on the shorter rather than the longer period, although one can't be absolutely positive of the exact period.

In any event, keeping such a chart has been extremely helpful to thousands. Many physicians have on hand copies of a chart that you can fill in yourself. If your doctor doesn't have any, you can draw a chart yourself. Remember, however, that the rise in temperature is only about half a degree, and so as not to be missed, take temperature at the same time each morning. Always remember that such things as a cold, fatigue, over-excitement, lack of sleep and so on can also cause variation in your temperature. After a month or so you'll usually recognize when these factors are responsible, and then will recognize that the temperature when it is caused by ovulation.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What, if any, medicinal value has Epsom salts? Should it be used as a laxative? Is there any danger in using it internally? — M. C."

Epsom salts (magnesium sulphate) is primarily used as a laxative, but in larger dose it tends to be one of the harsher variety, causing a watery stool and leaving the colon quite empty. This, in some persons, may in fact aggravate the constipation.

Epsom salts, of course, is used in soaking swollen or inflamed fingers, hands, feet and so on, and is useful to some extent that way.

To Your Good Health

RISE IN TEMPERATURE CAN DENOTE OVULATION

Plenty of Room In the U.S.

Stratford Beacon-Herald

The reason, of course, that there is concern about the ever-increasing population of the United States is that there is plenty of room for everybody and for many years to come. A government report from Washington, made this week, presented some data to substantiate the finding. By comparison the re ported United States with industrialized countries such as The Netherlands, Belgium, Japan, Britain and Britain, which could hardly stand much more traffic.

The U.S. Government's census compiled the figures showing that the United States has 3,000,000 square miles of land, and with the present population of 72,- 000,000 persons there are 250 persons to the square mile. In contrast, The Netherlands, with the world's greatest density, has 858 persons to the square mile. To equal the population density of The Netherlands, the United States would have to have a population of 8,800,- 000,000 persons. Incidentally, Canada could do even better than the U.S. in that regard.

There is one small area that is not covered by the usual precase and, it is to be hoped, not permanent. Chinese refugees have poured into the British port of Hong Kong until now the ratio of population is about ture at the same time each 2,000 per square mile.

What does the popular mean in saying that youth is a malady? Probably that it is a rash which peppers us during the years of adolescence. The rash is always accompanied by high fever. Fever is not a complaint on the part of the patient, but his — or

SOMETHING BETTER AHEAD

I think it a fine thing to anticipate — looking ahead to something happy and that one would like to have happen. Half dream and half accomplishment. F o r many a child collected stones and rare books — in my modest way as I could afford. Primarily I collected because I had a love for it. The chase was wonderful and the finding locally an etching or rare book — a n d then the thrill of bringing it home, front door, that book you dreamed about for years at last an actual possession!

In those collecting days I kept thinking I would be much happier if that one item would somehow become mine. I have learned, however, there are so many more things that are better, and worth while, than collecting, and in life that are worth next to nothing in money but rich in spiritual values.

I know of a student, working ahead!

Second game in the two-of-three series is slated for the Fairgrounds here Tuesday evening at 6.15 p.m.

Bowling Notes

Twenty rinks from Kingston, Belleville, Trenton, Brighton, Colborne and Campbellford competed in the Trebles tournament sponsored by the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club on Saturday afternoon and a Brighton rink of Ken Pearce, Lorne Lockwood and Eddie Solomon won the first prize and the accompanying trophy. At the last minute a team from Cobourg cancelled out and a woman's rink of Mrs. Grace Clapp, Mrs. Betty Vince and Mrs. Millie Smith was recruited so that a bye would not occur and this rink had a number of rinks scared to death before the afternoon was over.

A rink of W. Jeffries, Garn Doobs with Walter Elliott as skip from the local club was in second place for three-game high. W. Piercy, Andy McLean and Morley Galt of Kingston, won the two-game high, beating a Belleville rink skipped by Jim Hanna by one shot. The one-game high was won by a rink of William Hazard, Art Fordham with Bob Carter, skip, from the local club.

The greens were in excellent condition and the competition was exceptionally keen in all games. The bowlers were welcomed by the president, Percy Graham and the draw was ably conducted by Orlo Smith, chairman for the tourney.

An announcement of considerable importance to the local club was made by Orlo Smith, chairman of the Labor Day tournament for mixed doubles, before play commenced on Saturday. The family of the late John Shaw, a valued and highly respected member of the bowling club for many years have signified their intention of donating a trophy with prizes for the winners and this tournament to be an annual affair will be called the John Shaw Memorial Trophy.

Mrs. Shaw, a member of the women's section and her son, William Shaw, who is continuing the business were highly pleased to be associated with and sponsor this tournament. The tourney will be held on Labor Day and it is expected a concerted effort will be made to have a full double draw for this event. A number of district bowlers have already announced they will be entrants on Labor Day.

This Monday evening a monster jitney will be played at the bowling green. Three eighteend games will be played and valuable prizes will be given out for the lucky winners. A large number have signified their intention to play and the officials o fthe tournament request that all be on time so that the games can be run off quickly and smoothly. It will be a Trebles jitney.

A number of rinks are preparing for the mixed doubles tournament to be held in Brighton this evening Wednesday and the Black Memorial tournament to be held at Peterborough a wee kWednesday. These are two of the biggest tournaments to be held for Mixed doubles in this district and valuable prizes have been obtained for the bowlers to shoot at. Mixed doubles have become a favorite with a lot of clubs and it seems a larger entry can be secured for these tourneys than any others.

government offer to send them to Russia.

William Mooljelsky secretary of the group, said he was disappointed with the government statement last Friday which offered to pay the expenses of any of the sect's 2,000 to 3,000 members who wish to make the move to ussia provided they give up Canadian citizenship.

Mooljelsky's statement came in an interview at Shoreacres, B.C., 250 miles east of Vancouver in the heart of the Doukhobor settlement of the Kootenay district.

At Hillicrs, on Vancouver island, Joe Podovinikoff expressed satisfaction with the government proposal. He said the governments appear to have met the sect's terms for the move to Russia and the major problems seem settled.

WOULD GO TO SIBERIA

Podovinikoff was a member of the Canadian delegation led by Mooljelsky which went to Russia early this year to examine sites for a possible relocation of the sect. They check a spot in Siberia 1,600 miles east of Moscow.

Mooljelsky indicated the Sons, who came to Canada in 1899 to escape Czarist oppression in Russia, may cause more trouble in Canada.

"The Sons of Freedom have ways of embarrassing the Canadian government," he said. "They usually get their fingers eighted and full Freedomite terms are not met." He declined to elaborate.

Neither Podovinikoff nor Mooljelsky gave official Freedomite opinion. They said the sect's governing body, the 52 member Fraternal Council, will meet soon to decide whether the Soviet should accept the government offer.

Queen's Printer One of Key Figures in Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Edmond Cloutier couldn't speak English until he was 10 years old but now supervises the flow of published words in both English and French coming out daily from the government printing bureau.

Mr. Cloutier, a man of paradoxes, is the Queen's printer and one of the key figures in the current Commons public accounts committee investigation into how $16,000,000 was spent on construction of the penitentiary bureau across the Ottawa River from here in Hull, Que.

The Queen's printer is expected to appear before the committee this week.

NEVER A PRINTER

One of the paradoxes is that, though he's Canada's top printer supervising the biggest output of words any plant in Canada has ever turned out, he has never been a printer himself.

Another is that he is suave, polite-mannered middle-aged man described as a tough boss.

While he never has been an actual printer—that is, in a composing room—he has been close to printer's ink for many of his 63 years.

He has been a reporter, editorial writer and newspaper business manager. In between, he has been an educationist and a dairyman.

In a way, he stumbled into his present job.

One day in 1949, when he was managing director of the Ottawa French - language newspaper Le Droit, he was at the railway station seeing a friend off. He ran across Hon. Ernest Lapointe then Liberal justice minister.

SENSED A STORY

The minister asked him to come to his office for a talk "one of these days." Ex-reporter Cloutier, with a general election coming up, figured the Liberals' Quebec strong man might be about to spring a good story.

He called at the minister's office a few times over a period of days but couldn't find Mr. Lapointe in. Then he quit.

"I just gave up," he recalled later. "I figured that by this time the story would have petered out anyway."

Some weeks later, the minister and the newspaper man met on the street.

Mr. Lyonnie mentioned casually that the "story" was to the effect that Mr. Cloutier could become the government printing chief if he wanted the position.

It doubled his salary, and, as he says, "well, I took the job." The job is worth around $15,000 now.

So-Ed Steering Committee Has Full Agenda

The So-Ed Steering Committee convened at the Y.M.C.A. Thur. night to correlate plans for fall 1958 activities which are scheduled for eight weeks commencing October 8th. Meeting was under the chairmanship of Jean Vickers, president, and the following members were in attendance: steering committee- Bert Hall, immediate past president; John Robertson — vice-president of program selection; Gordon Brown — vice-president of Org. and Administration; Lorna Hollingsworth — secretary-treasurer and historian.

The following interested committee chairmen and committee members were also present: Publicity and advertising — Doreen Hollomby (chairman); membership and registration — Madeline Pearce (chairman); Public relations — Reeve Bird (chairman); Barbara Elliott — Committee member; Classes and discussions — Bob Cambridge — committee member; Sports committee — Colonel Lloyd (chairman); Joy Boblin, — committee, Helen Mason — committee.

Rodney Burr reported that an instructor has been located in the person of Mr. Sid Rose for a fencing class but to date the committee has been asked to locate fencing masks and foils but have difficulties out to other Y.M.C.A.'s in the hope that it could borrow the necessary items.

The Rifle Range at the Armouries has been reserved for a club in rifle practice but, to date, a range officer has not been located but also in this case, inquiries were being made.

A Cooking class entertaining has been finalized with Mrs. E. Shoemaker as instructor of this class. The idea being that the tips prepared at the class will be used as refreshments for the whole club later on during the evening. A craft class in driftwood items such as lamp bookends is under investigation. It is also planned to have a six-week course in live for the dancing class this year so that members taking this class will learn one dance well rather than several poorly.

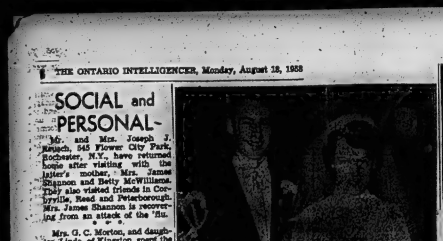
COURSES — DISCUSSIONS

John Robertson reported on the 'Courses and Discussions' section in the absence of Olwen Morris, chairman. Psychology is under consideration providing that a lecturer can be obtained — in the event that a qualified lecturer cannot be located this class may take the form of a discussion group under the leadership of a person who has studied the subject.

Effective speaking is also under consideration and Ronan Cambridge reported that he had contacted a possible leader for this course but to date had nothing definite to report. Travelogues presented by members or former members of So-Ed are pretty well finalized. This section will consist or color slides or color movies possibly tape recordings and some many parts of the world such as Pakistan, Netherlands and Europe, West Indies, Rhodesia, Germany and items of interest within a day's drive from Belleville.

Colonel Lloyd indicated that the social part of the program was well under way with themse chosen in keeping with the autumn months, Hallowe'en, (Witches Wingding), Sadie Hawkins (Bachelor's Lament), "Around the World in 80 Minutes" using the music from many lands for dancing and winding up with "Stairway to the Stars" which will be a semi-formal dance preceded by a Lasquet.

Tickets for the Canadian Nations Exhibition have been ordered and several cars will proceed to Toronto on August 23.



ANNUAL RETREAT

The annual So-Ed Retreat will be held at Aragain Lodge near Harlow, on September 6-7 at which time club members will spend the weekend swimming, fishing, hiking, eating and dancing in a beautiful country setting.

At the time the Y's men's Day Camp at Oak Lake was renovated, a building was assigned to the So-Ed Club for its use. The committee agreed to spend next Monday evening painting, and repairing this building. A dance has been planned for August 27, to help to raise funds for repairs to this building.

September 17 has been set aside for the club members to visit a fall church supper in Holloway possibly followed by a square dance.

Any suggestions or offers of assistance from the general public with regard to instructors, equipment or furnishings would be greatly appreciated and may be addressed to So-Ed, c/o Belleville Y.M.C.A.

Pictorial Says Margaret Wants to Resume Romance

LONDON (AP) — The tabloid Sunday Pictorial says Princess Margaret wants to resume her romance with Peter Townsend—but only if she gets the blessing of the Queen.

The report, one of several conflicting stories published recently by the British press on the princess and Townsend, took up the front page in early editions of the newspaper's circulation.

"Margaret waits for Queen's blessing . . . alone," headlines proclaim.

The story appears just one week after a rival Sunday newspaper claimed Margaret finally has ended her friendship with the 42-year-old Townsend in a dispute over a forthcoming book about her.

Townsend is reported by the Pictorial to have flown to England from Brussels five days before the 27 - year - old princess came home last Tuesday from a Canadian tour.

"He has spoken to Margaret by telephone but they had not met up to Saturday night," The Pictorial says.

Margaret, the paper adds, is alone at Windsor Castle this weekend hoping for a message from the Queen, now on a yachting vacation in Scotland with her family.

"She (Margaret) is waiting for the signal for the continuance of her romance with Peter Townsend."

The princess' visit to Canada prompted reports she might be appointed about a future appointment as Governor - General of Canada.

The Pictorial says: "The princess believes that, with Townsend at her side, she could hold an official position in one of the Commonwealth countries."

Wool Knit Twosome

By ALICE ALDEN

The slinky knit dress complete with its own cardigan adds up to a practical and pretty ensemble. This slender sheath has a slightly relaxed line to make for ease in motion. It is topped by a hip-length cardigan in a diamond pattern wool knit to contrast with the pebble knit of the dress. The talented two-some comes in a rainbow of rich colors as well as the standby basics, and in small, medium and large sizes.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP — ON LISTENING

"Assume a virtue if you have it not," says Shakespeare, and this is excellent advice about listening. Even if you're not particularly interested in what someone is saying to you or to a group in which you are, assume an attitude of attention. Before the person has finished talking, you may very well (and delightedly) realize that what he or she is saying does interest you . . . you may even discover that it may be tremendously important to you.

As a wonderful prop to your determination to be attentive, remember that wise plea: "G o d give us the grace to listen well."

NAME FORM FOR SIGNING MINUTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman;

I am the secretary of o u r Church Aid. Please tell me what is the correct way to sign my name at the end of the minutes. Thank you.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. Arthur Smith

As secretary you sign your informal name to the minutes. For example: Elizabeth Hall Smith, or Elizabeth H. Smith. You should not sign your formal name.

Also . . . and this is extremely important . . . you should not sign a letter, any kind of letter to anyone, even if you don't know the person to whom you are writing, with your formal name; for example, Mrs. Arthur Smith. See above signature . . . I've changed your name, but not the form.

In your position as secretary, as in all your other letters, it is important that you know the rule: the direct signature of any letter is your informal name . . . Elizabeth Hall (or H.) Smith. When it is necessary to give your formal name, for information or identification, add this formal name in parentheses beneath and to the left of your direct signature. Like this:

Yours sincerely,
Elizabeth Hall Smith
(Mrs. Arthur Smith)

If it is necessary for you to indicate your formal name after your signature to the Church Aid minutes, this is the form:

Elizabeth H. Smith
Mrs. Arthur Smith.

MAY MATRON OF HONOR BE A DIVORCEE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it considered proper to have a divorcee as the matron of honor in a wedding? To me this is an extremely important question. — Reader

In some denominations this would not be permitted. And although there is no formal regulation about this in other denominations, it is considered preferable that a bridal attendant, particularly an honor attendant, not be a divorcee. When this plan is even considered, an authority in the denomination in which the ceremony is to be performed should be consulted before the invitation is extended.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, a free clergyman, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Laura S. — I can't stand a life without comforts.

Henry S. — Children and fundamental things are more important.

Laura S. — My husband and I were married two years ago, both rather late in life. I am 34 and he is 38. I guess we were rather desperate when we got married, because I realize now we were much too hasty.

We come of very different backgrounds and that is causing trouble between us. My husband was raised by poor relatives of his father's. His mother deserted him when he was a baby. He did not have much chance for education and was never taught manners or the need for a nice home, good clothing and pleasant entertainment.

I was an only child and maybe somewhat spoiled. We don't have the money to live as well as I would like unless I continue working. Henry wants to have a child immediately, but I feel I can't stand a life of constant worry with out all the comforts I love.

Henry S. — I feel that at our age we can't afford to wait to have children. Millions of men and women have children on smaller salaries than mine. Yet they manage to find some happiness.

Possibly Laura has good reason to be disappointed in me. Yet I never lied to her about my background. She knew I had such limitations I try to please her, but I know that I make slips that annoy her. I can't help resenting it sometimes when she feels it over me because of her ritzy family.

I think if we have a child Laura will be much happier. So many women find contentment through their children. When she is a mother, Laura won't think so much about these little niceties she believes she is missing. These things are trivial. Real, down-to-earth happiness comes only when people have the fundamental things they want.

The Council: We'll agree t h a t Henry has some sound, solid points. Yet it is a mistake to count upon children to provide happiness for a woman when she is discontented with her marriage. It puts an unfortunate burden on the children — and it rarely actually works as a compensation for the mother.

It appears to us that Laura has been too busy regretting her marriage to bother putting the constructive work into it that is required. She insists upon looking at her husband in a devaluating way that tears down his ego and destroys his desire to live up to the best of his capabilities.

Laura needs to drop this negative approach to her marriage. She must try to see what she can do to bring the softening elements she cares about into her home. Good will, good taste and ingenuity will carry her much further than money alone.

She has yet to see what she can do on her own to bring these things into her life. We're willing to bet Henry would respond to them very favorably if they were offered.

Teen-Age Trapeze

By VERA WINSTON

Teen-age fashions follow the current silhouettes, of course, with the necessary modifications. This coat, for instance, has the trapeze silhouette scaled down for the teen-age model: Of smooth woolen, it has a contrasting braid border on the large collar and at the sleeve edge. A streamer bow of velvet at the neck makes for a flattering effect. The topper comes in red with black or in beige with brown.

Women Lagging In Struggle For Equality

MONTREAL (CP)—Women are lagging in their struggle for equality with men, says Dr. Anne Rose of Orleans, Vt., president of the American Association of University Women.

"The feminism of the 50s is not the same as that of 1900," she told a dinner meeting of the Canadian Federation of University Women Friday night.

"Formerly the tendency was to refuse to admit any distinction between the sexes and to treat men and women as citizens.

"Now it bases its doctrine on the difference between the sexes and encourages women to enter political life in the defence of interests which are considered to be their special concern."

FEW PROMINENT

A UNESCO study on the political role of women had shown that few women were prominent in politics and the number decreased still more as political leadership was reached.

"Where there are women in senior executive posts they tend to concentrate in specialized matters, such as health, education, family and national welfare, housing etc., all problems considered to be of special interest to women," Dr. Hawker said.

Lack of vigorous female resistance and—sometimes opposition are to blame for this attitude in women, she said.

"I can name offhand seven women's colleges where a man has replaced a president and only one where a woman has replaced a man."

Females were still far from participating as full partners in the economic social and cultural life of a nation.

Margaret Will Be 28 Years Old on Aug. 21

LONDON (Reuter)—Princess Margaret will celebrate her 28th birthday on Aug. 21 at Balmoral Castle in Scotland — still single and with no eligible husband in sight.

Margaret has been "married" dozens of times by the gossip columnists during the last 10 years. But most of her escorts since she was 18 since have wed other women.

Her religious convictions, which led her to renounce marriage with divorced Peter Townsend in 1955, apparently remain unchanged. The handsome former air force officer paid three visits to Margaret this spring when he returned from a world tour, but the palace denied there was any romance.

The latest speculation came during her tour of Canada this month. Margaret spent extra time with 29-year-old Montreal lawyer John Turner, but the friendship seemed to end with the tour.

Since her last birthday, the once-gay princess has shown increasing signs of seriousness that is, fewer visits to night clubs and more to lectures and the ballet.

Her birthday party at Balmoral, in the Scottish Highlands, will be a family affair.

THEN AND NOW

Economical Pickling

If you are back from holidays and grateful for the cleaning, pery, cabbage and onions, sprinkle the convenience of your own be- with ½ cup salt and let stand loved kitchen — and the huge overnight, then drain in a colander. washing that accumulated in dry and dry and ironed — how would you like to make some pickles?

I think pickle making is one of the best economies we can practise. The price we pay for them in stores is far out of proportion to the cost of doing them at home. Notice that watermelon rind is caleld for in the Sweet India Relish that would otherwise rate the garbage can.

CORN RELISH:

Eight cups corn (12 to 15 ears cut from cob), 2 cups each diced sweet red pepper and diced green pepper, 4 cups each chopped celery and vinegar, 1 cup sliced onion, 2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons each salt, dry mustard, 2 teaspoons celery seed, ½ cup flour, ½ cup water. To prepare corn, remove husks and silk, place in boiling water. Simmer for 3 minutes. Remove and plunge into cold water. Drain: cut corn from the cob. Do not scrape the cobs. Measure out 8 cups. Combine corn, red pepper, green pepper, celery, onion, sugar, vinegar, salt and celery seed. Boil for 15 minutes. Mix mustard and flour; blend with the water. Add with the corn to pepper mixture. Stir and boil 5 minutes. Pack into clean, hot pint jars, filling to within ½" of top. Adjust lids and boil jars 10 minutes in boiling-water bath. Be sure water covers jars). Remove jars; complete the seals. For added yellow color mix 1 teaspoon of turmeric with the mustard and flour.

SWEET INDIA RELISH:

Three sweet red peppers, 3½ pounds watermelon rind, 8 cups green cabbage, 5 Spanish onions, 2 cups brown sugar, 1 tablespoon non-iodized salt, 2 teaspoons each cinnamon, paprika, mustard, mace, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 1 tablespoon each curry powder, celery seed, 4 cups vinegar. Peel melon rind. Use only solid portion. Cut in small cubes. Cover with brine (¼ cup salt to 4 cups water). Let stand overnight. Rinse well in cold water. Drain. Wipe and squeeze in a cloth to remove all liquid possible. Mix the two chopped preparations with other ingredients and boil 1 hour. Seal in small, sterile jars.

BOTTLED MINT SAUCE:

If you buy much of this to serve with roast lamb making it at home would be a distinct economy. One cup well-packed finely chopped mint leaves, 4 cups boiling water, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup vinegar, 2 teaspoons salt. Mix together all ingredients and bring to boil for 5 minutes covered. Pour into small sterile bottles. Cork with new corks and seal with doubled dip of paraffin.

Canadian Ranchers Salute the Appaloosa

20,000-Year-Old Wonder Horse

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund.

Since 1954, when the Appaloosa Horse Club was established in Alberta, Canadian horse breeders have given official recognition to what is believed to be the oldest breed of horse in the world: the colourful Appaloosa — drawings of which appeared in caves of Cro-Magnon man and in early Chinese and Persian art. Brought to the new world by Spanish conquerors in the 16th century their wild descendents were prized by North American Indians.

Although fast becoming a favourite of horse lovers in all walks of life, the Appaloosa's most frequent rider is the cowboy. A long, sloping shoulder gives the horse a longer stride and absorbs more shock, making for an easier ride. An ideal saddle horse, he is unsurpassed on the trail.

Jim Wyatt, President of the Appaloosa Horse Club of Canada since its inception, describes the Appaloosa as the most widely and uniquely endowed horse of all time, combining intelligence with a quiet disposition and unusual hardiness with endurance and speed.

The Appaloosa is by nature a quiet and gentle animal and these characteristics (essential for ranch work) are preserved by a carefully supervised breaking-in process. Above, close-up of special snaffle training bit which never hurts the horse's mouth.

Appaloosas are characterized by their distinctive and colourful markings. A versatile animal, he is equally at home on the range or in the stiff competition of the rodeo. Jim Wyatt above with his champion stallion (foreground) three Appaloosa mares (left) and their colts.

Drawings of Appaloosa horses have been found in pre-historic caves in central France, drawn by Cro-Magnon artists of 18000 years B.C. and in early Chinese and Persian art. They are believed to belong to the oldest traceable strain of horses in the world. This noblest war-horse of North American Indian days in the "wild west" is now one of the newest candidates for breed recognition in Canada.

They were delighted with their using qualities and colorful markings, choosing to breed them in preference to other horses. During the one hundred odd years between the 1730's and the 1830's the Nez Perce bred their unusually marked horses, forming them into a distinctive type. The Nez Perce inhabited the area now making up the northeast corner of Oregon, the southeast corner of Washington and the bordering area of Idaho. This area was ideal for horse production, providing lush summer range in the hills and meadows and abundant winter range in the sheltered canyons of the Snake, Clearwater and Palouse rivers; from the latter river the horse received its name. (Originally this river had been called the "Peluse"—meaning "the river with the green meadows" by early French Canadian fur traders). The Nez Perce Indians traded off inferior stock to other tribes; undesirable stallions were castrated.

The Appaloosa is extremely versatile — being equally at home on the range or in the colorful competition of the rodeo. He has a quiet disposition, keen intelligence, great endurance, speed and hardiness.

Appaloosas have distinct characteristics. The eye is encircled by white, the skin is mottled, and irregular spotting or flesh color and black is especially noticeable about the muzzle. The hoofs (except below a white marking) are vertically striped and tails are preserved for all purposes. In conformation the and four inches in diameter. The hoofs (except below a white marking) are vertically striped with light and dark. Appaloosa coat patterns vary, most individuals are white over the loin and croup, with dark round or egg-shaped spots. Spots vary in size from specks to those three or four inches in diameter. Some Appaloosas have spotting all over the body, but it is usually most extensive over the croup. Others will show white over the croup but without dark spots in the white. All, however, have the white-encircled eye, parti-colored skin, and parti-colored hoofs. The Appaloosa coloring is distinctive and no two Appaloosas are absolutely identical in color pattern.

In general appearance, the Appaloosa horse is symmetrical and smooth. Weight ranges from 950 to 1100 pounds and height from 14-2 to 15-3. Mares are often less colorfully marked than the male being a mottled roan over the entire body. Mane and tail are fine; heavy, curly manes and tails are disliked in the breed, as it indicates the presence of draft blood, but full manes and tails are preserved for all purposes. In conformation the Appaloosa generally follows that given for the ideal riding type.

Some Labor Troubles Look Virtually Insoluble to Govt.

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government could be in labor trouble soon.

Big management - union problems are either in its lap or just over the horizon. Some look virtually insoluble.

On the other hand, the government sliced through the Gordian knot recently with a piece of emergency legislation.

A question in the minds of many labor men runs to about this effect:

"Will the government—meaning Parliament—get tough when it gets into the big league?"

RAILWAYS BIG LEAGUE

The big league of labor, of course, is that comprising the 15 unions representing the 130,000 non-operating employees of the railways. They are looking for wage increases of about $100,000,000 a year.

Fairly likely, this problem is going to be dumped on the doorstep of the government.

At the moment, the railways and the unions are apart by just about $100,000,000. The railways offered none of it. A federal conciliation board suggested the unions settle here somewhat less than half of what they asked.

Another conciliation party has been given any sign of retreating.

If the pattern of those multi-million-dollar battles of the last decade is followed through, the issue would land in the Block of Canada's Parliament Buildings, where Prime Minister Diefenbaker operates.

WHERE WILL IT END?

What is worrying labor and the government right now is how far the non-operating dispute is going to go.

Much of the concern of top labor union officials hinges around a phrase in the fine print of a government-sponsored bill ordering the CPR's west coast steamship strikers back to work after a long strike.

Six innocuous words near the bottom of the bill ending the CPR strike gave the cabinet authority to impose compulsory arbitration of the fight, when the cabinet might deem it expedient.

Despite some opposition outcries against the clause, the bill went through Parliament swiftly.

FUTURE PONDERED

Many labor men now are wondering what might happen if the government should decide to flex its muscles on compulsory arbitration in the big dispute.

Though not directly concerned, the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress has become worried about possible implications.

While the congress has some of the country's best experts on one more headache these days.

NAME JAMMING STATIONS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union now is jamming Western radio broadcasts on such a large scale that it has had to give code names to its jamming stations, U.S. officials said today the code system apparently helps Soviet engineers in preventing their noise machines from jamming Russia's broadcasts to its own people.

reading the fine print in labor legislation, in this case it took the unusual step of having a lawyer look over the CPR strike bill to see whether the compulsory arbitration clause could be made to stick.

The verdict: yes.

The question now from labor's standpoint: Can the government slip through compulsory arbitration just as easily on the big one?

The government is up against a stiff question, too. At the last Progressive Conservative convention that chose Mr. Diefenbaker as leader, a resolution was passed expressing strong opposition to compulsory arbitration in labor disputes.

That is one of those things that must be giving Mr. Diefenbaker and parties by himself in his

The figures in this chart show the changes since 1939 in the corporation income tax.

It takes two companies — one making a profit of $25,000 a year and the other a profit of $500,000 a year — and shows the percentage of their profits which they would have paid in income tax.

During the war companies were charged on excess-profits tax, charged on excess over the average profit made by the company in the base pre-war years. The graph assumes that in each case the average pre-war profit was $10,000. From 1952 it includes the old age-security tax of two per cent. The compilation is by the Canadian Tax Foundation. New Commitments, Higher Costs Give Scant Hope for Federal Tax Reductions

...is article, one of a series, ...s how higher costs and ... commitments give scant ...pe of reduced taxes. Saturday: Switch in public's social saving system now ... top activity.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canadians have had sharp tax cuts in the past. May has the prospect dimmed for the future?

The answer is that in the past the causes of high taxes largely disappeared and no great new costs arose. That is not so now.

The First World War brought high taxes but when it was over the war establishment almost ceased, and taxes could be reduced.

The Second World War brought higher taxes. For a few years after it ended, it looked as though the First World War experience would be repeated on a modified scale.

TEMPORARY DROP

Total federal expenditures, which reached a wartime high of $5,018,413,000 in the year ending March 31, 1944, dropped to $1,902,352,000 in 1949.

National defence expenditures, which reached a high of $2,885,818,000 in 1945—almost 55 per cent of all expenditure—dropped to $154,363,000 in 1949 or to about one per cent of total expenditure.

Taxes also were reduced sharply and hopes for further cuts seemed well based.

The Korean War in 1950 and development of the cold war erased the bright picture.

DEFENCE LOAD

By the fiscal year 1953 defence costs were up to $1,984,533,000, or more than 40 per cent of total expenditure. They still take about a third of all expenditure and for the current year are estimated at $1,587,000,000.

Korea and its costs sent taxes up again. Most of the increases—except for a substantial part of the corporation income tax—have since been removed.

In the meantime, health and social welfare expenditures increased. They were $59,609,000 in 1940 and $910,783,000 in 1956—the latest year for which a full compilation is available. Since 1952 old-age-security payments have been involved.

In the current year, health and social welfare expenditures are estimated at $753,000,000. Old-age payments are estimated at $555,000,000.

NEW EXPENSES

Almost all other government costs have risen and our growing status as a nation—with technological developments of the age — have brought widespread costs, unknown, in former days.

Accompanying everything has been inflation, which obscures comparisons. Today, for instance, we are spending more than at the wartime peak but in dollars of greatly decreased value.

In view of such increased costs, how has it been possible—except for the Korean period—to decrease tax rates gradually? And why is it becoming more difficult to decrease them?

Increased population and increased prosperity have combined to give greater revenue from lesser rates; but rising costs increasingly cancel out the added revenues from increased population and prosperity.

REVENUES LAG

At present our economy is in a recession.

In most post-war years, tax revenues were more than enough to pay for our expenditures—we had budgetary surpluses. This year revenues fall far short of paying for expenditures. We have a budgetary deficit.

The current year's revenues are estimated at $4,823,000,000 compared with the record $5,108,800,000 of the fiscal year 1957. The current year's expenditures are estimated at $5,300,000,000, a record.

J. Harvey Perry, director of the Canadian Tax Foundation, recently summed up the outlook as seen by his organization, as follows:

"The big deficit for the current year has ruled out any tax relief at the federal level, and I foresee another substantial deficit in the federal budget in 1959.

CONTINUED TREND

"Expenditures in general, and particularly those on social welfare, will continue to rise because many government functions are tied closely to population growth or to changes in the composition of the public.

"On the revenue side it is difficult to see any better short of a roaring inflation that will increase revenues sufficiently to balance the budget (of 1959-1960).

"A projection of the cost of present programs and existing tax rates indicates that in 1967 there will be a surplus, but only a modest one.

"For this projection we have used the forecasts of the Gordon commission, taking for the gross national product their median rate of just under two per cent per annum.

"We have assumed no extension of the scope of existing federal expenditure programs and no reductions in taxation from present levels. For defence programs we have assumed that outlay will remain around the present level.

CONSTANT LEVEL

"What is most important is that we have assumed a constant price level—no further inflation."

Giving some of the figures of the foundation's projection, Mr. Perry added:

"Total federal expenditure will by 1967 be at least $7,750,000,000.

"The new hospital insurance program, for which $70,000,000 is set aside in the present year, will by then probably cost the federal government around $500,000,000.

"Old-age-security payments, running current at $550,000,000, will by then be about $750,000,000 and family allowances will be nearly $600,000,000, or about $100,000,000 in excess of the present level.

"Against expenditures of $7,750,000,000 we anticipate that revenues will be around $8,300,000,000, assuming continuation of present rates. That will leave a surplus of only $500,000,000 to $600,000,000."

Pinch Hitting

HE KNEW THE SCORE!

This spring when Jack Carson refused to enter a Belleville team in the Kingston Baseball Association's so-called "senior series," it was difficult to make sense of the city's diehard baseball fans realize exactly why.

Jack told this department that he was interested in a true senior league only, as he felt that the local fans would be satisfied with nothing less. He felt that the Kingston league was more of an intermediate class. It was felt that with three Kingston teams entered, one of which was a junior club, it could not possibly produce ball of senior calibre.

In the last year of senior baseball here, Belleville was co-winner of the provincial championship, along with Oakville. The league consisted of two Toronto teams, Oshawa, Oakville and Belleville. It was a good brand of baseball and the last turned out... It was hard to picture them coming out in any number to watch Kingston teams play every game. And none of them could possibly be a good senior team with the players split up among three clubs.

So Belleville did not enter the loop. Picton McFarlands did and Napanee was talked into a last-minute entry, making a five-team grouping.

Over the past two months, Carson's wisdom in staying out of the loop has been proven time and time again.

From the opening game the Bronks have won and by high win mean often in the vicinity of 10-4, 20-2, and such. While we have no figures in front of us to prove it, we can remember one team scoring 30 runs in a single game on more than one occasion. Errors are often outnumbered the hits. Some four-point games were averaged. Teams were often late arriving for games and a couple of times did not show up at all. It was not good baseball by any angle.

Then a short while ago the Napanee team, who had won very few games, dropped out of the League. That left four. Now this past week, Picton manager Chris Lockyer got fed up with the deal and withdrew the Picton McFarlands. That leaves three, the original trio from Kingston.

A story in the Whig-Standard explains the situation pretty well. The Macs have been accused of using illegal balls, and softball bats. They were called "big-headed hockey players" and bullies and even worse dirty angle.

Lockyer finally had enough when the Kingston team just showed up for games in "Little Spats" whenever they felt like it. He pulled the team out just prior to the playoffs.

Here's the Kingston Whig story: "Picton McFarlands have been withdrawn from the Kingston Baseball Association senior series following last Wednesday's fiasco in Picton when the visiting Giants arrived to take their Monsanto Cloth Leaders had sent some of his players back to work. Those who were left opposed the Giants in a four-inning exhibition stint which ended with the Giants' 11-2 winners.

"It was the second time this season that the Giants have disciplined the Macs and in addition the Athletics had failed to keep an appointment in the Picton Park."

So there you have it... Belleville is a good baseball town and a senior team here would be most welcome. But not playing in the last type of league.

THIS AND THAT - -

The second game of the city bantam baseball finals is scheduled for the Alemite Field tomorrow evening at 6:30, with Jack Marlin defending his title. Marlin's team in the ball baseball club entered in the OBA playdowns, thanks to the kids themselves. It's the same old story, with the boys wanting to play, so they form a team on their own, use whatever equipment and uniforms they can dig up and enter the playdowns. We understand they have drawn a bye into either the semi-finals or finals. Anyone wishing to help out is asked to contact Chuck Kilgour... A tentative arrangements between Montreal Canadiens softball club and Bob Temple's Bobcats could not be made so the proposed exhibition visit here has been cancelled... Mike Cooper's Frankford Juveniles play host to Stirling Wednesday night at 8.15 in the second game of OSAA Juvenile "C" series. They won the first game easily and should wind it up Wednesday - - By the way, the Frankford Juvenile baseman for the Frankford Merchants is leaving this district in a couple of weeks for a school teaching job elsewhere. Mike will be sorely missed by his teammates and by many friends he made while playing softball in this area. All the best, Mike . . . Bobby Hull will be leaving this district shortly as the Chicago Black Hawks open training camp at St. Catherines on September 15th . . . Toronto Maple Leafs will do their conditioning right in Ike Hildebrand's back yard this fall, at Peterborough's beautiful new ice palace . . . Jack Elliott says he is hanging up the softball spikes for good at the end of the season, but the way the old veteran hustles one would think this was his rookie year. Jackie Jr. should keep the Elliott name in the diamond spotlight for many years to come, however . . . The "Cut 'n Shoot" kid, Roy Harris, gets his shot at world heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson tonight. We'll take the champ within eight rounds . . . Lou Thesz had Dick Hutton in bad way in their world title wrestling match in Toronto last week but re-misguided Thesz drop kick caught referee Maxwell and Lou was disqualified. They fight again this Thursday.

Roy Harris on Short End Of 6-1 Odds With 3-1 Offered On KO But Little Wagering

By JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Undefeated Roy Harris from the pickturesque community of Cut and Shoot, Tex., tonight takes aim at the world heavyweight boxing title against the heavily-favored champion, Floyd Patterson.

The 26-year-old schoolteacher, who enjoys walking barefooted, battles Patterson for 15 rounds or less at Wrigley Field starting at 11 p.m. EDT. Clear weather was forecast with theatre television carrying the bout to 115 cities. There will be no home TV or radio.

Odds favoring the champion for this third title defence were quoted at about 6 to 1 to win and 3 to 1 to score a knockout, but little wagering was evident. Patterson could find himself against his toughest foe to date, a rugged opponent with 22 straight victories.

HE'S A MYSTERY

Harris remains a mystery man to most fans, all his bouts have been in his home state and he's never appeared on television.

The challenger was expected to weigh in today at 192 pounds. Patterson, from his dressing room scheduled to weigh 186. On the financial side, Harris collects a $100,000 guarantee and Patterson might get twice as much on the basis of a gate and percentage.

Until the weigh-in, both remained secluded at hotels here. Both voiced confidence.

"If I didn't think I could beat him, I wouldn't want to fight him," drawled Harris, a graduate of Sam Houston State Teachers College who sometimes returned for a master's degree.

NOT GREAT CHAMPION

Career boxer Patterson, who won the title by stopping Archie Moore in five rounds Nov. 30, 1956, says he wants to earn a reputation as "a great champion."

His only two defences have been against Pete Rademacher and Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson. Pete Rademacher, whose claim to fame was victory in the 1956 Olympics, Patterson stopped Jackson in 9 rounds July 29 last year and blasted the clumsy Rademacher out in six.

"I'm not a great champion so far as I'm concerned," said the 22-year-old Patterson. "A great champion is one who proves himself. I haven't had that chance. I'm training hard to become a solid left jab, a good hook, an accurate right but a tendency to leave himself open at times. His victories include those over Bob Baker, Willie Pastrano and Ernie Besmanoff.

Patterson whipped Rademacher last Aug. 22. Some observers believe the 201-day layoff will hit Harris sharply. Harris has been fighting professional after winning the 1952 Olympic middleweight championship, Patterson has won 30 times and lost one.

B.C. Lions Lose Opener Before Largest Crowd

VANCOUVER (CP)—Saskatchewan Roughriders threw an interceptible air attack at British Columbia Lions Saturday night as they trounced the Lions 49-33 in a Western Interprovincial Football Union game before 30,000 fans.

It was the first league game for both teams.

The game was played before 30,468 fans, largest turnout for a league fixture here since B.C. entered the WIFU in 1954. The previous record was 30,374, recorded Aug. 27, 1956.

Roughriders scored seven converted touchdowns, three on forward passes by quarterback Frank Tripucka. Three other Saskatchewan touchdowns were scored along the ground after being set up by passes.

Highest scorer of the night was Lions' fullback Byron Bailey, who registered three touchdowns.

GILCHRIST SCORES

Cookie Gilchrist, Saskatchewan halfback, also played last year with Hamilton, scored ,two touchdowns.

Fullback Mike Hagler, ends Ken Carpenter,, and Larry Isbell, halfback Jack Hill and Bob Marlow went over for the other Saskatchewan major scores.

Lions scored each time.

Beddes Bailey, B.C. touchdown specialist, and halfback Sonny Homer and guard Bob Brady, Ted Hunt kicked three converts.

Tripucka completed 12 of 19 passes he attempted for a total gain through the air of 291 yards. B.C.'s quarterbacks, Jackie Parker, completed 13 of 22 for a total gain of 197 yards. On the ground, B.C. was the stronger team, picking up 26 first downs to Saskatchewan's 20, and rushing the Roughriders 197 yards to 165.

Hopes of Alouettes Pinned On Handful of Homebreds

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes have the Big Four football wars this year with hopes pinned on a handful of homebred players, some experienced and some eager but untried.

A small handful, at that, seasoned imports has been retained from last year when Alouettes finished third in the first of three consecutive Grey Cup appearances.

Several high-priced American imports have been acquired but general manager Sam Berry has said "there's no double" the club's fate this season rests on how the new Canadians pan out.

FOUR EX-DUTCHMEN

The more successful prospects, said Kennedy, are four players from Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Red Wilson, halfback Ed Learn, Dave King and Don Dickie.

Lineman Herb Trawick tops the list of those missing from last year's Alouettes. Trawick, an import who started his Canadian career with the Alouette team in 1956, has retired to coach a Montreal farm club.

The others gone are quarterback Bruce Coulter, middle-man Jackie Simmons and guard Marty Martinello. Coulter has taken a coaching job with McGill University. Sheridan left to devote more time to his job and Martinello went to the British Columbia club.

Alouettes have 17 "americans in camp and Walker must cut five to get within the import limit. Seven of the Americans are backs — quarterback Sam Etcheverry, halfback Pat Abbruzzi, halfback Joel Wells, ends Hal Patterson and Red O'Quinn, centre Tom Runge and tackle Bill Hudson.

Slotting might present a big problem for coach Doug Walker since four of the holdovers— playing with a half-dozen Canadian players—have been hit by pre-season injuries.

Patterson and Wells are among the injured, but they likely will be ready for Montreal's opening league game against Hamilton here Monday. The others, imports Hudson and Hugo, are doubtful starters.

Rodolpho Arias Hurls No-Hitter For Sugar Kings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rodolpho Arias has given Havana Sugar Kings something to shout about even though they are seventh in the International League.

The 26-year-old southpaw Sunday hurled his first no-hitter in the league this year. It also was the first in the five-year history of the Sugar Kings.

The masterpiece against Rochester Red Wings was a seven-inning affair. Only three Red Wings reached base, two on errors and one on a walk. The Sugar Kings won both ends of the twin bill, 7-0 and 4-0, and moved ahead of Buffalo Bisons into seventh place.

The Bisons dropped two games to Miami Marlins 5-1 and 6-1. Toronto Maple Leafs split Richmond Virginians 3-2 after losing the opener 4-3 and Montreal Royals defeated Montreal Royals 7-4.

PAIGE IN FORM

Satchel Paige had a big day for the Marlins as he two-hit the Bisons in the seven-inning nightcap and two singles in the opener. Bob Usher blasted a three-run homer in a big five run third inning.

Archie Wilson saved Toronto from a defeat in the opener's nine inning three - run homer in the eighth inning.

In the opener Richmond's Deron Johnson set a club record for home runs and runs batted in. He has 22 homers and 80 runs batted in. He homered in the fourth inning.

After being held scoreless by the Royals for seven innings Clarence Jings the Jets broke loose for a 7-4 victory. Jim Baird, Dick Rand and Leo Rodriguez hit home runs for the winners.

Dramatic Yacht Race Staged

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Vim turned back Columbia by a scant 16 seconds in a thrilling Saturday Vim and Columbia each scored victories.

The current trials, listed as "observation" races, run through next Saturday. Final trials start Sept. 1 and the selection committee must pick a defender by Sept. 15. Then a two week before the best-of-seven cup series against the British challenger Sceptre begins.

Midgets Whip Trenton 15-1 In Playdowns

Second game will be played at the Trenton diamond Wednesday evening at 6.15 p.m.

The Belleville junior crew opened the scoring in the first frame with a singleton and had built a 3-0 lead going into the fifth. They put the decision out of reach with nine runs in a big fifth-frame explosion.

Trenton managed one run in the first and added another single off starter Latchford. He worked until the seventh when three hits, fanning seven and walking four. Masterson completed the job, not allowing a hit in the two frames. He whiffed four and passed two.

Ron Soden and Jamie Hurley for Trenton, clubbed for twenty hits. They nipped four on third strikes by Latchford in a row.

Belleville plated their nine runs by batting around in the big frame. Latchford and Mavety each getting a pair.

Point Anne Defeats Kingston 7-1 In Opening Game Int. 'A' Playdowns

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Point Anne Cementmen got off on the right foot in their quest for the OASA Intermediate "A" title Saturday afternoon by handing Kingston Prince George Indians a 7-1 setback before a fair crowd at the Point.

Second game in the two-of-three set is slated for Kingston Monday night. Winners of this series will meet the Oshawa-Peterborough winners in the opening round.

The Cementmen failed to take advantage of early Kingston errors and came up with some queer base running in the first two frames but they finally got rolling in the third with two runs. They added eight more in the fourth and fifth before the visitors plated their lone tally in the sixth. Point Anne wrapped up the win with a trio in the bottom of the sixth.

Pat Maracle had a little difficulty in going the distance for the victory although he was never in the best of form. He scattered four singles and after allowing a leadoff single in the first retired the next 15 batters in order. He struck out ten on third strikes, while issuing only one base-on-balls. The Cementmen batters connecting but the fleet Point Anne outfield took care of that with centre fielder Pat Gilmour recording seven putouts.

FIVE ERRORS FOR LOSERS

Kingston O'Toole of Napanee toed the rubber for the Indians and was charged with five errors in the early and third frames. He gave up all the runs off nine hits, whiffing four and passing a pair. But Deasy came on to hurl the remainder of the game, not allowing a single to Doug Hull, while whiffing one and walking another. All five Kingston errors were made in the first two innings.

Point Anne had two men out down at the plate because of poor base running in the opening two frames but Ken Gilmour got the ball rolling in the third. Jackie Elliott Jr. opened with a single and Gilmour Carr beat out a drive with two down. Chuck Kingston slashed a single through third baseman to score both runners. Two errors and Dave Gunn on for Kingston in 3-0. Chuck Kingston drove in his third run when he lined out to the right field Kingston singles by Marsecle and Jackie Wardhaugh and Carr's sacrifice.

A bunt single by Bob Alarie which caught the Pointers' right fielder napping at first completed to the Indians' lone run. Doug Hull's sacrifice to serve on the same play and Davidson's fly ball carried the runner home. Another single by Alarie and Kingston left before the side was retired.

Point Anne — Carr, Wardhaugh, Kingston, Batchelor, Gilmour, Jones, Soule, Elliott Jr., Maracle, Hull, Elliott Sr.

Umpires — Jim Tebworth of Kingston (P) and Al Kelleher, Trenton — 1.20.

Mrs. Doleschell Tennis Champ

TORONTO (CP)—The saying "if you can't beat them, join them," might well have been the losers' theory Saturday at the Ontario tennis championships.

The losers of the men's, women's and veterans' singles all joined the winners of these matches to win the doubles finals of each division. One upset—in the women's singles final—was recorded on the program.

Mrs. Jean Doleschell of Toronto, fourth-seeded player in Canada, joined Mrs. Louis Brown of Toronto, the 1937 top-seeded son of Toronto player, to defeat Eleanor Dodge of Montreal and Suzan Butt of Victoria 6-2, 4-6, 6-4 in the doubles after Mrs. Doleschell had upset Mrs. Brown 7-5, 7-5 in the women's singles final.

Don Fontana of Toronto, Canada's second-seeded player, defeated John Swann, Toronto, 6-3, 7-5 to win the men's singles final and then he combined to beat Gord Hughes of Windsor, N.S., and Jim Serven of Halifax 6-0, 6-4.

In the veterans' doubles, Ned Stafford of Niagara Falls, N.Y. teamed with Walter Warren of Toronto, whom Stafford had beaten 6-0, 7-5 earlier in the singles final, to win 8-6, 6-4 against Fred Pretzlik and John Dickinson.

Ottawa Admitted To Eastern Section Over OHA

Will Play Hull Schedule And Get Crack at Allan Cup; All Games Played in Hull

OTTAWA (CP)—Hull - Ottawa Canadiens, Memorial Cup champions, have been admitted to the eastern section of the Ontario Hockey Association's senior A series.

Canadiens, who played an exhibition schedule in the league last season, were admitted at an association executive meeting here Saturday. They will play a full 56-game schedule and get a crack at the Allan Cup.

Manager-coach Sammy Pollock told the meeting his club, which entered Memorial Cup play only last season on a bye at automatic Quebec junior champions, may again play an interlocking schedule with OHA junior A teams in competition for the Laurier Cup, would be in Ottawa or Montreal.

All senior games will be played in neighboring Hull, Que., however, Pollock said.

Not returning are Bill Carter and Ralph Backstrom, standouts of last season being called up by the parent Canadiens.

Training Methods Must Be Changed Says Adviser

ROTHESAY, N.B. (CP)—Franz Stampfl, Austrian - born athletic adviser at the University of Melbourne, Australia, said Saturday Canada will never produce great Olympic champions if she continues to use the her present physical education and training methods.

He said Canada's physical specials and Europe shortly after the Second World War had more children who grew up in Europe during the war were in better physical condition than children in Canada.

He said Canada's physical fitness had been brought to an "alarmingly low state" mainly because schools did not put enough emphasis on physical education.

Mr. Stampfl, trainer of such Olympic stars as Dr. Roger Bannister, the first four - minute miler, Chris Chataway, and Merv Lincoln, spoke at reception in his honor held by local officials of the Canadian Legion.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Howard Rosecroft, driven by co-owner Buddy Gilmour, won the Canadian Cup pace as expected at Old Woodbine Saturday night but got the scare of his life from the six-year-old gelding Captain Wright, driven by Harold McKinley.

Howard Rosecroft, a five-year-old, missed the six-horse mile at which Gilmour had pointed him, taking the first heat of the $8,190 event in 2:01.2 and the second in 2:02.4.

He was the second year in a row that Howard Rosecroft had won the cup. He added $4,095 to the $4,094 to his winnings for owners Sheridan Revington of Harrisburg, N.Y., and Gilmour of Ridgeway, to bring his 1958 total to $45,840.

Captain Wright, a hasty beater last in the five-horse field in the first heat, came with a tremendous burst in the stretch in the second heat.

MONTREAL (CP)—Darn Safe, a seven-year-old gelding from Du Quoin, Ill., shattered two trotting records when he won the $15,000 stake trot in 2:01 2-5 at Richelieu Park Saturday.

The horse set a Canadian and track record and also did the fastest mile this year by a trotter in North America on a half-mile track.

The previous Canadian record was set at Richelieu by Scott Frost when he did the mile in 2:01 3-5. For the North American record, Darn Safe bettered his own time of 2:01 4-5 set earlier this year at Goshen, N.Y.

Read came back from a fourth inning 2-0 deficit to defeat Latta 7-2 Saturday night in the opening game of the South Hastings Baseball League finals for the Lee Grills Trophy.

Second game will be played at Latta tonight with the third at Read Wednesday and the fourth at Latta Friday. Remaining dates in the four - of - seven series will be decided upon on a later date if they are necessary.

Latta opened the scoring Saturday with one run in the second and made it 2-0 in the top of the fourth on Bill Parks' home run. Read took over with three in the bottom of the fourth, adding one in the sixth and a trio in the seventh. The game was halted because of darkness at the end of eight innings.

Latta added greatly to their own troubles by booting the ball around for nine errors while Read committed but one.

Masters hurled for Read, allowing seven hits. He blasted third strikes by five batters while walking only one. Read tolled for Latta, because of darkness at fanning eleven and passing 3. Errors ruined his good pitching chore.

Masters also led his club with the aid of three hits in four tries. The others were divided among Milligan, Machon, Hannan, Chandler, S. Read, Bailey, T. Callery, D. Walsh, K. Read and Masters.

Umpires: H. Pointer (P) and Thompson. Scorer, Art Hall.

Braves Have 8-Game Bulge In National Loop But Yanks Apparently Hitting Skids

By ED CORRIGAN -
Associated Press Sports Writer

The talk around the National League these days is not whether Milwaukee Braves can hold out. Rather, it's how much Fred Haney's operatives will win by.

They have an eight-game bulge today as they head on a road swing and there isn't a team in the league that appears capable of making it even close. They've won seven in a row, matching their previous season's high.

Haney's No. 1 opposition, Pittsburgh Pirates, no less, were knocked out of second place Sunday.

In big pre-season threats, Los Angeles Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals are tied for fourth place, each a cool 14 games back.

PHILS DROP FAIR

The Braves won a doubleheader from Philadelphia Phillies Sunday, 5-4 and 4-1, behind Juan Pizarro and Lew Burdette.

Frank Torre hit the first grand slam home run of his career in the opener. Pizarro came within two outs of his first major league shutout, only to have it spoiled by Ed Bouchee's homer.

In the nightcap, Burdette, the hero of last year's world series, outpitched rookie Ray Semproch to gain his 13th victory. Del Covington helped with a home run.

Cincinnati Redlegs climbed out of last place by licking Pittsburgh twice, 4-3 and 7-4. San Francisco Giants polished off Chicago Cubs, 8-6, and Los Angeles St. Louis split a wild double-header, the Cards winning the first, 13-2, on Brooks Lawrence's pitching and the Dodgers the second, 9-3, behind Danny McDevitt's relief job.

Tom Acker, primarily a relief pitcher, went all the way in the first game for the Redlegs. Joe Nuxhall won his 10th game of the season in the nightcap with the aid of Don Newcombe.

San Francisco regained second place with its triumph over Chicago. Leon Wagner, Daryl Spencer and Willie Mays each hit one for the Giants. Mays' came with two on. Dale Long, Bobby Thomson and Ernie Banks all connected for the Cubs.

In Saturday's games, Milwaukee nipped Philadelphia 2-1, San Francisco downed Chicago 7-4 and Pittsburgh trampled Cincinnati 13-4.

Mike Souchak Tops in Tourney

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Mike Souchak, one of the longest hitters in professional golf, won the $25,000-St. Paul Open Sunday with a final round 68 that gave him 280 for the 72 holes at Keller course, one of the softest touches on the circuit.

Souchak's score was 10 under par, three better than the previous tournament record held by Ken Venturi, Cary Middlecoff and Boyd Mangrum.

Al Balding of Markham, Ont., and Jerry Mudge of Toronto Nip, placed out of the money. Balding had 278 and Magee 279.

Sam Snead and Julius Boros finished in a second-place tie with Venturi at 281.

Network President Predicts Improved Television Season

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis G. Cowan, president of the CBS Television network, sees a coming season of good television for the home viewer, a season marked by improved quality in productions.

Although speaking chiefly on the outlook for CBS-TV, he says of the state of the industry in general:

"There are three networks for sure this year. That's good for the networks, and so it is good for the public. It also should be remembered that the networks are making commitments for the 1958-59 season just as the U.S. is beginning to move out of a recession."

The entertainment programming trend on CBS-TV, he says, is to long dramatic shows and programs combining comedy, variety and music.

As a creative force in television and radio, the man who developed the "The $64,000 Question" and numerous other popular programs, Cowan is worth listening to.

LESS QUIZ SHOWS

Cornered the other day by a pessimist who bemoaned the coming TV night time season as largely a nightmare of quiz shows and westerns, Cowan proposed a look at the CBS-TV night schedule as it currently stands.

Using 40 half-hour units as the basis of prime evening viewing time, it turns out that only five will be taken up by quiz and panel game shows on CBS-TV. There will be eight half - hour units of westerns and adventure programs.

"Compare those eight to the proportion of westerns and adventure stories turned out annually by the movies and book and magazine publishers," said Cowan, "and I think you'll find that our network is producing a smaller proportion.

The networks regular lineup of comedians includes Jackie Gleason, Phil Silvers, Jack Benny, Red Skelton, Danny Thomas and standard situation comedies such as "Father Knows Best and "December Bride."

"We've built up a tremendous assembly of writers, producers, technicians and other creative minds," Cowan said. "We've invested millions of dollars over a long period of time in experimentation and the development of new products.

"I like to think of all this creative effort as the hidden part of the iceberg. Not all of it can be apparent at the moment, but eventually it will be. It is there."

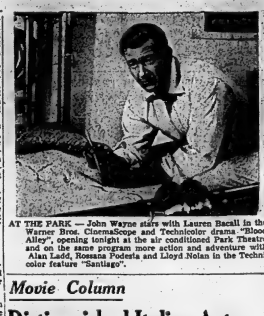
At the Belle

"The Haunted Strangler", starring Boris Karloff, and "Fiend Without a Face", on Dual Horror Picture Programs

Movie - goers who relish spine-tingling entertainment are offered a double thrill with the dual showing of "The Haunted Strangler", and "Fiend Without a Face", two new horror dramas especially designed to scare the wits out of spectators while they are safe in their movie theatre seats.

Boris Karloff, master of horror roles, plays the chilling monster of "The Haunted Strangler", same asylum.

a picture to grip your imagination from its very opening scenes of a hanging in Newgate prison to the final pursuit of a mad killer to the grave of the innocent man whose execution as London's "Haymarket Strangler" is on his conscience. It tells the story of a man with a dual personality, who is at one moment an idealistic, kindly scientist, and the next, a deformed, malevolent creature who strangles and stabs to death several people, including a beautiful music hall dancer, before his grim fate catches up with him. Adding to the thrills and suspense are eerie graveyard scenes and a blood - curdling episode taking place in an insane asylum.



Playing supporting roles with Karloff are Jean Kent, Elizabeth Allen and Anthony Dawson, under the direction of Robert Day.

The second feature of the dual horror program, starting today at the Belle Theatre is "Fiend Without a Face", with Marshall Thompson heading the cast. This tells the story of monstrous fiends created by thought materialization and threatening to destroy the country. In tracking down the deaths which take place in a small Canadian town, where the U. S. Air Force has set up a recret radar experimental station, clues lead to a recluse scientist, who has let loose the monsters which feed on the minds of living people. The war between the humans and the fiends is pictured in one of the most remarkable shockers ever filmed.

The MGM Features "The Haunted Strangler" and "Fiend Without a Face", are playing as a dual - bill today, Tuesday and Wednesday, at the air conditioned Belle Theatre in Belleville. Matinee daily.

CinemaScope and Technicolor drama "Blood Alley", opening tonight at the air conditioned Park Theatre and on the same program more action and adventure with Alan Ladd, Rossana Podesta and Lloyd Nolan in the Technicolor feature "Santiago".

Distinguished Italian Actor To Star in 'The Miracle'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Vittorio Gassman is back in Hollywood, this time on a different basis.

He has returned to play a leading role in The Miracle. Now he is acknowledged as one of Italy's most distinguished actors, whose performances in Hamlet and other classics have won international acclaim.

On his last visit here, four years ago, he was known chiefly as Shelly Winters' husband.

Such are the vagaries of Hollywood thinking. Possible because producers thought of Gassman solely in terms of his well-publicized personal life, he got a fast shuffle here. He appeared in four films while under contract to MGM, notable Sombrero and Rhapsody. None fully exploited his dramatic talents.

"I believe they thought of me too much in terms of a romantic actor," he said, "whereas in and so was I. She looks very much like me, though she is a blonde."

About show business in his native Italy, Gassman said it is thriving—except for movies.

"The stage is in very good shape," he said, though the fact that his and other theatres are subsidized may help. "Television is on the rise, too. There are over 2,000,000 sets in Italy now, I believe.

"Only the movies are not doing so well. We used to make 250 pictures a year; now we make only 30. It is too bad. We have many fine directors. But the movie industry was hurt by too many sharp operators—producers who would take a film without the money to finish it."

FREED FROM PRISON

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters)—Fifteen Iraqi Jews sentenced under the old regime to long terms in prison on charges of Communist activities were released by the new Iraqi government during the weekend and arrived in Israel. They told reporters they had been offered exit permits by the Iraqi authorities if they would renounce their Iraqi nationality.

POLICE CHIEF SHOT TOWNSPEOPLE CHEER

Lee Cockrell, police chief of Boyd, Texas, gets treatment in Fort Worth hospital after he was shot down on the main street in Boyd. After the shooting, about 200 of the town's 500 population gathered in the street to praise the men that shot the police chief. Cockrell was shot while trying to arrest three men who had allegedly threatened to take Mayor R. W. Horn on a "one-way ride" if he didn't fire the police department.

hand, the Atlantic region is more mature and the traditions of living to a high standard.

STRONG DETERRENT

The Atlantic region has these established patterns is, of necessity, a strong deterrent to mobility, particularly in the case of those whose skills are not readily adaptable to the requirements of other occupations . . . ."

Distribution of an expanding labor force would follow similar patterns with Ontario, Quebec and B.C. leading the parade. The West, generally, would see rising industrialization.

Sooner than expected, says Dr. Howland, the term "prairie region" may not be quite just right economy.

The weakness was in the East. The Canadian protective tariff of 1879, the dramatic changes in world transport and the rigidity of a Maritime way of life that may not be conducive to efficiency all had their impacts on the Atlantic economy.

MARGINAL OPERATIONS

The inefficiency — caused by market problems and not by a lack of knowhow or drive — was most apparent in the perpetuated small margin farm, fishing and woodlot operations.

For example, large-scale forestry could be hampered by the fact that large parts of Maritimes forests included "mixed tree owners."

It is that the value of production by the average Atlantic worker was only 83 per cent of the average Ontario worker. Average Atlantic pay was only $1,911, about 3 per cent of the Ontario average.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is shipping a new supply of military equipment to Tunisia to strengthen that North African country's police force. NEW CHEAP FOOD

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Officials reported Friday that a new fish meal made from sardines and containing 60 per cent protein is being developed here as one of the world's cheapest foods. The Food and Agricultural Organization of United Nations is showing interest in it as a solution to the feeding problems of poor and undernourished millions, the officials said.

SILENCER DOESN'T SLOW BRITISH JETS

British designed Ferdinand Greatrex, right, points out his silencer attached to the rear of the Comet IV jet engines to the pilot, John Cunningham, shortly after John Cunningham had landed the plane at Hatfield aerodrome, setting up a new Transatlantic air record from New York to London. His time was six hours, 21 minutes and his average speed about 540 miles per hour. The Comet IV had been to New York's Idlewild airport to undergo noise tests. It was the first jet airliner to make the non-stop Atlantic crossing, and also the first jet airliner ever to use Idlewild airport. The silencer is necessary to comply with U.S. air regulations.

HAS BUG EXTERMINATOR TECHNIQUE

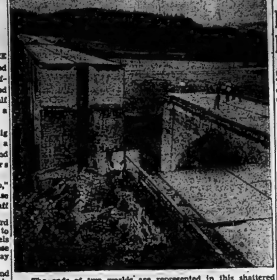
Wilson Laidlaw of Etobicoke, Ont., has his own way of trapping bees, hornets and wasps. His equipment consists of a vacuum cleaner with a long hose and a can of insecticide and a bottle of beer. He and his neighbors have been bothered with swarms of insects and he has become the unofficial bug-killer. As shown in action here, he directs the insects into the vacuum cleaner where a whiff of bug killer renders them hors de combat. The beer is for Mr. Laidlaw in between bouts with the bugs, but on occasion he puts a glass near the nozzle of the cleaner and when the insects come to investigate — whoosh! They're caught.

Sergeant Defies Death to Fix Jammed Wheel

MITCHELL AIR FORCE BASE, N.Y. (AP) — A United States Air Force sergeant doffed his parachute, then defied death Friday while hanging half out of a cargo plane to repair a jammed nose wheel.

His daring enabled the big C-119 cargo plane to make a safe landing with himself and two commissioned officers aboard.

This man saved the ship," said Maj. Melvin Edwards, base public relations officer, of Staff Sgt. Oscar Powell, 25.



Powell was technician aboard the cargo plane. As it started to land, the main landing wheels dropped into place but the nose wheel hung down only part way and wouldn't lock.

Powell took off his chute, and thrust the upper part of his body out of a flap in the floor of the cockpit. Using one hand and his feet to hold on, he worked with the other to secure the nose wheel.

Had he lost his grip, he would have fallen more than 2,000 feet. There was a possibility that the nose wheel might suddenly retract, crushing him or knocking him loose from his precarious perch.

The plane came in to a perfect landing after he climbed back in.

SYMBOL OF A DIVIDED COUNTRY

The ends of two worlds are represented in this shattered bridge, a dramatic symbol of the division of Germany. One end of the span (foreground) stands at the Communist East in Communist East in background. Once a vital bridge over the Salle River, it was dynamited by German troops in the last days of World War II. Its reconstruction has been blocked by East Germany.

Tito Asks U.S. For 300 Million Long-Term Loan

BELGRADE (Reuters)—President Tito has asked the United States for a new long-term industrial loan of more than $300,000,000, officials said Monday.

They expressed confidence there would be an affirmative reply from Washington for at least part of the requested amount.

Russia suspended a long-term loan worth $285,000,000 in May during a dispute with Tito over his "separate road" to communism. The request for credits, now under consideration in Washington the informants said, totals between $300,000,000 ad $350,000,000.

Additional cash on a smaller scale also is being sought in Western Europe to finance number of industrial projects.

AFTER SPARE PARTS

Yugoslavia also is angling for military spare parts from the United States. They are needed for equipment provided before Tito renounced U.S. military aid last December.

Informants said the outlook is good for receiving loans on three major projects: Construction of an artificial fertilizer factory near Belgrade; a power station, one of a network in a project that eventually may enable Yugoslavia to export electricity to neighboring countries; new rolling stock to modernize the railroad system.

Since Tito's first break with the Kremlin in 1948, Western aid to Yugoslavia is estimated at about $2,000,000,000. The United States has provided the lion's share but Britain and France also helped.

Find Live Bomb In Basement Of London House

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A "mysterious" live bomb unearthed in the cellar of a London home produced a flurry of excitement which had occupants of the house and neighbors nervously clearing their palms in cold sweat before police moved to cart it away to a safer place for de-activating.

The missile, a two-foot aerial bomb, was discovered by Rae O'Hari Monday as he was cleaning out the cellar of the apartment where a water heater had been moved.

Army provost corps technicians determined it was a "hot bomb" and turned it over to them, to the air force for dismantling.

How the bomb got in the basement was not known.

Purse Snatcher Held

TORONTO (CP — George J. Murphy, 41, of Halifax was arrested Monday night and charged with robbing a woman of her purse.

Police said a man approached Miss Isabel at a downtown intersection, asked her the time, and snatched her purse.

She shouted for help and an unidentified nurse on her way home from the Toronto General Hospital and William Darbyson chased the man and caught him.

Today's Chuckle

The modern girl may not be a wizard in making bread, but she's a champ in needing dough.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:
First signs of a waning summer have appeared on weather maps as overnight temperatures dropped into the 40s throughout Southern and Central Ontario for the second consecutive night. Today is expected to be warmer as it locked with mild-day temperatures generally near 70 degrees. Cooler air will press southward again tonight, reaching the lower lakes by Wednesday morning.

MILTON (CP) — A 40-year-old man is to be questioned today in connection with the slaying of two spinster sisters on their farm south of Thornhill, Ont., April 8.

Harry Beamer, 76, and her sister Clare, 81, were bludgeoned to death in their beds in a small farmhouse and they were still alive when found, but died in hospital. Dr. A. Cattanach, a short time later. Neither regained consciousness.

The man is being held in jail in Milton, 20 miles north of Hamilton, on a charge of vagrancy, police said. He was arrested by Trafalgar Township police Monday night in a motel.

No motive for the slaying has been established by police. There was no attempt to ransack the house. A $2,000 reward posted by the provincial government is still outstanding.

RECEIVED TIP

Police said the arrest followed a tip from a Huntsville resident who said the man was in that community Monday and had mentioned he knew the sisters.

The man was identified by an Ontario Provincial Police inspector from Toronto and Thornhill police.

The sisters were found by Wilbur J. Sherlock, a neighbor, who was accustomed to meeting one or the other at the door when delivering milk.

Unable to get an answer at the door, Sherlock got the help of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowe. They got a ladder and Sherlock climbed into the house through an upper window.

Extra Expenses Are Eating Up Expected Profit

LINDSAY (CP) — Extra expenditure following was heavier rainfall in bloodless bullfight has cost the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce its expected profit on the program, chamber President Bob Mann said today.

"As far as we are concerned, if we break even on this thing now we'll consider it a big success," he said.

The chamber had anticipated a profit of several thousand dollars. But the six fighting bulls imported from Mexico were held up three weeks at the Mexico-U.S. border and the ticket price was postponed to this weekend.

Three of the four Mexican matadors originally engaged in the chamber's expense.

Fight Forest Fires Burning In Tweed Area

TORONTO (CP) — Forty-seven forest fires are burning in the province's northern department of lands and forests reported today. All are under control.

The fires are located by district as follows: Sioux Lookout nine, Fort Frances nine, Port Arthur eight, Tweed eight, North Bay six, Lindsay three, Kenora, Cochrane and Lake Huron one each.

In the last 24 hours 17 fires were extinguished and 14 new ones broke out. The fire hazard was rated medium to high in the province except in Kapuskasing and Cochrane where it is extreme.

New Wave of Doukhobor Terrorism Feared in B.C. as Dynamite Stolen

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — RCMP believe a new wave of terrorism by Doukhobors may be in store for the trouble-ridden Okanagan and Kootenay areas of British Columbia.

They said three cases of dynamite, totalling a total of 975 sticks, were stolen Monday from a highway department storeroom at Merritt.

Also, arsonists had set a second fire in the new Kerestova home of the Sons of Freedom sect of Doukhobors, where a similar blaze set by arsonists already was roaring out of control over 5,000 acres.

The two incidents were reported shortly before RCMP visited the hospital room of Peter Verigin, leader of the Freedomite sect with making an explosive attempt on the endangered life or cause serious damage to property.

Arrested is Harry Bojtyr, 20, of Winlaw, B.C., who barely escaped alive from a dynamite explosion Wednesday that killed Philip Pereverzoff, 20, another Freedomite slain near Winlaw in the Kootenays.

RCMP said the explosion occurred while the two were making bombs on a lonely mountain top a few miles above Kelowna.

CBC Will Lose Regulatory Role Under New Plan

Revenue Minister Brings in Legislation

OTTAWA (CP)—The publicly-owned CBC will lose its regulatory powers over Canadian broadcasting but will continue to operate virtually unchanged under a proposal now before Parliament.

Revenue Minister Nowlan made this clear Monday night in bringing to the Commons a government plan to confer on an independent body the supervisory mandate now held by the CBC.

He left no doubt, either, that while the new body will be independent of the CBC, it will not be independent of Parliament.

He referred to a suggestion by Nickel Mines, Canada's second largest producer of lead and zinc, to ensure today. Inco is the biggest Canadian producer.

The independent Broadcast Services of America (CLC) provided better wages and conditions in contract disputes with the Maple Leaf Milling Company at Port Colborne and Dominion Stores, meat-packing firms in Toronto.

The union provided the milling company's offer of a wage increase of nine-cents an hour and a two-year contract also beginning Sept. 1. In Toronto, Swift Canadian, Wilson, Canada Packers signed a 20 - month agreement which includes a 10 - cent - an - hour wage increase for 12,000 workers.

Packinghouse Men Provide Bright Spot on Labor Scene

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Contract settlements among packinghouse workers Monday were the only bright spot on a dismal Ontario labor scene. Strikes by steel and beer workers dragged on and a new industrial strike threatened.

The latest threat came when members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) gave their executive authority to call a strike vote should contract negotiations with the International (CLC) and Company of Canada at Port Colborne break down.

Action of the union's 2,000 - strong local at Port Colborne followed a breakdown of talks on the 14,000-member local at Sudbury.

Union officials said they will hold a strike vote only as a last resort. The union made it clear that they are not seeking "more and more" but only "a fair deal" and "a decent living."

Contract settlements were reached Monday but there was no announcement of terms. The last big settlement, a union request for a 35 - cent - an - hour package for 4,000 workers, was reached Sunday.

Negotiations at Falconbridge Nickel Mines, Canada's second largest producer of lead and zinc, to ensure today. Inco is the biggest Canadian producer.

The independent Packinghouse Workers of America (CLC) provided better wages and conditions in contract disputes with the Maple Leaf Milling Company at Port Colborne and Dominion Stores, meat-packing firms in Toronto.

The union provided the milling company's offer of a wage increase of nine-cents an hour and a two-year contract also beginning Sept. 1. In Toronto, Swift Canadian, Wilson, Canada Packers signed a 20 - month agreement which includes a 10 - cent - an - hour wage increase for 12,000 workers.

Workers will get a five-cent-an-hour retroactive to Aug. 1 with another five cents Aug. 1, 1959.

Meanwhile, 9,000 men continued their strike at the Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton and in Ontario's brewing industry.

The Molders walkout, by the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), is in its second week. The brewery workers went 18 days ago.

A Stelco spokesman said a prolonged shutdown at the Hamilton plant could force its customers to seek supplies in the United States where plenty of steel is available. This would mean the border will be closed for production for us.

Large scale layoffs in district construction works are expected if the strike drags on. About 400 men already have been laid off because of lack of steel.

Negotiations were resumed Monday but there was no announcement of progress. The last big settlement, a union request for a 35 - cent - an - hour package for 4,000 workers, was reached Sunday.

Negotiations between Ontario's brewing industry representatives and the United Brewery Workers (Ind.) broke off Friday and suspended until Thursday to give companies time to draft formal proposals.

An industry spokesman said: "The companies will attempt to settle the dispute by offering a substantial wage increase." Strikes have closed the breweries' distribution facilities.

Most of the beer running dry and several hotels and bars report supplies will run out by the weekend, some sooner.

Warden Richmond suggested the regional council of Hastings and may have had something to do with the outburst, believed to have been instigated by the convict.

"The insurrection took place and I got my arse off avoiding them. As long as penitentiaries exist you will get a certain number of unrest and you will have precautions against it."

Chief Judge Archibald Gardner of Huron, S.D., was the only dissenting judge in the 5-4 decision. He said he acted in good faith and that Judge Lemley's action suspending the interdict had been based "on realities and conditions, rather than theories."

Judge Matthews emphasized the importance of the "separation of powers" of schools in the southern states. Allowing Lemley's order to stand, he said, would mean an open invitation for other school districts to resist integration.

Lemley suspended the integration plan June 21. It was ap-

Little Rock Order Reversed Integration Must Continue

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Resumption of integration of Negro students at Little Rock Central High School was ordered Monday. Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus promptly announced he will accept the decision, possibly through a special legislative session.

The eight U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a 6-to-1 decision, set aside a ruling Aug. 12 by Judge Harry Lemley of Hope, Ark., which gave the school district a "breathing spell" after a three year of troop-enforced, court-ordered racial integration.

At Little Rock, Faubus met with advisers. He has declined to say publicly, but talk of a special legislative session mounted.

The appeals court decision came just 16 days before school is scheduled to reopen at Central High.

Virgil Blossom, Little Rock school superintendent, said the school board will make an all-out fight to prevent seven Negro students from re-entering Central.

But a lawyer for the school board, Richard Butler, said he did not know whether an appeal could be taken from the U.S. Supreme Court before the Sept. 2 opening of school. The court is in session until Oct. 6.

Kidnap Case Suspect Is Arrested

Marion Matthes of St. Louis said the issue narrowed down to whether public excitement, including mob violence, was sufficient cause to nullify a federal court order. Matthes said the board has to carry out its plan for gradual integration of the Little Rock schools.

"We say the time has not yet come in these United States when any federal court must be whittled away, watered down and emasculated because of the face of violent and unlawful acts of individuals."

Judge Matthes emphasized the "realities and conditions," which he said must be met.

Judge Matthes emphasized the importance of the "separation of powers" of schools in the southern states. Allowing Lemley's order to stand, he said, would mean an open invitation for other school districts to resist integration.

Lemley suspended the integration plan June 21. It was appealed by the Little Rock School Board. Blossom, a key witness, testified that it was impossible to conduct normal classes because of incidents.

Seek Approval For New Subway From Board

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto and Frederick Gardiner, chairman of Metropolitan Toronto council, joined forces today to win approval from the Ontario Municipal Board for the projected $200,000,000 east-west subway.

They'll face cross-fire from suburban council for an adjournment of the hearing. Mayor Phillips warned that a vital winter work program is in danger of being delayed.

Mr. Gardiner said: "We don't need more time and we don't intend to allow anyone to tell us whether we can afford a subway."

First exhibit at the hearing was a letter from solicitors for suburban Scarborough Township complaining that the proposed subway would be hazardous to pedestrians.

The proposed 16-mile subway would run east and west along Bloor street and its east-end extension, Danforth avenue, with a branch line south along University Avenue. It's designed to supplement the present Yonge Street subway which travels north-south for 6½ miles.

Seeking Reason Why Prisoners Go On Rampage

Collins Bay Pen Damage $52,500

KINGSTON (CP) — Investigators continued to search for reasons today why 40 apparently contented men went on a devastating rampage Sunday at nearby Collins Bay Penitentiary.

H. L. Sawyer, senior commissioner of the penitentiaries branch of the justice department, was in active to lead an official investigation.

Warden Victor Richmond and representatives of the Ontario fire marshal's office conducted a preliminary investigation Monday, poking through the ruins and questioning prisoners.

$52,500 DAMAGE

Justice Minister Fulton said in the Commons that damage had been set at $52,500 as a result of the riot which broke out when 40 prisoners were lifted suddenly from a raised-out ball game.

The disturbance started in a dormitory, were burned down and five others damaged. One guard suffered a slight head injury and a prisoner was wounded in the leg by a bullet fired to prevent an invasion of the kitchen.

One official said he couldn't understand why the prisoners didn't want to destroy their dormitories—scene of many of their own possessions. Hobbycraft kits, reference books and other things were collected by the inmates who have little of their own to treasure, were left in the flames.

BELIEVED SPONTANEOUS

The regimented life the prisoners lead may have had something to do with the outburst, believed to have been spontaneous.

"The insurrection took place and I got my arse off avoiding them. As long as penitentiaries exist you will get a certain number of unrest and you will have precautions against it."

New street name signs are going up in the city this week making for conformity in street signs. The new type name sign is seen on the left and replaces the former lettering on the rear of stop signs such as seen on the right.

Street Names, Other Signs Standardized Across City

Standardization of street name signs in the city is now underway in a program which ultimately will see street signs in all parts of the city right smack on the corner — where they should be.

City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull today noted that street name signs are to be placed mostly in the older sections of the city, as well as 102 traffic signs of new standard color and design to comply with provincial traffic regulations, as well as parking and traffic flow signs.

The type of street name signs is that which has been placed in newer sub - divisions such as Parkwood Heights and Wellington Crescent. Installation of the new signs will make the "look" formerly throughout the city. About one third of the new signs have now been placed with public works department employees currently working in the West Hill section.

At the present time, at least three different types of street name signs can be found in various parts of the city.

In some sections the street names can be found fastened to the wall of residences or building on the corners. In the older sections of the city the policy has been to paint street names on the back of stop signs, while again in the newer sections the standard sign now being erected can be found.

102 NEW SIGNS

The 102 new "Stop" signs to be erected will make for conformity in this vital regulatory department.

At the present time no less than three different type stop signs can be found. First there is the new red octagonal sign now officially accepted by the highways department. Then there is the square type with white "stop" sign which has been standard in the city, and again there is a square type of stop sign in localized instances.

Also there are signs in the school caution signs to be found, in some instances within a block of each other. In some cases the school warning signs are white with black reverse side lettering, while in others the signs are orange with black figures and lettering.

Standard "no parking" and other-regulatory signs such as "one way" direction signs will also be posted in the city, according to the city engineer.

Military Men Afraid Exhibit Will Not Draw

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian military officials were reported today to be worried about their display at the Canadian National Exhibition being eclipsed by a huge array of United States rockets and missiles.

Brig. Jeffrey Townsend of the U.S. Air Force, in charge of the display, said the rockets to be put on show will include the Thor, Corporal and Nike Hercules. He called it a "maximum performance" staged only once every three years.

The U.S. rocket batteries will be set up across from the Canadian armed forces exhibit and it's suspected they will draw the crowds away from the Canadian show.

Child Suffers Cracked Pelvis In Accident

Robert Wayne Andrews, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Andrews, 86 Emily Street, in Belleville General Hospital with a cracked pelvis, and bruises to his thighs and lower abdomen after being knocked down and run over by a snowmobile excavation machine near his home this afternoon.

The lad was said to have been sitting on the sidewalk watching cleaning up operations following installation of the gas pipe line on the street when he spotted his father in the family car across the street.

The lad darted across behind the machine just as it backed up and he was knocked down and run over by the rear wheel.

Today Mrs. Andrews said the boy was being kept in hospital for a few days for observation and to determine if any internal injury was suffered.

Bowling Notes

One of the most enjoyable evenings of the entire bowling season was held last evening at Parkdale Bowling Alleys when Graham and his committee arranged a roustier litter and about fifty men and women members turned out. It was rather odd but the entertainment and good fellowship that prevailed made the evening pass all too quickly.

Two ten-end games were played and a roll-off was held. Percy Mrs. Cliff Argue and Claude D. Tice won the first prize. Bill Murdoch, Hilton Graham and Bill Miller were a close second, followed by Rev. H. Prudhomme, Les Graham and L. E. McLean; E. O'Connor, Bill VanTassel and Ken Bushfield; T. Scarbrough, Lt. Macaro and Gordon Watkin; Alf Symons, Bill VanTassel and Bill Hancock. A risk of G. Muir, Millie Wright and Gerald St. Hyde had no trouble with the seven count and of course won the special prize of the night.

At the conclusion of the games the members gathered in the clubhouse and enjoyed coffee and doughnuts and talked over the games of the evening. The consensus appeared that more evenings of such a nature should be held among the members.

The John Shaw Memorial tournament for mixed doubles on Labor Day is over and it appears that this tournament in the years to come will be as big as the Carlisle Gold Cup tourney. The members of the club are asked to get behind the project to boost the number, who was highly regarded by all. Bill Shaw has called a meeting to get in their consent to sponsor the tournament and beautiful prizes will be for competition on the Labor Day. A full double draw is anticipated to those who are being taken by Orlo Smith for this tournament.

Nehru Welcomes Economic Aid For Middle East

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru said today he welcomed President Eisenhower's economic proposals for the Middle East but added that he will work only if the right political approach is made.

Nehru commented on Eisenhower's plan in a foreign affairs debate in the House of the People (lower house).

He reiterated his view that foreign forces must be withdrawn from the Lebanon and Jordan before any proposals can be made to ease Middle East tension.

Nehru said India is agreeable to the United Nations observers remaining in Lebanon — even to their numbers being increased — and to some observers being sent to Jordan.

"But we made it clear we would not be agreeable to any kind of police force," he said.

NAPANEE — Discovery of a homemade fishing pole on shoreline rocks at Fifth Lake today led Mrs. Douglas Asselstine of Napanee to the body of her son, Murray, 3, lying in four feet of water.

Mrs. Asselstine told police the boy was out on her sight for about five minutes. She searched the area saw the pole and waded into the lake She trod on her son's body a few feet offshore.

Mr. Asselstine was fishing from a boat at the time. The family had rented a cottage at the lake, 18 miles northeast of here, for a week's vacation.

Mrs. Asselstine rushed the boy to a nearby farmhouse where artificial respiration was applied for nearly two hours by Bernard Goodberry and Constable Hervey Adams of the Shariot Lake provincial police detachment.

Murray was pronounced dead by Coroner C. J. Whytock of Sharbot Lake.

The boy leaves, besides his parents, a baby brother, Danny.

Final Obstacle To Entrance Was Blasted

MONTREAL (CP) — The final obstacle to the entrance of the St. Lawrence seaway canal was blasted today, about 1,500 feet northeast of the canal exit on Montreal's Nuns Island at Carlier Bridge.

Some 10,000 pounds of "nitrone" and "nitrox" blasting agents were exploded at 8 a.m., sending a spume of water and shattered rock more than 100 feet into the air.

The channel at the top of the canal was left 450 feet wide and 27 feet deep at low water. About 10,000 cubic yards of rock—23,000 tons—were moved by the blast.

After the blast a small island of pulverized rock formed at the mouth of the canal, but this is to be dredged away later.

Orillia Asks Hees to Finish Trent Canal

ORILLIA (CP) — The Chamber of Commerce Monday asked Transport Minister Hees for a complete recharting of the Trent canal waterway to open navigation, on Lake Ontario, to Port Severn.

In a brief the chamber also called for early completion of the South Rapids and the big chute on the canal to replace marine railways built in 1904. This would make the entire 240 miles of the system from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay practically navigable for the first time.

The brief said the unprecedented growth in the population and industry in Canada and United States has made completion of the system imperative.

Level Crossings Fund Will Get More Assistance

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Hees proposed legislation Monday to increase federal financial assistance for the elimination of dangerous railway level crossings.

He told the Commons the government intends to put the amount in federal assistance will encourage the construction of many automatic devices and grade separations at level crossings.

The bill would provide $10,000,000 was added this year to the $20,000,000 annual grant previously fund administered by the board of transport commissioners. The amounts included in the 1958-59 estimates of the transport department and is in addition to the $5,000,000 regularly provided each year.

The ministry said an additional $10,000,000 also would be added to the fund in each of the next two fiscal years.

COSTS ARE SPLIT

In dealing with projects for highway bridges, automatic signals or underpasses at railway crossings, the transport board allocates the cost among the railway, the municipalities involved and the fund.

Mr. Hees said the maximum provincial contribution for any project is to be increased to 80 per cent or $200,000, whichever is the lesser. It now stands at 50 per cent or $200,000.

Arnold Peters (CCF — Temiskaming) said any money spent in the Quebec province by the measure is to the benefit of all Canadians. All ran the risk of one day being drowned in an auto-mobile crash.

The bill was given second reading and referred to the House committee on railways.

Council Declines to Allow Pamphlet Shower From Plane

TAXATION — A request by a local theatre to drop pamphlets from the air over the town to advertise a coming film was rejected at last night's meeting of the town council. The theatre manager asked permission to drop 2,000 of them over the town. One of the main reasons for the council's rejection was the mess it would make. Councillor Chas. Hilton said he has read in newspapers where other towns have refused on the basis that it caused a hazard for children. He explained that when the children see pamphlets falling they run out into the streets to catch them and could jump into the path of a car. Mayor Ross Burtt said he recalled a similar scheme being stopped in Trenton many years ago because of the mess it made and said the only time in recent years permission for this had been granted was for Air Force and that was some time ago. All Councillors voted against permission being granted for this scheme.

A letter was read from the Ontario Water Resources Commission inviting any or all town councillors to attend the official opening of the new sewage disposal plant in Stratford. The ceremonies will take ry read a letter to the council be indicated at the meeting if he intends to attend.

VACATE APARTMENT

Town clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry rea da letter to the council from E. H. Newton informing them he will be vacating the apartment above the fire station on September 15. The council decided at its last meeting to give the firemen permission to have this apartment for sleeping quarters for the night firemen on duty as well as office for the chief. The firemen plan to do the work themselves, so altering the present rules, with the town paying the cost of the necessary material.

All council members present at last night's meeting with the exception of Councillor Ernest Alderson, were holidays and at the meeting was Town Engineer Eric Andrews. Town Solicitor Harry Campbell was present. Three local citizens appeared before council as delegations.

NAMING PARKS

Councillors decided to leave the naming of the two parks in Champlain Heights up to either the Kiwanians of Trenton or the residents of the housing development. Mayor Ross Burtt suggested that the two other that to have the councillors name them. The matter was brought up when Mr. Larry read a letter from the Trenton Parks Board requesting that names be given to the parks which are new.

In a second letter from the Parks Board it was requested that the council inform the Parks Board whether it makes any final decisions about the sewer which may have to cross Fraser Park. Councillor Hilton told the council the sanitation and waste committee is seeking to get the Ontario Government to reverse its decision that the sewer connect east around Dock area road. The councillor said it would save the town much money and considerably worry if the federal department would allow it to take the pipe through the dock scribbing. He said he would keep the Parks Board informed if the decision is put forward to change the park.

COMPLAINTS HANDLED

Councillor Joe Gould, chairman of the public works committee, said he had no report to make but that most of the complaints from east side residents over the digging up of the streets for the gas line going in have been cleared up and settled. He said he was very happy to see the town engineer back from his holidays and it would give him some relief from making so many trips up the area the gas line is going in. He told the council he had visited each complainant and had done his best to settle each issue.

During the report of the sanitation and waste committee under the chairmanship of Councillor Charles Hilton, a lengthy wrangle set in between council for the installing of the various phases of the proposed sewage disposal plant was held. Councillor Hilton insisted that as many local contractors as possible be given a chance to bid for some of the sub-contracts. It was decided that Town Clerk O. W. Larry write a letter explaining the town's wishes to Gore and Storrie, the consulting engineers for the building of the plant.

TAX REPORT GIVEN

Tax arrears payments to July 31, 1958, exceeded the total for the previous two years at a corresponding date, by $173.39, it was reported in the monthly tax collection report presented to the town council by the tax collector, E. Ellis. Mayor Burtt complimented the collector on the report and said the councillors felt it would be worth while for them to look over the figures for a time. Mr. Weaver also informed the council in his report he is now on holidays and will return September 2.

Council gave second reading to a by-law which would authorize the construction of a sewer on North Murray St. and Leonard St., under the provisions of the local improvement act. The by-law is in the vicinity of $960. The sewer would be an extension of the one just completed on Murray St. this spring and would serve a number of houses in that area.

With the next council meeting day falling on September 1, Labor Day holiday, the council decided to meet on the following Thursday, Sept. 4.

WANT HALL POLICED

A resolution was passed at the council meeting last night which will ask the property committee to take up with the police chief the matter of policing the Community Centre while dances and other functions are being held. The council made the decision following a request in writing from the committee in charge of the Operations at the Centre. The letter to the council specified the nights on which "Teen Town" dances were held.

First, second and final readings were given to a by-law which will authorize the mayor and town clerk to enter into an agreement with the Quinte Planning Board and Electrical Consultants for the installation of the sewage system in the Community Centre. Heat will be supplied through six heaters of the electric type. The cost of the project will be $4,435 or nearly $600 less than the money set aside in the town's budget for this purpose.

EXTEND DATES

The extension of two final dates for a tender and a by-law, were approved by the council last night. The first was from the Project Planning Association of Canada Ltd. The extension of time for letterin ning by-law from September 15 to November 15. This was covering the holding time of the zoning by-law and would give the group more time to finish the necessary work. The second one was the deadline for tenders on the repair work of the Dundas bridge. This deadline originally to be in the hands of the town clerk by 5 p.m. today at the request of Ontario Hydro so have this extended until Friday, August 22.

Not Paying Much Attention To Latest Khrushchev Offer

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The world is still waiting for Nikita Khrushchev "radical solution" to the disarmament problem.

In the meantime, the Russian premier has come up with another all-encircling offer. The soviet Union, he said, is ready to pledge never to use nuclear weapons. This is conditional on Britain and the United States entering a similar agreement.

Neither London nor Washington is considered likely to give much attention to the latest Khrushchev told about it in a letter to British organization called the Movement for Nuclear Disarmament.

WAITING SINCE MAY

In April, the Russians—having just completed a series of nuclear tests—called for an end to them at a Nine nation argument and protests about hydrogen and atomic bombs were at a peak. Again this was "we'll-do-it-if-you-do" proposal.

May thought the announcement of the coming "radical solution." Perhaps this has been delayed by the crises in the Middle East. Starting over a summit meeting and the United Nations General Assembly session. Whatever it is none be, it'll be a long time coming after, the Russians say.

One qualified writer on Soviets affairs must be free to make a decision to stop making nuclear or hydrogen weapons.

Short of deciding not to use or make them any more, the heart of the nuclear problem, as appears to be this: Scientists, both East and West, engaged in bomb experiments, agree that if a country is making weapons to be used in war, it must test them.

One suggested reason for Khrushchev's attempts this year to pull off a nuclear truce is that the West may soon regain the lead in the nuclear power struggle.

Britain, closely followed by France, is developing her atomic and hydrogen weapons stockpile. West Germany, against stiff Left and neutral Sweden and Switzerland are likely to be next in line when they, too, will have nuclear weapons.

A test ban would halt this trend and leave Russia with a relative advantage.

Wife 'Haywire' As Son Killed, So He Shot Her

CHEADLE, Alta. (CP)—Police said a 41-year-old farmer shot his wife and son, then killed himself and himself in what police called "explosion of nerves."

The shooting took place in the farmhouse in the community 30 miles east of Calgary.

Police found a suicide note left by John McDougall, 41-year-old farmer, was the only explanation left behind for the pile of bodies. Doris, 36, and son Gary, 14.

McDougall's wife had had an accidentally killed his son with a rifle shot at 8:45 a.m. When his wife became "haywire". he shot her with the same rifle, he said.

McDougall's note, addressed to a neighbor and asked him to come over "as there would be an accident." The neighbor found the three bodies.

CANADA BACKING

the very existence of the country is at stake.

"We ask that this fear be allayed," he said.

The new proposal, tabled by Canadian Ambassador Paul Tremblay on behalf of Canada, Colombia, Liberia, Pakistan, Sweden and Denmark, was thrown into the assembly discussion Monday to counter the Soviet proposal call for the assembly to demand withdrawal of British and French troops from Jordan and Lebanon.

In the broadest of language, it would call on the assembly to endorse the appointment by Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold authority to work out arrangements for replacement by some kind of a UN peace group of the United States and British troops who stopped into the Middle East in mid-July after the revolt in Iraq.

But despite the wide interpretation of terms of reference in it became immediately obvious that the Arab states and the Russian backers would hold fast to the "get out" call sponsored earlier by Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko.

The expressed opposition by India as a leading neutralist power—gave more weight to the feeling that in an assembly vote the new middle-power resolution's chances of passage by the required two-thirds majority were slim.

Coincidental with the tabling of this latest assembly motion was the circulation among the assembly delegates of letters of intent by Britain and the U.S. that they would withdraw their forces should a "determination" by the assembly make their presence unnecessary.

The effect of these letters, in the circumstances, tended more to hinder the middle - power proposal than help it. It gave ammunition to those factions who contend that Britain and the U.S. are using their dominant role in the Middle East with the UN as providing a puppet force.

India's delegate Arthur Lall drew wide attention in Monday's debate with his reference to this possibility and his strong defence of Arab nationalism.

He said the biggest opposition to Arab nationalism has come from those "fossils of the world whose life lies squarely on a vigorous, flourishing and well-established nationalism." He made it plain that he was referring to Britain and the U.S.

Picton Plane Strikes House, Nobody Injured

PICTON — Two members of Prince Edward Flying Club had a miraculous escape from death here Sunday afternoon when their four-passenger float-equipped plane crashed into the side of a house on Mill Street.

Co-owners of the aircraft, Donald Hall and Elliott Shannon, Brough, climbed out of the plane without serious injuries, seconds after it sheared the top off a tree, clipped two guy wires from a hydro pole, then finally swiped another aerial, bounced off the roof of a two-storey brick dwelling and gouged a hole in the east wall of a frame house owned by Mrs. Ethel St. John Carey.

The Careys were on a fishing trip at the time, but the occupants of a basement apartment, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Post, and their daughter Donna, 12, were badly frightened by the crash. "I was hurled out of bed by the impact. I had been asleep and when I hit the floor I thought my time had come," Mr. Post stated. Mrs. Post was in the kitchen getting Donna ready for Sunday School.

The plane was taking off from the outer harbor in Picton Bay when it down-drafted and struck the pile and was unable to gain altitude.

Police cleared coal sheds at the end of the harbor and barely got over several houses on Bridge Street, but failed to rise above the top of a tree on Mill St.

Elliott Shannon, 45, of Wellington, Ontario, died when his plane crashed into the Trent Canal. His passenger, Ted Sanderson, suffered bruises and cuts, is in Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

WOMEN AND NATIONALITY

About a week ago, a United Nations Convention covering the nationality of married women became effective. Early in July New Zealand became the ninth country to sign the convention. Earlier Ceylon, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Ireland, Israel, Norway, Sweden and the United Kingdom had ratified or acceded to the convention. Under it a wife may retain her nationality irrespective of marriage or divorce, or change her nationality by her husband.

The list of the first nine nations to ratify the convention makes somewhat strange reading. It would be difficult to determine the common denominator in the social systems of these countries which led them to sign it, while other countries have yet to accept it. This suggests that the identity of the nations first to accede to the convention has little or no significance, and that other nations, in all parts of the world, are likely to follow suit, in time. The basic significance of the convention is the recognition of women as persons, rather than as chattels of their husbands, and this change in woman's status, if not world-wide, has certainly occurred in countries on all continents.

It may well be, though, that some of the nations which have refrained from signing the convention are hesitating because, while it does no more than grant to women recognition that they are persons with a nationality of their own, it also poses another problem.

As long as the wife was presumed to have the same nationality as her husband, there could arise little dispute as to the nationality of their children. But if husband and wife are of different nationalities, what easy rule is to be used to determine the nationality of their children?

HERE'S THE PROTECTION FROM SEX CRIMINALS?

Once again we have seen a demonstration of the utter inadequacy of our treatment of sexual criminals. A London man has been sent to penitentiary for four years and ten months, after an attack on an eleven-year-old girl whom he lured into his car. This was only the latest of a long series of criminal offences, comments an editorial in the London Free Press.

This was not the act of a mad or irresponsible man. The girl was induced to enter the car with the promise that she would be given a pony ride. She and a young girl friend accepted the offer and was sent home, and then the attack took place. The entire offence was carefully planned.

Magistrate Fred McAllister summarized the revulsion of the whole community in quoting from Matthew: "But whoso shall offend one of these little ones . . . it were good that a millstone were hanged about his neck and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea." Better, indeed, for the offender and for society as a whole.

But this man, thirty-six years old, will be set loose again before he is forty. Thirteen previous convictions had done nothing to change his attitude towards the laws of his country and the moral standards of the community. There is not the slightest guarantee that another crime will not be committed.

Every parent with a child who might be the victim of a similar offence must wonder at the lack of protection from such offenders. To quote the magistrate's own words: "Society, particularly the young, must be protected." Where, in this case, is the protection four years from now? Lifetime incarceration is the only sure protection.

ALASKA, TEXAS AND ONTARIO

Sh-h-h! Don't tell any of your Texas friends, but Alaska, the newest State in the whole United States of America is larger by far than the Lone Star State, namely Texas.

For scores of years Texans have prided themselves on being residents of America's largest State, yet small enough that it could be relocated in a corner of Ontario.

Alaska, where the trees disappear into the sky and the big brown bears grow taller than any Texan, covers 586,400 square miles, whereas Texas contains 267,339 square miles of land.

The Republic of Texas was annexed by the U.S. in 1845. Alaska, on the other hand, was bought after hard bargaining with the Russians in 1867 for $7,200,000 and became an American territory until this year.

Ontario, which until 1867 was called Upper Canada, was acquired by the British from French Lower Canada in 1791. Its forests cover almost as much land as the whole of Texas, namely 240,000 square miles.

But before we begin feeling a little too smug, perhaps we should realize that Ontario could be fitted quite nicely inside the perimeter of Alaska. Our area is 412,582 square miles.

Modern Indians Learn Much

Sudbury Daily Star

Lo, the poor Indian! This symptomatic expression has frequently been heard in talk over the manner in which the North American Indians were deprived of their heritage and herded into reservations. The white man with his skillful propaganda techniques succeeded to a large extent in blackening the reputation of the Red Man, thereby giving him as a ruthless bloodthirsty savage. Not long ago, an Indian spokesman in the United States went on record as saying there was no historical proof that an Indian ever scalped a white person, and challenged the production of such proof.

Be that as it may the modern Indian has learned much from the white man. He has learned, for instance, that law has some meaning and Indian treaty rights provide the basis for sound bar-gaining with his white brethren. The Lake Nipissing band of Ojibway Indians kept natural gas pipeline crews off the reservation until agreement had been reached on a price for permission to make the pipeline through the reservation. The band also won assurance that Indians will be hired to work on the construction of the line. In the course of this negotiation of the law the Indian band also became aware of a higher right-of-way, telephone lines and hydro lines through reservation territory. Chief Joseph Couchie is of the opinion that they also should pay, but says "that can wait until the pipeline is all finished with."

Low, the poor Indian? More power to the Indian for becoming aware of his rights and the bargaining techniques by which those rights are protected.

The Cuckoo and the Spinster

The cuckoo, with its irresponsible habit of laying eggs in other birds' nests to be reared by the "mind the baby", is generally regarded as a natural enemy of the married state; but in a recent BBC broadcast Commander Campbell spoke a word or two in its favor, and in a recent letter to the London Times Mr. Basil Soper, of the remote English village where a gentle spinster in the late Victorian era devoted herself to good works, having missed the career and joys of wifehood and motherhood, takes up the cudgels on behalf of the cuckoo.

Being very fond of birds, it was a shock to her to find one day that a pair of wrens had somewhere in her young bird occupying a very small nest in her shed, and while the rightful owners lay dead on the ground below, S h e consulted the vicar — and, being a keen naturalist, identified the foreign nestling as a cuckoo — and rinsed its leg, so that it might be traced if its migration could be followed by any of the bird-watching fraternity.

That was where Commander Campbell — or rather, the ship on which he was serving in the Mediterranean — came into the picture. The cuckoo grew and grew, grown bird flew south but it was dogged by one of the beams during its searchlight practice and, flashing itself against the glass of the pro-jector, fell dead on the deck. The Leading Torpedoman in charge of the searchlight, took it to the ship's chaplain, who is commonly regarded as the fount of learning in Her Majesty's ships. The chaplain, an ornithological bachelor of forty, gave the bird a decent burial, but first he made a note of the details of the little tragedy — date, time, latitude, longitude, and sent the data, with the body, to the London Zoo. About a month later he received a letter informing him that the cuckoo had reached the gentle spinster, who, when she had overcome her sadness and astonishment, wrote to the chaplain giving an account of the cuckoo's birth, boyhood and death. After receiving a reply from the chaplain expressing great interest in the cuckoo, it was her intention to send him a calendar at Christmas showing a picture of the parish church. He responded with a snapshot of himself standing beneath a palm tree.

The happy ending came two years later when the ship paid call and the chaplain was offered a country parish. It was only natural then that he should ask the spinster to be his wife! "Perhaps the most unique wooing in a cuckoo has been instrumental in shedding joy and gladness upon the matrimonial scene," said Commander Hibett.

Kitchener Man Outwits Birds

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Lloyd Cober has proved again that man is smarter than bird.

Mr. Cober, angered for years by hosts of starlings and other birds that congregate in the large trees in front of the home, is now enjoying peace and quiet.

Mr. Cober says he have to wash off his sidewalk every morning because of the mess left on it from under the branches. No longer is he serenaded nightly by the Elvis Presley of the bird world.

All is serene.

Before he found the solution to his problem Mr. Cober tried all the frantic remedies advised by a host of well-wishers.

He put a stuffed owl in one of the trees. The starlings just laughed it off.

He went over each night and shot every ugly ol' bird in the trees. The starlings died laughing.

He played a recording of a starling distressed cry. The birds howled in merriment.

Then, he asked the City of Kitchener to put up a 75-to-100-foot maple trees.

Permission from the Park Board and took about 28 feet off the tops of the trees and thinned out the branches. The starlings still are attractive and provide plenty of shade.

But and now it is Mr. Cober's turn to laugh moderately as not a starling has settled in the branches since the day of the great thinning.

Mr. Cober's neighbors now are after the city to thin their trees in front, too. However, the requests take some time. Mr. Cober waited over two months before he could be worked into the Park Board schedule.

"Apparently the birds like to gaining with his white brethren. The Lake Nipissing band of Ojibway Indians kept natural gas pipeline crews off the reservation until agreement had been reached on a price for permission to make the pipeline through the reservation. The band also won assurance that Indians will be hired to work on the construction of the line. In the course of this negotiation of the law the Indian band also became aware of a higher right-of-way, telephone lines and hydro lines through reservation territory. Chief Joseph Couchie is of the opinion that they also should pay, but says "that can wait until the pipeline is all finished with."

Low, the poor Indian? More power to the Indian for becoming aware of his rights and the bargaining techniques by which those rights are protected.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

To have come of age, as we old ones did, in the heyday of Rudyard Kipling, is a special burden we are carrying in these confusing times. Most of you are too young to have been thoroughly soaked in the good old brine of the vicissitudes.

Ellington spells' teak. Piddles chunkin' from Rangoon to Mandalay. Fuzzy-wuzzies presuming to be human. And now again, like Gunga-din, achieving immortality by giving one of us a drink when we were shot through the belly by some sub-human from behind an Afghanistan boulder.

We were tough men in 1900, by the sound of us.

And the sounds we made were the amusing reading, now, to the Arabs, Hindus, Chinese and numerous other nationalities who employed much as the circus ring master employs the animals in his stock, but who now sit as our peers in council, and take some fun out of frustrated old Kipling tricks. We were a baton now, instead of a whip, and bought the world were an orchestra.

A Persian friend of mine has a wonderful Kipling library, complete to the last short story.

He says it gives him a lot of solace.

But no one who swelled it at the young manhood in the pump and circumstances of Barrack Room Ballad can really enjoy a little present sense of humor.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

AGE-TAGGED

To some extent, I believe, we all have a thing for old things. An old chair, book, picture, or some article that has lived through a long period and sees the ills of heirloom. The association of things with others that have lived long before us. A thing may be precious to one but not to another.

It's this association that makes things age-tagged with love and reverence. Sometimes it is often sad to see what we may have had for a long period. I have a billfold that belonged to my Great Grandfather. It means something to me. It's interest is to others, which is natural.

Many people write me, knowing of my love for books. They wish to know the value of many old books that have for a long time, but it isn't mere age that makes a book valued. The content means something, but often has no interest for others because it is what a book has to say that is valued.

Carpenters, and lovers of beautiful wood, like to use that wood to use in special places. I recall a man who furnished a room in all rare wood. We are usually limited in quality of wood, one because of their desire to remodel to modern interiors.

The age-tagged among men and women should always be respected. There is no finer example than of a man or woman who has lived a long life, has reared children, and been an inspiration to others through a long period of change and growth.

Manpower in Canadian Army

Montreal Gazette

The Defence Department has announced that half of the Canadian Army — 48,000 are in actual fighting units. This is a tremendously important organization and efficiency. During the Second World War, the support establishment took a total of 82,000 men to keep a division of 18,000 men in the field.

The supporting establishment then was more than four times the actual fighting force. This was the largest proportion for any of the Western Powers. For Britain, the figure was 84,000; for the United States — often accused of "spoiling" its men — the figure was only 71,000.

There were many reasons for the Canadian figure being t h e highest, most of which have disappeared since then. Canada, for instance, maintained three hospitals establishments, one on the continent, one in Britain and one in Canada, and these headquarter staffs in the three areas.

As General E.L.M. Burns, now chief of the UN supervisory commission on the Israeli borders, explained in his excellent study of the matter, Manpower in Canadian Army," the manpower policies followed at the time were conditioned first by First World War experiences; then by British and Canadian Army North African desert; and finally they were strongly affected by political pressures.

The emergence of the air army, which could directly to Canada for treatment, by-passed half the hospital establishment. Canadian repair and supply depots duplicated British depots. Canada also maintained on home defence long after all threat of invasion had disappeared. The number a n d size of our headquarters staffs were partly dictated by political meetings.

To reduce all this to a fifty-per-cent ratio of fighting men to total forces is a notable achievement. Partly, no doubt, it has been made possible by the "new look" in arming — small, mobile, self-contained units capable of operating on their own. But it also represents an unusually fine job of reorganization.

ONE TYPE OF GANGLION IS A CYST IN THE TENDON

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can a wrist ganglion be cured by surgery? Is there danger of future hand disabilities if it is not taken care off —J. L."

A ganglion is a swelling, usually from a Greek root meaning "knot" and medically the word has two meanings. It can be applied to a portion of the nervous system; it means a "knot" in a tendon.

Or we might even better refer to it as a cyst in a tendon, and a cyst, of course, is simply a hollow space that is filled with fluid or with semi-fluid material. Certain glands, for example, can become plugged, in the which they fill with fluid because there is no way for the fluid to escape.

Okay, now we have the cyst in the tendon, and as the cyst enlarges, a lump appears in the tendon — and that's a ganglion. The wrist is the commonest place for a ganglion to develop, although it could appear in other parts of the body, too.

Injury to the wrist is the cause of the ganglion in about half the cases we encounter. The rest are subject to doubt, but one theory is that the lubricating of the tendon may be faulty. This doesn't necessarily mean that the patient's nutrition is at fault, but simply that for some reason this particular tendon isn't get suitable nutrition.

MILD DISCOMFORT USUALLY

The ganglion shows up as a swelling, and occasionally there will be mild discomfort. In most cases there is no pain, and the only reason for paying attention to it is the lump itself. Women more often than men will develop a ganglion.

One very fortunate thing is that a ganglion does not become infected, the way a bursa so often does, resulting in a painful attack of bursitis.

Treatment? Occasionally they disappear suddenly and without any warning. A bump or blow has ruptured the cyst, and the penniless fluid inside can flow away. This has given rise to the belief, held by some, that a blow of a hammer, breaking the cyst deliberately, is a suitable cure. Well, sometimes it is, but in these cases it is quite common for the ganglion to appear again. It probably means that the place where the cyst has ruptured has simply grown together again and sealed the thing up so it again swells as fluid accumulates inside.

Aspiration — or drawing off the fluid through a hollow needle — may help in some cases, but the surest form of cure is surgery, with the sac being removed entirely.

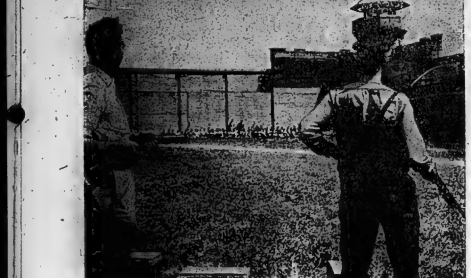
LISTEN TO THE READING OF THE MINUTES

Someone has complained about the present generation, saying that the trouble with them is that they don't read the minutes of previous meeting.

Which means that much present-day life largely starts from scratch, pays little attention to past experience, scattered or radical backgrounds, or religious tradition. We want to start from scratch. They seem all right to do — or at least pleasant — therefore, why not?

But we have to get through our minds, if we are going to be sane and secure. We are a part of a stream and that the current that has come down from the past has formed that pool of experience which makes up our present life.



In this free country, we have had a civilization and a most satisfactory way of life handed to us. Don't read the minutes of previous meeting. What did our parents do to establish a home in which we were brought up? What did our ancestors do to establish this country? What did the heroes during age-long centuries do to secure and maintain for us the treasures of a heritage of religious faith?

Alert for a fresh outbreak, guards, armed with tear gas gun and shotgun eye a group of convicts after a four-hour riot was quelled at Collins' Bay penitentiary, Ontario. Sixty prisoners formed a "torch gang," setting fire to eight buildings in celebration of the fourth anniversary of the famed riot at nearby Kingston penitentiary. The convicts used turpentine to spread the fire which caused over $65,000 damage. Volunteer firemen from Kingston were bombarded with bottles and bricks as they tried to drive into the grounds. One prisoner was shot and a guard injured before OPP, RCMP and penitentiary guards, armed with tear gas guns and sub-machine guns, brought the rebels to submission.

Smoke pours from eight of the flaming penitentiary buildings which were gutted by the torch gang of some 60 convicts. Prison officials said 400 inmates took no part in the uprising. There were no signs of rebellion before the revolt, which started when two baseball games were rained out. Six guards supervising the games, were unarmed and powerless to control the convicts.

Montreal Reform Group to Enter Provincial Field

MONTREAL (CP) — A third political force may be shaping up in this French-Canadian province.

The Civic Action League, headed by former Montreal mayor Jean Drapeau, announced plans Monday night to extend political activities from the Montreal municipal field to the provincial.

The announcement was made after a meeting here of 47 representatives from various parts of the province. It said the league decided to form a new political movement, aimed at giving Quebec "a regime of social liberation, economic progress and cultural expansion."

POTENTIAL THIRD FORCE

Observers describe the league as potentially a third force, along with the Union Nationale and Liberal parties.

However, an informant close to the CAL said the present movement would not function in the recognized political party sense. It has no immediate plans to enter candidates in any provincial election.

He added that any decision to run candidates would depend on circumstances and the effect of political campaigns the CAL plans to carry out in the province.

NOT MEETING NEEDS

The CAL statement said the meeting "recognized the inability of the traditional political parties to offer a program equal to the needs" of the province.

It decided to extend to the whole of the province "a campaign for political reform, restoration of democracy and administrative honesty," the statement said.

Last month Liberal Leader Jean Lesage suggested that some sort of working agreement between the Liberals and the league would be desirable. He said this would not necessarily mean a union of the two groups.

The announcement indicating the CAL will enter the provincial field was interpreted by some as ruling out any agreements which would unify forces opposed to Premier Duplessis' powerful Union Nationale government.

REFORM GROUP

The league was founded as a municipal government reform party in Montreal. It swept into power after the Montreal vice investigation, following which Mr. Drapeau was elected mayor in 1954.

Last year Mr. Drapeau was personally defeated by Senator Sarto Fournier, but the OAL won a majority of the elected. Mr. Drapeau attributed his defeat to Union Nationale intervention in Montreal's municipal politics.

The league developed from a public morality committee formed in 1950 which played a key role in sparking the judicial inquiry into Montreal vice. Its founder and president was Pierre Desmarais, a printer who later was elected a councillor.

Firm at Lauzon Says Shipyard Strike Illegal

LAUZON, Que. (CP) — Davie Shipbuilding Limited has branded Monday's work stoppage as an illegal strike and says there will be no company-union negotiation until workers are back on the job.

The usually bustling yard on the St. Lawrence River south shore opposite Quebec City was still as 2,000 workers refused to cross picket lines. The lines were set up by the National Metal Trades' Federation (CCCL) following weekend approval in a vote by the workers.

The union is seeking hourly wage increases averaging about 35 cents which it says would put wages on a par with those paid in Montreal and Sorel, Que., shipyards.

Robert Black, company general manager, in a statement said the union maintains the stoppage is a spontaneous demonstration by the workers because of company delays in contract negotiations.

"This is ridiculous since the fact is that we have accepted nearly 17 days ago, during which period the union could have received and filed for future reference.

De Gaulle Will Try to 'Sell' New Constitution

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Charles de Gaulle leaves Wednesday on a week-long flying tour of France's African territories in preparation for the Sept. 28 national referendum on the proposed new constitution.

On his way back, de Gaulle will spend two days in Algiers—where the public safety movement which helped put him in power began last over three months ago.

De Gaulle, 67, will cover more than 14,000 miles in his attempt to win support for the new constitution aimed at giving strong and stable government to France.

FEDERATION OF STATES

The proposed constitution provides for a federation of states which Metropolitan France and her overseas territories can become autonomously - governed members on a footing of equality.

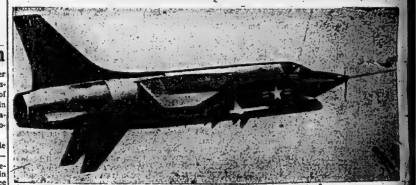
Overseas territories are offered the choice of becoming a department of France or members of the federation.

De Gaulle said early this month that territories voting for the referendum Sept. 28 would thereby be expressing their desire to remain inside the French federation.

Those who did not wish to do so, would vote against the referendum. He warned that those who seceded would do so at their own risk and could not expect further economic aid from France.

Some voices for independence have been raised less than a year before de Gaulle's tour.

BREAK UP DEMONSTRATION



In Dakar, capital of French West Africa, police used teargas bombs Sunday to break up 1,000 demonstrators chanting "We want independence—down with colonialism."

In Bamako, capital of French Sudan, the Sudanese Union Convention last weekend called for formation of a federation with "the recognition of the right to self-determination and independence."

The majority of politically-active people in the Ivory Coast, Gabon and Mauretania want to be linked directly to Metropolitan France.

Europeans in Algiers feel that integration with Metropolitan France is the only way to counterbalance the votes of the 8,000,000 Muslems in Algeria who now have been given equal voting rights with the 1,000,000 Europeans.

CAMPBELLFORD

Tennis Club Given $1,000 By Council

CAMPBELLFORD—All members were present at the meeting of the Campbellford town council this week, with the exception of Councillor Macmillan.

The chief item of business was the granting of $1,000 towards the paving and improving of the Campbellford Tennis Club. Messrs. Don Meyers, Roy McEwen and Wib Kingston interviewed council on behalf of the club.

Mr. Meyers stated that there are 99 members this year, divided 48-51 into junior and senior members. The junior members enjoy the sport at a nominal fee of $1 per year. The court facilities, while they have been satisfactory, are deteriorating and the surface needs a coat of fine asphalt, as the water has penetrated in spots and there is evidence of heaving. This demands immediate attention to save the surface from breaking up. The club has a project which includes toilet, washroom and dressing room facilities, painting and re-flooring the club house at an approximate cost of $2,200. The club proposed to carry on with the program if council would assist them. A number of members are willing to sign a note at the bank to borrow half the money if council will co-operate. The lowest price quoted on the asphalt surfacing is $1,600.

It was pointed out that Campbellford offers tennis to youngsters at a nominal fee, and though the club has its own officers and management elected annually by the members, it is not a private club in that anyone may join. The senior members pay their way but it is to the juniors that the community must look for the continuation of the sport in coming years. Instruction has been given free of charge to beginners and future recreational facilities for the children will be assured as a re-surfacing job should stand up for another 15 years.

It was, after some consideration, moved by Councillor Benetti and Deputy Reeve Free, that the council grant the tennis club $1,000 for the purposes outlined. The motion carried unanimously.

A letter concerning water supply from Mr. O. M. Galimberti of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, was received and filed for future reference.

WEDDINGS

MacDONALD — WOOD

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the scene of a very pretty summer wedding on Saturday, August 9 at 10:00 a.m. when Beatrice Eva Wood, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wood, became the bride of Alfred Alexander MacDonald, of Brantford, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus MacDonald, of Brantford, Prince Edward Island. The Reverend William McGee officiated before an altar adorned with white chrysanthemums and pink snapdragons.

Sister Mary Ribiana, organist, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Harold Gadney, who sang, "Ave Maria." "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," and "Mother, At Thy Feet is Kneeling"

Given in marriage by her father Mr. Hugh Wood, the bride was lovely in her floor-length, Chantilly lace bridal gown over satin. The fitted all-lace bodice featured a scoop neckline trimmed with iridescent pearl sequins; and long, lily-point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was enhanced by an all-lace matching overskirt, caught up at intervals. She wore a matching finger-tip, silk tulle illusion veil with hand-embroidered trim held by a matching crown head dress, and carried a white prayer book created with red Sweetheart roses and white stephanotis, with white rosebud-knotted streamers.

Mrs. Arthur Griffith, of Eastview, Ontario, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Miss Edna Brochs, of Tweed, Ontario, was bridesmaid. Both were gowned alike in waist-length blue chiffon over net and taffeta floats featuring scoop necklines and sleeveless, fitted bodices with bouffant skirts, and wide sashes of deeper blue ending at the hemlines. They wore matching blue, picture hats, white mittens add brocaded pumps and carried bouquets of pink and white chrysanthemums.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Helen Wood, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink chiffon over net and taffeta fashioned similarly to that of the other attendants, with deeper pink sash and streamers, white mittens, and shoes and floral headdress of pink, white and blue mums. She carried a baskette of blue and white mums.

Mr. Arthur Griffith, of Eastview, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Carl Wood, of Belleville, brother of the bride, was usher.

The reception was held at the Rotary Club of Columbus Hall, Belleville, where a turkey dinner was served. The bride's table was prettily arranged with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a tiny cluster of pink Sweetheart roses and clouded about the base with white tulle. Tall, white candles in crystal holders and the bridal bouquet added a delightful nuptial note.

Receiving the guests were the bride's mother, in a rose, Chantilly lace sheath of silk organza over taffeta matching hat and gloves, navy and white accessories and corsage of blue feathered carnations; and the bridegroom's mother, wearing navy crepe with white and navy accessories, and corsage of blue, feathered carnations.

For motoring through the Madawaska Valley, Algonquin Park, and other northern points, the bride chose a two-piece ensemble in aqua silk, with pink and white accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. A necklace of cultured pearls completed her ensemble. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald will reside at 17 1/2 Agnes Avenue, Brantford, Ontario.

Guests attended from Windsor; Brantford; Peterborough; Trenton; Newburgh; Marysville; Ottawa; Bristol, P.E.I.; Coleyville; Tweed; Madoc; Bancroft and Belleville.

The bride was the honored guest, previous to her marriage, at a miscellaneous shower with Miss N. Smith, of Brantford, as hostess; at a miscellaneous shower in Belleville at the home of Mrs. Carl Wood, with the Misses Anne and Jean Barry, as co-hostesses; at a presentation in Brantford, by the staff of the Central School where she was the recipient of an electric fry pan, and at a presentation by the B. S. Club, Brantford, of a beautiful table lamp.

MILLER — VADER

Christ Church, Belleville, was the setting for a recent, lovely, double-ring wedding, when Archdeacon J. R. Creeggan rector of the church, united in marriage, Hatrin Marcella Vader, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Vader of Coe Hill, to William James Miller of Belleville, son of Mr. Jean Miller of Belleville and Mrs. Rose Miller, of Grafton, Ontario.

Basked of pastel gladioli and baby's breath adorned the sanctuary, while white satin ribbon bows designated the pews.

Mr. J. B. Herdman, church organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the choir of five boys who rendered appropriate selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her blossom-white, organza bridal gown in ballet length, fashioned with ballet length, fashioned with portrait neckline etched with lace motifs. Elbow-length mitts completed the short sleeves. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet headdress encrusted with sequins, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses mingled with pink gypsophila.

Miss Muriel Ouriette of Corbyville was her only attendant. She was gowned in promenade-length of daffodil-yellow organza taffeta, fashioned with scoop neck-line and wide sashes of deeper blue ending at the hemlines. They had matching blue, picture hats, white mittens add brocaded pumps and carried bouquets of pink and white chrysanthemums.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Helen Wood, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink chiffon over net and taffeta fashioned similarly to that of the other attendants, with deeper pink sash and streamers, white mittens, and shoes and floral headdress of pink, white and blue mums. She carried a baskette of blue and white mums.

Mr. Carl Latchford, of Carrington, attended the bridegroom. While Mr. Ken Vader, of Belleville brother-in-law, of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at Hotel Quinte, Belleville, where the bride's table with its white damask-cloth was centred by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by white lily with lily wedding bells beneath an arch of orange blossoms and flanked about the base with pink tulle, pink satin rosettes, and finished by crystal bells of pastel tinted gladioli.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing figured navy crepe, white accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds.

For travelling to Algonquin Park, Muskoka, Toronto and Peterborough, the bride wore a mint-green sheath with beige duster, white accessories and corsage of yellow. Lester Hubert Rose, Mr. and Mrs Miller are residing in Belleville.

Guests attended from Foxboro; Corbyville; Consecon; Bowmanville and Point Anne.

The bride was entertained previous to her marriage, at a presentation tea at electric wall clock presented by the staff of Sidney School section, No. 2, where the bride was a teacher, held at the summer cottage of Mrs. Allan Carswell and at a shower at the home of Mrs. F. W. Clarke, both Miss Muriel Ouriette as co-hostess, when the bride was showered with miscellaneous gifts.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride, a single strand of cultured pearls; to his attendant, initialled leather belts. The bride's gift to her bridegroom, initialled, leather cuff-links and to her attendants, single strands of pearls.

HORNER — DAVID

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Saturday, August 16th, when Phyllis Lenore, younger daughter of Mrs. Herbert David of Stirling, and the late Mr. David was united in marriage to Gunter Horjes, of Toronto, son of Mr. Christian Horjes of Verdun, Germany, and the late Mr. Horjes. The Rev. Arthur Packham performed the ceremony. The church was decorated with white gladioli and white shasta 'mums.

Miss Susan Smith, of Ottawa, niece of the bride, played the wedding music, and the accompaniment for the Misses Reys Mary Ellen and Nancy David, also nieces of the bride, who sang "The Lord is My Shepherd" before the ceremony and "I'll Walk With God" during signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ira David. Her ballerina-length dress of white organza was designed on princess lines with a rounded neckline and with tiny sleeves. Her fully bouffant skirt was emphasized by two panels enhanced with two organza roses at back. Her headdress was a Juliet cap with tiny velvet petals holding a double-length, circular silk illusion veil and her bouquet was a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. William Allen, of Tyndon Falls, was matron of honor gowned identically in lime green organza trimmed with moss green. She wore a large picture hat in the two shades of green and carried coral gladioli in semi-cascade style.

Mr. Herman Borman, of Toronto, was groomsman and the ushers getting married was too much.

Woman MD Makes Blistering Attack on Potato Chips

LONDON (CP) — A school medical officer has launched a blistering attack on potato chips, an act that almost amounts to British disloyalty.

Dr. Marion Taylor has all sorts of nasty things to say about the lowly chip. She claims they make little boys and girls lethargic and dull and if they don't stop gumming chips the youngster generation will become a race of "fatties."

But chips are an integral part of fish and chips, a dish that is as British as the Union Jack. So, as expected, Dr. Taylor's remarks didn't remain unchallenged.

"Enough of this folly!" warns the Daily Express. "We shall be attacking tripe and onions and boiled beef and carrots. Yorkshire pudding — attacking England."

Britain's Federation of Fish Fryers is also slightly upset at Dr. Taylor's attack. A spokesman talked with dignity about the potato chip. "It is good for the nation."

Dr. Taylor said she had the support of other medical officers when she warned children about the dangers of chips. But she has heavy opposition against her.

For instance, Sir Winston Churchill is a well-known lover of fish and chips and he has publicly called them "the good companion." A group of famous English golfers recently paid two guineas a head for a feast of fish and chips at the plush Park Lane Hotel.

And a divorce court judge several months ago ruled, quite emphatically, that a persistent craving for fish and chips by a husband did not constitute cruelty to the wife. He dismissed the petition.

Chips are a big industry in Britain. There are 18,000 fryers in use throughout the country and they handle an estimated 1,000,000 tons of potatoes a year. And one firm claims it expects 90,000 frozen fish-and-chip meals every year.

Furthermore, the Express points out with some pride that "in New York at least one genuine English fish- and -chip shop sells its meals in genuine English newspaper."

"After all," says the Express, "chips are not merely a food; they are a way of life."

Campus Requirement

By VERA WINSTON

For campus wear there's nothing to equal the sweater look, no matter how many college fashions are hopefully offered each year. This one is in the popular prize range. On chemise lines, it has a large collar that is easily draped. The ribbed hem is quite low on the skirt. Select in white or colors, it is especially good with the simple solid wool skirt. A blouse or regular pullover sweater can be worn beneath this bulky often for a perfect campus costume.

THAT nature-loving son of yours will be pleased with a special alby for his wildlife specimens. Substitute a circle of wire screening for the solid disc on a quart or pint mason jar. Hold the screening in place with the remaining metal ring.

Autumn Highlight

By ALICE ALDEN

A highlight of the autumn sartorial season is the colorful dress of fine wool jersey. From France, and created with American know-how and a feeling for our settings, is this handsome daytime dress in coral wool jersey. It has a versatile belt that can be worn as shown, all around on top of the dress, higher or lower than the normal waistline or dismissed entirely. A high-standing, ribbed collar has a stitched band of self fabric that buttons to the top of the collar.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

INTRODUCTIONS THAT CALL FOR SPECIAL ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a person introduces herself or himself to me — perhaps recalling a former meeting, or saying that they know a relative or friend of mine, and so on — I heard about me — I always feel awkward as to what to say in reply. What is the proper thing to say? — Wondering.

Here's an excellent basic pattern for what-to-do: smile graciously and welcomingly, offer your hand, and make an alert, friendly return comment on what the self-introducer says. For example, to a person who recalls a former meeting, and tells you the where of the meeting, you might say, "Yes, I remember with great pleasure meeting you at Helena Allen's house last summer. What a delightful party it was, wasn't it?" (The last comment is a sufficiently "safe" one to cover any possible memory-lapse on your part, and to start a conversation of mutual interest.)

Or if a friend of your mother's comes up to you and says, for example, "Mrs. Clark, I'm Joan Webster, Your mother is a member of our Hospital Committee, and she says such charming things about you that I've wanted so much to meet you," you might reply, "How very nice of you to speak to me . . . and I'm so happy to know you. That's a wonderful Committee of yours, and Mother enjoys so very much working on it with you. I'll tell her all about meeting you."

SUCH SHORT NOTICE

DEMANDING TELEPHONED INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married on a Sunday afternoon soon, actually in about three weeks. She is marrying a doctor, and she is in college studying to be a doctor. They are both so busy these days that they don't have a lot of time, and her father and I don't have the money, to have a large, formal wedding. But we all have so many friends that we think it would be a good idea to have a buffet affair, from 2 o'clock to 6. At the ceremony they are having only one attendant each, maid of honor and best man.

How should the invitations read? It's such short notice. Should I expect an answer from the guests as to whether or not they can come, so that we will have a better idea of how much food to provide? Would you advise that, as well as sending the invitations, I make contact with the guests by telephone?

— Mother

Since you have so very little time, I strongly advise you to do as much inviting of the guests by telephone as you possibly can. As well as being the most practical way to do, it is entirely correct procedure for such an informal wedding. When you telephone and have set forth the plans for the wedding, the guests should tell you at once if they can come to the wedding. And certainly this quick definiteness will be most convenient for your preparation plans. And send telegrams to any out-of-town relatives and friends you can't reach by telephone.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. M. E. — Dolores wants to leave college.

Dolores E. — I just want to be a housewife and mother.

Mrs. M. E. — I am a widow with one daughter — a girl of 18. My husband died when she was only six years old and I've been back to work, determined to make the best of life for both of us.

I had always wanted a college education, but was unable to get one. That's why I wanted one for Dolores. I scrimped and saved and worked toward this end. I also saw to it that she had music, dancing and dramatic lessons. I wanted her to have more in life than her mother.

Well, after one year of college, Dolores wants to drop out and get married. The boy she has chosen is just a nobody — a nothing. He has no education, comes from a broken home and his prospects in life look terrible. How can Dolores do this to me?

Dolores E. — All my life Mother has pushed me to do this, that and the other thing that I had no interest in at all. She wants me to be somebody important, but I just want to be a housewife and mother — and the sooner the better!

The boy I want to marry didn't go to college, but he has been a hard, steady worker and is making a good salary. He is true he comes from a broken home, but he says he wants to make a different sort of life for his own wife and children.

College is all right for girls who want careers or who want to marry later in life, but I would like to have a large family and I feel I am fully mature and able to care for a home and children right now. I don't see why I should have to wait.

The COUNCIL: Mrs. M. E. despite her good intentions, hard work and sacrifices, has imposed an unfair burden upon her daughter. We suspect Dolores' impatience to get married has at least as much to do with her desire to rid herself of that burdensome dream of a family.

Mrs. M. E. has simply imposed upon Dolores the responsibility for living another human being's life. Mrs. M. E. wanted to go to college, therefore Dolores must go. Mrs. M. E. wanted some sort of personal glory in life. Therefore Dolores must have glory.

In her effort to free herself from bondage to her mother, Dolores is forced to seek the opposite of everything her mother wants for her. She feels this is the only way in which she can assert her individuality.

We suggest that Mrs. M. E. try to tear herself away from this ideal image of herself she sees in her daughter. She must recognize Dolores has individual standards and needs and they cannot possibly be exactly the same as anyone else's. This "nobody" Dolores wants to marry may just happen to be the somebody who can bring her the greatest happiness.

But we do think a word of warning is in order for Dolores. Immediate marriage looks like an ideal way of freeing herself from Mother's domination, but it could be a way of exchanging one set of problems for another. Dolores ought to take the time to find out whether she really wants this young man for the freedom he now represents. A college education and or work experience could help her find out.

A Cookout Camp Supper for 12

by Mary Moore

When Tom Clark came home breakfast, then begin adding, from Scout Camp I asked him often after supper he was going to eat. Out of 11 of them, one did. He was an Indian boy and could be seen then cans of beans, corn and peas and finally a package of every morning at the creek before the rest reluctantly went down. Even then all they did was scoop up a little of the revolting cold stuff and off as fast as possible.

Tom spent one precious week of his annual vacation as unpaid cook and assistant to the Scoutmaster, when his son's and another patrol went to summer camp. He declares it was the most rewarding week of his life.

He described his stew recipe in a blue enamel pail over a wood fire: First you brown the meat well in bacon fat from this time from the Honeysett's outfit's camping experience.

"HONEY'S GOULASH

To serve 12 "Honey" starts with 1 pound of macaroni in 2 quarts boiling water and cooks it 10 minutes, then adds without draining the macaroni one 10-oz. can tomato paste, 1 chopped onion, 3 chopped celery stalks, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 pounds chopped cooked beef or pork or ham and lets it simmer until macaroni and vegetables are very tender and the consistency is thick enough to serve "without running all over the plates".

SCRAMBLED EGGS

(For 20 people) Thirty-three eggs 4 cups milk, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 6 1-3 tablespoons butter. Beat eggs until yolks and whites are well mixed. Add milk and seasonings. Whip 3 to 3 minutes. Melt butter in pans over fire. Add eggs. Cook slowly over low heat. Do not scrape bottom and side of pan scrape the cooked portion away with spoon until the whole is a mass of thick creamy flakes. Remove from heat while eggs are still soft. Serve immediately.

THE HOCKEY SCENE

After two seasons participating in the OHA Eastern Ontario Senior "A" hockey league on a part-time basis, Hull-Ottawa Canadiens have joined the group this year as a full-fledged member.

This was the big news released, when the league executives finally called a halt to the meeting in Hull Sunday morning, sometime around one-thirty. OHA president Lorne Cook of Kingston, convened the meeting.

The loop will operate this winter with six teams, five of them competing for the four group playoff spots and the Allan Cup. All six teams, Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, Belleville-McFarlands, Kingston Merchants, Whitby Dunlops, Pembroke Lumber Kings and Cornwall Cherries, were represented at the Quebec meeting.

Canadiens, coached and managed by Sammy Pollock, will play the same number of games as the rest of the clubs and will take part in the playoffs. They will be eligible for Allan Cup play. All the Hull-Ottawa games will be played at the beautiful new Hull Arena. As a junior team participates in Laurier Cup play, it will use either Ottawa or Montreal for home games. Canadiens will be allowed six branch-to-branch transfers. The other clubs are permitted only four.

Many of last year's Junior Canadiens, who won the Memorial Cup, will play with the new senior entry. These include Jacques Begin, Johnny Longarini, Claude Richard, youngest brother of "Rocket" and "Pocket Rocket"; Terry Gray and Johnny Annable, all Montreal Canadiens' property. Goalie Bruce Gamble, who joined the Baby Habs for the playoffs last spring, will likely handle the regular goal-tending job. Gamble is the property of the New York Rangers. Canadiens may also recruit players from the disbanded Cincinnati club of the International League.

According to a news story from Ottawa, two of the club's big guns, Ralph Backstrom and Bill Carter, will not be with the team but will try for a spot with the parent Canadiens, likely to be placed with a minor pro-team.

Contrary to the Canadian Press story, Belleville McFarlands will not participate in the Allan Cup playdowns. They announced their withdrawal from the league. The reasons are obvious. The club will have more than the allowed number of ex-pros. It would mean too much hockey for the players as they are all set to be happy to hang up the skates for a well-deserved rest by the time they arrive home. And it would mean they would have to be given a bye through the first couple of rounds which would not be fair to the rest of the teams.

The Macs, however, will play a full fifty game schedule before departing. Unlike last year when Whitby and Hull played 36 games and the other teams 32, all teams will play the half hundred with two points for a victory and one for a tie.

The league schedule will open on Friday, October 24th, with the Macs playing host to Kingston Merchants here. McFarlands will wind up their uptossed in schedule on January 30 at Cornwall as the only visit to the country on February 5. The rest of the teams will complete the schedule the first week in March and then go right into playoffs. Last year with Whitby away and the Canadiens playing only exhibition games the other clubs did not have to fight for a playoff spot. This year will be different, which should add to the league's drawing powers.

Following their opening game here on October 24, the Macs meet in Whitby on Saturday the 25th, then play down to Cornwall on Sunday, the 26th. There will be lots of tough weekends as they hurry to complete the full schedule.

All overtime play has been thrown out for this season and one of the reasons was because of the "three-in-three" weekend schedules which all the clubs will have to contend with on more than one occasion. In other words after the Macs have played the opener at home, then played in Whitby Saturday night, they should not have to go into overtime in Cornwall on Sunday. That's just an example.

The team representatives decided to go another year with one referee and two linesmen, rather than the two referee system. This we cannot understand, but if that's the way they want it, they pay the shot so that's the way it will be.

A representative of the northern clubs in the OHA-NOHA grouping attended the meeting and did not get much satisfaction when he offered a plan for an interlocking schedule with this group. The gentleman said he was speaking only for the northern clubs. Apparently little interest was shown by the Eastern representatives.

And last, but not least, George H. Carver, sports editor of this newspaper, was again appointed league statistician.

Dig out the skates, Sam, it's getting chilly in the morning already!

FOUR IN RING

There's always plenty of excitement in tag-team wrestling but when you turn four of the game's meanest villains loose in the squared circle all at once with no tag-ropes to slow them up, it should be one for the books.

And that's exactly what will happen here Friday night in the main bout at Memorial Arena.

Headlining an all-star card are two brother teams, both hated by the fans. The blonde bombers, Stan and Reg Lisowski, form one of the free-for-all teams while in the other corner will be the Russian twosome of Karl and Ivan Kalmikoff. Everything will go in this one and the fans will be happy no matter who gets hurt.

Another excellent bout finds Lord Athol Layton going against Big Bob Orton. A couple of new ones, Karl Steiff and Tarzan Tourville, meet in the opener at nine o'clock.

Harris Chopped Down By Floyd Patterson In 12th

Trainer Requests Referee To Stop Slaughter, Champ Down for 3-Count in Second

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Floyd Patterson, his timing suffering from a year-long ring layoff, scrambled back from a second-round knockdown Monday night to belt challenger Roy Harris into a state of wobbly incompetence and retain his world heavyweight boxing crown.

The bloody and courageous challenger from the Texas backwoods of Cut and Shoot couldn't answer the bell for the 12th round. It was on a 12th-round knockout.

Harris was far behind on points and bleeding from a battered nose and cuts near both eyes when his trainer Ray Arcel threw Mushy Callahan to stop the slaughter.

100,000 FOR BEATING

Roy, who had been unbeaten in 22 professional fights, collected $100,000 for his brave and sometimes awkward performance. It is estimated Patterson's take will be more than $200,000.

The 23-year-old champion was down for the first count from a left and right in the second round but bounced up to take command. He floored Harris four times but couldn't put him away.

"I'm not satisfied with that fight than any one I've fought in the last few years," Patterson said. "I had been able to get started. It might have been a different fight. I'm sorry I let both of us had more fights we would have looked a lot better. I'll probably fight more often now."

THIRD DEFENCE

It was the third successful title defence for Patterson, who won the championship in 1956 by knocking out Archie Moore in five rounds.

Patterson, from New York, spotted Harris 10 pounds at 184½ to 194 but landed the power punches. He knocked Harris down on an eight count in the seventh with a right to the side of the head. In the ninth, Roy was down for counts of seven and three. He took a nine count in the 12th.

But fans who tabbed the Texan as a set-up changed and made him a 6-to-1 underdog were surprised to watch a bristling battle and a courageous showing from the challenger until the champion's solid standard took their toll.

20,000 AT PARK

About 20,000 fans watched the open-air match in Wrigley Field and another 200,000 by closed-circuit television in theatres in the United States and Canada. The gross gate here was estimated at $226,000, the gross in theatres at $1,000,000.

Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, said the champ will work powerful International Boxing Club, said the champion is committed to a title defence next June in Colorado Springs, Colo. He didn't name an opponent and he left open the possibility that Floyd might fight in the meantime.

Patterson termed Monday night's fight the toughest of his three defences. The others, against Hurricane Jackson and Pete Rademacher last year, also ended in knockouts. Patterson didn't fought since stopping Rademacher in six rounds at Seattle, Wash., last Aug. 22.

Yvon Durelle Wants Moore But Not for $100,000

MONTREAL (CP) — An old pro's itch for a $100,000 pay night still bars a shot at the light-heavyweight title here for Canadian boxer Yvon Durelle, the hard-ribbed fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B.

Ring-wise Archie Moore wants the money as a guarantee before putting his title on the line against Durelle. "Pay $100,000? Because it's a 'nice, round figure,' says the San Diego, Calif., belter.

Montreal promoter Eddie Quinn has high hopes that Moore will have a change of heart. But the promoter admits it clear he wants no part of "the gurantee business."

"If Moore is willing to talk on a percentage basis, we're ready," said Quinn.

Durelle, the British Empire and Canadian champion, is willing to face Moore for 30 per cent of the gate, in addition to sound TV money.

But Durelle says: "I'd like to go out as champ. On the other hand, if I don't get a crack at the old guy soon I'm not going to bother with the game anymore."

"I've been getting battered around in rings for 13 years. I've got a decent living from my fishing fleet and I want to see more of my wife and three kids."

Big Four Opens For Business This Evening

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Big Four football union opens its business tonight with teams facing each other at Ottawa and Montreal.

Each team has 14 games in the next 13 weeks before league champions from East and West meet for the Grey Cup in Vancouver Saturday, Nov. 29.

In the East, Hamilton Tiger-Cats are rated the team to beat. They captured the Grey Cup last year.

To be considered seriously are Ottawa Rough Riders, who coach Frank Clair says might have made the Grey Cup if they hadn't slipped just once late last season.

ARGOS ARE IMPROVED

The dark horse is Toronto Argonauts, definitely improved from last year's fourth - place club. Nobody's saying just how much better they are.

Montreal Alouettes, who headed the league for three straight seasons, then slumped to third last year, are rated even weaker in 1958. They pre-season exhibition score — on win and two losses—ranks with Toronto's.

Hamilton did even worse — one win, three losses. Roger Hunsley topped the league in exhibition engagements with three straight victories.

Argonauts take on the Rough Riders and Tiger-Cats go against the Alouettes tonight.

AWAIT NFL CUTS

The import picture on the clubs is still clouded. They are waiting until word on the United States National Football League make their cuts before doing any late shopping.

All four clubs are plagued by injuries. Hamilton, who can least afford it, have five doubtful starters, including star end Hal Patterson, on the sidelines with a shoulder injury.

Rough Riders are missing two linebackers with broken arms and first-string quarterback Tom Dimitroff is resting with a sprained wrist.

Argo coach Hamp Pool will be sending his squad against an Ottawa team that should have "an excellent chance" for the championship, according to Clair.

He says: "You'll recall Ottawa almost finished first in the league last year. We had Hamilton beat in the crucial game until we went to sleep.

Loop Retirement Plan Presented To Int. League

COLUMBUS, Ohio (CP)—A delegation of International League baseball players Monday proposed a league retirement plan giving qualified players between $39 and $357 a month at the end of their playing days.

Players Spook Jacobs of Columbus Jets, Bob Chakales of Richmond Virginians, Ed Bailey of Toronto Maple Leafs and Tom Lasorda of Montreal Royals presented the plan Monday to minor league president George M. Trautman. Jacobs is Shaughnessy, International League president.

Shaughnessy and Trautman said they were powerless to act now and will have to discuss the proposal with the league's club owners.

James F. Durande, an attorney for the players, said later that the players expect the owners to make some reply within 10 days.

OHA and Northern Section Again Ready to Operate

TORONTO (CP) — It appears certain that the Ontario Hockey Association - Northern OHA will operate during the 1958-59 season with a 56-game schedule in which the southern group teams and the northern group teams would exchange three trips each.

The decision was reached by the OHA-NOHA council Monday at a meeting in which Murph Chamberlain said he would definitely have a team from Windsor.

Chamberlain said he and five others have the arena and have made a bid for the franchise of the Windsor Bulldogs which the Eastern Pro management which went bankrupt after last season.

He said that should his bid be rejected—he is to meet with the directors today — he would go ahead and form a club from scratch.

He also mentioned that former National Hockey League player Joe Klukay, who played with Windsor the two previous seasons, has quit the game.

The other five clubs—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Sudbury Wolves, Chatham Maroons, North Bay Trappers and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds — gave Chamberlain their word that they would not try to secure the Windsor players until the situation in that city is cleared up.

The council decided that the schedule would open Oct. 30 and close Feb. 22. There are to be six games fewer than last year and each of the northern teams will visit the three northern teams three times.

The southern teams would also visit the southern teams three times each.

It was decided that the playoffs would start no. later than March 2.

Mike Sojka, 42, also of Buffalo, was second in 3:30.45. He earned $200. Phyllis Clark of Kingston, who had been second at the four-mile mark but fell back to third when she suffered a cramp in her right arm, was one minute and 10 seconds behind Sojka. She got $100.

Brampton took a 6-1 lead in the first period, had it whittled down to 5-4 in the second but scored five goals in the third period while Long Branch counted only two.

Montreal Royals Take Wings 5-2

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal's first-place Royals rode an 11-hit attack and Bob Chakalos's eight-hit pitching to a 5-2 victory over Rochester Red Wings Monday night before 1,467 International League fans who braved a light rain during most of the contest.

Clyde Parris supplied three of the Montreal runs with a two-run home run in the first inning and an infield grounder in the third. It was his 10th homer of the season.

Gallombardo, a young southpaw, posted his 11th win against seven setbacks with a strikeout and eight while fanning three. The loser was left-hander Bob Kuzava, who was hurled for a pinch-hitter in the seventh after giving up all five Royal runs.

The victory—in the league's only game Monday — lifted the Royals 3½ games ahead of the second - place Toronto Maple Leafs. The Red Wings, third, dropped 9½ games off the pace.

Baltimore Orioles Battling To Finish in 1st Division Since Joining American Loop

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Whether New York Yankees can blow their American League lead is a question to be considered by dreamers. But can the Orioles give Baltimore its first finish in the first division?

The Birds, who have improved each year since they shifted in 1954, finished just a game short of fourth-place Detroit last season. And after drubbing Kansas City 8-3 in the only major league game scheduled Monday, the Orioles now are within a half game of the fourth-place Tigers.

Even with an 11 - game losing skid — longest slump in either league this season — the Orioles have spent most of their time in the first division in the last month. The Birds tumbled there from second to sixth, not as bad as it sounds in the AL's close-packed, seven-team second division. They slipped past Cleveland into fifth by winning their third in a row Monday night.

GET OVER HUMP

Baltimore had but one hit — a third inning bunt by Willie Miranda—but held a 4-0 lead. As until opening up against loser Ralph Terry (7-10) in a seventh-run sixth inning. Gene Woodling socked a two-run homer and Dick Williams contributed a three - run shot in the big inning.

Hec Brown (5-3) won it on a nine-hitter after losing three in a row. Roger Maris scored both runs for the As, belting his 22nd home run in the eighth after singling and scoring for a 1-1 tie in the fourth on Harry Simpson's single and Hal Smith's sacrifice fly.

The Orioles' first run came in on Miranda's bunt, a hit batter, a sacrifice and a ground out.

Musial, Williams Moving up on Batting Leaders

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan Musial and Ted Williams have a lot in common.

They both bat lefthanded.

Each owns the highest lifetime average among active players in his respective league—Williams with .346 in the American and Musial with .340 in the National.

Williams has the most lifetime games batted in the American, and Musial heads the National with 1,377.

Both are at advanced ages for ballplayers. Williams will be 40 Aug. 30 and Musial 38 Nov. 21.

And each is making strong moves in the direction of another batting title.

Stan and Ted each had four hits in Sunday's games and closed in on the leaders, Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia and Pete Runnels of Boston.

GAINED SIX POINTS

Musial raised six points and moved to .341. Ashburn is at .343. Ted had only two hits off San Francisco slumped six points in last week's games but held third place with a .326 mark.

Williams is in the No. 8 spot in the American League competition with a .316 mark. But the Boston slugger trails Runnels by only 14 points.

RUNNELS DROPPED

Runnels lost five points and dropped to .330 with six safeties in 24 at bats. Bob Cerv of Kansas City and Billy Goodman of Chicago are deadlocked for second at .325. Harvey Kuenn is next with .322 followed by Vic Power of Cleveland at .320.

FLOYD PATTERSON — ROY HARRIS

After nearly a year of inactivity, Floyd Patterson, the heavyweight champ, finally defended his title. He knocked out Roy Harris in the 12th round.

In the Dressing Room

By CHARLES MAHER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"None of my punches were working right tonight," champion Floyd Patterson said with questionable modesty after flogging Roy Harris into a state of wobbly incoherence Monday night.

"I'm more dissatisfied with this fight than any one I've fought in the last few years," Patterson said.

"If I had been able to get started a bit better, I'd have had a different fight."

The unmarked champion, who put the durable Texan on the floor four times, was asked what was his best punch.

"My best one? None of them were any good.

"I know that had the both of us had more fights we would have started a lot better.

"I'll probably fight more often now."

CALLED A SLIP

Patterson was asked about the right hand that gave Harris his only knockdown—in the second round.

"Yeah, I thought it was a right," Floyd said. "But I thought it was more of a slip than a knockdown.

"He hurt me more than that with other punches.

"Actually, I wasn't really hurt but I did get dizzy a few times and had to clinch because he wasn't game. He was very game."

PURCHASE OUTFIELDER

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals of the International League have announced the purchase of outfielder Tom Davis from Victoria of the class AA Texas League. Davis had a .310 average in 104 games with Victoria this season, with 12 home runs. The Royals have also purchased third baseman Dick Gray from the Paul Saints of the American Association, but Gray has refused to report and has been suspended.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"When I knocked him down in the second round, I thought I could get him, but I guess I got too anxious."

Heavyweight challenger Roy Harris was speaking in his quiet Texas drawl in his dressing room after standing up to champion Floyd Patterson for 12 bloody rounds Monday night.

"I hit him with a good left followed by a right," said Harris.

A towel over his head hid bloody eye cuts.

"The left hand did the damage," he said, rubbing a bruised left knuckle. But after that nothing went right."

NOT BADLY HURT

Harris said he was never really shaken, although dropped four times in five the third time stopped at the end of the 12th.

"I never lost my senses," he said.

Why did he bounce back to his feet so quickly after two knockdowns in the eighth?

"I'll just fight like fighting," said Harris.

Here Patterson is a great fighter. "I'd like to fight him again. Yes, I think I could lick him next time.

CHANGE STYLE

"I learned a lot about his style tonight, you know," Harris added, managing a smile through a puffed lip.

Would he fight the champion differently if there is a next time?

"I'd be more aggressive. I'd try to press him more," said Harris.

"I asked that the fight be ended because I didn't want Roy cut anymore," said trainer Gore. "He wanted to continue and he yelled 'let me go, let me go.'"

DRAKE MOVES UP

HAMILTON (CP) — Danny Drake, who played third base for Hamilton Beavers in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League this year, has been signed to a professional baseball contract by Kansas City Athletics. The American League club's Ontario scout, Johnny Sarlos, said Drake, 21, will report to Winona of the class D Triple-I League next spring. He received a bonus for signing but the amount was not revealed.

Jim Thomson Sent to Leafs By Black Hawks

TORONTO (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League have returned defenceman Jim Thomson to Toronto Maple Leafs.

Leaf coach Billy Reay said the 21-year-old Thomson, who played 18 seasons with Leafs, may re-join next season.

"Jim was sold to Chicago last year on a one-season basis," Reay said. "Since the Black Hawks have returned his contract to us believe Jim intends retiring from hockey and this is the reason Chicago did not take up his option for this season."

Thomson joined the Leafs in 1945 and played on four Stanley Cup teams.

The Leafs also announced signing of four junior hockey players. They are defenceman Bobby Bain, winger Garry Aldcorn and goalie Ed Chadwick.

Rochester Yacht Wins Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Shumway of the Rochester (N.Y.) Yacht Club was declared winner Monday of the Canadian Trophy yacht race after his 32-foot sloop, the Mallard, was given a corrected finish time of 26 hours one minute 22 seconds.

The Mallard crossed the finish line at the Eastern Gap of Toronto Harbor entrance with an elapsed time for the 200-mile course of 39 hours 55 minutes 45 seconds.

The biennial race started Saturday morning off the Rochester club.

Commodore Russ Hay of the Rochester was second in the Green Witch with an elapsed time of 41 hours 27 minutes.

Pompadour, owned by Jack Kent Cooke of Toronto, was the first boat to finish the grueling race at 1:32 a.m. His corrected time of 38:10:22 gave him third place in the fleet.

Canada Needs Minor Coaches To Produce Pro Grid Stars

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Since football has become big business in Canada, professional clubs are finding out at least two things:

They can't "spend themselves rich" on high - priced United States imports, and there's a desperate need for top-level coaching in Canadian minor football from high school leagues up.

Hometown players no longer are a lightly-regarded commodity for a club with Grey Cup aspirations.

NO LONGER CHEAP

The nine pro clubs of the East and West, and the players themselves, realize this. The result is that Canadians won't play for peanuts any more, and the clubs will go to great lengths to increase competition among homegrown talent.

Virtually in self - defence the eastern Big Four clubs now are sponsoring minor teams in their own districts. These are made up of fellows who will play for the club if, in hopes of getting a berth on the big team.

Western clubs meanwhile have been spending big money on American talent and eagerly grabbing off eastern products. For winning teams in the West the economic situation so far seems to have been conquered. Saskatchewan hasn't been a happy situation for losing clubs since civic pride and eager sponsorship.

The Canadian-development program has centred largely in the East and one of the leaders has been Montreal Alouettes, a club operating strictly on a business-on insistence of president Ted Workman.

GOOD PAY

The ALs have not been a pauper Canadian club.

General manager Gorman Kennedy says the average homebrew with the Big Four club last season grew $3,051 "and I think that's a fair amount for six months work."

Kennedy isn't say accurately what the other pro clubs are paying their Canadian players, but you can be sure it's well above what is popularly believed although likely not as high as our scale."

The ALs have gone along with the other league teams in providing a minor circuit this season, but they still maintain football funds must be spent to be taught at the high school age.

COACHING PROBLEM

This throws the problem back on adequate coaching. No Canadian high schools in the East employ coaches with pro experience. In many cases the coaches are faculty members who have never played organized football.

Kennedy thinks the schools—if they're going to have "football—should reach across the border for coaching help for a while at least.

"The best thing would be to bring in American coaches, say, at a salary of $5,000 or $6,000 a year, to teach the fundamentals academic jobs.

"Within five or six years we would have a steady flow of mighty good football players."

Harvey Johnson, last year's new chief scout and a pro player in the U.S. for six years, has a high regard for Canadian players. He piloted Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to Intermediate championships in the Ontario Rugby Football Union before joining the Alouettes, staff.

"Canadian make every bit as good football players as Americans," says Johnson. "But the difference is Americans here generally lack grounding in the game's basic fundamentals. So many start their careers a step behind."

JOCKEY KILLED

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — Aparecilios Jockey Jose (Red) Polichio, 20, died Monday of injuries suffered when a horse threw him and kicked him. Hospital attendants said Polichio suffered multiple skull fractures and brain damage. He was exercising War Current on the Del Mar race track prior to Monday's racing card.

Edmonton, Calgary Win Over Roughriders and B.C. Lions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Spectacular aerial attacks produced two stiff beatings in the Western Interprovincial Football Union Monday night.

Quarterback Frank Tripucka, Saskatchewan Roughriders passing ace, was beaten at his own game at Edmonton where the Eskimos, showing only glimpses of a 'potent ground offensive, went to the air in seldom-seen fashion to whallop the Riders 40-6. Jackie Parker fired four touchdown passes and Don Getty one.

At Calgary, quarterback Nobby Wirkowski and relief quarter Maury Duncan kept Stampeders in the air most of the night to shut out British Columbia Lions 42-0. Wirkowski threw out touchdown passes and Duncan tossed two.

LIONS' SECOND LOSS

It was Lions' second straight defeat this season. They lost 48-33 to Roughriders in their opening game Saturday. Winnipeg Blue Bombers beat Edmonton 29-21 last Thursday.

The 18,000 fans who turned out at Edmonton got a big surprise. The Eskimos, who relied mainly on a ground attack for the last two seasons, were mid-happy. Parker and Getty, aided by a weak Roughrider pass defence and a solid Edmonton line, could do no wrong in the air.

Eskimos gained 677 yards rushing and passing—not far off the WIFU one-game record of 694 set by Calgary in 1957 victory over Saskatchewan. The Roughriders got only 222 yards.

At Calgary the Stamps more than doubled the Lions on first downs, 27 to 12. Both teams tried 37 forwards, Calgary completing 16 to B.C.'s 11. Stamps made 166 yards rushing to only 16 by Lions, and outpassed their coast rivals 288 yards to 124.

Paige Getting His Sentence Worked Off

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A few more nights like Sunday night and pitcher Satchel Paige of Miami Marlins won't have to worry about going to jail.

The 50-year-old Paige was sentenced to 20 days in jail April 23 by Municipal Judge Charles Snowden for speeding and driving without a license.

However, the sports - loving judge deferred the sentence until Oct. 1 and told Paige a day would be lopped off each time he won a game for the Marlins, scored a run or struck out his weight-old Buffalo first baseman Luke Easter.

Paige did everything but strike out Easter Sunday night as he scored a run and pitched a no-hitter against Buffalo to give the Marlins a 6-1 International League victory.

Paige now has only seven days of his sentence left to work off.

Little Mo Wins First Match In U.S. Amateur

DARIEN, Conn. (CP) — Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Toronto didn't lose a ball in winning her first match as play got under way Monday in the United States women's amateur golf championships, but her opponent was so erratic she took 7 strokes on two holes.

The stocky little Canadian champion began a new challenge for the title she won in 1956 by outing Mrs. Margaret Waitzas of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., 7 and 6.

Another Canadian, Rosemary Neuhdorf of Toronto, also came up with a 7 and 6 win over her pint old lady of golf, Mrs. Edwin Vare Jr. of Philadelphia, who has won the U.S. amateur titles and played in it 25 times.

The second Canadian victories over among the most decisive of the 60 first - round matches played over the 6,467-yard Wee Burn Country Club course where women's par is 37-35—75.

SIX CANADIANS ADVANCE

In all, 16 Canadians saw action in the first day of play and six of them advanced.

Those advancing included Judy Darling, Hudson Heights, Que., Mrs. Lindsay Mussels, Montreal; Kay Richardson, Toronto, and Janet McWhat, St. Lambert, Que. Eliminated were Mrs. Judi Johnson, Long Branch, Ont., Elva Carrol Hamilton, Mrs. Robert Lyle, Montreal, and Shirley Woodley of Thornhill, Ont.

Despite her easy win, Marlene, who has been tabbed Little Ben by her admirers because of a fancied resemblance to Ben Hogan, didn't play particularly good golf.

She went out in 40 strokes, three over par, and closed out the match three holes later by winning the 10th and halving the next two.

In the second round today, Mrs. Streit will play Charlotte Decosse of Montclair, N.J.

Latta Downs Read 7-2 to Even Finals

Latta reversed the tables in the second game of the South Hastings baseball league finals played at Latta last night to even the set at one game each.

In the opener Saturday, Read came down behind 5-0 to win 7-3. Last night, Latta spotted Read the pair of early runs and became roaring back to take another 7-2 decision.

The pair-of-seven set resumed on Wednesday night at Read while the fourth game is scheduled for Latta on Friday evening. Last night's game was halted at the end of five innings because of darkness and a drizzling rain.

Read scored single markers in the first and third frames with Latta getting one back in their half of the third. The homesters went in front 4-3 in the fourth and made it 7-3 with a trio in the fifth and final frame. A neat double play back in the fourth helped preserve the win.

Veteran lefthander Garfield Hall toed the rubber for the winners and set Read down with five hits. He blew three strikes by five while walking only one batter.

Hanley hurled for Read, giving up eight safeties. He whiffed a pair and issued five free passes.

Bob Sullivan with a double and single and Wayne Gowe with two singles sparked the Latta nine at the plate. Hazard, Ross Parks, Frank Ray and Doug Rollins also had base hits.

Hanley was best in a losing effort with a double and single. Walsh, Machen and G. Brennan had one-baggers.

Little Mo Wins First Match In U.S. Amateur

DARIEN, Conn. (CP) — Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Toronto didn't lose a ball in winning her first match as play got under way Monday in the United States women's amateur golf championships, but her opponent was so erratic she took 7 strokes on two holes.

The stocky little Canadian champion began a new challenge for the title she won in 1956 by outing Mrs. Margaret Waitzas of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., 7 and 6.

Another Canadian, Rosemary Neuhdorf of Toronto, also came up with a 7 and 6 win over her pint old lady of golf, Mrs. Edwin Vare Jr. of Philadelphia, who has won the U.S. amateur titles and played in it 25 times.

The second Canadian victories over among the most decisive of the 60 first - round matches played over the 6,467-yard Wee Burn Country Club course where women's par is 37-35—75.

SIX CANADIANS ADVANCE

In all, 16 Canadians saw action in the first day of play and six of them advanced.

Those advancing included Judy Darling, Hudson Heights, Que., Mrs. Lindsay Mussels, Montreal; Kay Richardson, Toronto, and Janet McWhat, St. Lambert, Que. Eliminated were Mrs. Judi Johnson, Long Branch, Ont., Elva Carrol Hamilton, Mrs. Robert Lyle, Montreal, and Shirley Woodley of Thornhill, Ont.

Despite her easy win, Marlene, who has been tabbed Little Ben by her admirers because of a fancied resemblance to Ben Hogan, didn't play particularly good golf.

She went out in 40 strokes, three over par, and closed out the match three holes later by winning the 10th and halving the next two.

In the second round today, Mrs. Streit will play Charlotte Decosse of Montclair, N.J.

Even Umpires Seemed Against Rochester Wings

MONTREAL (CP)—If Rochester Red Wings felt a bit downhearted Monday night when they stepped out for a baseball game against Montreal, you couldn't blame them—even the umpires seemed to be against them.

Base umpires Ken Morgan and Frank Guzzetta came out wearing Montreal Royals' caps and sweaters, although every ump has a regular suit. Their regular uniforms for the International League game was delayed in transit from Miami.

Rochester only rested on the field was plate ump Wally Vanderhoff, whose equipment was rustled up from a local referee.

Rory Calhoun Stops Mercer

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., unleashed a vicous body attack to score a fifth-round technical knockout over George Mercer of Little Rock, Ark., here Monday night in the New Yorker's first boxing match of a lightheavyweight.

Calhoun weighed 165½, Mercer 172.

The scheduled 10-rounder was stopped at 1:36 of the sixth after Calhoun had dropped Mercer for the second time in the round and fourth time in the bout.

A crowd of 1,350 saw Calhoun's light-heavyweight debut. He decided to do his best after a delay because of difficulties in making the 160-pound middleweight limit.

Gaiety and Suspense in "The Haunted Strangler", starring Boris Karloff

The element of contrast between gaiety and horror is used to big advantage in adding to the shock effect of "The Haunted Strangler", new MGM release, with Boris Karloff playing one of his most sinister and ruthless - chilling roles.

Karloff, cast as the notorious "Haunted Strangler", uses the gay and lilting setting of a London Music Hall of the gaslight era for one of his most fiendish crimes, in which he strangles and stabs to death a beautiful dancer.

Before the crime occurs, audiences are enabled to see one of the acts in which gayly clad chorines perform a "Can-Can" number with typical prancing and high kicks, and another number in which Jean Kent, as star of the show, sings a lilting Victorian song.

It is after this number that Karloff, as the merciless monster, creeps into the dressing room of Vera Day, the dancer, and murders her, then makes his escape through the packed audience.

"The Haunted Strangler" marks Karloff's first screen "horror picture" in more than two years. Produced in the realistic spine-tingling entertainment style of a double-bill, with the presentation on the same program of an unusual fast - packed action feature picture, starring Marshall Thompson. Complete performances daily start at 2.00, 7.00 and 8.30 p.m.

Stabbed, Robbed By Hitchhiker

BRANTFORD (CP)—Hayward Nicholas, 25, of Corner Brook, Nfld., reported to police he was stabbed and robbed of $90 by a hitchhiker near Mount Elgin.

Nicholas told police he had driven here by way of Northern Ontario in his car and had picked up the hitchhiker at Thessalon. Ten miles east of here he stopped to sleep and was aroused by the bandit, who grabbed his wallet, stabbed him in the arm and disappeared on foot.

The victim was treated at hospital and later released.

Police found no trace of the bandit, but said he is one of many wandering tobacco workers in the area.

First Loss at Home

WELLAND (CP) — Welland-Crowland Switsons were upset at home Monday night for the first time this year as they lost the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior A best-of-seven semi-final opener 10-8 to Long Branch Monarchs.

Larry Ruse sparked the Monarchs, scoring six times and setting up another pair.

Penalties played their part in the result. Switsons picked up 14 while Monarchs had but 6 to pay.

Nick O'Hearn, one of Switson's top scorers, was sent here for three goals and Ron Roy had two. Second game in the series is Wednesday at Long Branch.

Screen Cowpokes of Today Better Than the Oldtimers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Have you a nostalgic notion that the film cowboys of yesteryear could outdraw, outride and outfight the current crop?

Forget it, says Cliff Ketchum, who has seen them come and go. He says the oldtimers wouldn't stand a chance against today's screen cowpokes.

Cliff is no grizzled veteran of Dodge Gulch. He's a plainspoken, fortyish fellow who has lived around horses all his life in various parts of the West. Since 1939, he has operated a saddlery in the San Fernando valley, and all of the western stars have been his customers.

Lately, he has been seeing what their life it like. He made his acting debut in "The Young Land and is working now in Fork Your Guns. His horses are steady workers in the film rolls at $100 a week.

Ketchum had him to compare the horse opera stars, past and present.

"No comparison," he said. "With the possible exception of Gene Autry, I don't think any of the oldtimers could hold their own in any kind of contest with these new boys.

"The difference is that most of the old cowboys were actors who happened to choose western roles. The present story lines have often been chosen because they were superior athletes or horsemen.

"The oldtimers cheated a great deal. I remember when I was a kid in Flagstaff, Ariz., Tom Mix was down there shooting some pictures. He had seven different doubles—one for riding, one for driving, one for falling off a horse, and so forth. Today, a lot of the stars insist on doing their own stunts."

There's no doubt. Cliff said, that the newcomers could outdraw the oldsters.

"These boys work hard at perfecting their draw," he explained. "They draw in Hollywood? Well, it would be pretty hard to beat Hugh O'Brian. He has dedicated his life to being Wyatt Earp."

Hence, build up the position here and ignore the few bad points, and you will have a wonderful friend and a great success in this progeny. Excellent chart for big business, banking.

Jobless Number Up 75 Per Cent From Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian employment continued to rise between June and July, but the number of jobless and seeking work on July 19 was 75 per cent higher than a year ago.

The number of persons with jobs a month ago was 5,984,000, about 140,000 more than a month earlier, but still 15,000 less than in July, 1957.

The number of jobless and seeking work was 286,000, down from 320,000 in June, but higher than the total of 163,000 a year ago.

The bureau of statistics reported Monday that in addition to the unemployed there were 19,000 on temporary layoff. The jobless represented 4.6 per cent of the labor force—8,200,000 a month ago—compared with 2.7 per cent in July, 1957.

In a joint release, National Employment Service figures showed that most of the increase in the employment figure was due to higher employment in agriculture, which rose to 853,000 from 740,000.

Non - farm jobs advanced slightly to 5,081,000 from 5,054,000, to bring the total up to 5,934,000 in July, compared with 5,794,000 in June.

The number without jobs and seeking work dropped to 286,000 from 320,000, but the figure was higher than the 163,000 in July, 1957.

NES said that last July 17 there were 413,362 registered for work, down from 536,948 a year earlier. However, this figure includes Canadians who are working but are registered for new jobs. The proportion never has been calculated officially.

The statistics bureau's unemployment figures, based on a sample of 30,000 households, showed declines in all but a few centres in Ontario and British Columbia.

There were 4,948,000 working 35 hours or more, 486,000 the working less than 35 hours a week, 498,000 who did not work during the sample week and 286,000 without a job and seeking work.

The bureau of statistics said there was little evidence of renewed expansion in manufacturing. Layoffs and extended holidays were prevalent in automobile plants and in some of the iron and steel industries.

TAXES FALL SHORT

Special taxes charged to pay for old-age pensions are falling far short of meeting payments. Accordingly, the government has been making up the deficits from general funds.

The special taxes for the fund are two per cent on personal taxable income up to a maximum of $60; a two-per-cent tax on corporation income; and two-per-cent on the sales tax.

By the end of the current fiscal year next March 31 it is estimated that total deficits since the fund started in 1953 will be more than $600,000,000.

This graph shows on a yearly basis the totals of pension payments; the amount by which the special taxes have fallen short, and the cumulative deficit. (CP Newsmap.)

Social Security Taxes Are Huge Money Transfers Among the Population

This article, one of a series, shows the growth of government-administered social security figures in Canada.

Monday: Sales taxes.

By FORBES REUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Taxes to pay for social security distort comparisons of today's taxes with those of the past.

Taxes for such purposes are not taxes in the traditional sense —though they don't seem different when you pay them.

They are really huge transfers of money among the population, handled by the government.

Some of the transfers are accomplished through general taxes and some through special levies.

TYPICAL FUNDS

You and your employer pay into an unemployment insurance fund and the government adds another share from its general taxes. This money is transferred to people out of work.

Individuals, corporations and the government—again from the taxes it collects—pay into an old-age security fund. This money is transferred to people 70 and over. If you live, money will some day be transferred from this fund to you.

Other transfers of money are made to people with children in the form of family allowances. They are paid from general taxes.

Similar transfers from general taxes will take place under the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act, now going into effect in most provinces under federal - provincial arrangements.

Many other transfers take place—to the blind, the disabled and people without means who have not yet qualified for the old age pension.

TO MEET NEED

Essentially the transfers are from those not now in need to those who have need.

In the fiscal year ended last March 31, contributions to the old age security fund were as follows: Two-per-cent sales tax $175,800,000; two-per-cent personal income tax $135,000,000; two-per-cent corporation income tax $60,700,000. Total $371,500,000.

Pension payments were $476,000,000, leaving a deficit of $102,500,000 for the government to make up. In the current year the deficit is expected to be $150,000,000.

The fund started in 1952, will have an estimated accumulated deficit of $608,200,000 by the end of the fiscal year.

FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

In the year ending last March Employers and employees—contributing equally—put up $189,200,000 for the unemployment insurance fund. The government contributed $37,800,000; and past accumulations in the fund earned $32,800,000. Total $250,800,000.

Benefit payments totalled $205,100,000. Accordingly the fund —which had been accumulating money since it started in 1942— was reduced by $134,300,000 to a balance of $764,300,000. This year's benefits will reduce it further.

Family allowance payments in the last fiscal year are estimated at $477,900,000, or about nine per cent of all budgetary expenditures.

Costs to the federal government of the Hospital Insurance Act are estimated at $70,000,000 in the current year and will increase sharply.

These transfer payments are a modern addition to government activity, and thus are an addition to government collections and expenditures. Accordingly, they distort any comparison of what it costs to run government with what it cost in the days when government took virtually no part in such things.

OPPOSING THEORIES

Differing opinions are held on the matter.

The rugged individualist may say that unemployment, raising of children, support for one's old age and hospital care are responsibilities of the individual.

Today's social and political thinking has decided, however, that certain minimum unifor provisions should be made by law through the government, and this means through the tax structure or some similar levy.

The thinking behind the decision probably is that a prosperous people should be able to afford such provisions.

Some feel, however, that there is an element of "let the government do it" in the thinking and some lack of realization that the government can do it only if people put up the money.

TRANSFER OF WEALTH

In general, the principle of public participation in these matters seems to be accepted. Argument centres around the amount of participation.

The transfers are mostly transfers of wealth from the producing part of the population to the non-producing part—except for family allowances.

Actually, the real cost of social measures is difficult to determine.

They are sometimes called built-in supports of the economy in the sense that they maintain purchasing power by a part of the population which otherwise would be without it.

Some foresee extensions of present social measures and entry into new fields. Others think our present list may give us future trouble.

Social security expenditures are only part of transfer items. Others, together with expenditures on them in the fiscal year ending last March 31, include:

Subsidies to provinces $20,600,000; compensation to provinces under tax - rental agreements $353,000,000; grants to municipalities in lieu of taxes on federal properties $17,300,000; interest on public debt $530,000,000; contributions to superannuation account of government employees $78,100,000; war veterans' pensions $15,500,000; grants to universities $18,600,000.

Canada Contends Mere Majority Decision Useless

UN Unanimity Essential To Mid-East Settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The debate in the United Nations emergency assembly session on the Middle East is a week old today, and the results of a week's intensive effort for a solution of that troubled area's problems seem less defined than ever.

The emergency session opened formally Aug. 8 but was adjourned at its request last Wednesday to allow time for foreign ministers to come to the UN and prepare their positions. But the opening day Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold urged the delegates to look at the problem from the long-range point of view.

Since then, the long-range plans for a Middle East settlement under UN auspices have won a large measure of support among the 81 assembly members. But the key issue of withdrawal of British and American troops from Jordan and Lebanon not only has stalled the discussion but complicated it as well.

SPLIT VOTE POSSIBLE

The assembly, in the closing days of an open-forum discussion which is expected to end Friday, is facing the possibility of a split vote should opposing resolutions now before it be pressed to the finishing stage. Such a split, in the view expressed Tuesday by Canada's External Affairs Minister Smith, would leave any assembly decision virtually meaningless.

The Canadian minister, speaking in the assembly, said the middle-power compromise Canada joined with other countries of smaller nations in putting before the assembly, said this "is a moment in the history of the United Nations where a conventional majority is not enough."

He was referring to varying forecasts on how much support the middle-power resolution might achieve through its lack of reference to a troop withdrawal by Britain and the United States and its wide-open terms for the build-up of the UN in the area.

RUSSIA BACKING ARABS

Russia has backed the predominantly Arab demand that troops must be withdrawn as a first step and has announced it has much neutralist support on this contention. The Canada-Norway-Scandinavian proposal, apparently were based on the hope that the withdrawal of the foreign troops would allow a compromise to come out of the emergency session.

Smith said Canada is not to the vote in the General Assembly if its proposals can get only a two-thirds majority of the 81 members who vote yes or no. Abstentions from the neutral-minded members could make unattainable such a shift in votes where passage could be achieved.

But the Canadian viewpoint is that such a solution is not a academic one in any case—that there is no hope of a successful end to this emergency session without a spirit of unanimity.

Canada, after postponing for several days her intervention in the assembly debate, stated the position when Smith addressed the assembly for 40 minutes.

His other major points included:

A compromise solution here could result in the future settlement of the Middle East aggression agreements in the whole Middle East to "guarantee the sovereignty and integrity of each and all of the states of the area."

Canada and the middle powers recognized the aspirations of the Arab states in their desire for nationalism, but also sympathized with the position of the U.S. and Britain in throwing their troops into Jordan and Lebanon at the time of civil war and the Iraqi revolution of last month.

AGREE ON WAYS TO DETECT ANY NUCLEAR TESTS

Expect New Demands By Russians for Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Soviet demands for an immediate ban on nuclear tests appeared likely today as a swift follow-up to tentative East-West agreement on a technical system to detect cheating.

The Soviet-Western agreement Tuesday on means of setting up a global monitoring network came in seven weeks of secret talks now drawing to an end in Geneva.

There was no effort by the 18 scientists from the United and four Communist powers to reach political decisions on whether there should be an agreement to halt nuclear testing.

However, American officials said Russia can be expected to point to the Geneva agreement as committing the United States to end-tests — an interpretation rejected in advance by President Eisenhower.

NOT BOUND IN ADVANCE

The American position, as set forth in the past by Eisenhower and State Secretary John Foster Dulles, is that any agreement by East-West scientists might lead to suspension of tests but that the United States refused to be bound in advance.

Pending a final report by scientists of both sides, U.S. state department officials refused to appraise the significance of the Geneva agreement, details of which were not disclosed.

Authorities here forecast additional months before dependable talks would be heeded to put into effect the agreement now being worked by the scientists.

Some officials said they understood the key point in the agreement was a decision to recommend that inspection and control stations be set up around the world. These would be on land and on ships at sea. They would be equipped with electronic and seismic devices for detecting any blasts.

NUMBER OF QUESTIONS

A number of questions remained to be solved include:

How much would finance any global network of monitoring stations?

Would the United Nations sponsor the network or would stations be operated by a special group of scientific experts drawn from individual nations?

How much intervention would inspectors have to make on-the-spot investigations?

Scientists also worked out the technical agreement at Geneva representatives of the United States, Britain, France and Canada on the Western side and Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Romania.

Vendetta Blamed As Immigrant Killed By Bomb

Device Wired to Ignition And Exploded by Starter

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP) — Antonio Dipasquali, 31-year - old Italian immigrant, was killed early today when a dynamite bomb wired to the ignition of a car exploded at the touch of the starter in what is believed to be a vendetta slaying.

The car was parked on the Brunner Mond factory parking lot where Dipasquali worked.

Dipasquali was killed when he went to his car, turned the ignition key and pressed the starter button.

When the smoke settled the 1956 car was a mangled mass of wreckage. The victim's body was mutilated beyond recognition.

Pieces of the car were blown in several directions. One door was found 300 feet from the explosion and the wreckage littered a wide area.

The bomb made a sputtering noise like rain," said Paul Meloche, a truck driver at the factory who was at the main gates at the time. "It rushed over and found his pile of wreckage with the body.

HE SMELLED DYNAMITE

"I didn't know what it could be at first. Then I smelled dynamite. I know it from the days I used to drive the stuff about for the company. It has an awful, sour smell. And it was here, coming from the pile of debris that was his car. You couldn't mistake it."

Anderson Police Chief Eric Hooper said he believed the explosion contained some of the clotch housing.

The person who did this is an expert," said the chief, "and we have called in the Ontario laboratory men to work on the investigation."

SHATTERING ROAR

"There was a shattering roar," said Bill Wilson, 30, who was working in a nearby factory. "I was hit in the arm and thrown over by the blast. I didn't know what happened. I ran away as fast as I could."

Police made no motive for the slaying.

The victim leaves a wife, Palma, and five children. They came from Pescara, Italy, seven years ago.

Police said they found a shirt tested 28 rifle under the front seat of the car.

A factory watchman said: "He usually left his home, but this night, fortunately, he was by himself."

Relatives and close friends of Dipasquali appeared at the scene of the explosion but would not say they knew who was responsible for the bombing but would say nothing definite.

The silence of the slain man's family did not help the police in the investigation. They knew who had caused the death but they did not believe it was a vendetta slaying involving a family feud.

CLIMB MOUNTAIN

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — A Japanese mountain-climbing expedition sent word today that it has scaled 25,200-foot-high Gasherbrum Peak in the Karakorum range. The heretofore - unconquered peak in the Northern Kashmir section of Kashmir is near the borders of Russia, Afghanistan and the northwest province of Red China. It is also known as Hidden Peak.

Little 4-Year-Old Said 'Shoo' to Ball and He Ran

LONDON (AP)—David and Goliath met again in battle Tuesday.

Goliath is a 1,200-pound bullock which charged through two barbed wire fences and terrified 12 children.

David is 43-pound David Butler, a tough little four-year-old.

They met in a playing field at Sifield Green in the county of Surrey.

David was playing on the swings when the big, black bullock charged snorting into the field. All but David ran screaming from his path.

"I got a stick and hit the bull and said 'shoo,'" said David.

The bull just stood still when I hit him. So I hit him again. Then it jumped for me. So I hit him again."

That was enough for Goliath — the bullock. He turned and fled.

Suburbs Fail To Delay Board's Subway Hearing

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario municipal board Tuesday denied a request to delay for two months hearing of Metropolitan Toronto's application to spend $200,000,000 for an east-west subway through the centre of the city.

Six suburban representatives tried to have the application adjourned as the suburbs could prepare their case against the subway.

S. J. Bolsby, counsel for Long Branch, asked that the board's decision be delayed in a forced order so that the suburbs may appeal the decision in the Supreme Court.

Of the 13 suburbs, the six protesting are Mimico, Long Branch, New Toronto, York Township, Scarborough and Etobicoke.

Mr. Bolsby said subway costs would double as old costs on the $46,000,000 Fred G. Gardiner Expressway, a six-lane highway being built to carry traffic along the lakeshore, ultimately Toronto.

The suburbs argued that public works projects such as the building of sewers and mains would be delayed for years.

Homes Isolated Due to Floods

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Hundreds of homes were isolated today and highways submerged as the flood-swollen Murray River continued to rise on the border between Victoria and New South Wales states.

Water flooding in from other rivers swept away crops and livestock.

Most rivers were falling slowly in the north of Victoria but torrents are on the lower reaches of the swollen rivers were still working to throw up protective earth barriers around their homes and farm buildings.

Independent Board Of Governors Set Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons members have the rest of this week to mull over the government's new Broadcasting Act before launching into a full-dress debate on it.

The legislation establishing an independent board of broadcast governors to regulate broadcasting was introduced Tuesday after a brief debate at the preliminary resolution stage.

The bill was given first reading only. Works Minister Green, government House leader, later indicated the bill will not come up again until next week.

Police Question Suspect 4 Hours About Slayings

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A 20-year-old man was questioned for four hours Tuesday in connection with the murder last April of two Toronto youths found in ditches.

Flying Horse-Catcher From Nevada Finds Calgary Nags Too Wily

CALGARY (CP) — Chester (Curly) Hollingsworth, horse-catcher, circled and swooped low over the Bow River forest in his plane Tuesday in search of horses today. Then he admitted defeat.

Utter, an expert at rounding up wild horses by aircraft, has some 40,000 nags to his credit. In the forested foothills northwest of here he had herds of up to 125 horses running before his low-flying plane. But each time the horses got to within 1½ miles of the coral, they would veer off into the trees where Utter would lose them.

He estimated that in about 10 years there would be about 30,000 wild horses in the area unless steps are taken to reduce the herds.

"These horses are so smart I'm beginning to think they're a cross between horse and coyote," Utter said. "As soon as we got them into an open space, they ran as fast as they could for the trees.

"It has never happened before but as things stand now the horses have won. I'm finished."

Academic Freedom for Geneticists In Russia Fast Disappearing

MONTREAL (CP) — The 10th International Congress of Genetics opened today amid a flurry of speculation that academic freedom practiced by scientists in the Soviet Union may be disappearing.

Speculation by Western scientists was sparked by the unexplainable cancellation of a number of papers to appear on the program by the congress by Russian experts in the fields of plant and animal genetics.

Dr. E. W. Caspari of the United States, chairman of the program committee, said all the papers cancelled seemed to have one thing in common — they were the theories of Prof. T. D. Lysenko, a favorite of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

His findings appeared to support the Communist view that man's character and actions are determined by his environment rather than by heredity.

Western scientists, who generally discredited Lysenko's theory, claimed there was little evidence to support them. The Soviet government backed Lysenko's views and it is believed some other Russian scientists have suffered for daring to oppose him.

In the inaugural session today, 1,400 delegates from 57 countries were to be welcomed by federal, provincial and municipal governments of Canada.

The main address during this session was to be delivered by Dr. Sewell Wright of the University of Wisconsin, president of the congress. He was to discuss his place of genetics in science.

Genetics is concerned chiefly with the study of the mechanism of biology which has economic great significance to agriculture and medicine.

The by-election was called by Premier Leslie Frost following the resignation of Roscoe Robinson, P.C. riding representative at Queen's Park for 13 years, who quit the position to become Hastings County Sheriff. Life of Vicious Gangster Unfolded Before Kiwanis Club

A blood-curdling tale of the apprehension of one of Rochester's most vicious criminals was unfolded to members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club Tuesday by Munroe County Judge Clarence J. "Cass" Henry.

The real life Alfred Hitchcock-type thriller kept local Kiwanians on the edge of their seats as Judge Henry weaved a fantastic tale of brutal assaults, murder, extortion, phony alibis, and a complicated and confusing trial.

The main character in this chilling murder mystery story is a Mr. X, alias Chip the Wolf, a cold-blooded, vicious gangster, now serving a 65 years-to-life sentence in a New York State prison.

Although indicted on a first degree murder count for the throat-slashing murder of a little girl, Chip was convicted as the sweeper at the restaurant, where Curley was murdered.

Together with an accomplice, known as Fats —, he picked up the unsuspecting victim one night on a ruse and subdued easily enough, tied him up, buried him at the city dump, but the body was later dug up by a dog, whose owner took it in- ing it for a walk one night.

Curley was not apprehended but wouldn't talk, since the police had no evidence against Chip except a quandary. An "enlighted" judge saved the day, however, by sentencing Chip to six months on a vagrancy charge, although Chip had $800 on him when arrested.

An intensive search by police finally got a line on the suspected Curley and also a shrewd old underworld character who knew the whole story and even had a hand in part of it. He later broke down and told the whole story.

It took the combined efforts of the FBI, the Detroit sheriff's department and N.Y. state police, to finally locate Chip, alias Fats —, in Detroit. After 18 hours of questioning, he finally confessed.

LENGTHY TRIAL

A lengthy and complicated trial followed, which came to a dramatic and surprising end, when District Attorney Henry produced an unexpected witness, who was involved in a false alibi for Chip, but later discarded in favor of another one.

The jury, after an all-night deliberation, brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree. The judge, shocked at this miscarriage of justice, pronounced the maximum sentence, Judge Henry said.

"We all learned it wasn't such a miscarriage of justice after all," he said. Chip drew several appeals, and when I asked his lawyer about it, he said Chip was a pretty girl the electric chair than sit in prison for the rest of his life."

Judge Henry, making his fifth visit to Belleville Kiwanis Club was introduced by Everett Fairman. He was thanked by Ralph Graham for coming down from Presqu'ile where he is vacationing, to speak to the club.

The speaker was presented with a token of the club's appreciation by acting president, J. C. R. Punchard, who presided in the absence of president Charles Lusk.

County Council Members Expect Short Session

In what is expected to be a brief assembly with no important matters slated for discussion, Hastings county councillors convened this morning for their regular mid-summer session.

Warden Lloyd Price in welcoming members to the session noted there was but a small agenda and that there was a possibility the session might be concluded by Thursday evening.

He noted that the comparatively dry and sunny summer weather had meant a good year for tourist operators in the north, but crops in the southern part of the county were possibly a bit below normal.

Harvesting of grain was proceeding well.

Warden Price had a special welcome for Reeve Harry Alford of Deseronto, who is town- ship's representative at county council this session.

Deputy Reeve Percy Pound of Thurlow township reported all arrangements had been completed regarding choice of site for the 1961 International Plowing Match which is to be held in Thurlow on the farm property of Sidney and Thurlow town- ship councils committee for the first six months of the year.

Cost of Children's Aid Society maintenance for the first half of the year amounted to $44,- 950.46, including the salary of the preventive worker. Estimated expenditure for the full year is $90,000.

As of June 30 there were 135 children in the care of the CAS, 112 of these being in the local society and the balance in other societies throughout the province.

County council took no action on a request from the Ontario Civil Service Association seeking that association fees of county jail employees be deducted by the county treasurer.

At the close of the morning session Reeve W. Elliott of Stirling as chairman of the county publicity committee gave a brief report of the trip which county councillors took to Ottawa during the latter part of July.

18 Cattle Die of Arsenic; Warn Swimming in Moira Below Deloro Dangerous

Death of at least 18 cattle in the Marmora district and the result of arsenic poisoning has come to the attention of the Ontario Water Resources Commission and of the Department of Health in the Marmora and Madoc area, it was learned today.

The cattle, most of them milch cows, were owned by six or more farmers living in an area bordering the Moira River below the Deloro Refining and Smelting Plant at Deloro.

Tests of a sample of the river water taken July 30th, and of internal organs of the dead animals, have revealed that arsenic was present in both, it is stated.

The Department of Health at Madoc will have the Moira below Deloro posted with warning of danger to swimmers, while the Water Resources Commission is interested because of the danger to fish and wild insect life.

The Water Resources Commission is reported to have stepped in and stopped plant refuse being dumped into the river at Deloro. Plant refuse contains arsenic in some stages of its processing.

Dr. D. S. Moore, veterinary surgeon of Madoc, said today that it would be at least 18 months which had died with the symptoms of arsenic poisoning and had taken samples of the river when it got into the river.

Dr. George L. Hollis of Madoc, acting medical officer of health, said the arsenic in the river south of Deloro would be a "definite hazard" for anyone swimming in the area and signs warning of the danger would be posted immediately.

He said that persons living along this stretch of the river had already been warned verbally.

He said that tests of the river water sample taken July 30th had shown a very high arsenic content.

He did not think, however, that the danger would be present at Moira Lake, owing to dilution, but said this would depend on the rate at which the arsenic was

Must Comply With Court Order On Integration Says President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today Americans have a solemn obligation to comply with court orders in the school integration controversy.

In a prepared statement at a press conference, the president said every state has a responsibility to support and obey such orders.

Answering questions, Eisenhower refused to say whether he personally favored integration.

He said any expression on that issue would be wrong and unwise while his job of enforcing the law more difficult.

Eisenhower specifically saying so, Eisenhower indicated that under similar circumstances he would take the same course he followed in sending troops to Little Rock last September.

VIEW UNCHANGED

"There can be no equivocation," Eisenhower said, "as to the responsibility of the federal government in such an event. My feelings are exactly as they were a year ago."

Eisenhower recalled he had said at that time:

"The very basis of our individual rights and freedoms rests upon the certainty that the president and the executive branch of government will support and ensure the carrying out of the decisions of the federal courts."

Plans to Turn Children Over To Aid Society

OTTAWA (CP) — Alexander Creie says he will turn his seven children over to the Children's Aid Society today after a fire in his home Tuesday night.

Although the fire caused only slight damage it was "almost too much to bear."

Creie, 41, unable to work because of illness, left hospital himself last Thursday.

Electricity in his home was cut off two weeks ago when he was unable to pay his bill. The family was down to its last candle and had just eaten its last food before the fire broke out.

The children range in age from 19 months to 15 years.

CBC would continue to be responsible to Parliament.

While the new Broadcasting Act would repeal the present one, it would not repeal the Radio Act which governs the licensing of broadcasting stations by the government.

The new board would be empowered to "grant permission to any person" to operate a network. Private networks operated now on a regional basis. The CBC operates five networks.

The five-year capital financing program for the CBC would be proposed to Parliament one year after the new act comes into force by cabinet proclamation.

RETAIN PENALTY

The present provision of a suspension of up to three months, subject to appeal in the Exchequer Court of Canada—of a broadcaster's licence for violation of broadcasting regulations is retained.

The CBC management and the Canadian Association of Broadcasters declined immediate comment on the bill.

The government gave no indication whether it plans to alter the present financing of the CBC.

The CBC now gets most of its revenue from parliamentary grants and from the government's excise tax on radio and television sets and parts. The rest, about a third of its revenue, comes from commercial and other sources.

NO RADIO CONNECTIONS

Members of the new board and the board of broadcast governors will be tougher than the CBC board of governors in regulating broadcasting.

Mr. Fisher, member for Port Arthur, hoped the new board "will really fulfil the regulatory role that the CBC failed to fill."

He referred to the fact that the report of the Fowler royal commission on broadcasting said there was no evidence that the CBC ever suspended a private broadcaster's licence for failure to live up to the board's regulations.

Special Session May Be Called To Study By-Law

TRENTON — "I feel the Council is losing effect of what zoning means to Trenton," Councillor Vagn Lange told the councillors at the last meeting of the town council, "and I would suggest that we meet in special session with the planning board in the near future and get it all straightened out."

Councillor Lange made the statement following a lengthy debate in council concerning one of the sections in the zoning by-law.

"Without a plan," continued Mr. Lange, "Trenton will be far more of than any of us in ten or 20 years."

Councillor Jim MacDonald, chairman of the Planning Board, said he would also like to see the council meet especially to go over the entire set-up. He said it was a very important factor in planning for people, also not persons, be considered when any decision was made affecting concerning zoning." He said a sample was set forth at the last meeting of the planning board when they gave permission to the P. and D. Inn Company to put in larger tanks in expanding their business.

He said when the council made their decision they thought and spoke only of the firm. They did not consider the rights of the residents of the area.

He urged the councillors to study the zoning by-law and come prepared to discuss it and to bring up anything that was not quite right. He said zoning is certainly nothing new and as far as he knew Trenton is one of the very few places without it.

"So that there will not be any further misunderstanding concerning zoning by-law," Mr. MacDonald said in presenting a written copy of it.

Town-Owned Lot Set Aside for Police Station

TRENTON — Council approved setting aside a town-owned lot of land on the corner of Bevel and Division Streets for the purpose of building a new police station sometime within the next few years.

The question of the police station was first brought up during the report of Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the Property and Persons and Property Committee at the last meeting of the town council on Monday night.

Mr. Worrall recalled that at a special committee meeting the town fathers had agreed to spend up to $75,000 for the building of a new police station but had been unable to reach an agreement as to the site. He said his committee has continued to look for one and has decided this area would be the best location. He said he took the finding to the Planning Board and they have agreed this would be an ideal place for it, and that it would lower the actual cost of building the station, because there would be no expenditure for the land.

Mr. Worrall said he has also taken the matter of the site up with the town solicitor, because it is at present considered a park. Grown as mosquito park's and the solicitor has told him it his opinion it could be used as a site for a police station.

Councillor Worrall asked the council if they have any objections to this site and if they have some other area in mind. He said he felt there was no need of his committee going any further in plans for this area if the council did not approve it. And if they did give their approval then he and his committee could get other temporary plans drawn up.

Mayor Ross Burtt said he did not have any objections to a new police station but felt there should be some considerations given to the amount of money the town is planning to spend and has spent this year as well as to a playground in that part of the town for children to keep them off the streets. He said he would also like to know what the committee plans to do with the old police station.

Town Clerk W. V. Lerry told the council he has written several letters for instructions on whether a publicity would be necessary and it was indicated it would not be. He said the Municipal board could call a public hearing/and make a decision at that time.

Council Policy On Boat Houses Will Be Studied

TRENTON — The building of boat houses along the upper banks of the Trent River within the town limits, was brought up at the last council meeting when the application of Don Smith to build one at the end of Benitick Street was brought over to the public works committee for further study.

Mr. Smith had previously been given permission to build a boat house between the foot bridge and Jack Zigman's scrap yard. He told the councillors he was unable to do this because the area line is crossing the Trent River at this point and the land there is all torn up. He said he has applied to the board for permission to build further up the river, where the town also owns the property, people also would normally be the end of any decision that may be made concerning zoning." He said a sample was set forth at the last meeting of the planning board when they gave permission to the P. and D. Inn Company to put in larger tanks in expanding their business.

He said when the council made their decision they thought and spoke only of the firm. They did not consider the rights of the residents of the area.

He urged the councillors to study the zoning by-law and come prepared to discuss it and to bring up anything that was not quite right. He said zoning is certainly nothing new and as far as he knew Trenton is one of the very few places without it.

"So that there will not be any further misunderstanding concerning zoning by-law," Mr. MacDonald said in presenting a written copy of it.

Extend Deadline For Passing of Freezing By-Law

TRENTON — Project Planning Associates Limited were granted an extension of time to deadline for the "freezing" by-law on the zoning by-law for Trenton from September 30 to November 3 at Monday's meeting of the town council.

The consultants applied for the extension of time through a letter to the council signed by their P. C. W. Little. The letter, which explains why the extension is needed reads as follows:

"You will recall that when the Ontario Municipal Board dealt with the interim or "Freezing" By-law last January approval was given to September 30, 1958 with the understanding that in the interim the Board would prepare a Comprehensive By-law for the Board's approval.

"I understand that, to date, Council has not yet given three readings to this Comprehensive By-law. Before this By-law is passed by Council there may be additional changes which might tend to lengthen the time before it is finally passed by Council, and subsequent to this passing, an application will have to be made to the Board for a hearing of which a hearing might not be held prior to September 30.

"I think we all feel that Council should make every effort to have the Board deal with the earliest opportunity so that it can be implemented and become the instrument for directing the growth of the Town. However, in view of the above circumstances, I think it would be advisable for you to apply to the Ontario Municipal Board explaining the situation of the Comprehensive By-law and requesting an extension of their approval of the Interim By-law so that the Interim By-law will remain in effect when the Board hearing of the Comprehensive By-law does take place and, if granted therefore, no lapse in zoning control."

Champlain Hts. Petition Opposes Laying Gas Line

TRENTON — A petition signed by 83 residents o' the Champlain Heights sub-division asking the town not to put gas lines through that section or town was presented to the town council when it held its regular bi-monthly session in the board room of the Municipal Building on Monday night.

The letter accompanying the petition explained that the houses there were comparatively new and have all-new heating systems. The petitioners did not feel putting gas heating in, which would involve a large outmoney because of the cost of the installation, and that the home residents did not want to experience the inconvenience of having the streets torn up while the gas mains in.

The letter also explained there were 107 lots in the Champlain Heights and 105 of them were built on. Also, no one who was approached on the petition refused to sign it and signatures had been collected.

Mayor Ross Burtt said he felt the town had a responsibility where the gas line went, especially to be fair with the people and said it was not likely the firm would go to the expense of putting the line in if no one was going to use gas. He said he would be glad to have relations for the company if it didn't.

All councillors indicated they agreed that the gas company should not lay lines there but in if it knew there was going to be no revenue from it. But a question by Councillor Joe Gould "What happens if the residents want gas at a later date?" was unanswered.

Councillor Vagn Lange said the council should remember the gas line in the future and that it was sub-divisions that built the gas company should be ordered to enable it to lay pipe at the same time the sewers and water mains are being installed thus getting all the digging done at one time. This, he said, is being done in the Gould sub-division on the east side and is working out satisfactorily.

The matter will also be taken up with the town solicitor.

TO REMOVE RUINS

TRENTON — Gordon Little, who is handling the property for Mrs. Titus, has been definite call for tearing down the fire-ruined Titus Block on Dundas Street West, as well as the two buildings behind it and facing on the market square. He said the lot will be cleaned up and sold. This would leave the vacant lot on the west side of the burned-out building of modern design.

BLAMES WIRING

Alan C. Williams, an inspector with the fire marshal's office in Toronto, said the fire in the Titus Block was due to defective wiring following an inspection of the premises as well as an interview with the various occupants of the building. He also questioned firemen who first noticed the fire. Mr. Williams is replacing Inspector Frank Gardiner, who is reported to be retiring.

TWO DOGS DIE

Two dogs have been killed by motorists in the town's streets this month to bring the total dog casualties to 14 since the first of the year. On August 8, Joe Gould, Jr., reported to police he had hit a dog on Dundas near Griffith on Henry Street. He said he stopped to pick up the dog and rushed it to a veterinarian's office but that it was dead on arrival. On August 15 Constable George French investigated a report of a dog with a brown and black dog ran onto the street into the path of a taxicab driven by Mrs. Marion Rodgers of 34, 3rd Avenue. The accident occurred at the corner of Dundas Street East and Scott Street. The dog was killed instantly.

TAKE OVER DANCES

It has been announced that the Streamliners will be playing at the dances each Saturday night in the Community Centre held under the "Teen Town" banner. The popular band has a large following in Trenton and it was also reported they will be replaced by him by a small rock-n-roll band. The Teen Town dances are becoming very popular with the younger set in Trenton.

This was the fifth call the fire department has made to the same spot in the past three weeks. Fire Chief Clarence Orser said yesterday he felt that the fire was started by a small rock-n-roll band, which he said he knew to be responsible permanently is to cover the entire area with gravel. Mr. Orser added that he said his men can easily control the fire when it does flare up. In doing at present, but the thousands of gallons of water they have been using to put out the fire have failed to put the fire out underneath.

GETS ONE WEEK

Charlie Rupert of Havelock was sentenced one week in jail when he appeared in magistrate's court yesterday in charge of fraud. The court was told the accused refused to pay the manager of Wilson's Cafe Restaurant the sum of forty-five cents for a lunch. Evidence in court said the man had over $10 on him when he was arrested by Const. Greenburg, after receiving a complaint from the restaurant owner. The accused, who has been in custody for six days, was released after serving one more day. He plead guilty to the charge and was told the court was sorry to see him as a farm worker before he became unemployed.

PLEADS GUILTY

Ronald Williams, 18, Trenton, was given one year's suspended sentence and ordered to pay court costs of $17.50, when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in court here yesterday following an theft. Inspector Rutherford gave evidence for the crown and said the accused had told him he had only borrowed tools from his friend's truck and had forgotten to tell the owner about it. The inspector said the tools were valued at about $300. The accused said that when he heard the police had reported to the police as stolen he was frightened and failed to say anything about it at the time but had handed them over when approached by the inspector.

CASE DISMISSED

A charge of drunk driving against William Weatherell of Trenton was dismissed in Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon. R. E. Nourse of Picton appeared for the accused. G. Robertson acted for the crown. In dismissing the charge Magistrate Wills said that he had great deal of doubt that the man was drunk at the time of the accident. In presenting evidence for the defence Mr. Nourse called five witnesses including Mayor Ross Burtt as a witness. The accused's version was that Weatherell admitted having two pints of beer just prior to a mishap. The accident took place at 12.08 a.m. He told the court that he was driving westbound on the corner of Dundas and Dufferin he had seen a Volkswagen parked at the curb on the left but another car coming onto Dundas off Dufferin was coming a very wide turn. He said it was a question of either hitting the car parked on the left hand car. He said he chose to hit the one which was empty of people and parked car. He told the court that a thermos bottle and other items in the back of his car had been driven forward from the impact and struck him in the back of the head which accounted for the dazed condition he was in when he arrived at traffic. He said he had a bump on his head and a headache the next day from the blow.

NEARS GOAL

A special meeting of the Canadian Legion on Monday night termed "Air Force Night", resulted in the local Legion, Branch 110, signing up over 50 new members to bring total membership to the present total of 900 mark. The goal of the membership committee this year is to have a membership to 900 and it is indicated it will go well above the mark before the end of the year.

RED JET

Many Trentonians who have been curious over the T-33 jet iron flying over town which has been painted a bright red will be interested to learn the plane has been painted this color to make it more plainly seen during its performance in the air show at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. It is believed the jets from Trenton will be taking part will also be painted red.

Legionaires' Hopes Are High

TRENTON — The Trenton Legionaires are expected to give a very good account of themselves in the O.A.S.A. play-offs which will commence shortly.

The Legionaires, who played in the Belleville District Softball League, are expected to be strong contender for Ontario Junior "A" honours.

In the Belleville District League, they finished 4th in the 8-team group, despite the handicap of competing against much more experienced teams in a league classed as intermediate. They had experience aided will be most valuable in their quest for Junior honours.

The local Juniors, sponsored by Trenton Unit No. 110 of the Canadian Legion, were eliminated from league play this year in a spirited battle for 3rd spot edged by the Point Anne Cementmen, touted as one of the powerful Intermediate "A" teams in Ontario.

Coach Leroy Wannamaker and Manager Charlie Brooks are most optimistic over the Legionaires' chances in the Junior play-offs this year and Branch 110 Sports Officer W. H. "Bill" Milne expects to add another trophy to the Branch's trophy case.

DRIVING IN FOUR PROVINCES

Last weekend accidents took 49 lives across Canada. The majority died in traffic mishaps.

This was more Monday morning -- but only the figures were new. The same story is told every weekend.

Last weekend Quebec and Ontario each reported 14 fatalities. Since they are the nation's largest provinces, this was not surprising.

There was, however, a difference. In Quebec only eight died on the highways; in Ontario eleven.

More often than not, Ontario's traffic fatalities top the list. The main reason, of course, is that there are a lot more cars, travelling more miles, on Ontario roads than on the roads of any other province.

But 9,000 miles, on the highways of four provinces, have left a nagging doubt as to whether this is the sole explanation.

There is an erratic pattern to driving in Ontario which cannot be wholly explained by the density of the traffic.

Another reason for this, we suspect, is Ontario's 50-mile-an-hour speed limit -- and the reaction of drivers to it.

Most Ontario drivers break the limit. How much faster they drive depends largely on their temperament. If this were the only factor, conditions would not differ from those in Quebec, where on most highways there is no speed limit. But, besides Ontario drivers, there are on Ontario roads drivers from other provinces and from many states in the union. They do not know how to react to a speed limit which differs so greatly from conditions which many of them meet on their own roads at home. They speed up, then become timid and slow down. Ontario drivers, whenever they spot a police car, slacken pace also. Then, the "enemy" having disappeared over a hill, they accelerate, gradually and guiltily or furiously and foolishly, according to temperament.

Actually the area at which traffic flows does not vary greatly between Ontario, with its 50-mile-an-hour speed limit on most roads except a few divided highways, Quebec with no speed limit on most roads, and Nova Scotia with a 60 mile-an-hour limit. If travel seemed somewhat slower in New Brunswick, with 35 miles an hour on most roads and 60 on some mileage, it is possibly because the writer there encountered some of the worst roads, as well as the best road, of the trip.

Possibly Ontario's drivers, having become accustomed to a speed limit, are not mature enough for the responsibility of setting their themselves what is a safe and reasonable speed, having regard to the condition of the road, the amount of traffic, the condition of the vehicle being driven, the visibility, the alertness of the driver and other relevant factors. Possibly -- but not probably.

The writer's experience was that Nova Scotia's 60-mile-an-hour limit had a tendency to produce higher speeds than the no-limit rule in Quebec. There was a noticeable tendency for the majority of drivers to keep their speed at or near the limit. In Quebec, while a few cars were travelling very fast, just as a few cars were on Ontario roads, the pace varied with driving conditions, as it should, and in general was little, if any, faster than would have been encountered on a comparable highway in Ontario.

There is a distinct feeling of freedom under the "no speed limit" rule which left the driver free to concentrate on road and traffic without the necessity of keeping half an eye cocked on the speedometer and half the other eye wandering to the rear-view vision to see if any unidentifiable vehicles were in close pursuit.

The mature driver, we suspect, would react favorably to the responsibility of deciding for himself what was an appropriate speed, having regard to all conditions.

BIRTHDAY THOUGHTS

When it comes to growing older,
I suppose I'm to be wary;
As a risk for life insurance I've a higher rate to pay.

I know my years by number,
and the figure I behold
Is one that in my twenties I considered rather old.

But I whistle and I chuckle
like the boy I used to be,
And I'll tell the world this morning Time has made few deeds in me.

I'm as keen for watching baseball as I was in Ninety-two,
But couldn't swing a bat and hit ten to the wall as I used to do;
Let the life insurance fellows say my half is turning gray!
And each year I'm getting older,
I can't see it just that way.

For when I get to thinking of myself, somehow I find
I've always got the picture of a youngster in my mind.

I don't think of me as aging;
all the years have lightly flown,
And I've never stopped to count them or the burdens I have known.
I go smiling down life's highway, still the boy I used to be,
And what if night time finds me with a grandchild on my knee,
And what if people tell me that
I'm getting old and gray?
I am just as young as ever —
anyhow, I feel that way.

Africans Get Maple Syrup

...Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

Canadian goods are roaming the dark continent afield. Good old Canadian maple syrup, fishing tackle, wrist watches are appearing for the first time on the shelves of stores in the federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Trade between the two countries has grown rapidly, and Canada's exports climbed from about $1,500,000 in 1934 to $7,500,000 last year. A new reciprocal preferential tariff agreement has been signed recently and should push trade to a still higher figure this year.

Since the federation's sterling or soft currency area, has relaxed restrictions on dollar imports, a considerable variety of Canadian products are becoming in flow in the area—from in addition to wheat and newsprint, already in on the ground floor.

Today Canadian cars spin down the newly tarred highways of the copperbelt, mines use Canadian machinery and Canadian meat and Canadian smoked, canned and frozen fish.

A Canadian trade commission office has been opened in Salisbury, the federal capital-from-ted building with a view to encouraging better trade relations. Statistics show that since the opening of the new Salisbury airport, double the number of Canadian businessmen are stopping off in the federation in the course of journeys to and from South Africa.

Although the federation has no ocean port, there is a monthly steamship to Canada from Portuguese East Africa. Air freight takes only five days.

The federation's exports to Canada last year totalled $1,200,000. However, exports of chrome ore and asbestos are being increased each year. Considerable Canadian capital is invested in Rhodesian chrome and asbestos mines, and asbestos from Southern Rhodesia is used to complement the Canadian product, which is a different variety. Major products of the federation, copper and tobacco, less happily placed, are also produced in Canada and export has fallen off.

Looking into the future, Rhodesian exporters expect the opening of the Kariba power project will help improve trade between the two countries. They hope the scheme will enable Rhodesian base metals to be delivered more cheaply to Canada's inland smelters while Canadian wheat will be shipped directly from the Mediterranean to Laurenco Marques.

Also as another, and far-away friend of the seaway waits hopefully for the official opening of the big waterway.

Place Names Get Changed

...Sudbury Star

What's in a name? Those few words from Shakespeare (Romeo and Juliet, Act II, Scene 2, if we might let our erudition show through) have been paraded a good many thousand times. If the name of a thing is of a place, there's often quite a lot in it. Take Sudbury, as has been recounted countless times, derived its name from Sudbury, in Suffolk, Sudbury, in Suffolk, England, birthplace of Peter Pond of Jones' fame, Hutchinson, head of this particular CPR division as the rails pushed westward in the 1880's, Sudbury is the less happy position of possessing a name to which several men named Ramsay but known for many years as Lake Ramsay. Investigation by The Star's Pundit Joe and subsequent recommendation by the proper authorities restored the Ramsey spelling.

Not far from Sudbury, on the shore of Lake Wahnapitae, is a tiny hamlet known as Lowland Bay, named for a man named Boland. Farther away, on the shore of Lake Erie is the large city of Cleveland, named after Moses Cleaveland, surveyor, so it goes. Sometimes the wrong is righted; sometimes perpetuated.

Habit is a hard thing to break. Take Moncton, New Brunswick, for example. It was named for Lt. Gen. Robert Monckton, who fought with Wolfe. The town's city was spelled with a "k" until 1890, when a reform movement in it is becoming Moncton. Forty-four years later, a similar movement for federation of a sense of history, decided it should be Monckton — named for Wolfe. That in 1930, but who has ever seen it spelled anything but Monckton?

Habit apparently died easily enough in the '90s for the "k" but it must have become more ingrained as time went on, and the federation of the "k" proved futile.

'Giveaways' Dominate TV

...Montreal Gazette

Some television producers declare that the public imagination is kept that medium supplied with new material for hours of every day, week after week, month after month. At the same time, they point to human nature's never-ending love of getting something for nothing.

The result is that this year the American television industry is plunging even deeper into the business of the giveaway shows. A score of such shows are already in operation; the number may be doubled.

This is a frightening prospect. Not only does it mean that the word "entertainment" is almost forgotten. It means that compelling quiz shows are becoming more and more fantastic in the matter of prizes offered.

It is only a few short years since the biggest prize was a North American buywood. Now, the prize is $64,000, and still more and double that has been won on "Twenty-One."

Mere value has ceased to gain viewers. Fantasy has entered the field. Recent prize list included a day's traffic tickle at the Golden Gate Bridge, one night's box office receipts at the London production of "My Fair Lady" and all-expense trips to various corners of the earth.

Where will it all end? The peak in madness is reported to have been reached — it's hoped it's peak, anyway. The CBS network's "Hit 'n Run" stunt is offering as grand prize the island of Stroma off the north coast of Scotland. The island, of about 1,000 acres, includes a deserted village, a ruined church, school, lighthouse and harbor installations.

Only one other prize might top this one: one of these nights, the quizmasters might offer to give away the CBS network.

The residents of Stroma should get first vote.

"John D." or "John G."?

...Ottawa Journal

"Diefenbaker" being a difficult name to fit into a heading of limited type space, newspapers since the days of Sir John A. use "John D", as an abbreviation. The prime minister could take this as a compliment. No one is...under any doubt when reference is made to a statesman known as "John A." But "Dief" there is no such decision! The "D" in "John D", is an abbreviation of the family name. Mr. Diefenbaker's second Christian name is George and if the Macdonald example is to be followed the abbreviation should be "John G."

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Up at our cottage resort, many of us have built our own wood stoves, though electricity and propane have long since invaded our hobby drills.

To get the wood for our stoves is no longer a simple matter, since most of the local inhabitants are farmers who did much homely chores as wood chopping are now much more gainfully employed as skilled mechanics, fixing outboard motors, repairing radio and TV sets, minding gas pumps at strategic points along the shore line, and similar unhorny-handed jobs.

One of my neighbors was lucky enough to get two cords of spilt wood delivered by truck, when the contract called for the wood to be delivered by piling it in the point alongside his boathouse. The spilt...

splitter drew the line at being a piler.

So there, all summer long, has been a pyramidal heap of cord wood. And my neighbor has carried it up, armful by armful, the hundred yards to his cottage, as he required it. A good cord stuff is by no means easy to be carried up.

This neighbor is a strict teetotaller. He has for years resisted the trend in the community towards afternoon cocktail parties. Last week, he created a sensation. He invited all and sundry to a cocktail party. And each guest, ladies included, was required to carry up one armful of wood. The party took about two hours, and of those pairs, played its part in giving a thrill to youth. We learned about short-cuts, but also that...

Communists Lack Capital

New York Times

A good many Soviet citizens, we may reasonably suspect, were stunned when they read Khrushchev's latest major speech delivered at Kuibyshev. They could hardly have imagined beforehand the sensational change he announced while dedicating the world's largest hydroelectric station. That change, of course, is the new policy of cutting back on future construction of such stations, an announcement that implied it might even have been wiser if the Kuibyshev station itself had not been built.

Yet nobody should have been surprised, by recent Khrushchev utterances, by the United States with a request for long term credits to help finance the purchase of various chemical industry and other programs. And there have been other similar pleadings in the same direction. The Soviet Union does not have all the capital it needs to accomplish all of Mr. Khrushchev's ambitious plans. In that situation Soviet planners appear to have walked up again to the fact that they are really short of such as they can afford to tie up vast amounts of capital unproductively for years before collecting on the return.

The publication of the promised Seven Year Plan for 1959-65 is already a matter of a half over-due. Mr. Krushchev's latest surprise makes clear that the reason for that delay is the need to reconcile the problems posed by the near future with the more ambitious goals and limited present Soviet resources. And some Soviet citizens will wonder, no doubt, whether there is any relation between the size of this gap and any new economic aid commitments Khrushchev may have given Moscow two weeks ago.

PATHS

I wonder If it is true that the streets of Boston, Mass., were really once paths the cows made to the early days? If so the city is unique. I have walked those streets and got myself lost hundreds of times as I once lived there for a year. I feel sure that a genius who planned as I can't think of converted paths. Anyway I h story of the paths has set fashion apart as one of the most interesting and beautiful cities in all America. And well worth visiting.

As a boy I recall the many paths in my home town and how helpful they were in getting us to the swimming hole in the brighter time. Also there was the path to school, about which we didn't say much in those days, but as I look back on it it is significant... even of those paths, played its part in giving a thrill to youth. We learned about short-cuts, but also that they may defeat us in life if we make too many of them. Natural growth and natural processes are usually best.

I recall there were paths all about the farm where I worked as a boy, and it was a joy to travel them. Some people like short-cuts too often, when used by the same feet, have worn deep and tried and true path happily travelled time and again by those who love distinguished themselves by far the best in the end.

There is a path tradition at my island retreat where, for twenty-five years, I have walked many paths and paths made of the pine needles that have given fragrance to this island and to my soul No carpet maker ever made a carpet so soft and beautiful as with its mixture of green moss, wintergreen, and tiny red flowers that has been on the paths of this island of mine.

RECOVERY FROM BRAIN INJURY DIFFICULT TO PREDICT

On occasion I encounter a question that worries me a great deal, not because I can't answer it (I have no hesitation in admitting things I don't know) but because I'm not sure I can put the answer down in words that are exact enough.

The immediate question and there have been different questions requiring a similar answer, is from Mr. A. B., a man of 45, who had an operation for a hemorrhage of the brain. Fortunately for him it was near the surface of the brain, not in the interior areas where, perhaps, nothing could have been done.

He was left, however, with a partial paralysis on one side. He writes, "I am able to walk now with the aid of a brace and go to a rehabilitation center three times a week. How long will it take me to get back to normal, if ever?"

We can tell with some assurance how long a comatose state will last in an acute stage. We can gauge, with reasonable accuracy, how long you will be in the hospital for an operation, usually.

But where there is brain injury, we must wait to see how things go, — by brain injury, we may mean a stroke, a hemorrhage, a clot, a congenital leakage of an artery, a severe blow on the head, a tumor, or other things.

"Brain injury" can range from a "little stroke," with the patient hardly even knowing it has happened, to the other extreme which, of course, is sudden death before the patient has recovered consciousness at all. And anything in between.

The reason is where the answer becomes hard to state, without on the one hand making you give up hope when they shouldn't, or on the other hand being the cause of a Pollyanna and making a m e people think that recovery is going to be easy. It's important, you see; to keep working at such a condition as long as there is a chance.

In the case we're discussing today, I'm not willing to say that full recovery is impossible. Then again, in this as in any serious accident to the brain, recovery may never be complete.

WHAT IS BACK TO NORMAL?

However, need we say that a large number of us are getting back entirely to "normal"? I don't think so. After all, what's "normal"? Is it what we want to get back to? The way we were at 40? Or 30? Or 20? Or 10 . . . or 5? . . . or 2?

When our eyes grow old or turn sour, we don't hope to get them back to "normal". We are content to use glasses. If we crush a leg in an accident, we settle for getting the leg back to usefulness, even though we may limp.

So with the various brain injuries. If, as with Mr. A. B., we see some recovery, it is a sign that with effort and time (almost always many months) we can expect still further improvement. That's the way it is. It is the improvement shown that more is possible, although the speed is unpredictable.

New nerve patterns can be formed to replace the dead or damaged ones. If you set too m u c h store in complete recovery, y o u may court disappointment. But if you are content to work hard to make the best of what you have, to just keep plugging along, you

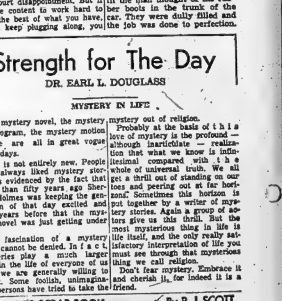
MYSTERY IN LIFE



The mystery novel, the mystery TV program, the mystery motion picture are all in great vogue these days.

This is not entirely new. People have always loved mystery in some degree, evidenced by the fact that more than fifty years ago Jules Verne was among the leading generation of that day excited and thrilled by stories in which the mystery novel was just getting under way.

The fascination of a mystery story cannot be denied. In fact, mysteries play a large part in the life of everyone of us than we are generally willing to admit. Curiosity, unimaginative persons have tried to take the mystery out of religion.

Probably the basis of this love of mystery is the profound thought implied in the revelation that what we know is infinitesimal compared with what we don't know. Sometimes this horizon is put together by a writer of mystery stories. But a group of actors give us this thrill. But the greatest mystery story of life is life itself, and the only really satisfactory interpretation of life you will ever get through that mysterious thing we call religion.

Life is a mystery. Embrace it and cherish it, for indeed it is a friend.

Middle East And Russia

Windsor Star

Too many who should know better seem to think Russian interest in the Middle East is something new. It isn't. It dates back well into the 19th century, and the Czars were just as imperialistic (and to date more successful) as the present masters of the Kremlin.

The Russians looked down into the Crimea and took over from the native Tatars. They got part of Persia back into line, including the port of Batum, from the Turks. They grabbed a large part of Armenia and of Azerbaijan. They annexed the ancient kingdom of Georgia. East of the Caspian Sea they ranged through Turkestan to the borders of Afghanistan.

At the time of the Bolshevik revolution in 1917 Armenia and Azerbaijan set themselves up as republics but were brutally subdued by the Communists. Georgia, which established the real bastion against Soviet aggression in the Caucasus, fought no fewer than 12 separate wars with Russia since 1639. Those are ancient history, as it need be.

The result of the Russian surge into the Middle East, under the Czars, there are 21,000,000 Armenians and Georgians, a number almost equivalent to the population of Canada. About as many as in Asiatic Arab countries combined.

Russia's Middle East ambitions didn't commence with Khrushchev, or with Stalin or Lenin. It started with Peter the Great. It is only that Communism has given them new zest and created new perils.

Rubber Boots Handy

Harrision Review

At the cemetery on South Street you could have up from Toronto to fix the family plot and water the flowers. It was when the pump was out of order and no water was available. Having a couple had no container to fetch the water from the river nearby until the man thought of his rubber boots in the trunk of the car. They were quickly filled and the job was done to perfection.

BILL DAVIS

Belleville Man, Bill Davis, Producer for 'Here's Duffy'

On a warm Saturday night a few months ago a slightly nervous comedian named Jack Duffy sat as they say, into your living rooms via his own television show.

Jack's show, "Here's Duffy," was an overnight success and soon certain summits it gotter every week. The 28-year-old entertainer was hailed as the entertainment find of the season.

But when he was asked what made his show so good, the repentsen stay pointed to a young man standing quietly in the corner reading a script. "There," said Duffy, "is the reason."

The quiet young man singled out by Duffy was Bill Davis, a lanky, talented TV veteran who hails from Belleville and is producer of "Here's Duffy."

Without Bill's guidance and know-how "Here's Duffy" might have become "Where's Duffy," Jack grinned. "He's the guy who gets us off the ground every week and keeps us flying. He's just the greatest."

Producer Davis' reaction to such praise?

"It's nice of Jack to say that. I appreciate it. But don't forget we have a pretty good star in "Here's Duffy"; the music by Ed Karam's outfit is great; Jill Foster is great; our sponsor (Salada-Shirriff-Horsey) is with us all the way and we all work like beavers. I think the last reason is the big one why the show is popular."

Bill, who has been a radio announcer at CJBQ in Belleville, Mr. Jockey, stagehand and aspiring actor, is good looking enough to appear in front of the cameras any time the script calls for a clean-cut hero type. But it's no dice. "I belong behind the cameras and that's where I'm going to stay," he declares.

Bill started in radio in 1951 and was quite happy. But when TV came to Canada he decided this was the medium for him. He got a job as a stagehand at the CBC and kept his eyes and ears open as important producers, directors, cameramen and actors went through their paces.

"There were no Canadian TV experts then," he said. "Most of us at the CBC were in the same boat . . and while it was a confusing craft it was a lot of fun."

Slowly but surely Bill climbed the CBC ladder from stagehand to assistant producer. He worked on the Jackie Rae Show, Club O'Connor, Showtime, the Dennis Vaughan Show as well as some dramatic shows like Ford Theatre.

But Bill's big dream was to be a variety producer on his own hook. As a former actor and a guy who led his own band and played three musical instruments he figured he knew what people wanted in the way of entertainment and was prepared to give it to them.

While he was attending a three-week CBC-sponsored TV instruction course one of his assignments was to take a budget and put together a variety show. Bill asked Jack Duffy, who was then making frequent appearances on other shows, if he wanted to star in it. Jack agreed and Bill stuck up his budget and produced a pilot film of the show that was later to make even the tough Toronto critics go into their superlative files for comment.

Producer Davis' comment on the future: "It's been a lot of hard work and a lot of fun. If we've made our viewers a little happier during the summer that makes us a lot happier."

500 People Locally Suffer From Arthritis

Arthritis known throughout the world as the greatest crippler, is one of the oldest diseases known to mankind. Arthritis and rheumatic diseases affect every citizen either directly or indirectly. It respects no age; infants as well as the aged are subject to various forms of rheumatic diseases. Though not fatal in itself the different forms of arthritis are among the chief causes of suffering and economic loss in the community.

Figures based on estimates prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the Department of National Health and Welfare indicate that in Belleville and district these diseases totally or severely disable over 500 people; that it is responsible for over $6,000 work days lost annually to workers and industry, and that $250,000 in wages alone is lost each year in the community.

These cold statistics do not tell the whole story — the mother unable to care for her children, the breadwinner unable to provide for his family, the child unable to run and play; nor do they show the cost of medical and hospital care, which must be borne by the patient, his family or the taxpayer.

The Quinte branch of The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society through its capable physiotherapist, Miss Hesse Williams, and the CARS mobile unit is playing an important part in the fight against the crippling effects of arthritis and rheumatic diseases. Working in co-operation with and under the direction of the attending physician, the mobile unit of CARS with its insignia the "Bluebird of Happiness" makes its rounds daily, bringing relief from pain and encouragement to the afflicted.

The mobile unit of CARS has equipment to give the patient short wave diathermy, various forms of heat such as wax baths, infra red and radiant heat treatments which are given to the patient right in the home. The physiotherapist teacher the patient to become as independent as possible and assists with self-aid, exercises and splints to prevent deformities.

The services are available to all; no one is refused treatment if payment causes any financial hardship.

The Quinte branch of The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is one of the agencies which will be particularly aiding in the Belleville United Appeal. It will be requiring support for the portion of its expenditures which will be made within the city.

Sea Cadets Corps Enjoys Week Of Camp Life at Massassaga

Last Sunday saw the closing of the camp at Massassaga for the members of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps of Picton and Belleville.

Activities throughout the week consisted of excellent sailing conditions, swimming, sports and cutter pulling.

While the cadets were at camp the Belleville Fair was on. As the Cadet Corps has had charge of parking each year, it was necessary that watches be set up to have cadets in attendance at the grounds at all times. In a letter from the officials of the fair board to the commanding officer, the boys were praised for the efficient manner in which they went about their job. For their efforts in this project each cadet received $2. and a day's liberty at the fair.

An average day's program at camp consisted of rising at 7 a.m., swim for 15 minutes, physical training followed by morning divisions in full dress, breakfast at 8 a.m., cleaning camp and then a free period until lunch. Following lunch, sailing and sports ashore.

BUILT SAILING CRAFT

One of the special projects of the camp was the building of a sailing craft from a pulling cutter and odds and ends from discarded boats. This project was completed entirely by the cadets without the assistance of any of the officers of the corps, and shows the capability of the boys' seamanship.

The entire camp was split into three watches which were maintained around the clock.

The site for the camp was kindly donated by Mrs. George Wallbridge and Mr. Manly Macdonald.

The camp was sponsored by the Navy Leagues of Picton and Belleville and assisted by the Women's Auxiliary of Belleville. Mrs. J. MacDonald, the wife of the commanding officer, did an excellent job of seeing that the meals for the boys were well prepared, even under the handicap of not having the usual facilities for such an undertaking.

On the return from camp the power craft, under the command of CPO W. Bennett, which was towing three sail boats and a small outboard motor boat, became disabled when the tow line became fouled up with the propeller. Seeing that it was impossible to go any further, CPO Bennett beached his craft and brought the boys in safely along the south shore of the Bay of Quinte and sent an SOS to the commanding officer who was already on his way to check on matter.

Tries to Prevent Overlapping in Social Service

TORONTO (CP) — Florence Philpott's job is to tell other people how to spend their money.

Miss Philpott, 49, is vice-president and executive director of Metropolitan Toronto's social planning council.

"Part of the council's work is to ensure that social welfare agencies use donated money efficiently," she said.

"If the council thinks money is being wasted or more cash is needed to provide better service, it makes recommendations to the United Appeal fund and to the agencies involved."

A BIGGER JOB

But the social planning council has a bigger job than merely dealing in cash.

"We want to establish an ideal of welfare in Toronto, where all genuine needs for assistance are supplied, and where the city's inhabitants are aware of the services available," said Miss Philpott.

She has a staff of 40. Nearly 200 residents or associations work with the council.

As a result of study, the council has recommended that homes for old people be included in all new housing projects.

"We have found old persons should not be taken away from the community," she said.

The council looks for gaps in welfare facilities, and as a result of its work, "welcome centres" for immigrants were set up at Union Station and Malton Airport.

It sets standards for welfare services, such as enumerating minimum requirements of safety and care at day camps and nurseries.

The council tries to prevent overlapping in social service work.

Though most of its work is advisory, two services benefit welfare agencies and the public directly.

A register of volunteers is kept so that anybody wanting to help a welfare agency without pay can readily be found a job. An index of cases being dealt with by agencies is also kept, so that, although reports remain confidential, families need not give details of the family history to every agency they deal with.

"We hope one day to reach the point when nobody in need will stay that way for long," said Miss Philpott. "But this can only be done if the public will maintain interest in social welfare, find out how it works and help it to work."

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lawrence Gauthier are shown following their marriage at the Salvation Army Citadel. The bride is the former Miss Mary Ethel Lessels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Lessels, of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gauthier, also of Belleville. (Photo by McCormick's Studio, Belleville.)

GAUTHIER — LESSELS

A very pretty double-ring wedding was solemnized, recently, at the Salvation Army Citadel, Belleville, by Captain C. J. Ivany, when Mary Ethel Lessels, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Lessels, became the bride of Mr. Daniel Lawrence Gauthier, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gauthier. Pink and white carnations, interspersed with ferns, adorned the chancel rail.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her white floor length, waltz-length, bridal gown fashioned with fitted bodice, and bouffant skirt. Her white, scalloped veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a crown-styled headdress encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, sweetpeas, white stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Carol White, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant, attired in powder-blue nylon chiffon over satin in waltz-length, accented by a matching blue cummerbund, with blue floral headdress and carrying a bouquet of white mums mingled with pink sweetpeas.

Mr. Robert Lessels, of Belleville, brother of the bride, was groomsman, while Mr. Kenneth Lessels, of Belleville, also brother of the bride, and Mr. William White, of Batawa, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Sunday School room of the Citadel, which was attractively adorned with pink and white streamers, and pink and white wedding bells.

The bride's table featured a three-tier wedding cake in pink and white, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath a heart-shaped arch of lace. The flanking bridal bouquets of pink roses and white mums lent a further bridal accent.

The bride's mother, wearing a powder-blue gown with white accessories, and corsage of white mums, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing navy sheath with white accessories and corsage of white mums.

For the wedding trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba and through the United States, the bride chose a blue-grey linen dress with white accessories and corsage of white mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Gauthier are residing at 36 Alfred Street, Trenton, Ontario.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower held by her fellow employees of the Northern Electric; and also at another miscellaneous shower held by the ladies of the Salvation Army.

Guests were present from Belleville; Trenton; Barrie; Toronto; Port Hope; Smithfield, and Ottawa.

BOYD — NICKLE

Tall standards of white gladioli and ferns formed a lovely setting on Saturday, August 16, at 2:30 p.m. in Trinity United Church, Madoc, for a pretty summer wedding when Anne Burnside Nickle, of Madoc, daughter of Mrs. P. H. Naylor, and the late Dr. F. A. Nickle, was united in marriage to John Boyd, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Boyd. The Reverend John Glover, of Marmora, officiated.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, guest organist, of Belleville, presided at the organ and rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Taylor Reden, of Willowdale, who sang, "Still as the Night," "The Lord's Prayer", and "I Love Thee."

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. P. H. Naylor, was radiant in white crystal charm trimmed with imported Guipure lace, fashioned with fitted bodice, and flared skirt of intermission-length, with bow-accented back-sweep. Her silk illusion, fingertip veil was caught to a semi-tiara of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Margaret Burnside, of Ottawa, attended the bride as maid-of honor gowned in waltz-length white nylon over orange-tone and gold floral appliqued taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a softly tucked fuchsia cut-bar forming sleeves. Short white gloves orange bandeau and slippers completed her ensemble.

The bridesmaid, Miss Alice Burnside of Ottawa, was similarly attired but in sea blue with floral appliques, bandeau and slippers. They carried cascades of white gizmelias and trailing ivy.

The little flower girl, four-year-old Penny Nickle, of Belleville, was charming and demure in her short, white dress accented by graduated tiers in skirt and bodice, white accessories, blue bandeau and carrying a little basket of white pom poms and Goldilock roses.

Three - and - a - half-year-old Wayne Wagner, of Madoc, attended as ring-bearer, a wee lieau drummer in short wine velvet trousers, and white silk shirt.

Mr. Fred T. Collict, of St. Catharines, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Elgin A. Vader, of Bloomfield and Fresher A. Nickle, of Madoc, brother of the bride ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Naylor in Madoc, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, gowned in a navy lace sheath over taffeta, with periwinkle blue accessories and corsage of sunset-pink rosebuds. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who wore an aqua sheath of embossed taffeta with desert sand accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

The bride's table was appointed with a hand-embroidered, white linen cloth, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped by a fluted bud-vase used for the bride's grandmother's wedding cake and flanked by silver candelabra with tall, white candles. Pink tulle encircled the base.

For travelling by plane to Bermuda, the bride chose a moss-green sheath of Honan silk, with three-quarter length jacket in blouson back; matching shoes, black bag, and silhouette hat of black velvet, short, maize-colored gloves and corsage of Goldilocks rosebuds, mingled with baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will reside at 209 John Street, Belleville, upon their return.

Guests were present from Ottawa; Toronto; Elliot Lake; St. Catharines; Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Belleville, Madoc, Huntingdon, Quebec and Montreal.

The bride was the honored guest at a cup and saucer shower held at the home of Miss Lamoine West, Madoc, with Mrs. F. O'Riordan, as co-hostess and at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. T. Burnside in Madoc, with Mrs. J. Wagner as co-hostess.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Peggy J. — He should tell his mother off.

Daniel J. — She should be more tolerant.

Peggy J. — My husband and I have been married six years and have three children. I could be very happy except for one thing — my mother-in-law.

Dan's mother is really the most domineering sort. She is very critical of me — always telling me what to do in the house and for the children. She constantly reminds me that she has had so much experience and I am too young to know anything.

I have told Dan again and again I can't stand the way she treats me and he must tell her off. But she always takes her part. After all, I am his wife and he should stand up for me.

Daniel J. — It's true my mother is a little bossy and looks at Peggy and me as though we're babes in the wood. But it's also true that she has had a lot of experience. Although I'm an only child, Mother knows plenty about raising kids because she has worked as a pratical nurse most of her life.

Peggy ought to be glad to get her advice. Plenty of other young mothers have paid for it.

Anyway, I just can't tell my mother off. Peggy says I haven't the guts. It may be true, but I wouldn't want to hurt Mother like that. I think Peggy should be more tolerant. She should grin and bear it.

The Council: Peggy is definitely wrong on one count. She should not speak against her mother-in-law to her husband, nor should she expect him to take up weapons on her behalf — unless she has been seriously insulted or injured.

The disagreements Peggy describes are not really of a serious nature. The fact that Peggy is so upset about getting suggestions or criticisms from her mother-in-law indicates that she is, indeed, rather childish.

It is natural for a woman who has had professional experience to assume a tone of authority on matters directly connected with her skill. Women who hire her services undoubtedly get a sense of confidence from the very tone that irritates Peggy so much.

We don't doubt that Peggy's mother-in-law overdoes things a bit — especially if she claims that Peggy is "too young to know anything."

But we think Peggy should learn to face up to this woman with tact and good humor. It is the boy who lacks the guts to stand up for herself.

Peggy evidently has a lot of hostility toward her mother-in-law. That's why she is afraid to speak up. She is afraid that if a little anger is allowed to escape, a deluge will emerge.

She should try to realize some of this anger is rather unreasonable. If she takes a more reasonable point of view, she can allow expression for some of her justifiable annoyances.

Fresh Peach Ice Cream And a New White Nut Cake—For Dessert

by Mary Moore

A white cake with nuts in 1150 minutes. This may be baked 25 minutes in 2 layers or 2 dozen cup cakes. When cool frost with Lemon Icing: To 3 tablespoons butter add ½ pound icing sugar and 1½ tablespoons lemon juice and beat until of spreading consistency. Spread on cake. HELP PALSIED

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Thirty women are part - time volunteer "teachers' aides" at a cerebral palsy centre here. The women give children individual instruction under a teacher's supervision and help at recreation periods.

One cup milk, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon flour, 1½ cups mashed peaches, 10 oz., whipping cream, ½ teaspoon almond flavoring, 1 teaspoon gelatin, 1 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon hot water. Scald milk and stir into sugar, salt and flour mixed together. Cook over low heat, stirring, until it boils. Boil just 1 minute. Cool. Soak gelatin in lemon juice. Dissolve by adding and stirring in the 1 tablespoon boiling water then stir into mix. Add peaches and almond flavoring. Pour into freezing tray and freeze to a firm mush. Remove to cold bowl and beat until smooth but not unfrosted. Fold in stiffly beaten whipping cream. Freeze hard.

NOTE:

If desired ice cream may be whipped a second time before it gets too hard to beat. This second beating gives it added smoothness.

NEW WHITE NUT CAKE:

Three cups sifted cake flour, 1¼ cups sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup soft shortening, 1 cup milk, ½ cup egg whites, unbeaten, ½ cup chopped pecans. Sift flour and measure and sift into the sifter over large mixing bowl. Add to sifter the sugar, baking powder and salt and sift into bowl. Add room temperature shortening chopped up a little and all of the milk. Beat in electric beater 2 minutes or by hand 200 strokes. Add all of the unbeaten whites and beat 3 minutes in electric beater or 300 strokes by hand. Fold in carefully chopped nuts. (Walnuts or butternuts or hickory nuts may be used if desired.) GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

COUPLE TO GIVE DOUBLE WEDDING IN THEIR HOME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are going to give a wedding in our home. It is to be a double wedding for two pairs of dear friends of ours. Neither of the prospective brides and neither of the prospective bridegrooms have parents or other relatives here in this country, and my husband and I will act as parents to both couples. The marriage ceremonies are to take place in our living room, and afterward we will serve a very simple dinner at our house for the wedding party. As the dinner will be only the two couples, the minister and his wife and my husband and me, will you please suggest the proper seating at the dinner table? Thank you. — A.

What good and kind and generous people you and your husband are . . . and how fortunate for these two couples to have such a great-hearted friends! The seating arrangements would depend somewhat on your dining table, whether round or square or rectangular. But these would be the positions to keep in mind. You, as hostess, should be seated at the head of the table. Your husband, the host, opposite you. At your right might be Bridegroom A, and at his right (this is important) his bride. At your left I'd s'ary minister should be seated. On your husband's right might be Bridegroom B, and at his right his bride. At your husband's left, the minister's wife. This arrangement may mean that two men are seated side by side, but that really doesn't make too much difference, as long as the important and traditional positions are abided by.

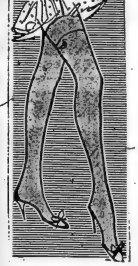
Leisurely Charm

By VERA WINSTON



New loungewear offers pleasing thoughts of indoor leisure when summer days give way to fall. Smart sewspeaker, done in twin print, indicate how at-home wear has changed through the years. The spotted cat print is done on nylon chiffon and nylon tricot for the top layer of the blouson. The pants are slim and long and would look nice too, with a black top. The blouson favors a shallow scarf neck and ballow-elbow sleeves. Good twosome, too.

Trapeze Raincoat

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Good looking in rain or shine is this up-to-the-minute coat of weather-proof printed cordurey, the design in shades of blue and purple. Curved seaming is used to accentuate the trapeze line, which is, in itself, distinct. An easy-from-the-neckline collar allows for a scarf fill-in, if desired.

Army, Navy Air Force Hold Enjoyable Picnic

The Army, Navy and Airforce veterans picnic was held recently at Crystal Beach where balmy breezes and sunny skies assisted by the refreshing waters of the beautiful Moira Lake welcomed over 300 cars, and three Rawson buses filled to capacity with happy, excited children of all ages from nine weeks to 90 years.

An advance party of workers arrived early to set up the booths for ice-cream and soft drinks, which were given to all children, the estimated onslaught was in the close neighborhood of 2,000.

The program was officially opened with the drawing of three attendance tickets which were won by the following ladies: Mrs. B. Prindle, Mrs. C. Wallace, Mrs. M. Spafford.

Bedlam broke loose with the minor races in view, so with a far-seeing eye the judges awarded all contestants a prize, up to the lusty age of six years.

The senior class was not quite so fortunate for they had to show merit with their stride and ease such is the standing: girls 7-8 Barbara Long, Nancy Rowbush, Janet Freshette; girls 9-10 Sharon Virus, Joyce Barriage, Judy Robinson; girls 11-13 Annabelle McNaught, Betty Jones, Sharon Rochette.

Boys 7-8 Ron Hanna, Danny Koverko, Wayne Muir; boys 9-10 Jerry Ryan, Steven White, Larry Stenabugh; boys 11-12 Tommy Locke, Terry Hiddleston Richard Eves.

A very heated ball game was arranged between the ANAFS and the CANATS with the Canata displaying a keen knowledge of the game, no doubt it could be said these old timers are familiar with the "ball", and as speed is an essential their mode of covering the diamond would be somewhat different to the ANAFS for as a diamond it certainly was in the rough. The ANAFS were interested in catching all sunbeams and putting them in their pockets for a rainy day and permitting the balls to fly by. However a bitter protest ensued the summary of score, which was too, too embarrasing to mention above a whisper, the propitious brief, a draw.

RING-BONG

Several games of bing-bong were played throughout the day and thoroughly enjoyed by the older kids while the youngsters were entertained by the antics of the clowns who were likened to the Pied Piper, though in place of a musical serenade, a series of corny capers produce laughter and amusement for all a doleing system of duck and grab for candies, peanuts and favors, kept the small fry off the tables and out of the lunch baskets for a while at least.

The climax for an enjoyable day was the drawing for a portable picnic stove which was won by J. Henry and drawn for by president J. C. Lundberg. An announcement was made as to departure time and the last bus left for home at 7 p.m.

A special note of thanks is extended to all those who contributed both time and material to make this event the success it was.

Mother of 11 Completing HS Education

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — A mother of 11 children at Dresden, near here, is completing her high school education by studying at home.

Mrs. Orley Cadotte, formerly of Moose Jaw and Chatham, combines caring for her family with assisting her husband to run their 135-acre farm.

How does she find time to study? "It's just a matter of routine," she said.

She hopes to teach at a rural school when she completes her schooling.

Her family of five boys and six girls range in age from two to 20.

"The Furniture House of Quality"

Roy Rogers Praises Work Being Done at Plainfield By Mr. and Mrs. Velleman

PLAINFIELD, Ont. (CP)—The message from the Hollywood cowboy to the Dutch-Canadian couple here was unforgettable.

Movie star Roy Rogers waved from his Beverly Hills, Calif., homes "May God bless you and Mrs. Velleman for your efforts and great spiritual rewards to those who are inspired to help you."

For Leonard Velleman, 37, and his wife Leonora, 42, it's a heartening token of the help they seek, in order to care for 32 mentally-retarded toddlers.

BRIGHT HAVEN

For seven years now they've tended helpless youngsters in their big, bright brick house near this community, seven miles north of Belleville.

They started alone with love. Today they're supported by a chartered, non-profit citizens' corporation—Variety Homes for Mentally Retarded Infants Inc.—and aided by the Children's Aid Society of the Babies Convalescent Home.

But they've acquired a $70,000 capital debt and their operating losses run to almost $2,000 a month in nursing children whose parents just can't afford such expensive care.

The Vellemans, who emigrated from Holland 7 years ago, poured $30,000 of their own savings into the 13 - room nursing home before the ORMRI transformed two years ago to take over the burden.

DEDICATED COUPLE

What prompted them—parents of three healthy, now - grown children of their own—to take on others' troubles?

Says Mrs. Velleman, a dedicated registered nurse:

"A healthy child can always find a home. Those others need love and care much. Who is to give it to them?"

The Ontario government has 2,000 mentally-retarded children in entry to its hospital schools in Smiths Falls and Orillia. But the official entry age is six years old. There is no provision for the mentally handicapped from birth till the age of six.

It is those children the Vellemans accommodate. They too now care for 32 and would like to have 50. That, however, requires enlarged facilities.

CROWDED FACILITIES

They now have three nurseries, a diet kitchen and a general kitchen. They say Mrs. Velleman, a larger building and a laundry to handle the 3,000 pounds of linen a month are among the facilities of the Belleville General Hospital's laundry.

The Vellemans ask $100 a month to care for the handicapped child. But the government estimates the cost of keeping such a child at $400 a month. Many parents can't afford even the $100 a month and children like that admitted for $65 or $75 and the home absorbs the loss.

Many local service groups, including the Kinette Club of Belleville and the Lions of Armour Heights Lodge of B'nai Brith, have contributed to the home, but the debt piles up. This year the ORMRI has launched a campaign for $250,000 to clear the debt and meet expenses.

Mrs. Velleman told an interviewer:

"Many people ask us why these children have to suffer.

"We cannot play God. Our job is to love them and give them our love."

Had to Raise Basement Floor Eighteen Inches

OTTAWA (CP) — Amid new political crossfire, Parliament's printing bureau investigators learned Tuesday that the basement - type basement floor had to be raised 18 inches above original plans because of the presence of water.

"I know of no similar incident in which we have had to raise basement floors," Public Works Min.-Gen. H. A. Young, deputy works minister, told the Commons public accounts committee.

He was under questioning by Liberal Jean-Pierre Coté (Montreal Laurier) who sought to establish that the former Liberal administration generally had had a good record in public construction and that the taxpayers got value for their money in the $18,- 000,000 printing bureau construction.

ACCUSE CHEVRIER

The Progressive Conservatives charged Mr. Chevrier with attempted to hide things and said Opposition Leader John Young made clear he did not entirely agree with the former Liberal transport minister.

Mr. Young, he said, the records did not show why bureau excavation costs had been increased from $50,000 to $100,000 after actual foundation construction had begun, builders found they had to raise the basement floor by 18 inches to get above the high level of a local stream, Brewery Creek.

Mr. Chevrier said it was generally known that the Ottawa-Hull area is built on underground streams. Raising of the printing bureau floor was nothing more than a practical precaution.

"It was the correction of an error in the original planning," Gen. Young emphasized.

Not Expected Reds to Swarm Into West With Contracts

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The great potential opened up by the Western powers' slash in trade restrictions against Communists must be viewed against a background of an Iron Curtain market comprising about one-third of the world's entire population.

But just because Canada and her allies have agreed to allow the Reds to buy a lot of goods previously banned does not mean the Reds will swarm into the West with huge contracts.

No one in official quarters expects that to happen. Like any other customer, the Communist, be he Chinese or Russian, must be cultivated. There will have to be more visits to Peiping, Moscow and other Communist centres by Canada businessmen and government officials.

In the battle for world markets there likely will be play and counterplay even among the Western powers as each tries to increase its share of Communist purchases. There may be enticements such as special barter deals, in which Canadian businessmen may be at a distinct disadvantage.

The Communists may attempt to exploit the Western desire and need for markets for political propaganda. Differences among the allies might be emphasized. A supplier from one country which recognizes Red China for example, may be favored against one whose country does not.

That is not to say that Canada or the U.S. will grant quick recognition. It is doubted in officials circles here that either will likely have any large quantities of dollar-earning goods for Communist purchases, though the officials say it is possible that some boost in Canadian sales to Red countries to emerge from recognition.

Weighed against this possibility is strong United States opposition to recognition. Though some Canadian businessmen privately question the Canadian and American positions, Canada has gone along with the U.S. on this issue, probably to demonstrate strong North American solidarity in defence co-operation.

It is difficult to see the Canadian government breaking away from the United States because of the possibility of getting a few more dollars in trade.

Nevertheless it is known that the Canadian administration will look for opportunities to explore the Communist market, particularly for primary resources exports, such as wheat and other grains and metals. The Communists have shown particular interest in getting more metals, such as nickel, aluminum and copper-both Russia and the Chinese mainland have purchased Canadian wheat for cash.

The Canadian Wheat Board feels there should be a vigorous drive to expand that market for grain.

Prime Minister Will Open 80th CN Exhibition

TORONTO (CP)—The world's largest annual fair opened for the 80th time today at the 350-acre Canadian National Exhibition grounds on the Toronto lakeshore.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is to arrive at an open-air bandshell at 3 p.m. to conduct official opening ceremonies.

This year's CNE is to surpass its history, with new displays added to the previous 16-day stand in an attempt to set a new attendance mark of 3,000,000 before its gates close Sept. 6. The total has fallen several hundred thousand short of that mark in recent years.

As visitors strolled through miles of exhibits after the gates opened at 9 a.m., exhibitors were still busy setting up booths and all space will not be filled until late in the week-end.

MANY COUNTRIES EXHIBIT

The governments and international building companies is the largest group of foreign exhibitors in CNE history. Australia, Denmark, France, West Germany, Holland, India, Italy, Japan, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Jamaica, Great Britain no United States governments and private firms are showing off their manufactured and natural products.

The largest display of U.S. military might ever shown outside the U.S. took the attention of many early visitors. The Corporal and Snark, two intermediate range missiles, were pointed skyward and heavily guarded launching pads.

A gigantic Thor, sister missile to the one that exploded over Cape Canaveral Sunday during attempt to launch a moon satellite, is to arrive Thursday night.

SHOW LATER

The Canadian international air show will be held along the water front from Aug. 27 to Sept. 1 and Canada's new jet fighter, the CF-105 Arrow, the U.S. Navy Blue Angel aerobatic team and planes from other NATO countries will participate in a flypast.

A variety musical show, starring comedian Danny Kaye, opens tonight at the 22,000-seat grandstand.

The national horse show opens Thursday and judging continues until Aug. 27, followed by cattle competition. Fifteen thousand sheep, dogs, cats, swine, goats and poultry will also be judged for $140,000 in prizes.

Havelock Man To Face Trial Over Accident

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—William Fred Redcliffe, 40, of Havelock, was charged with criminal negligence in connection with the traffic death of two soldiers who were sent for Ontario Supreme Court trial at the spring assizes after a preliminary hearing Tuesday.

He was released on $2,000 bail.

Monika Bruchman, 21, of Hamilton, and Theodore Mooij, 21, of Kingston, both students at Queen's University, were killed in a collision on Highway 7, 30 miles north of here, July 12.

Sidney Bagnall of Toronto testified he, his wife and three children were driving from Toronto to Ottawa along Highway 7 when they saw a car driving down a sideroad and onto the main highway without stopping. He said the car swerved into the wrong traffic lane three times before striking the students into Bagnall's car.

FIT FOR A QUEEN

Mrs. Alena Cejnar coddles a rare coypus soon to become part of a fur coat to be presented to Queen Elizabeth next year when she opens the St. Lawrence Seaway. Fur from the little South American rodent is more expensive than mink. Mrs. Cejnar and husband Bohumil will present the Queen a 50-skin coat. (CP Photo).

Refused to Make Stalin Fur Coat, Cejnars Sewing One for Queen Elizabeth

BAINSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Queen Elizabeth next year will receive a fur coat already suspended from one that Josef Stalin didn't get.

It will be a gift from Bohumil and Alena Cejnar, self-exiled natives of Czechoslovakia, made from the skins of coypus, furry little animals native to South America.

The coypu is a South American cousin of the Canadian beaver, but with a round tail. Its fur is known as nutria, and ranks with mink and Canadian beaver among the world's finest furs. White nutria is the rarest of the species.

When Queen Elizabeth comes to open the St. Lawrence Seaway next year Mr. and Mrs. Cejnar plan to present her with a 50-skin white nutria coat, designed by Miss Ilzel of—Furs but grown and sewn in Canada.

The presentation will, they hope, not only express their gratitude to Canada for freedom, but draw a little attention to their fur farm at Bainsville, 20 miles east of Cornwall.

Mr. Cejnar, a lean, middle-aged man with white hair, was a chemical engineer and owner of a plant that turned out drugs and food products. He found breeding and raising fur-bearing animals for research on the products.

His youthful wife took interest in animal breeding. In time the Cejnars had two industries going — chemicals and furs. They became Canadians, had two children, Otto and Theodore Mooij, 21, of Kingston, both students at Queen's University, were killed in a collision on Highway 7, 30 miles north of here, July 12.

Sidney Bagnall of Toronto testified he, his wife and three children were driving from Toronto to Ottawa along Highway 7 when they saw a car driving down a sideroad and onto the main highway without stopping. He said the car swerved into the wrong traffic lane three times before striking the students into Bagnall's car.

Instead the Cejnars slaughtered all their stock but six white and two brown baby coypus and began stuffing the animals and the family into a suitcase. Then the two children, a girl and boy now 18 and 14, they had to leave behind.

NORMANDY RANCH

They existed in France by selling the jewels until the coypus enabled them to set up a fur ranch in Normandy. They still own it, and it now has some 3,000 animals including mink and beaver.

Then they decided to try Canada and in the spring of 1957 he brought 70 coypus for his newly-bought farm here.

Now it is the largest, if not the only, nutria fur ranch in Canada, he said. At its official opening last July there were 700 of the animals.

The Cejnars have mainly been selling animals for breeding, at about $1,200 a pair for brown ones, but a few surplus males now are to be slaughtered for fur.

The coypu is smaller than the beaver, a full-grown male weighing about 24 pounds. The pelt goes for four or six he made into a fine suede leather. The tail nerves make a tough surgical or leather - working thread. The teeth can be used in costume jewelry—and the flesh is considered a delicacy.

The food bill per animal on a farm the size of the Cejnars' is about $1.75 a month. Unlike the more delicate mink and chinchilla, the coypu cannot be frightened to death by loud noises or rough handling.

"Our interest is not confined to nutria," Mr. Cejnar said. "We are trying now to breed a strain of white Canadian beaver, something that has never been done before."

Rather than wait for someone to trap an albino beaver, the Cejnars expect their beavers in a few hours of ultra-violet light each week in an effort to produce mutations.

Doctor, Nurses On Hand for Bull Fights

LINDSAY (CP)—A doctor and two nurses—complete with ambulance and plasma bottles—have been hired to attend bull fights here in case they aren't so bloodless.

And if they are unable to cope with an emergency, stretcher-bearing first-aid men have been told to lend a hand.

These precautions, taken by the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce for the Friday night opening of the fights, reflect the attitude of most townspeople to the event.

FEAR CIVIC BLACK EYE

Mayor Lloyd Burrows, apprehensive at the prospect of an accident, expressed the opinion of the council: "We're hoping like everyone else, that nothing happens—because if it does Lindsay would receive a black eye. It would never recover from it."

Meanwhile, the six imported Mexican fighting bulls are being hidden in a secret corral against the possibility of sabotage.

But one report is reported to be snorting in eagerness to get into the ring and join in the fair grounds. The three professional matadors from Mexico—a fourth had to return home to fulfil another engagement — had expressed fears the bulls might be subdued by the change in climate.

SMALL WOODEN SWORDS

The matadors will enter the ring with only their small wooden swords for protection. No picadors and banderillas will be there to soften up the bull for the kill.

If anything goes wrong, the bull fighters will have to rely solely on their capes and the speed of the bulls.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has sent inspectors for the protection of the bulls. The society says it will be there to see that they are protected.

No matter what happens in the ring, the bulls will eventually wind up in a Toronto slaughterhouse.

Firm at Lauzon Sues 26 Pickets Seeking $50,000

LAUZON, Que. (CP) — Protesting workers at Davie Shipbuilding Limited have been told that they try to set up the picket lines which have kept the St. Lawrence Seaway short project idle since Monday.

A court company obtained a Superior Court injunction at Quebec Tuesday prohibiting picketing until Sept. 3 or until a hearing is held. It also launched a $50,000 suit for damages against 26 of the pickets.

The 2,000 members of the National Metal Trades' Federation (CCCO) unions have been idle almost the entire labor force—refused to cross picket lines set up last weekend after contract negotiations broke down. They contract expired June 30.

The company seeks damages against pickets it claims stopped office employees from entering the yard Monday and Tuesday by force of arms. Davie Shipyard General Manager Robert Black said the action was directed at 36 men rather than the entire union because that was enough to stop operations.

The union denied office workers were intimidated.

The pickets were sent out to back demands for a wage increase ranging as high as 20 cents an hour and a reduction in the work week to 40 hours a shift.

Basic hourly wages now range between $1.26 for unskilled laborers to $1.61 for journeymen.

Avalanche of Human Beasts Holding Back Yellow River Says Recent Chinese Visitor

HONG KONG (AP)—"An avalanche of human beasts"—is how a Canadian doctor described Red China's recent struggle to prevent the Yellow River from flooding.

Dr. Norice Shulman of Toronto, back in Hong Kong with his pretty young wife after a 10-day visit to Red China, said he saw part of the recent titanic struggle against the Yellow River near the towns, Kaifeng and Chenchow in Honan, Central China.

"The road between Kaifeng and Chenchow was one of the most incredible sights I have ever witnessed. Both sides of the road were jam-packed for nearly 100 miles with lines of human beasts of burden, working in teams of one pushing and another pulling carts laden with red stones to reinforce the dykes.

"When we arrived at Kaifeng and to see the Anglican lord bishop, whom we had come to visit, we found the church locked, and were told Mr. Cabog is out working on the dykes.' So was everybody else in the city.

"This July, the Yellow River, which is popularly known as China's sorrow, was at its highest point since the catastrophic 1938 flood. Millions of acres were made homeless, and nearly 20,000 were killed.

"We arrived 12 miles up and down one section of the river bank, swarming with 100,000 red stone dykes, which despite the high waters, had still a good six feet clearance.

"Entire towns, villages and hamlets were being moved that day. They literally slept on the dykes. Factory workers came there after their shifts were over. Even the local hospitals sent volunteers.

"As far as we know the dykes held everywhere; in some places, however, both road and railroad bridges were washed out. When we went to Peiping we had to make a 500-mile detour by train because of this."

TAKEN FOR RUSSIANS

Shulman said that during his short China visit he and his wife were once mistaken for Russians.

"It was during the train journey to Peiping. The train stopped at a small station, everyone piled out and rushed to a solitary ice-cream vendor. It was boiling hot and we both felt in need of something cool. When we stepped out on the platform someone yelled 'Russkies' and the crowds immediately stepped back respectfully, letting us through to buy ice cream. I don't know what they would have done if they had known we were imperialists."

Shulman said he originally intended to stay in China for two weeks, but out his trip short because the Canadian authorities told him he couldn't take out of the China Inland Mission what he had taken unless they were developed first. He asked if they had the facilities in Hong Kong for Kodachrome. They said no.

"Under the circumstances, I couldn't get the films out until they were developed, and they didn't have the facilities to do them. I got mad, and decided if I couldn't take my pictures out there was no sense in staying and taking more. As it was, the Red Chinese authorities in Hong Kong border let me through without even looking at the films."

Will Do Canada Good Turn For Alaska to Get Statehood

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—If next Tuesday's referendum confirms statehood for Alaska, Congress will automatically will abolish the Canol Act and do a good turn for Alaska and neighboring Canada at the same time.

Abolition of the act, which restricts foreign shipping in Alaskan waters, is considered by statehood bill which thus will open the far-northwest sea lanes to Canadian ports. The provisional measures have in the past always been approved routinely between some Canadian and southeast Alaskan ports, but now the bill will be cleared for all ships to carry goods to the whole Alaska coast.

Lower freight rates are expected to be one of the benefits reaped from the new relationship among the shipping lines and also from the elimination of the railroad owing to the geographical proximity of Canadian ports.

TREK THROUGH CANADA

Kenneth Burbridge, Canadian consul-general at Seattle, already has been negotiating with the Alaskan business leaders at Fairbanks and Anchorage with a view to discovering potential trade openings with the new state.

Foodstuffs and other consumer commodities that Alaska could buy more cheaply from Canada are the result of lower transport costs.

Canadian prime beef, wheat and fresh vegetables are specifically mentioned by the Canadian consul-general as items which could be offered for export to Alaska by sea, also Canadian about 90 per cent of its foodstuffs.

Also under discussion at joint meetings in Alaska and Canada is the new reading of the bill or replying to the debate.

An analysis had been made of the Canadian press reports about South Africa—news which gave the lie to the charges and not reports which contained only adverse news, Louw said.

The Editor-in-Chief Stoisman published 11 per cent of such news, the London Times 13 per cent, the London Daily Telegraph 13 per cent and the London Observer 10 per cent.

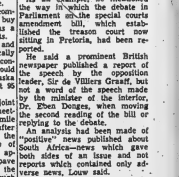
Charge British Papers 'Slant' News of Africa

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Extreme statements in the Nationalist Press said Tuesday a survey of six or seven British papers showed skewed news about South Africa had been presented with a certain slant. It claimed that only one side of the news was presented.

In a statement to the Legislative Assembly, Louw quoted a report by the South African director of information in London which gave all analysis of reports in six British daily newspapers: I England.

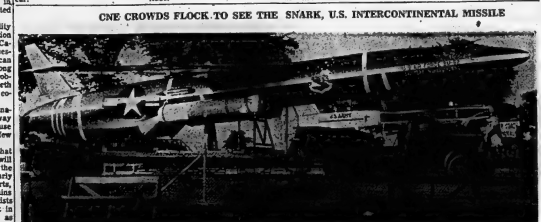
Louw said the conclusion which emerged from the analysis was that while in some cases there was a fairly deliberate distortion of news about South Africa, the general slant was that on which the news had been presented with a certain slant.



As an example, he mentioned the way in which the debate in Parliament on the special courts amendment bill, which established the treason court now sitting in Pretoria, had been reported.

He said a prominent British newspaper published a report of the speech by the opposition leader, Sir de Villiers Graaff, but not a word of the speech made by the minister of the interior, Dr. Eben Donges, when moving the second reading of the bill or replying to the debate.

An analysis had been made of the reports about news about South Africa—news which gave the lie to the charges and not reports which contained only adverse news, Louw said.



The Editor-in-Chief Stoisman published 11 per cent of such news, the London Times 13 per cent, the London Daily Telegraph 13 per cent and the London Observer 10 per cent.

Of course, I've got a model train, but I thought I'd inspect some later models."

CNE CROWDS FLOCK TO SEE THE SNARK, U.S. INTERCONTINENTAL MISSILE

A sure attraction, at the CNE is the Snark, above, U.S. Intercontinental missile which is drawing big crowds to the U.S. military display at the big fair in Toronto. Three U.S. missiles, the Snark, the Thor and the Corporal are on display. For safety, they are minus the interior firing mechanism. Canadian military display includes the CF-100 all-weather jet, a 60-ton Centurion tank designed to withstand atomic blasts and radiation and the "Sidewinder," a missile used in air-to-air and sea-to-air combat.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

LOUD AND CLEAR!

If the rest of the clubs in the eastern section of the OSA Senior "A" Hockey Association have any idea of taking Sammy Pollock's Hull Canadiens lightly, they had better take head right now.

Pollock, backed by the NHL Canadiens, is out to win the group title and the Allan Cup in the Habs' first year as a senior club, according to the Ottawa Journal.

In a story on Saturday's league meeting this warning was issued to one and all: "The club will be sponsored by Montreal Canadiens and stocked with players just over junior age, Sam Pollock told the meeting. In entering the club Pollock sounded a note of warning to other clubs."

The item then quotes Pollock as saying: "Montreal is not interested in running the usual type of senior club. Outside of a playing coach, we are not going to sign older players. All of the players will be just over junior age. And we have no intention of icing a club that's going to finish fourth or fifth in this league."

Pollock continued by saying that the Hull-Ottawa entry was not a one-year affair. "We intend to continue operating from the Hull rink as a senior club and in this league," said Pollock.

Most of the Canadiens' home games will be played on Sunday in the Hull, Quebec, rink; 21 games three are scheduled for Sunday afternoon with but four week-day fixtures.

With Clainmait of the International League disbanded it is expected several of their players will join the Canadiens, along with many of last year's junior Mercantile Cup team members. Billy Gould, coach of Clainmait for the past couple of years, has been mentioned as a likely coach for the club.

Sammy and his "young" seniors will certainly mean business when the league schedule gets under way October 24th.

A HEART-BREAKER

It is often said that a pitcher who throws a two or three hitter and loses the game is having real tough luck, or he lost a heart-breaker, or lady luck was looking the other way.

Well, when it comes to such cases, Jim "Sleepy" Dawe of the Cobourg Merchants, should be an expert on the subject after what happened to him on the weekend.

The Merchants were playing Port Perry in the opening game of their OASA Intermediate "B" playdown series.

Dawe was at his best and, as any of the Belleville and District softball batters will tell you, that is pretty good. The "Sleepy" one kept blazing strikes by the Port Perry batters and did not issue a single free pass. His only trouble was his mates were doing little better off Wally Samenuk's slants and the game entered the 11th inning with the score 0-0.

Then it happened! If Port Perry batted one man and took the game from Cobourg. But Dawe still did not allow a hit. The winning run was recorded on an infield error, passed ball, wild pitch and the catcher's error on a dropped third strike.

"Sleepy" had just pitched an eleven inning no-hitter, struck out 24 batters and still lost the game 1-0.

INTERMEDIATE "AA" PLAYDOWNS

The Bobcats and Sports Centre resume their battle for the right to represent Belleville in the OASA Intermediate "AA" playdowns at CNRA Park tonight at 6.30... Bobcats lead the series two games to none and can wind it up with a story this evening.

Coach Temple says he will start the veteran hurler Lunn Carson, while "Sunk" Young will likely get the nod for Bob Bland's crew.

OASA vice-president Don Lee has just learned that the winner of this series must be declared as sport as possible, because one team or the other will meet Peterborough here Saturday night.

Peterborough did not have an entry in the double "A" division a short while ago, but now it seems it has. The Petes will be in town Saturday night to meet a Belleville team. Game is at 5.30 at CNRA Park.

This means that a winner must be declared between Bobcats and Sports Centre by Friday evening at the latest. Temple would like to wind it up this evening, but if Sports Centre should win they will go back at it again tomorrow night, in all probability. And if the Commercial league club evens the series, a fifth and deciding game would have to be played Friday.

Better plan to take in both tonight's game and Saturday's playdown fixture. Six-thirty tonight and five-thirty Saturday, both at CNRA Park.

MIDGETS PLAY TONIGHT

While on the playdown picture, why not have a look at Belleville's fine Midget "A" team, if you prefer baseball to softball?

Belleville's smart young club, managed by Bill Latchford and coached by Charlie Jeffs, tangles with Trenton at the Fairgrounds this evening in the second game of their playdowns. Our side won the first game and could advance into the next round tonight. Game time is 6.15.

WRESTLING

Something different has been lined up for the weekly wrestling card at Memorial Arena this Friday evening.

Two teams, consisting of Ryan and Karl Kalminkoff on one side, and Reg and Stan Lisowski on the other, will be turned loose all at once. This bout is not tagteam, but just team, with everyone in action at once. Both sides play it wild with nothing barred as the fans will be sure and get their money's worth in the two-of-three falls event.

Two other fine bouts are also scheduled. Towering Lord Athol Layton will meet Big Bob Orton, while strongman Tarzan Tourville clashes with Karl Steiff.

Ottawa, Hamilton Open Big Four Season With Wins

Single Game Rushing Record Made by Roughies in Downing Argos; TiCats Defeat Als

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa rolled to a Big Four single-game rushing record over Toronto Tuesday night as the league football season opened at Ottawa and Montreal.

Rough Riders piled up a one-sided 44-7 win while Hamilton Tiger - Cats nipped Montreal Alouettes, 21-20, in a see-saw opener with a 27-14 victory.

Argonauts could manage only 15 first downs against Ottawa's 29 on the ground and 11 in the air. Even the second - string Ottawa squad, pilloted by rookie Canadian Russ Jackson, moved at will against the Toronto line.

Ottawa's 445 yards rushing was well ahead of the former record of 390 yards, set by Montreal in a 1953 game against Toronto. Argonauts answered with 238 rushing yards and 98 in the air against Ottawa's 310.

Rough Riders did so well they only had to kick once on third down.

TWO FOR BRANCATO

Quarterback Hal Ledyard fired two touchdown passes to George Brancato and one to Bobby Simpson. Running TD's were made by Bobby Judd, Russ Jackson and Ron Quillian. Gary Schreiber kicked four converts and Ledyard Mack Yebo booted a field goal and a single.

Dave Mann counted the lone Argonaut touchdown with Vic Kristopaitis converting.

In a lacklustre start, the Ticats set two Montreal fumbles up for touchdowns before stiffening up. Import halfback Jack Wells scored both on grounds plays, the second after Dick Hunter intercepted a Bernie Faloney pass in the second quarter. Bill Bewley converted both times.

Import end Paul Dekker and Canadians Gerry McDougall, Ronnie Stewart and Tommy Grant counted the Hamilton touchdowns. Combined Bill Gaudet converted two of them. Cam Fraser booked a single for Hamilton's other point.

QUICK RECOVERY

The Ticats got up steam after their slow start with two touchdowns in minutes apart, on Faloney passes caught by McDougall and Howell. Montreal blocked both McDougall's convert attempts.

In the third quarter the Als fumbled a Hamilton punt and gave the Ticats possession on the Montreal 20. The next play was another fumble by Jess and Grant scampered over with it to put Hamilton ahead for the first time. Graham kicked the first of his two converts.

Twenty seconds before the third quarter ended Faloney hooked a 35-yard pass to Dekker in the end zone. Ticats' final point came on a Fraser 2-yard single.

Montreal's Hamilton made only two first downs rushing for a measly 29 yards and were forced to switch to passing. Faloney made good on 17 of 28 pass attempts for 275 air yards.

In statistics Montreal outgained Hamilton with 23 first downs to 17. Sam Etcheverry, Alouettes' quarterback threw 31 passes, one short of the Big Four record, and had 21 completions.

Marlene Streit Takes Second Round Game

DARIEN Conn. (CP) — Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit lingerie pasted her irons today and prepared for the third round of the U.S. women's golf open championship.

The Penhill, Ont., native used those irons to deadly effect to advance through the first two rounds of the tournament, which she is trying to win for the second time.

Her methodical approach shot to the green are rated among the best in women's international golf, and her efforts to perfect this stage of the game apparently are paying off—just as they did when she won the British women's crown in 1953 and the U.S. title three years later.

Mrs. Streit, from the Toronto suburb of Thornhill, Charlotte Decoon of Montclair, N.J., got some longer drives away from the tees of the 6,467-yard, par-75 Wee Burn Country Club course, but the cheerful Canadian took control near the greens.

Her crisp approaches put the ball within safe putting distance of the cup repeatedly, and Mrs. Streit, who won the Canadian women's open for the fifth time at Saskatoon Aug. 9, took six of the first nine holes to coast to victory with a 3 and 2 win.

Two rounds were set for today, with the winners advancing to semi-finals are set for Friday and the 36-hole championship match. Behind others of the Canadian contingent also advanced to the third round: Mrs. Lindsay Mackenzie, Montreal, Janet McWha, St. Lambert, Que., Marlene Stewart Streit, Toronto, Judy Darling, Hudson Heights, Que., and Rema Nugent, England.

Mrs. Streit said that she's happy with her games so far.

"I feel I am playing as well as I did in 1953 when I won the British ladies title," she added. "The course is long and exacting but it requires position play and that's what I like."

Hall of Famer, Paul Waner, in Omaha Hospital

OMAHA (AP) — Paul Waner, Big Poison of Pittsburgh Pirates' baseball teams ago and a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, is in an Omaha hospital after suffering a heart attack Monday night.

Omaha Cardinals manager Bill Bergesch said "the former slugger was improving Tuesday.

Waner's hits topped the magic 3,000 mark in two decades of baseball. He is batting instructor for St. Louis Cardinals organization and was working with hitters of the Omaha American Association team.

Waner, a right fielder from Harrah, Okla., Waner went to Pittsburgh from San Francisco in 1926. He stayed with the Pirates through 1940 and with his younger brother, Lloyd, who batted National League pitchers.

Paul Waner moved to Brooklyn and—then to Boston, then did a hitch with the Yankees before retiring at the end of 1945 after a pinch.

He then he had collected 3,152 hits and had a lifetime batting average of .333. Three seasons he had better than .370 batting average. His 1927 average was .380.

Point Anne Eliminates Kingston With Error-Riddled 10-5 Victory

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Point Anne came out on the long end of a 10-5 score in a comedy of errors last night at Victoria Park, Kingston, to oust Prince George Indians of the Limestone City in their OASA Intermediate "B" playdown series.

Cementmen took the set in two consecutive games and now await the winner between Petrolia and Oshawa.

Both clubs booted the ball all over the infield last night with no less than 17 errors recorded, 18 of them to infielders. Kingston kicked the ball around eleven times while the winners had a little trouble keeping at six occasions. In all fairness, the diamond did not seem in the best of shape as the ball took strange bounces on more than one ground ball.

The winners scored one of their three earned runs in the third inning and that was when Jack Hill got out the old of a base hit. A walk, a sacrifice, a wild pitch and a deliberate plated teadoff batter Claude Carr. Kingston took a 1-0 lead as the game continued to kick the ball around.

Then in the fourth Point Anne combined timely Indian errors with hits by Jackie Elliott, Doug Soule, Claude Carr and Doug Hull to go ahead to stay. Another marker in the fifth made it 4-1. They upped the score to 10-3 on a pair of walks, a passed ball and an error.

Kingston got one back-on Seabrooke's triple and an error. They put into the lead with another pair, making it 8-5 on a Point Anne hobble a wild and hits by Flynn and Potter. The Cementmen closed out the scoring nightmare in the fifth on a wild error and Dave Jones' two-bagger.

WEAK THROUGH CENTRE

The Indians were very weak through the centre with second baseman Larry Davidson committing five errors and shortstop Jerry Flynn four. Only four of the game's 15 runs were earned with the winners getting three of that total.

Al Carkner went the route on the Cementmen's hillop, lugged for 11 hits. He bore down with men on base errorless and left 11 Indians stranded. Al nicked four on strikes while walking two.

Pat Deasy was the losing hurler while working eight innings. He gave up all seven Point Anne hits while whiffing three, all in the seventh frame, and passing four. Johnny O'Toole walked one and fanned another in the ninth. They also got credit on the paths.

Despite the numerous errors, several close plays at the plate, a twin-killing per side and some timely hitting provided some excitement.

Doug Soule was the lone victor with two hits, while Doug Hull, Jackie Elliott Jr. and Dave Jones had doubles. One bagger by Jackie Ward and Jackie Ward-Intermediate "B" pitcher-also attack.

Clint Tinkess, Larry Davidson and Doug Senior each picked up a brace of singles in defeat while Ray Seabrooke smashed a long triple. Campbell, Paul Potter, Bob Senior and Jerry Flynn also hit safely.

Point Anne — Carr, Wardhaugh, Hull, Gilmour, Deasy, Batchelor, Elliott Jr., Soule, Carkner, Kingston.

Kingston — Tinkess, Davidson, Flynn, D. Senior, B. Senior, Seabrooke, Potter, Alarie, Deasy, Campbell, O'Toole.

Umpires — Al Kelleher (P) and Jim Tebworth. Time — 1.40.

MOTHERS STRONGER

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A mother is likely to do better in sports than a childless woman, a Soviet sports physician said Tuesday. "Childbirth seems to bring forth hidden resources in women," said Dr. Yuri Geisler, team physician of the Soviet team entered in the European track and field championships here. Dr. Geisler said it seemed "obvious the physiological processes involved in the change from maidenhood to motherhood contribute to the perfectioning of all the inherent abilities of a woman."

White Sox Win Six In Row To Trim Yankee Lead

Team Wins 14 of 17 Games Since August 2 While Yanks Drop Eleven of Last Eighteen

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Too much Don Drysdale and no Bob Buhl, Charley Dark's the answer for that 11-6 edge Los Angeles Dodgers hold over Milwaukee's Chicago League leading Braves.

Buhl was the Braves' Dodger beater.

In the past two years, Milwaukee had a 24-20 record against the Dodgers. Buhl won half of them, while losing just two.

But Buhl now is disabled by shoulder trouble. He hasn't pitched since May 13.

Now add Drysdale to the picture. The kid right-hander, who was to have been the Dodgers' ace, lost seven of his first eight decisions. Since then he's won seven of nine, a 9-11 record with half of those victories against the Braves.

WON SEVEN STRAIGHT

Fact is, he's taken seven in a row from Milwaukee going back to June 27, 1957. And who beat him then?

A guy named Buhl.

Drysdale beat Milwaukee again Tuesday night, winning the opener with a five-hitter while southpaw Johnny Podres spun a four-hitter for the nightcap for a 4-1 and 7-3 twi-night doubleheader sweep as Los Angeles thus junked the Braves' winning streak at seven, trimmed their lead to 9½ games and left the Dodgers all alone in fourth place with their own victory and eight games since quitting the cellar.

Second-place San Francisco beat Cincinnati 4-3 in 10 innings, third-place Pittsburgh defeated Chicago Cubs 4-3 and St. Louis downed Philadelphia 5-4.

Charlie Neal hit his 31st home run, a three-run poke, and Drysdale hit his first of the season in the opener, giving Carl Willey, Buhl's replacement, an 8-4 record and ending his winning string at six. Billy Bruton's third homer accounted for Milwaukee's runs.

Norm Larker's two-run homer, his fourth, capped a four - run second that banged the nightcap against young Joey Jay (7-5), but the Dodgers added three more in the sixth, two on John Roseboro's 10th homer. Podres (11-10) had a shutout until Hank Aaron hit his 26th homer with a man on in the seventh.

An error and Willie Kirkland's triple won it for the Giants. Winner Johnny Antonelli (6-0) pitched a five-hitter, Hal Jeffcoat (5-6) was the loser in relief. Starter Bob Purkey left trailing 3-1. Pete Whisenant drove in all the Reds' runs, two with a homer that tied it in the sixth.

Two-run homers by Bill Mazeroski and Dick Stuart did it for the Pirates, with Stuart's 10th the clincher in the sixth off loser Taylor Phillips (6-7), who dropped his 5th in a row. Curt Raydon (7-3), won his fourth straight, with relief help.

Stan Musial, Gene Freese and Noble Landrith homered for the Cards, with Freese's 20th a two-run shot that tied it 4-all in the seventh and Landrith's third banging it in the eighth. Dick Farrell lost it in relief for a 7-7 record. Bill Wight (3-1) won it in relief. Solly Hemus and Wally Post homered for the Phils.

Minor Baseball

The Yankees whipped the Braves 14-3 at Alembic Field last night in the opening game of their city peewee baseball league championship series.

The teams split four runs in the first but Yankees pulled ahead to stay with seven in the second. They scored in every inning of the five-frame contest.

Bill Blackmore hurled a best one-hitter for the winners and was given perfect support by his mates.

Pat Glancey hurled for the Braves and gave up ten hits. Seven errors also hurt his cause.

Williamson was the Yankee batting star with a grand-slam home run. Hannah also hit a circuit blast for the winners.

Braves	200	00—3	1 7
Yankees	271	22—14	10 0

In the other half of the league's semi-finals, the Giants blanked the Dodgers 7-0 in their first game.

Boyle tossed a one-hitter for the winners. Devine gave up six hits on the losers' mound.

Giants scored in every inning except the third, getting two in each of the second and fourth frames.

Giants	120 211—7	11 1
Dodgers	000 000—0	1 5

Smallest Field In Years After Canadian Open

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—In a series of obs business of attempting to whip the par-70 Marvel golf course starts today as the four-day Canadian Open championship tournament. Some 100 players, mostly pros but with a smattering of amateurs, have been researching the layout for two days, mainly on the strength of a flock of "gimme" putts.

The fooling around stops when Ted Kroll, defending champion Roy Kepron of Winnipeg Elmhurst, steps up to the first tee at noon (MST). From here in, until late Saturday, the pros and amateurs will make every shot—there'll be no concessions of the four-foot putts.

But the line is $35,000 prize money, $3,500 of it to the winner.

SMALL FIELD

The field of 105 is the smallest in years, but it includes some of the biggest names in the sport. The experts figure a 10-under-par 270 will win the big chunk of prize money.

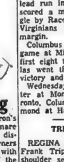
There are sentimental favorites, such as the old brigade of Ed (Porky) Oliver, 47-year-old farmer from Lebanon, Mass.; Jim Turnesa, from Elmsford, N.Y., and 54-year-old Jimmy Demaret of golf's best-known families, and Dick Metz, the Texan from Fort Worth who came out of a two-year retirement at 50 this year and so far has earned about $5,000.

Oliver, Turnesa and Metz are the choice of the old guard around Mayfair but the headed experts have narrowed their field to eight, including Canadians Stan Leonard, 44-year-old smoothie from Vancouver, Al Balding from Toronto, and irrepressible Moe Norman, a native of Kitchener, now living in Toronto.

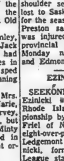
The boi choice seems to be 28-year-old Arnold Palmer from Latrobe, Pa., who has come a long way since 1955 when he won the Open, his first professional victory, after a bright amateur career. He won the Masters title at Augusta this year and heads the list of 1958 money winners with $37,446.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Sharon's Counsel, the seven-year-old mare that has been something of a disappointment to her three owners so far this season, came up with her most impressive race of the year Tuesday night to take the $1,700 Class B pace feature at Old Woodbine park.

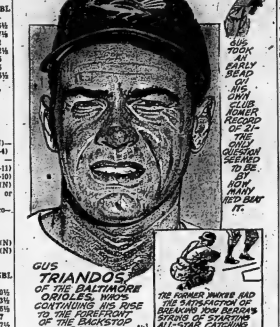


Trainer Harry Lumley, Tommy Burlington and Jack Keeling of Owen Sound, had picked up only three victories in 1958 with a mare which had sped a mile in 2:03 flat in winning $8,942 last year.



Danny Brock M, owned by Mrs. Carrie Zeigler of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and driven by Bill Harvey, took an early-length lead, but Sharon's Counsel, Josedale Minty Lou and Ann Pointer closed in the stage, a tight finish in that order.

In Final Minute



LONG BRANCH, Ont. (CP)—A tie-breaking goal in the final minute Tuesday night gave Brampton Excelsiors a lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Lacrosse Association finar with Long Branch Monarchs.

Monarchs led 5-4 after the first period, and the teams were tied 5-5 after the second. The teams met Brampton for the third game Friday night.

Montreal Royals Increase Lead In Int. League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

First-place Montreal Royals of the International League are a big far cry from the last-place team they were a year ago.

Coming nicely with the key play when they needed it the Royals came from behind Tuesday night and beat Rochester Red Wings 5-4 in the 10th inning on Jim Koranda's double.

The victory gave Montreal a three-game lead over second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Buffalo Bisons edged the Maple Leafs 7-1. Richmond Virginians edged Havana Sugar Kings 7-6 in 10 innings and Columbus Jets defeated Miami Marlins 6-2.

EASES UP

Rip Coleman pitched hitless ball for the first six innings and then eased up to post his seventh victory of the year, beating the Maple Leafs. Bisons belted five Maple Leaf hurlers for 15 hits including home runs by George Risley and Lou Ortiz.

Detroit Johnson tripled home the lead run in the 10th inning and scored a moment later on a single by Race Pieos to provide the Virginians with their winning margin.

Columbus Jets finally won a game at Miami Stadium after losing their first eight there. Whammy Douglas went the route for his 14th victory and delivered six hits.

Wednesday's schedule: Rochester at Montreal, Buffalo at Toronto, Columbus at Miami, Richmond at Havana (2).

TRIPUCKA LOST

REGINA (CP) — Quarterback Tom Tripucka has been sidelined by shoulder separation and may be lost to Saskatchewan Roughriders for the season, club manager Ken Preston said Tuesday. Tripucka was signed in a Western Interprovincial Football Union game Monday night between Riders and Edmonton Eskimos.

EZINICKI WINNER

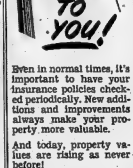
SEEKONK, Mass. (AP) — Bill Ezinicki of Winnipeg won the Rhode Island open golf championship by one stroke over Phil Friel of Nashua, N.H., with an eight-over-par 315 Tuesday at the Ledgemont Country Club. Ezinicki, former National Hockey League star, now is a golf pro at Stoneham, Mass.

Freak Reception Gives Family Fight Picture

NORTH BAY (CP) — Officials may have thought there was a complete television radio blackout of Monday's Floyd Patterson - Roy Harris heavyweight boxing title match, but at least one family here said they watched it on their television set.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Levesque said they received the last four rounds of the 12-round fight won by Patterson on their own television set. Reception was "extremely good," but there was no sound.

"We decided to run down channels after the 11 p.m. news and suddenly picked up the fight on Channel Four." Mrs. Levesque said—"it was coming so clear we could see how Harris' face had been cut up."



The bout was televised on a closed circuit hookup to 151 theatres in 133 cities in Canada and the United States. Fresh reception is believed to have been the reason why the Levesque's tuned in the picture.

Blair Announces Signing of Clinton Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Manager Wren Blair has announced signing of Billy Watson of Ottawa as playing coach of Clinton, N.Y., Comets of the United States Eastern Hockey League.

Watson, a centre, played last season for Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League and was previously with Halifax in the Maritimes Major League and Sudbury Wolves in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

He was signed to a one-year contract by Blair, who also manages Whitby Dunlops of the OHA Senior A League.

Weatherly Wins Over Yacht Vim By 26 Seconds

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Weatherly and Easterner, undefeated yachts in the America's Cup trials, grabbed early leads Tuesday but Weatherly could stand the prosperity.

The Mercer Syndicate sloop, with Arthur Knapp at the wheel, held on over a 30-mile course and flowed 15-year-old Vim by 26 seconds.

In the other match sailed in a breeze that logged up to 20 knots, Easterner bowed to Columbia after leading in the first two marks. The margin was 47 seconds.

Columbia and Vim now have records of three victories and one loss in the eight days observation trials, which run through Saturday. The four yachts are being tested to see which is best qualified to meet the challenger of England's Sceptre starting Sept. 20.

Weatherly now is 2-2 in this set of trials, with Easterner, the Boston hopeful, winless in four starts. Vim and Columbia clash today in a major showdown while the other two meet in the second match.

Government Activity May Be Divided Into Two Parts: Budgetary, Non-Budgetary

This article, one of a series, shows how big federal undertakings such as pensions, insurance and housing can best be seen at a glance in the annual budgets. What's needed: Net debt again rising.

By FORBES REDDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Vast areas of federal government activity lie outside the generally-understood figures of annual revenue and expenditures.

Some of them are activities which touch the individual most intimately. They include such things as old-age pensions, unemployment insurance, housing and widespread investment in huge projects.

Some are not entirely outside the annual revenue-and-expenditure figures and others get into the computations occasionally, but in the main they are not included.

IN TWO CLASSES

In this regard, government activity may be divided into two parts.

One part consists of what we pay for now, either through taxes and other current revenue, or through borrowing money. This part is called budgetary.

The other part consists of responsibilities which the government hopes will ultimately pay for themselves but they involve either government borrowing or guarantees. These are called non-budgetary.

They are all outlined in the budget speech and accompanying white paper presented about once a year by the finance minister. But the effect of this presentation is to emphasize the budgetary part.

OLD AGE FUND

The old age security fund, out of which old-age pensions are paid, was made non-budgetary when it was set up in 1952, on the theory that the pensions could be paid for out of special levies.

The levies consist of a two-per-cent tax on personal taxable income up to a maximum of $80; two per cent on corporation profits; and two per cent on the sales tax.

They have been inadequate from the start and the government has met the deficits out of budgetary money. Payments from 1952 to next March 31 total an estimated $2,985,000,000 and annual deficits are estimated to total $608,200,000. The lowest deficit — $7,200,000 — was recorded for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1957.

The unemployment insurance fund also has been mainly non-budgetary since it was started in 1941. It is chiefly supported by employer - employee contributions. In 1958 it is receiving $180,200,000 and accumulations in the fund earned $25,200,000. The government—under its statutory contributions — added another $27,000,000 and this part, plus administration costs, were budgetary.

This fund had a yearly surplus from 1942 to 1957 when the accumulated surplus reached $574,000,000. Since then increased unemployment has decreased the amount.

BIG HOUSING TOTAL

In housing—another non-budgetary item—the government has a vast stake in the solvency of Canada's householders. Through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and loan guarantees, the stake totals more than $2,600,000,000.

In addition to old-age security and unemployment funds, the government operates a number of other large revolving funds.

For instance, it takes in large sums from the public for government annuities and pays the annuities as they come due.

Almost $1,000,000,000 now is credited to this account and at least theoretically represents a government liability over the years to come. In practice, however, yearly receipts have been outrunning yearly payments.

Close to another $1,000,000,000 is credited to the superannuation account of government employees and more than $400,000,000 to the permanent services pension account.

GOVERNMENT LIABILITY

At March 31, total government liability to accounts and funds mentioned above was $3,713,000,000.

The money is not, as some may think, put aside for its ultimate purpose. If it were put aside it probably would be invested in the safest of monetary investments — government bonds. The government would be creating another sort of debt to itself.

The procedure avoids accumulation in government hands of vast sums which might some day present a political temptation. If one government decided to accumulate the money, a later government might say that the accumulation is unnecessary and promise to redistribute it.

Some funds are accumulated however, as in the case of the unemployment fund.

A further look at government non-budgetary accounts involves looking at a lot of figures, but they spell out the huge amounts which the government has invested, loaned, or guaranteed.

VAST SUMS

"Loans to and Investments in" Crown corporations totalled $2,549,800,000 at March 31. They included:

Canadian National Railways $1,266,200,000; Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation $666,000,000; St. Lawrence Seaway Authority $172,000,000; national harbors board $135,400,000; Northern Ontario Pipe Line Crown Corporation $70,800,000; Canadian farm loan board $58,000,000; Polymer Corporation Ltd. $30,000,000; Canadian Broadcasting Corporation $27,000,000; and smaller amounts to Northern Canada Power Commission, Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation; Export Credits Insurance Corporation; Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd.; Canadian Arsenals Ltd.; Bank of Canada and others.

In other cases the government has guaranteed large amounts.

They are called "contingent liabilities for which the government would become responsible if the parties concerned defaulted on them.

At March 31 they totalled $3,940,060,834, plus a couple of housing items in which the contingent liability was labelled "indeterminate." They included:

National Housing Act insured loan $1,394,856,167; government-guaranteed railway bonds and debentures $1,028,407,317; chartered-bank deposits in the Bank of Canada $779,472,561; Export Credits Insurance Act guarantees $68,970,667; loans by chartered banks under Farm Improvement Loans Act $39,117,859; and loans by chartered banks under the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act $11,833,385.

Finance Minister Fleming, in his June budget, forecast budgetary revenues — chiefly from taxes — of $4,653,000,000, and budgetary expenditures of $5,300,000,000.

This leaves a budgetary deficit of $648,000,000 to be borrowed. But another $775,000,000 is being borrowed for non-budgetary activities.

Non - budgetary requirements were listed by Mr. Fleming as follows:

Housing loans $400,000,000; Canadian National Railways capital investment and refunding programs $250,000,000; cash advances to St. Lawrence Seaway, Northern Ontario Pipe Line and other Crown companies and agencies, $260,000,000; other non-budgetary cash requirements $340,000,000. Total $1,140,000,000.

The following items reduced the total requiring borrowing: $50,000,000 from the government's securities investment account; $65,000,000 from repayment of loans; net cash of $240,000,000 — representing excess of receipts over payments—from the various annuity and superannuation accounts.

Here are the FACTS about exchanging your 3% wartime Victory Bonds

1. What is the Canada Conversion Loan of 1958?

It is an offer to replace all unmatured 3% wartime Victory Bonds with new 25-year 4½% Canada Conversion Bonds. (Other bonds of shorter term, bearing interest rates of 4¼%, 3¼% and 3% are also available.)

2. Why is the Government making this conversion offer?

In order to reorganize the national debt on a longer term basis and thus reduce the volume of Government refinancing over the next few years. There is widespread public and business agreement that this is a sensible idea and will help protect the soundness of the Canadian dollar.

3. What interest will I receive on the new bonds?

On the 25-year bonds the interest rate is 4½%—this is 50% greater than the old Victory Bond rate. The increase on the 14-year and the 7-year bonds is also substantial.

4. As a Victory Bond holder, will I be required to make any additional payment?

No. On the contrary, you will receive an immediate cash adjustment.

5. Do I have to convert my Victory Bonds?

You may, if you wish, hold your Victory Bonds until maturity and on the due date you will be paid their full face value. The Conversion Loan offer is open only to Victory Bond holders; and the "right" to convert gives Victory Bonds a special value until the offer expires. This is because there are many people trying to buy them in order to invest in the new bonds.

6. What will be the total of my cash adjustment?

It will depend on the type of exchange. For example, a $500 6th Victory Bond exchanged for a $500 Conversion Bond paying 4½% will give you $8.75 in cash immediately. This includes earned interest.

7. Does this offer apply to Canada Savings Bonds and other Government of Canada Bonds?

No. This offer is limited to unmatured wartime Victory Loan Bonds only.

8. What steps should I take if I am away from home on vacation and wish to take advantage of this offer?

You should write immediately to your bank, investment dealer, stockbroker, trust or loan company, requesting literature and application forms.

9. Does it matter that the Victory Bond I hold is very small?

Every holder of a Victory Bond, even though the amount held may be only $50, should take advantage of this offer. It is in his best interests as well as in the best interests of Canada.

10. How long is this offer open?

Until September 15, 1958, but it is to your advantage to convert as quickly as possible and have the benefit of the immediate cash adjustment.

11. Where can I exchange my Victory Bonds?

At any bank, investment dealer, trust or loan company, or through your stockbroker.

1939 Stagecoach Still Good Television Fare This Year

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Stagecoach, the 1939 John Ford movie, now is appearing on television.

The other night I watched and enjoyed it again and I'd recommend it to viewers of two types: (A) those who like Westerns, and (B) those who dislike Westerns. Stagecoach doesn't hold quite the charm for me in 1958 that it did in 1939. But probably that's because I've seen too many Westerns since then, many of them trying to imitate—consciously or unconsciously—what Ford did.

The movie combines most of the standard myths of western life in the last century. But because it was well written, well played, and produced with meticulous care for detail, Stagecoach still is grand entertainment. It never made its stock characters and situations.

Not a week passes on television that we don't see the debt of contemporary western producers to Ford. Debts are inevitable and justifiable in the lively arts when the new effort tries to improve the claim staked out by the old.

FEW IMPROVEMENTS

Unfortunately, TV seldom sees improvements.

This week on Maverick (ABC-TV, Sunday 7:30 p.m. EDT) we saw another Western about a stagecoach dashing through Apache country. Its passengers definitely were not an interesting or well defined as those who rode Ford's stagecoach 20 years ago.

When the coach was overturned, they piled up in an abandoned adobe hut to fight it out with the Apaches. But the Apaches weren't really Apaches; they were disguised Mexicans who were seven hundred thousand bucks one of the women in the coach was carrying. (In Stagecoach, things are exactly what they seem to be; in most TV Westerns they're a little different. This effort for surprise usually gives an effect of absurdity rather than reality.)

Well, Stagecoach resolves its Apache dilemma in the old, forthright stand-up western manner: At the harrowing moment of the chase the 7th Cavalary dashes in and the siege is saved.

Personally, I find that more credible than the way Maverick solved its fake Apache dilemma: Our hero filled an empty canteen with cartridge powder and slugs, stuck a fuse in it, crawled out, tossed his bomb—and killed every last phony Apache.

Belleville Ties Cobourg 5-5 in Juvenile Game

Belleville scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning at the Fairgrounds here last night to earn a 5-5 tie with Cobourg in the second game of their OBA Juvenile "A" playdown series. The game was halted by darkness at that point.

The game will be replayed here Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Cobourg won the first game and a Belleville win on the weekend will force a deciding game, to be played in Cobourg next Tuesday night.

Cobourg starting catcher Decamp was rushed to the hospital here in the sixth inning last night when he suffered a dislocated shoulder or arm sliding into second base.

Cobourg spotted the locals a run in the opening frame, then went ahead 5-1, three of their runs coming in the third inning. Belleville got a pair back in the fourth and tied it just before the game was halted by darkness.

Gord Vaughan tossed six - hit ball over the distance for Belleville. He fired third strikes by five batters and did not walk a batter.

Maybee tolled for Cobourg, also allowing six hits. He whiffed four and issued five free passes.

F. Wakely of Cobourg was the only player on either side to get two hits, both one - baggers. Arnew, Richards, Decamp and Sharpe also hit safely for the visitors.

Belleville safeties were divided among Ralph Plane, Gary Gower, Pat Anselstine, Ralph Vanbuskerk, Terry Kidd and Gord Vaughan, all singles.

The Belleville team will hold a practice at the Fairgrounds Thursday evening at 6.30 and all players are asked to attend.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, August 21

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Being extravagant in order to get the favor of romantic interest would today be foolhardy, and you would jeopardize your position careerwise, lose prestige with those in power. Your goals would then be so much harder to reach.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Argument ensuing between close kin and an acquaintance, duties to family and at work, conflict between associates and relatives — all threaten to ruin your chances today, if you do not act, choose and decide wisely.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be very careful in all letter writing, out driving on the road, personal contact with everyone today, for all could seriously threaten to harm you in some way. Don't argue. Co — operate, your day of victory will soon be here.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Make it your business to be as clever and productive as possible today, so that you conquer the temptation to spend money foolishly on worthless pleasure. Take inventory of your assets, do all in your power to protect, increase them.

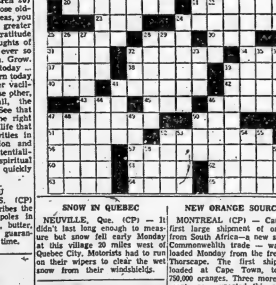
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be of service unto others today, particularly in connection with closest ties who are also the helpers and protectors of own interests. Show appreciation for their suggestions, but do not make any definite promises.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — That secret anxiety that seems so frustrating today will soon vanish into thin air. Improve others by following your key-phrase, "I serve." This is your true mission in life, and it will bring back the richest rewards.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You are slowly making money and things your God instead of sticking to the only true and real values. Get back to your idealistic concepts and far more shall be added unto you.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be certain you do not raise the ire or disturb any of those people who are vital to your life opportunity. Just get your work done as perfectly as possible, do not ask for a raise, and look after gaining greater prestige.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — While you would like to get out into the teaming world of activity, by sticking to necessary labors, you discover much of what has eluded you ere this. Be content with your ability to hold fast to duty.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — The goals you planned long ago still remain the ideal ones for you. However, give an ear to fascinating plans being explained to you by a clever friend. While this is not the propitious time to act upon them, be prepared.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Here is one of those days when an expert and your usual associates do not agree. But this is neither the day for you to sever relations nor make drastic changes, either. Remain secure, undisturbed.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you put aside all those old-fashioned systems and ideas, you will make faster and greater progress now. Show gratitude for suggestions and thoughts of others, though they be ever so different from your own. Grow.

If your child is born today — The provocative child born today is the type who will ever vacillate from one thing to the other, the grand and the small, the good and the bad, etc. See that your youngster gets the right kind of training in early life that will channel all activities in most constructive fashion and bring out the great potentialities in this chart. Make spiritual training a must here as quickly as possible.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this incredible substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoid cases after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very large number of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or surgery of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injuries' tissue as all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Hear U.S. Plans Suspension Of Nuclear Testing

Hope Temporary Move To Bring Permanent Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Geneva disarmament subcommittee today welcomed a report that the United States is about ready to announce a temporary suspension of nuclear weapons testing.

Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota said in an interview that his staff has been informed such a step is under consideration.

"A temporary suspension — our part as a prelude to negotiation of a safeguarded agreement would be good, sound public policy," Humphrey said. "It would win us friends around the world, and put us out in front in the disarmament field."

WHITE HOUSE MUM

The White House declined either to confirm or deny the report, which came Wednesday night from an informed source.

The source, asking to remain anonymous, said the U.S. government hopes a temporary halt might pave the way to a permanent international agreement for a test suspension, with adequate safeguards.

The United States has been conducting a series of tests in the Pacific. These tests, begun last spring, are scheduled to end soon.

Russia announced a unilateral test suspension last March at the end of a test series. Britain has been preparing to start a new series of tests in the Pacific.

GENEVA

Scientists from Western and Communist nations announced agreement Tuesday on a technical system for policing any test suspension. This agreement was reached in seven weeks of talks in Geneva.

The informed source indicated a U.S. announcement of a temporary halt of nuclear weapons testing will come from these East-West technical talks.

Asked about the reports, James Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Wednesday night:

"As President Eisenhower said at his press conference Wednesday, the results to date of the technical talks at Geneva have been encouraging. However, the experts have not yet rendered their report. No conclusions based on that report have been or could have been taken."

GENEVA (AP) — The East-West conference on nuclear test control ended today after recommending a worldwide system of inspection stations to police any future agreement to ban nuclear weapon tests.

The closed-door eight - power conference held a final formal session at which a part of the technical-agreement reached was announced.

The conference, which began seven weeks ago, was confined strictly to scientific questions.

U.S. BAN SEEN

Advance word of the agreement was followed by a report in Washington Wednesday night that the United States is about ready to announce a temporary suspension of nuclear weapon tests. Russia announced a test suspension last March. Britain, the third nuclear power, is preparing to start a new series of tests in the Pacific.

The experts urged that control station staffs should have complete freedom to operate anywhere on-the - spot investigations, and that stations should be set up at sea as well as on land.

An announcement said the conference had made use of the various methods for detecting nuclear explosions and made control of a test ban feasible "within certain specific limits." The announcement did not explain those limits.

The experts said they had concluded that the control system should be directed by an international control commission which would have the coordination of control activities and the efficient functioning of that all-inclusive network would require control stations in Communist China. The Soviet Union had insisted on participate in the conference, which also included the governments of the United States, British, Canada, France, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania.

CONTROL METHODS

The announcement listed the following methods to be used by the control system: "collection of samples of radioactive debris, recording of seismic waves, of hydro-acoustic waves, and the radio signal method, together with the use of meteorological or unidentified events which might be suspected of being nuclear explosions."

The leader of the Western delegation, Dr. James B. Fisk of the United States, told the closing session that there was a common understanding which they hope "will prove helpful to all of our governments in future consideration of this important subject."

The head of the Soviet delegation, Professor Yevgeny P. Fedorov, said he "noted with great satisfaction that a spirit of mutual understanding has come from the outset of the conference to its very successful conclusion." Any agreement of a nuclear test ban could go undetected, he said.

RELIEF INCREASES

TORONTO (CP)—City, Welfare Commissioner J. E. Rupert says the number of people in Toronto receiving relief in June was nearly 50 per cent greater than in June, 1957. There were 10,326 receiving relief in June, 1957, and 15,299 in June, 1958.

Princess Celebrates 28th Birthday On Scottish Moors She Loves

BALLATER Scotland (Reuters) Princess Margaret today celebrated her 28th birthday quietly on the rugged Scottish moors she has loved since childhood.

The princess went for a picnic with the Queen and the other members of the Royal Family on the shores of Loch Muick, not far from Balmoral Castle.

Prince Philip organized a session of trout fishing as the weather cleared after the picnic lunch. Fishing is a popular pastime with the Queen Mother.

Margaret — back from her trip to Canada—has celebrated every birthday in Scotland.

First member of the Royal Family to be born in Scotland since Charles I in 1600, Margaret spent her first seven birthdays at her birthplace, Glamis Castle. Every one since has been celebrated at Balmoral.

It was here, seven years ago that tragic bonfires and a gay dance marked Margaret's 21st birthday.

Today the question of whom she will marry or whether she will marry at all remains unanswered. Friends of the Royal Family believe her romance with Peter Townsend never will be revived.

She returned from a world tour early this year and visited the Queen Mother in London. A palace statement then said Margaret's views remained unaltered.

TAXPAYERS WILL BENEFIT BY NEW CONTRACT FORMS

No More Cost-Plus For Defence Items

OTTAWA (CP)—There's good news for Canadian taxpayers in the form a new government defence contract will take.

It's a departure from the cost-plus contract which has been in vogue with many of the more costly defence items. Cost-plus means the cost of the item plus a certain percentage of the cost for-profit.

As D. A Golden, deputy minister of defence production, said the new form of contract does not participate in the conference, which also included the governments of the United States, British, Canada, France, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania.

CONTROL METHODS

The announcement listed the following methods to be used by the control system: "collection of samples of radioactive debris, recording of seismic waves, of hydro-acoustic waves, and the radio signal method, together with the use of meteorological or unidentified events which might be suspected of being nuclear explosions."

The leader of the Western delegation, Dr. James B. Fisk of the United States, told the closing session that there was a common understanding which they hope "will prove helpful to all of our governments in future consideration of this important subject."

Surprise Proposal by Arabs May Settle Mid-East Strife

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) A successful conclusion to the United Nations emergency assembly on the Middle East appeared in prospect today under an Arab plan for non-aggression pledges and a mid-east peace conference.

The assembly, it was felt in many quarters this morning, may be able to wind up this emergency session by Friday with a generally-approved paper blueprint for future stability, it would accept the UN as providing a framework for the immediate future.

The Soviet-led members might not accept it in an assembly vote, if it was conceded, but with the Western and middle powers ready to endorse the Arab plan backed up by the African and Asian members, the assembly would be close to unanimity.

The Arab peace plan for the Mid-East crisis was unveiled by pro-Western Lebanon and Jordan against aggression from other Arab states.

It calls on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to facilitate the withdrawal of United States troops from Lebanon and British troops from Jordan.

The Arab nations said they would forward the plan to their home governments for approval. If this is forthcoming it will be introduced today in the 81-nation General Assembly.

There were understood to be the main points in the Arab plan:

1. Reaffirmation of Arab League pledges against non-intervention in the affairs of other Arab countries.

2. A request to the UN secretary-general to set up the necessary arrangements to make possible the early withdrawal of U.S. troops from Lebanon and British forces from Jordan.

3. A ban on inflammatory broadcasts beamed from one Arab capital to another.

4. An economic development plan along the lines proposed by President Eisenhower in his broad Middle East program, and also suggested by Hammarskjold.

5. A request for Hammarskjold to report back to Sept. 30 to the assembly, which will then be in its regular fall session.

The news electrified delegates as they came out of the assembly hall after a late afternoon session. No mention was made in the hall itself of the Arab move.

The unexpected show of unanimity among the 20 Arab nations caught delegates by complete surprise.

Foreign Minister Charles Malik of Lebanon and Mahmoud Fawzi, foreign minister for the United Arab Republic, attended the private meeting. Other Arab states present included Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Libya, Jordan and Sudan. They constitute the eighth nation Arab League. Morocco and Tunisia also attended.

The non-aggression guarantees were said to be similar to those contained in the charter of the Arab League.

The Arab nations first announced their intention to work out a peace plan at a private meeting of the Arab-Asian group. That group agreed to withhold action on rival assembly proposals pending the outcome of the Arab efforts.

Key Suspect in Car-Bomb Slaying Questioned, Released

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police Wednesday night questioned for two hours a man believed to have been a key suspect in the car-bomb slaying of Antonio Dipasquali, then released him but told him not to leave town.

Inspector Don Nichols, OPP criminologist from Toronto, debriefed comment on the case, but it was known the suspect was given a six-month suspended sentence last year for stabbing Dipasquali in a fracas involving Dipasquali's wife.

Evidence at the stabbing trial was that the suspect and Dipasquali, who was killed Tuesday night when a bomb exploded as he started his car, were friends in Italy. Dipasquali, 31-year-old father of five children, came to Canada seven years ago.

Insp. Nichols, who arrived here Wednesday night with explosives expert Professor Emily Bigler of the attorney-general's department criminal laboratory, also questioned several other persons believed to be witnesses.

He and Professor Bogers were to examine the wreckage today. They had a preliminary look Wednesday night at the blast scene at the Brunner Mond Company in this town 18 miles southwest of Windsor. Dipasquali died when he turned on the ignition of his car, pressed the starter button and "a bomb in the trunk exploded," police said.

Eighty Years Between Drinks Of Moonshine

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — Thelford Townsend is back in court on a moonshine charge.

Townsend is a spry 94, and the last time he was picked up for making moonshine liquor was in 1878, when he was a boy of 14.

That time a federal judge "found me guilty, but let me make a kick in the seat of the pants on my way out."

DEBATES RANGE OVER WIDE AREA, SESSION NEAR END

Charge Made Mines Low-Grading Ore

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons moved today from consideration of Canada's land resources to its riches under the sea.

After a farrago of thoughts of summer vacations in its atmosphere, the House took up examination of the defence department spending estimates for the current fiscal year, which ends next March 31.

It recalled Wednesday on mines department estimates and the talk ranged from a demand for more federal spending on geological surveys in a plea that the country get more on daylight saving time.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) said some gold mines are purposely low-grading their ore to qualify for government gold mining assistance from the federal government.

HAS HEARD STORIES

He said he has heard stories from miners in the Timmins and Port Arthur areas that certain mines—he mentioned Little Long Lac Minerals Limited—had ore bodies, thus producing only low - grade ore, which qualifies them for the federal subsidy.

Referring to Little Long Lac, he said this company had been sharp purchasers, acquires control of such mines, then selling the company a large share of the federal subsidies.

Mr. Fisher described it — Villeneuve) said the situation is not helped by a bill paid last year to distribute dividends in the part but smaller part of the high-grade ore was depleted.

HAS NO PROOF

The Minister Comtois said his department has received no "proof" that low-grading goes on. If such proof came to his desk, he would view them in a "completely different light."

H. W. Herridge, deputy CCF House leader from Kootenay West constituency is in the heart of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor field of activity, also called for closer enforcement of regulations covering use of explosives.

He had heard complaints in his area that it is sometimes lumber workers or road construction workers left "dozens of cases of dynamite lying round, covered only with canvas or under a log, unprotected."

Mr. Comtois, turning to the Port Arthur member, said the state is "not a pretty one." His difficulties would be solved easily by government action alone.

The government was ready to continue its various forms of subsidy and exploration that was designed to make that fuel cheaper than gas or oil but to make it competitive.

The minister's departmental spending estimates for 1958-59 from the previous year at $49,742,151, won house approval just at the sitting's end.

Rail Conciliation Report Accepted By Union Group

But Largest of Unions Is Opposed to Proposals

MONTREAL (CP) — The general conference committee of the non-operating railway unions has agreed to accept the majority recommendations of a federal conciliation board dealing with a contract dispute with the major railways.

The unions, bargaining for 130,000 Canadian railway workers, will inform Labor Minister Starr of their acceptance of the report in a letter.

In a brief statement, the union committee said:

"The general conference committee of the non-operating railway brotherhoods has agreed to accept majority findings of the board of conciliation and advise to that effect will be sent to the minister of labor in a letter that will outline the union's views on some aspects of the report."

There was no indication of what "aspects" would be raised in the union letter to Mr. Starr.

LARGEST UNION OPPOSED

It was not immediately known what action will be taken by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees which has come out flatly against the report of the board.

The CBRE, is largest of the 15 unions engaged in the $100 million-a-year fight.

Today's announcement came after two days of closed sessions on the question of the conciliation report which recommended more than half of what the unions were asking in a wage increase.

There was no immediate comment from the railways who argued before the board that wages increases were not justified at the present time. In a minority report, Philip Vineberg, company nominee on the three-man conciliation board, opposed the railway award on wages.

It was understood that CBRE officers have got bottlenecked by other members of the general conference committee for unofficial reports that the 30,000-member union was backing the conciliation board report.

Today, the CBRE's house magazine, Canadian Transport, made the reports official, and added that the CBRE was "pleased" about the findings.

Besides rejecting the conciliation board's recommendation, the magazine was sharply critical of Labor Minister Starr and Conciliation Commissioner Arthur Hanbidge, 72-year-old chairman of the three-man federal board, who presided over the report.

CALLED BAD REPORT

Canadian Transport's two articles are titled "A Bad Report" and "Turn It Down," and an editorial by president W. J. Smith says:

"... Labor peace on the railways cannot be established by low living standards of railway employees keep abreast of those of the rest of the community.

"This and not the size of the award is the criterion the report should be rejected."

The articles conclude:

"This is a bad report—bad not only because the wage award is too low, but bad because the report is) frequently badly reasoned, containing contradictions of fact and misinterpretations of the arguments it considered."

The board "leaves the record a

Lindsay Awaits Women Matadors For First Bullfights in Canada

LINDSAY (CP) — Two women matadors were due today from Mexico for Canada's first bullfights.

Elizabeth Bilbao, formerly of Toronto, and Jean Breault of Montreal will be briefed on the conditions and restrictions governing the end of the six bulls they are to fight without sword or banderillas.

Mexican matadors George Luis Gomez and Jose Gonzalez have arrived July 31, say the bulls are in top shape and pawing the ground impatiently for the battle.

Doing almost the same thing are members of the Lindsay Board of Commerce who say earlier fears of poor attendance have been dispelled.

The matadors are almost the only persons who have seen the bulls since the black, 500-pound beasts arrived last weekend. They have been under guard of Lindsay police at a secret corral.

The bullfights were delayed three weeks from the weekend of Aug. 9 when the animals were caused by dynamite, blew the car to shreds. Bits of wreckage were strewn more than 100 yards.

Professor Rogers said the explosion was not necessarily the work of an expert, that it was a simple procedure to learn.

Relatives and friends of the dead man intimated they know more about the slaying than they care to say.

"It's taken a year coming, but it's come all right," said one fellow-employee.

A relative said: "Of course we think bullfights were delayed because of this. All about. But what can we say? . . .What can we do?"

Two Sentenced To Death for Exploding Bombs

AMMAN (AP) — A Jordanian military court today convicted five young Arabs of exploding bombs in Amman and sentenced two of them to death.

One of the defendants was a 19-year-old girl Nuada Salti, She got a 7½-year sentence but this was reduced to three years at hard labour. Her fiance was one of those sentenced to death.

The defendants were accused of exploding five bombs during Parliamentary elections. One bomb was planted in the local British library and another in the British-controlled information building. Only one person was injured—a man hurt in blast.

ARAB CAUSE CELEBRE

The case, which was placed before a military court right after the bombs, became a cause celebre in the Arab world. Radio Cairo called Miss Salti a Moslem Joan of Arc.

The other death sentence was for Daud Lewis, another Mohamed Ibrahim, 22-year employee of the Jordanian health department, who was charged with leading the group.

A 25-year-old photographer for the UN Relief Agency was sentenced to 15 years for smuggling explosives into Jordan on UN planes. The fifth defendant was sentenced to 3 years.

The trial, was the second of numerous political assassination arrow or explosives from Syria since the current crisis began. Thirteen persons were sentenced to death on Aug. 13.

AID FOR EUROPE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Congress completed action Wednesday on legislation to allow the United States help to Western Europe in the event of a Soviet attack. Nations that will produce 1,000,000 kilowatts of electric power, Monday's action in the House of Representatives was without a word of debate.

They Did Not Believe Own Warning Sign

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The sign at two holes dug by Ohio Fuel Gas Company crews said "Danger area. No smoking. No open flames. No matches."

No one had trouble reading it. It was lighted by red kerosene lanterns to keep poor flares.

Gas company spokesman explained the flares were put up to light the holes, not the sign. Workers had failed to find a reported gas leak but the signs were left here.

"The sign is there and the flares don't handle signs," the company spokesman said.

Plowing Matches Will Be Held On Seven Farms

Activities at the 1961 International Plowing Match to be held in the Belleville area will take in seven farms on the 4th concession of Thurlow and Sidney township west of No. 14 Highway.

On the suggestion of Bancroft Reeve J. N. Brown, Hastings county council on Wednesday made an "on the spot" inspection of the plowing match site which has been praised by the plowing match officials.

Deputy Reeve Harry Brown of Thurlow, as chairman of the county council plowing match committee noted, that all plowing competition would be south of the concession road with the tented city to be on a forty-acre site on the Vermilyea farms. Visitors will be the big plowing match will park their cars north of the road, it was stated.

Accounts Down From Last Year

Indigent accounts for the county of Hastings for this year running slightly under the amount for the same period last year, Hastings County councillors were told Wednesday.

Reeve J. N. Wilkens of Bancroft, chairman of the finance committee said such accounts to date this year totalled $33,536.04, compared to $34,189.40 for the same period last year. Since the April session of council Mr. Brown said the finance committee had given grants of $300 to the Belleville Red Cross; $350 to the Belleville Salvation Army and $300 to the Tweed Salvation Army.

Boxer Missing After Fair

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of a strange purebred Boxer dog, probably with a litter of pups by now, is asked to report to the Belleville police department.

Duchess, owned by John E. Padgett, a member of the Patty Conklin exposition which played in Belleville last week during the Belleville Fair, is missing. Mr. Padgett found his pet gone on the night he was preparing to leave that day for Toronto.

The dog is brown with a black face and carries a chain choker around her neck with two tags attached from a Dr. Thrasher in New Orleans.

Mr. Padgett raised Duchess from a pup and Mr. Padgett reported that his dog is expecting. He is offering a reward to the person who returns Duchess, unharmed.

Could Increase Assessment by Developing Sites

Assessment in Hastings county could be increased by at least five million dollars through a program of developing sites for cottage and retirement homes in the lake areas of the county.

This was the prophesy made at Hastings County council Wednesday by Reeve J. V. Holt of Stirling, who as chairman of the county planning board, said that almost every township in the county has sites available and waiting for development.

"We could increase our assessment by at least $5,000,000 by selling sites for cottages and retirement homes," he said.

He noted that around one county lake alone there was now over a half million dollar investment in cottages and still the surface had not even been scratched.

Mr. Holt's statement came following council being addressed by Mr. Johnson Peterson-Brough, representing the Lake Ontario Development Association.

Mr. Brough's visit to the association aimed at the economic development of the area which is sought to improve by the industrial and tourist promotion.

Brochures were being supplied to potential industry and also were being handed out at the convention.

Mr. Holt agreed that the LODA had done excellent work and noted that the work of this association tied in well with that of the county publicity committee.

Are Now Paving Madoc Highway At Moira Lake

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company is this week paving the concrete section of the Madoc-Foxboro road, which has been relayed by the Ontario Department of Highways during the past two years.

The concrete strip of road south of Madoc, ending about a mile south of Moira Lake, is being paved with asphalt and a company spokesman stated today it was expected the work could be completed this week, barring holidays due to wet weather.

Provincial Grants for several years have endeavored to have the Foxboro-Madoc section of county road taken over as a provincial highway but this the department has not agreed to.

Two years ago, however, the department agreed to rebuild the road following which it would be turned back to the county for maintenance.

The three-mile section of the road south of Madoc has been rebuilt with a new bridge at Moira Lake, while work has been completed on the Halleway cut-off which will by-pass that village. This phase of the work at Halloway is being done by county labor and equipment while the Madoc section was contracted.

Steal Brand New Auto From City Lot

Provincial Police at Belleville are investigating the theft of a new Rambler car from a Belleville car lot on Foxboro Road which was taken last night and then abandoned in the city after being driven about 180 miles.

The car, which had only six miles on the speedometer when stolen, was abandoned on the Bay Bridge Road near the CPR crossing. The car is being checked for fingerprints.

A week ago a station wagon stolen from Boyce's used car lot in Pinnacle Street was found abandoned also on the Bay Bridge Road in the same locality as the Elliott car was found.

Move to Renovate Building At Cost Not Over $200,000 Presented to County Council

A finance committee recommendation to go ahead with planned renovations at the county courthouse at a cost not to exceed $200,000 is likely to see approval or rejection by Hastings county council before the end of the present session which is sitting this week.

Wednesday afternoon finance committee Mr. Brown of Bancroft recommended that the work be proceeded with. Cost estimate is $197,750, exclusive of architect's fees.

Included would be new stairwells and exits, new washroom facilities which would also provide one, an estimated $35,800, renovations to the main court room and provision of a second court room; provision of a new entrance lobby and corridors, heating ventilation and exterior work.

Omitted from tentative plans submitted last spring by architects are asphalt driveways and curbing which it is felt could be done at a later date.

The plan does provide, however, for replacement of the pillars at the front entrance to the building which are reported to have shown are in bad state of repair.

Reeve Brown said the recommendation was that the work should be done and paid for over a three-year period although if the county council found it advantageous to do all the work say in one year, that could be undertaken.

PAY IN THREE YEARS

He did not feel that the cost of the project would be a burden to the county and said the county's share could be paid off in three years without increasing the taxrates.

Provision of additional parking space about the court house grounds could be accomplished on a later date although the northern reeve said he did not know just how this would be done. Possibly in part of the top terrace might be one answer to the problem," he said.

Reeve J. V. Holt of Stirling felt the engagement of an engineer to do the present building could be used more advantageously by adding to and reconstructing a new combined court house and shire hall at a cost of up to $500,000.

He said this could be done at a cost of only one and a half million dollars in the next 20 years.

There was opposition to his thinking, however, from Reeve Charles Rickard of Deloro, and Reeve W. J. Davis of Bangor who claimed a new structure would not leave the county any "white elephant" building.

Warden Lloyd Price stated that the finance committee had met twice since the spring session during which time it carefully studied the committee to make a full investigation on proposed renovations and come back to council with a recommendation.

OUTSIDE KEEP NOTICED

Their recommendation was for renovation and he felt that the discussion to such time as the recommendation and not on a new structure, which was voted against last spring.

Reeve Davis said in the present structure the county had dignity, location and also the building and the completed renovations would justify the expenditure. He asked that the finance committee was to be congratulated in the recommendation it had come up with.

The recommendation for renovation of the court house was tabled for later discussion in the session.

In his finance committee report Reeve Brown said his committee had been interviewed by a delegation from the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors concerning a possible grant toward the construction of a building to be used for educational purposes for nurses in training.

He said this delegation would address council on the matter Thursday afternoon.

U.S. WEAPONS ARRIVE

BAGHDAD (Reuters) — The first shipment of American military supplies to reach Iraq since the July 14 revolution arrived in the south port of Basra Wednesday, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

Bridges Breaking Down in North Under Loads

Mammoth highway tractor trailers loaded to almost the limit permitted by their licences are causing the breakdown of township bridges in North Hastings which were never intended to carry heavy loads, Hastings county councillors were told Wednesday.

Reeve William J. Davis of McClure, Wicklow and Bangor townships said heavy trucks were going up and down township roads picking up pulpwood for shipment to the south with result that bridges were being broken.

As an indication of the seriousness of the matter, he said that in one day this summer no less than three small bridges had to be repaired at a burden for rural taxpayers.

The discussion came up following the Ontario Minister of Renfrew county resolution calling for an increase of two cents in the gasoline tax with the added money to be applied to building of new and suburban roads where the gas was sold.

General opinion of the councillors was that the resolution was "out of line" and following the lead of Warden Lloyd voted not to concur in the motion.

NO ACTION TAKES

Following their action taken on a Peel county resolution asking for amendments to the ontario municipal board which would permit judges to make orders extending boundaries for built wards over the present 18 years.

This would be done only in instances where a ward was about going on to higher education, it was explained.

It was noted that Hastings county CAS had one such ward who was attending university in Kingston. Under the current legislation the latter cannot be forced to pay the going per diem rate to assist in support of the municipality until the child is 18 years of age.

Reeve Harold Varty of Hungerford said he supported the idea and assured there was no danger of the plan becoming widespread as it only applied to wards with exceptional ability.

Acalmon Ellis, Reeve Alt. Wickett of Thurlow asked where loans to students might be secured. He cited the example of a widow in his township who had raised five children, one of whom was now desirous of going to normal school but the mother could not afford the cost.

It was suggested that service organizations might be interested in helping in such a case, while Warden Lloyd Price cited one instance where a normal school student had secured a loan from a bank.

COUNCIL CONCURS

Neither was action taken on a Bruce county resolution asking for more government assistance in snow removal.

Council did concur in another resolution calling for the government to take more extensive action to control weed seeds from certified farm seeds.

Under correspondence a vote of thanks was directed forwarded to Hon. Sidney Smith, minister of External Affairs and to M.P. for Hastings - Frontenac, and to Lee Grills, M.P., for Hastings South, for the special honor accorded Hastings county councillors on their recent visit to Ottawa.

A recommendation for a county grant to assist the Belleville McFarlands to go to Prague next winter was referred to ways and means.

Safe Cracked In Bancroft

Safe-crackers last night forced their way into the Clifford Broad grocery at Bancroft where they tipped the office safe on its side and burned a hole in the bottom with an acetylene torch and made off with the contents.

Mr. Broad, who is deputy reeve for Bancroft village, said at present he was not learning that office records and cash were in the safe.

Bowling Notes

Four Belleville rinks journeyed to Brighton on Wednesday afternoon to enjoy a mixed double and rink game played by that club and one of them came home with the top prize. Wally Lavergne and Mrs. Grace Clapp, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price, Mr. and Mrs. Alf Hollingsworth and Claude D. Tice and Mrs. Marie Bell were the participants and the latter-mentioned pair won the tournament. Only two games were played due to the downpour that occurred just after the third end had been played and the officials after waiting for half an hour called the games thing off and distributed the prizes on the standing at the end of the second game. Tice and Bell had a 41 plus one while Morley Gait and Mrs. W. Stringer of Kingston were second with 40. Mr. and Mrs. William Fuller of Trenton were in third place and Ken Pearce and Mrs. Mary Hulin of Brighton were fourth. Colour prize awards were distributed.

The greens were in excellent condition and the bowling exceptionally keen by rinks from Kingston, Trenton, Frankford, Campbellford and Brighton. Sixteen rinks competed.

Two rinks from the local club took part in the Colonial Cup tourney on Wednesday but neither could garner any of the prizes, although in past years Belleville rinks have won the handsome trophy on a number of occasions. Bruce Miller, Gordon Edwards, Gordon Wallis with Jerry Wood as skip, played three Toronto rinks, winning the first 19-18, losing the second 20-15 and winning the third 20-11. The other rink of Ken Hanna, Wilbur Dobbs, Jim Hanna and Walter Elliott as skip won two of their games, but were not quite enough to get in the prize money. Both rinks played on the Oshawa greens. The Whitby greens were also used to accommodate the Belleville and suburban rinks which journeyed to Whitby.

Congratulations, although belated are due to Millie Smith and Grace Clapp for their fifth and sixth wins of the ladies doubles tourney sponsored by the women's section of the Trenton Lawn Bowling Club. Rhea Gerow and Rita Lloyd have brought the latter to Belleville. They report a wonderful time.

A number of mixed doubles rinks are preparing for the doubles tourney scheduled to be staged at Trenton on Saturday and Sunday, featuring a trophy and accompanying prizes. Two draft draws are expected, the first to play on Saturday starting o'clock and the second about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Tuesday the biggest mixed doubles tourney in Eastern Ontario Lawn Bowling Association history will be competed for, with representatives of the province will compete for the wonderful prizes sponsored by Mrs. Clifford Sadler, memory of their father, who was an ardent member of the Peterborough Club for many years. There is always a waiting list for this tournament and all rinks are disappointed each year when the draw is at nine and the second as near eleven as possible. A number of rinks have already left for Trenton on their way north for this outing.

Intend to Pave Or Surface Treat All Town Roads

TRENTON — "It is expected that within the next 10 years all streets in Trenton will be either paved or surface treated," Eric Aldersey, town engineer, said yesterday.

At present all 33 miles of town streets are either hard surfaced or have been given a coating of prime.

Fifteen miles of streets, which include the four miles of highways that run through town, have been covered with asphalt; 10 miles have been surface treated and the other eight have been primed.

The town has adopted a policy of using surface treatment which actually costs a tenth of the price of asphalt. Asphalt costs about 23 per square yard, while surface treat only costs about 30 cents for the same amount.

Town streets which have been surface treated this summer are Albert, Stewart, the CNR Station road from Quinte to Wraggett, Sutcliffe, Wilkins, McCall, Catherine, McGill, Alberta, Shuter, Queen, Sidney, North Byron, North Murray, Ramsay, Myers, Baptiste, Cedar, Ferry, College, Hawley, Ontario, John, Campbell, Marmora, Leopold, and Coleman Heights.

Mr. Aldersey said some of the above streets were done for the first time; others have received their second treatment and although many of them were done completely by contractors, some of the others were treated.

At present, work is being done on Queen Street on both sides of Hawley Hall, where the street is being widened by the town's new engineer.

METHOD USED

In surface treating a street the tar is poured on the existing road surface and then rock chips are spread over it. It is packed with a roller and then left for the traffic to do the rest of the work.

The same thing is done for finished off.

Pumper Truck Called Out for Burner Blaze

TRENTON — The first oil burner fire in recent months called firemen out with their pumper truck last night at 7 a.m.

Firemen report that repairs to an oil furnace at the home of Frank Rowe, 18 South Charles Street had been made and the furnace was lit for a trial run. Things apparently got out of hand and with the burner getting out of control, the fire department was called.

The engineman who answered the call had little trouble bringing it under control. It is the first fire concerning a building the department has had since the Titus Block was destroyed. Other calls being to the sawdust pile south of the softball park.

It is hoped the rain yesterday and today will help the fire department in putting out the fire which is still believed to be smouldering underneath the top layer of sawdust.

Accident-wise the police department has had little to do in the past three days with no accidents on town streets reported. The last was on August 18 when a dog was killed.

three years in a row and at the end of that time the road is as good if not better in some ways than one which has been treated with asphalt, it is claimed.

In the spring when the frost is coming out of the ground there is less effect on the surface treated street than on one which has been covered with asphalt.

Mr. Aldersey said that town crews have also surface treated the roadway around the hospital and that the hospital board will repay the town for this work.

He said the Public Works Department will also be renting a roller from the Lightfoot Company in Belleville for a week to assist in getting the streets

TRENTON — Forty-five Wing Scouts and members of the Civil Air Patrol, guests of the 1st Trenton Air Rangers, enjoyed a four day visit and tour of RCAF Station Trenton Monday morning. Upon their arrival at the station about ten a.m. Mayor Ross Burtt welcomed the visitors on behalf of the "Air Force City of Canada." Group Captain R. M. Cox, commanding officer of the station added a few words of welcome on behalf of the station, promising that the "cold Canadian Arctic air will start for the duration of their Canadian visit.

First on the agenda was the emergency air where Wing Commander J. F. Easton demonstrated the emergency seat pack. Squadron with a single ah," as well as other assorted articles such as ballet, fins, etc.

The group then visited the historic Pearly Gates donated to Canada by Anguila, New Scotland and Great Britain for her contribution to the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Relatively free from enemy interference Canada proceeded to carry on a very extensive pilot training program of which Trenton was the centre.

A short talk accompanied by a film on some of the activities concluded the morning's visit.

The group were then guests of Mrs. K. Harvey, founder of the original Trenton company, for lunch before proceeding to the first International Air Ranger-Wing Scout-CAP camp to be held in Canada, at Bon Echo, Lake Mazinaw.

Cardinals Lead Lakeshore Loop

TRENTON — First place in the Lakeshore Bantam Baseball League is currently being held down by the Cardinals of Trenton.

The Cardinals, sponsored by Branch No. 110 of the Canadian Legion, play against teams from Cobourg, Colborne, Wellington and Middleton Park.

All players in this league are in the 13 to 15 year age group, due to expert coaching and previous experience, play a brand of ball which would be equal to much older boys.

The Cardinals will represent the Trenton Legion in the Midget Ontario Baseball Association tournament at Belleville in September and, despite the handicap of playing against older boys, are expected to give a good account of themselves.

Branch sports officer W. H. "Bill" Milne keeps a fatherely eye on the Cardinals.

Two Ministers Not Qualified Says Pickersgill

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal J. W. Pickersgill charged today the Commons that two cabinet ministers—Hon. W. J. Browne and Hon. J. M. Macdonnell—are illegally qualified to sit in Parliament.

He said the two ministers, likely unknowingly, contravened the Canada Elections Act in the March 31 general election.

Mr. Pickersgill, member for Bonavista - Twillingate, said the election act forbids any candidate receiving a salary from the Crown. The exception to this was cabinet ministers, but not ministers without portfolio.

Mr. Browne and Mr. Macdonnell are ministers without portfolio.

Professor George Boyle Will Be Guest Speaker at Hay Bay Service

Canadians for a hundred years or more were so busy carving homes out of the bush and laying foundations for a nation that they gave little thought to the preservation of historic sites. In recent years, there has been quite a change. Interested people and organizations have been giving much time to preserving historic sites.

One of the most notable of these shrines is the old Hay Bay Church. Formerly a Methodist Church, and now in The United Church of Canada, it was built on the shores of beautiful Hay Bay. The church stands today just as it was built on the shores of Hay Bay, a little brown frame building. It is kept in good repair by a Board of Trustees appointed by the Bay of Quinte Conference of The United Church of Canada.

An increasing number of visitors from many parts of Canada and the United States visit the old church every summer. They are met by a minister of the United Church, who conducts a cottage erected a few years ago on the property. He explains the historic significance of the old church and acts as a guide and overseer of the property for the tourist season.

The old building is now no longer used for regular Sunday worship. Once a year, however, a pilgrimage is organized, and on Sunday, August 24, cars by the hundreds will converge on the old church for an afternoon service. Long before three o'clock, the time of the service, the church grounds and gallery will be filled to capacity. Hundreds of others will sit in their parked vehicles or stand around the outside of the church participating in the service, which will be relayed over the P.A. system.

The service will be held at 3 p.m. Rev. Professor George Boyle will be the guest speaker. Mr. Boyle was born in Hillier, attended high school in Brockville, and had a brilliant academic career at Victoria College, Emmanuel Colleges, Toronto. Graduating with a scholarship standing and the Sandford Gold Medal, he spent two years at New College, Edinburgh. In 1924 he was appointed the first archivist-historian of The United Church of Canada, and

PROF. G. BOYLE
of Victoria College

during the past four and a half years has put this department of the Church on its present solid foundation. Recently he resigned from the position of archivist-historian to become assistant professor of Religious Knowledge at Victoria College, Toronto.

A NAME BY ANY OTHER SPELLING - - -

Words would be a lot easier to live with if they always meant the same thing.

Differences in meaning, though, are nowhere near as tricky as differences in pronunciation.

The BBC London Letter reports that a party of Australian editors and journalists, being shown over Broadcasting House in London, was interested in the large card index in the news room, which gives the pronunciation of about 45,000 words and proper names for the guidance of newsreaders and announcers. One fact that the BBC did not have the right pronunciation of Derby, Western Australia, on the index. He lost. The pronunciation was shown as Derby, not Darby, as for the English place with the same spelling. Also listed as Derby were Derbys in Connecticut and Vermont.

But one does not have to stray from continent to continent to encounter place names spelled alike, and pronounced differently. There is an Elgin in the United States and a Fort Elgin on the shores of Lake Huron in Ontario. The "gin" of Elgin is pronounced the same as in a tall drink, or in rummy; at the Port the pronunciation is the same as that given to the letters "gin" after the first syllable of begin.

Things get even stuffier if one wanders from one language to another. Quebec sounds one way to an English-speaking Canadian and another way to the French Canadian; we wonder whether this difference should be shown by a bilingual Canadian when he switches from one language to another? Perhaps it should.

We think we detect some feeling that pronunciation should depend upon the tongue being spoken in an editorial in the Ottawa Journal, which was dealing not with the pronunciation of place names, or Montreal, or Levis, or Mississagny, but with faraway Peiping, here complicated by the additional fact that Peiping is also Peking, as quoted by the Journal, and, if memory serves us aright, also upon occasion, in some publications, Pekin. Two readers of the Journal have been engaging in what it describes as "a neat little bout with controversy". One contends that "CBC newscasters are a bit precious in saying 'Bay-ping' and would revert to the old title of Peking." The other contends the right pronunciation is "Bay-jing." The Journal says that it "stands strictly neutral" but does recall that at the time of the sinking of the Lusitania it announced that the initial of Uruguay "Montayvidayo" and that "we would like to think they felt a bit silly when Sir Winston Churchill said the name with the old anglicized pronunciation of Montevideo. We don't call Paris 'Paree' or Rome 'Roma'. Why then make a show of spurious superiority with Montevideo and Peiping."

That, as we said before, seems to us to support the suggestion that pronunciation of place names should be matched to the language which the speaker is using at the moment. That would make the selection between Kaybec and Kweebec, Montreal and Montreyal, even Jasper and Derby, a relatively simple matter.

We are sorry, though, but it doesn't help us a bit with Peiping, Peking, Pekin, Bay-ping and Bay-jing. Because another factor enters the picture here - - - that of the alphabet. When the first Chinese called Peiping or Pekin Peiping, he did not write it that way. He used Chinese characters. In the name of common sense, then, if the pronunciation the Chinese give to these Chinese characters is either Bay-ping or Bay-jing, why did the person who translated these characters into our English alphabet not write that it is sensible, ought to be in accord with reason, to use the adjective which describes the Tom who looks in windows?

Just at the moment, though, we'll settle for an explanation of why an announcer on a broadcasting staff in a neighboring city insists on referring to our city as Bellevel? Ill becomes him.

CANNY SCOTS

For years, especially at the beginning of the tourist season, Scots have reported seeing a monster "with a head like a dragon and long loops of neck like a sea serpent" in Loch Ness. This has become known as the "Loch Ness Monster."

Recently a group of frogmen wanted Parliament to give them a subsidy to probe for the monster. But they were squelched in this desire by Sir James Hutchinson, a Scottish member." He remarked, "The monster is a source of considerable tourist revenue and interest to Scotland. Please do nothing to explode it."

The Scots know a good thing when they don't see it!

BUSINESS AND SENTIMENT

"Business is business," one merchant said
Long years ago, and that man is dead.
But the phrase he uttered will still arise
For men repeat it and think it wise.

No sentiment in the marts of trade
That's the gravest error that men have made,

For the merchant knows if his purse he'd fill
He must build his business on good will.

And what is good will but a word of praise
And kindly dealing and cheerful ways,
And the wish to stifle all
discontent?
And these are nothing but sentiment.

Let Experts Fight Agree

Kingston Whig-Standard

The sensational disclosure of a study, cheap pill which is claimed to give immunization against radiation in the event of atomic war, and the immediate warnings against the pill, illustrate a modern dilemma under which newspaper has deplored on more than one occasion.

Scientist Dr. David Doherty of Oak Ridge National Laboratory, reporting at the International Congress on Radiation Research, the pill will perform the miniaturization feat mentioned. But Dr. Doherty had no sooner made his announcement than Dr. Welder Gordy of Duke University and Dr. Raymond Latarjet, a French expert, both cautioned against the "false hope" which would be occasioned by such a claim.

Now, judging from the prompt news and force of these warnings both Dr. Gordy and Dr. Latarjet must know exactly what the new pill is supposed to do. Latarjet pointed out that all animals submitted to radiation regardless of whether "protected" or not, while Dr. Gordy admitted only it is a such a wonder drug that rescue workers who might be subjected to accidental radiation.

What we find it difficult to understand is that a scientist would make a revealing claim before a body of fellow scientists without first being absolutely sure of his findings. Only in the fields of sleight-of-hand and the medical arts of quackery are served by men who would demand proof of such claims as those made by Dr. Doherty. Why, then would an independent man doing the same research apparently try to disclaim his statements?

All this is confusing and frightening and the public is going, as perhaps never before in history, at the mercy of science. If our scientists can't agree and don't seem to know what they are talking about in matters that concern us so vitally what are we to think? The same situation is observable in the long-career issue. Every claim made has been subject to considerable doubt, and even downright denials and accusations of careless work.

We repeat what we have said before. Until they are ready to substantiate their claims in true scientific fashion, let the experts stop badgering the public with their sensational discoveries.

Punishment Unnatural

Hamilton Spectator

This newspaper carried the story the other day about a man who appeared in court in Ireland and asked the police to return to him books he had borrowed from the Hamilton Public Library: "Twenty Thousand Years In Sing Sing" and "The FBI Story".

At least these are manly titles and in graphic contrast to some of the ones among eight cartons of new and used novels recently delivered to the library at 1 Main Street East for distribution. They included: "How To Break Free A Baby", "Home Nursing For Children", "The Bobbsey Girl's Chum" and "The Bobbsey Twins On Blueberry Island".

"Yes, I have," Jim pouted. "I read it while I was waiting trial in his last phony rap. It reminded me so much of Alcatraz; it's in an island, too, you know," he added accusingly.

At this point, the warden thanked the Bobbsers hopelessly. And so should we.

How He Spent Final Days

Glasgow Sunday Post

This is the story of an Edinburgh couple I know — and their astonishing courage.

For a time, the husband was a very sick man, although he was up and about. Finally, when he appeared really ill indeed, he was asked the doctor for the truth straight from the shoulder.

"I'm afraid, my dear doctor, "here it is, I'm afraid you have cancer and there is no hope."

My friend nodded. "Now we know where we stand," he said quietly, and then he asked the doctor to repeat the grim verdict to his wife as well. Two or three could face the desperate days ahead together.

That morning, the man went to business and began to set his affairs in order.

He went to his lawyer and asked him to change his insurance policies, his will and house documents. He went to his banker . . . to his stockbroker . . .

He called for a last look at his old club, and met a friend who owed him 5s 6d.

"Pay me, Bill," he said. "I don't need it, but my wife will." And he pressed his bewildered partner on the back.

On Sunday, he and his wife went to church as usual, and that the evening they sat in the garden.

The last week arrived and passed . . . his wife played the piano to him just as she does all the time. 38 years together . . . they met their friends . . . they talked . . . and tried to speak of the future.

Suddenly, the fortnight was up.

Find Mind Rules Brain

San Francisco Examiner

Some of the best and most learned minds of the medical profession have taken a long look at the human brain and reported the results to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The gist, as expressed by Dr. Irvine H. Page of Cleveland, is that "the complex physiochemical questions concerning the nature of thought itself" have arisen.

Among those is that the mind is not "merely a series of complex electric circuits" like those in an electronic computer. Also, a "mind is required to control the brain," and that "other as yet undiscovered forces are expressed through the brain as thought."

All this somehow recalls the Arab tribesman who, listening to an informed lecture on stellar system, remarked:

Perhaps that is why newscasters see only other stars. All we can see is God instead."

Perhaps God was yet undemystified force" expressed as thought is part of the revelation of divinity we all perceive behind every natural phenomenon — and that is why Dr. Page's "mind that controls the brain."

Yes, he died, almost as the doctor had said. But he died so calmly that his widow doesn't mourn. She feels that to do so would spoil the effect of his last great, glorious courage. And she, brave woman, will never do that.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of our outstanding musicians has no association with any conservatory or college of music, but he does a startling amount of teaching. To be his pupil is a very considerable distinction, for he does more than merely teach and drill the manipulation of an instrument. He imparts to his pupils that mystical comprehension of art which in the end spells the difference between a musician and an artist.

Some friends of mine have a teen-age son who has progressed materially in music, and it occurred to them that they could afford the special teaching, the tutorial instruction that is a musician I mention is known to give to a limited and fortunate few.

So they wrote him. And received no answer, they telephoned him. He regretted that at the time he had no suitable time for another pupil. So they wrote him again, and asked him to please advise them if a vacancy occurred. A year went by. They had him a visit. He was very brief. He regretted he had no vacancies in his time-table.

By this time, the boy's sort of determined to get instruction from the gifted musician. After a lapse of another two months, he drummed up his courage and went to see the teacher himself.

"I have been waiting for you," said the master. "I never take a pupil whose parents want him to study under me. I want the pupil to want it. How do you do? Come in. We will start now."

Germans Have Long Memory

Financial Post

A wave of prosecutions for war crimes is reported in West Germany.

Persons convicted and imprisoned by British, American and Soviet tribunals in the immediate postwar years are being arrested on their release and tried once again in German courts.

The chief prosecutor in Bavaria has just been fired for allowing Dr. Rand Elsner to get through his hands. A practising physician in a Munich suburb, this man was recently denounced in court as a wartime murderer. He escaped to Cairo but was brought up by Egyptian police and extradited.

Ten former Gestapo and Elite Guard officers are standing trial at Ulm for the murder of 8,000 Jews in Lithuania in 1941. A case involving the extermination of 11,000 prisoners in Sachsenhausen camp will come up in Bonn next month.

Two citizens of the countries that fought Germany in 1939-45 it may seem that punishment for war crimes is, or should be now a closed book. This is evidently not how the West Germans see it. They have no statute of limitations applying to murder or other serious crimes. Not recognizing what was done by the allied judges, they are applying their own code against offenders.

Here is conclusive if grim evidence that the West Germans, 19 years after their defeat in 1945 recognize the criminality of many of Hitler's agents. A wholly different spirit prevailed in Germany in 1931 — 13 years after 1918.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A SEDATIVE

Pray to God. Examine your life and try to make it a constructive force for Christ. Delight in doing good, even though others are in trouble or sorrow, or those w h seem to have lost their way.

Christianity is the strong who are kindest and gentlest, and usually the wisest and understand most clearly. When we are restless, discouraged, nervous, many doctors give some sort of sedative, but you are your own best physician. Pray and meditate. They control and guide you. Read great books. There are plenty of them, for they have aged and there is an aroma to them that is the same everywhere.

Think pleasant thoughts. Banish fear. In no realm of life must fear is destructive. Talk and walk with God. Get the spirit of Christ into your heart. It will gradually change your life and enrich it. There is no happiness in worrying. Banish worry too.

In giving encouragement to others you give it in a larger quantity to yourself. There are no doubts or fears

PUGNACIOUS OR PATERNAL?

Leading with their chins at Wellington, England, this pair of boxers seem ready to rip each other apart, despite the difference in class. It's no fight, though: the two-week-old boxer pup is just sticking close to pop, who may be giving some advice on cats, flower gardens and the master's slippers.

Sad and Soggy CNE Opening Witnessed by Only 103,000

TORONTO (CP) — It was a sad and soggy opening of the 80th Canadian National Exhibition Wednesday.

It rained and attendance amounted to only 103,000. Officials had counted on closer to 300,000 to send the count booming towards the 3,000,000 objective. Opening day last year attracted 118,000.

Many of those on hand during the morning left when rain began to fall about noon and later developed into a driving rain storm a few seconds after Prime Minister Diefenbaker pressed a button to set off fireworks and officially open the fair.

MIDWAY QUIET

Midway concession operators said business was poor. Those who stayed took shelter in the buildings. Exhibit attendants found interest fairly brisk but not of the volume they expected.

The prime minister, undaunted by the weather, toured the governments' building and the armed forces display. Later he opened the Hockey Hall of Fame and watched CNE Vice — President Harry Price present hockey star Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens with the Lou Marsh Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete during 1958.

In the evening Mr. Diefenbaker reviewed a guard of honor at the grandstand track and sat through part of a variety show starring comedian Danny Kaye.

The year-old Hockey Hall of Fame has been combined with the Sports Hall of Fame and both are set up on the ground floor of the old Administration Building. They are patterned after Basball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Hockey's major trophys, including the Stanley Cup, and Allan Cup and Memorial Cup, are displayed in one show case.

There is also a model of the racing schooner Bluenose, the jersey and shorts worn by Billy Sherring when he won the Olympic marathon in Athens, Greece, in 1906 and an old-style bicycle belonging to cyclist Torchy Peden.

The National Horse Show opens tonight for a six-day stand in the Coliseum. The top jumper, to be named on the final night, is automatically added to Canada's international jumping team.

The interprovincial track and field championships opened today and continue until Saturday, pital officials said.

Bettor Parleys 30-Pound Bet Into Fortune

LONDON (Reuters) — A race horse named Gladness won by six lengths at York Wednesday — and completed a fantastic three-time parley that netted an English bettor some £60,000.

The William Hill bookmaking firm disclosed the story today, revealing Yorkshire racecourse John Robinson as the winner of this "most spectacular bet of the century."

A few months ago, Robinson checked the entries and decided he would back Epaulette at Goodwood on July 30, Babur at Redcar on Aug. 9 and Gladness at York on Aug. 20.

The odds being issued by Hill at that time were 25 to 1 on Epaulette, 29 to 1 on Babur and 20 to 1 on Gladness. At those fixed odds, Robinson registered six bets: £5 on the nose of Epaulette, with the winnings, if any, to go on the nose of Babur; £5 to place on Epaulette, any profits likewise booked to Babur; a similar two wagers linking Babur to Gladness; finally, a further two booking up all three horses. This brought Robinson's total investment to £30.

Came July 29, and Epaulette romped home as Robinson had expected. Babur won on Aug. 9.

That brought him up to Wednesday's Ebor Handicap at York — where Gladness was fighting it out with 24 other thoroughbreds over a 1-4 miles. Gladness won by six lengths.

MARILYN HAS GIRL

TORONTO (CP)—Marilyn Bell, first person to swim Lake Ontario, gave birth to a baby girl Wednesday. Marilyn, now Mrs. Joseph Di Lascio, gave birth to a nine-pound, eight-ounce baby at Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital in Camden, N.J. She now is a resident of the United States. Mother and baby are "doing fine," hos-good deal muddier than they found it."

Mr. Lewis's separate remarks appended to the majority report "do nothing to clarify the issues. They, in fact, cloud them further."

While the board chairman, Mr. Justice H. F. Thomson of Regina, apparently justified the report's recommended wage increases by financial difficulties in the railways, Mr. Lewis's reasons "boil down to a justification of the award on the grounds that we are in the midst of a recession."

The magazine said arbiters and conciliation boards since 1950 all "had stated clearly that the effects of national policy on the railways was such that inability to pay could not be used by the railways as an argument to justify sub-standard wage rates."

DURABLE GOODS STANDARD

It accuses the majority report of bias in "explaining away" companies' insistence on the durable goods standard in 1952 conciliation proceedure by saying the railways accepted the standard as an alternative to what the unions were asking.

Mr. Smith says the standard was forced on employees by pressure from government, public opinion and the railways, even though they did not consider it an adequate return.

Now the railway workers were being asked to accept a wage rate that would leave them 12.5 cents an hour behind durable goods workers.

The CBRE says the recommended rates amount to a total 13.3 cents an hour increase, raising average non-operating wage to 176.3 cents an hour next April.

ESTIMATED AT 18.8

Average wage in the durable goods industries was 179.3 cents last April, and the CBRE estimates it will be 189.8 cents when the contract expired.

The articles find error in a report statement that "except for a brief period following the increased grant to them in 1958," non-op employees of United States railways "have had absolute parity at any time since 1944."

The magazine says U.S. non-ops now are getting on the average seven cents more than durable goods workers, and asks: "would possession of the correct figures have altered the wage award of the board? If so, then the majority report, as it stands, is valueless."

FRESH EARTHQUAKES

TEHRAN (Reuters) — Fresh earth tremors shook the Iranian towns of Kermanshah and Nahavand Wednesday, crumbling hundreds of already-damaged buildings and rendering thousands of persons homeless, according to reports reaching here. No casualties were reported. Most of the people in the area are camping in open fields. Latest casualty figures in earthquakes that rocked parts of Iran last weekend are 177 killed, 200 injured and 21 villages ruined.

RIPPED BY EXPLOSION

This is all that remains of a car owned by 31-year-old Antonio Dipasquali of Amherstburg, Ont., after an explosion that ripped through the auto Wednesday killing the Italian immigrant. Dipasquali, believed victim of a Vendetta murder, apparently set off the blast when he turned on the ignition. (CP Photo).

Newfoundland Owners Plan To Divert Ships

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland Employers' Association was scheduled to divert shipping today from this port because of a contract dispute with the Longshoremen's Protective Union. The move would throw 200 stevedores out of work.

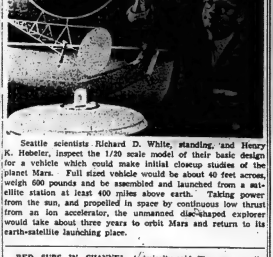
A spokesman for the employers said the diversion would not be abrupt. Work on some piers would likely continue for a day or two as ships which arrived earlier this week were loaded and unloaded.

Full effects of the move would not be known until the association or local merchants settle on an alternative method of bringing goods into the province.

DEPENDS ON IMPORTS

Supplies could be shipped from mainland points to Argentia, Conner Brook or Port aux Basques and taken to distribution centres by rail. The province depends heavily on the mainland for meats, milk, eggs, vegetables and fruit as well as machinery, cattle and feed.

The association controls 18 ships. It was originally planned to divert them Aug. 13 but the date was delayed a week so negotiations could continue. No settlement was reached.



Union President William Breen said earlier in the week: "We're not going to strike—we'll work as long as there are ships in port."

The association wants a three-year contract and unrestricted use of mechanical equipment to facilitate the handling of ships. The workers would take away bargaining rights, the union said, and more equipment would reduce the size of work gangs. Wages were not disputed.

MODEL FOR TRAVEL TO MARS

Seattle scientists Richard D. White, standing, and Henry K. Hebeler, inspect the 1/20 scale model of their basic design for a vehicle which could make initial closeup studies of the planet Mars. Full sized vehicle would be about 40 feet across, weigh 600 pounds and be assembled and launched from a satellite station at least 400 miles above earth. Taking power from the sun, and propelled in space by continuous low thrust from an ion accelerator, the unmanned disk-shaped explorer would take about three years to orbit Mars and return to its earth-satellite launching place.

TAXPAYERS WILL

For instance, Vickers built Saxona, exactly the same type of ship, for $19,762,000.

Among the seven ships of the Restigouche class, the price difference is almost as great.

Most recent estimated cost of the Gatineau, being built by Davie Shipbuilding, Lauzon, Que., is $17,150,000. The estimate for the Terra Nova, exactly the same type of ship being built by Victoria Machinery Depot, is $31,250,000.

Officials hope the new target-incentive contract will reduce these cost differences.

Tenders are not called for destroyer construction. Work is allocated to all six shipyards with the aim of keeping them in operation for quick expansion in event of emergency.

APPLIES TO OTHERS

Cost-plus contracts are not confined to the shipbuilding industry, of course. The profit margin allowed varies but the maximum is 7% or 10 per cent depending on the type of equipment.

On a cost-plus contract, the defence production department always holds back some of the payment until the cost inspection and audit division of the treasury board examines the books of the company which holds the contract.

In some instances, some costs claimed by a company have been disallowed.

FIRST CYRIL, NOW DAFFY ESCAPES

A second sea lion has escaped and is heading for open water. This one is named Daffy and he fled his pen on an animal trainer's farm near Mount Albert, Ontario, exactly two months after Cyril became famous by escaping from London, Ont., to the Great Lakes before being captured in Ohio. Cyril's freedom ended when he was hit with two shots from a tranquilizer gun. It is unlikely Daffy will reach Lake Simcoe, 15 miles from his pen. He made the break by clearing a six-foot fence around his pen.

First Woman Announcer Since 2nd War

MONTREAL (CP) — Kit Kinkaid, an attractive blonde from Edmonton, has joined the staff of radio station CHM as the first woman announcer here on the CBC's English-language network since the Second World War.

"We felt there was a need for a female voice, especially on programs dominated by men," said Ken Withers, program director for CHM.

The CBC's French - language network already has several woman announcers, and Mr. Withers said he is "enthusiastic" about the work they are doing.

Radio work is not an entirely new field for Miss Kinkaid. Four years ago she worked for radio station CJAD here doing commentaries for a musical program and filling in on women's programs.

She brings a variety of experience to her new job. She has worked as a music teacher, photographer and free lance writer, and at one time operated an oil information service in her native Alberta.

She has also travelled extensively throughout Canada.

"I've lived in almost every city from Halifax to Vancouver. I guess you might call it a sort of gypsy life. I love to travel and I have always wanted to feel free from that 20th century symptom —the passion for security."

With CHM, Miss Kinkaid has a regular announcing job but she does not do news broadcasts. In the main her work covers commercial and public service announcements and music commentaries.

She said she has no special training for radio work, but credits her mother for her ability to speak distinctly.

"My mother was always after me to speak clearly when I was younger."

Another girl—15-year-old Paddy Springate—has attracted a large following among the younger set as a disk jockey with CJAD here.

She won the job of assisting Mike Stephens for the summer when she was chosen Miss CHAD 800 in a contest among 700-grade students in 25 Montreal area high schools.

She took to it so well that when Stephens went on vacation for two weeks, the station gave her the show to conduct. And the station management said it has been more than pleased with the result.

Listeners wrote complimenting her on a "great job" and also dressed their requests for record selections to her personally.

Miss Springate's new working with a radio station has been her ambition since she was in grade school.

"I used to tell my parents then I wanted to be on radio. But I never expected it would come about. Now I think I'll try to make it my career."

An honor student at Rosemount High School, she plans to take science course in university before she starts regular work. She collects records as a hobby and makes many of her own clothes.

Wellman Reunion Held at Glen Allan Park

The second reunion of the families of the late George and James Wellman was held recently at Glen Allan Park, on Crowe Lake, at Marmora, with 83 registering attendance. At 1.00 pm. president Bessie Wellman called the gathering to order and requested all to sing, "Be present at our table Lord", before partaking of the bountiful array of delectable with which the tables were laden.

After dinner a short business meeting was conducted by president, Bessie who expressed his pleasure in seeing such a fine representation of the various families present, as well as his gratitude for such ideal weather conditions for the occasion. Following this he called on secretary treasurer, Mrs A. Greenwood for the minutes of the 1957 reunion.

At this time, the President requested that a vote of thanks be tendered the executive for their efforts in planning this year's reunion.

"With the business being disposed of, Vera Nichols took charge of the games, with prizes being presented to the winners, as well as a prize for the eldest present, this claimed by Mrs. L. Nichols, of Gormley, and a prize for the one present from the greatest distance, claimed by Mrs. R. Saunders from St. Catharines, since the party from North Bay had left.

Games played were: peanut and sandy scrambles, an illustration of eight ladies on, calling the numbers in the morning, a balloon relay, packing a suitcase, balloon combat, with the winner being challenged at a later time.

As a finale it was announced that there was th "x" on the underside of a book where someone was sitting, which caused a bit of a scramble.

The balance of the afternoon was spent at the beach by the swimmers while the others enjoyed reminiscing.

A Wellman history which is being compiled was on hand, which a good number enjoyed perusing. About 50 of those present remained for their evening meal before taking their departure for home.

Families were in attendance from: Belleville; Cameron; Gamebridge; Gormley; Kingston; Kitchener; North Bay; Peterborough; Toronto; St. Catharines; Sutton West; Uxbridge; Toronto and Tweed.

British Girls Sing Praises of Italian Boys

LONDON (AP) — British girls back from Mediterranean vacations are loud in the praises of Italian boy friends.

It happens every year, and right now the London columns of newspapers are filled with girls' testimony to Tony's facial appeal.

The chorus became so loud this year that a woman columnist thought to explain why Italian men make attractive boy friends.

"They are the last men left in the modern world to put women first," said Drusilla Beyfus in the Sunday Dispatch.

American men put business first, she said. With the French man it's his family, with the Englishman his golf.

"But the Italian," she said, "prefers to spend his time leisurely and leisure is hot pursuit."

VIEWPOINT DIFFERS

She emphasized that Englishmen do not share the view of their women about Italian men.

"To Englishmen the Italian man is an unreliable, temperamental, opera character who usually looks like a waiter."

To British girls Italians mean love, romance and devotion personified.

The list of Joans, Pamelas and Susans with hearts in Italy is long.

Writing to a newspaper, a Priscilla said:

"Italian men are wonderful. They make you feel you're a woman. They spend their last penny on you. Why can't Englishmen do that?"

A Rosalie wrote:

"Italians make a girl feel alive. They are full of compliments and charm."

To the adoring girls, columnist Beyfus issued a warning:

"Once you've had the crush the rush, the flowers and the fuss the honeymoon is over, honey."

MOWERS — McKENNA

Yellow and white chrysanthemums and yellow and white gladioli adorned the altar and the sanctuary of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, on Saturday, August 2nd, for a very pretty summer wedding when the Reverend Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of the church, united in marriage, Dorothy Kathleen McKenna, of Belleville and Norman Earl Mowers, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mowers.

Mr. J. B. Herdman, guest organist from Christ Church, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Rita Minaki, of Belleville, in her rendition of "O Perfect Love" and "Ave Maria".

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. James McKenna, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white, embroidered nylon net over taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice, having a high, sweetheart neckline and yoke of Chantilly lace, enhanced with seed pearls and sequins. The long, bell-shaped sleeves were "V"-pointed over the wrists. The full-length, gracefully full skirt was accented by a back panel of frills extending to the hemline. She wore a Grace Kelly headdress encrusted with seed pearls and sequins with which was attached a veil of tulle illusion, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, white mums and trailing ivy.

Mrs. William Bland, of Hamilton, as matron of honor, and the senior bridesmaids, Mrs. D. Rogers of Oshawa, Mrs. A. Little of Belleville and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Ann Mowers, sister of the bridegroom, were all attired alike in white brocaded taffeta gowns fashioned with molded bodices and full skirts accented with pleated panels from panniers. Lime green sashes matching lime green picture hats, gloves and shoes completed their costumes. They carried bouquets of red roses centered by lime-green 'mums and backed by lime-green leaves.

Mr. Carl Mowers, of Belleville, attended his brother, while Messrs. Lyle Mowers, of Belleville R. R. No. 2 brother of the bridegroom, Jay Easton, Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom, and Hugh Langille, of Belleville, R. R. No. 2 acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in St. Thomas' parish hall which was colorfully decorated for the occasion. The bridal table, beneath cascading streamers of pink and white, was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom beneath a white floral arch and clouded about the base with pale pink tulle. Tall pink and white candles in silver candelabra and the bridal bouquets added a lovely accent.

This bride's mother, gowned in printed terrylene, with navy and white accessories, and corsage of white 'mums received the bridegroom's gift, while the bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing yellow nylon with white accessories and corsage of white 'mums.

For travelling to Old Orchard Beach, Maine, and along the Atlantic coast, the bride chose a straight-cut taffeta dress considered with white lace, A powder-blue duster white accessories, and corsage of blue and white baby 'mums.

Guests attended from: Hamilton; Fort Erie; Toronto; Belleville and Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Mowers are residing in Oshawa, Ontario.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beechman

SHOULD GROOM'S FATHER WEAR FORMAL ATTIRE?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Our son's wedding is to be a large, church wedding in October, as a Saturday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Our son and his attendants are to wear the conventional formal day attire, cutaway coats and striped trousers. I'm a bride's father, who is going to give her in marriage, is also, I believe, going to wear this formal attire. Our son, thinks that h i s father should also wear this formal attire, but my husband and I think this isn't necessary because he is not part of the wedding party, as is the bride's father. What do you advise?

— Reader

I entirely agree with your son . . . I think his father should wear formal day attire (if at all possible). The bride's father, who is to give her in marriage, is of course considered a member of the wedding party, and correctly wears the same type of attire worn by the groom and his attendants. The groom's father, remember, is the man guest of honor at the wedding (as you are the woman guest of honor), and since he will be very much in the spotlight because he is the man guest of honor, he should really d r e s s formally. You and he sit in t h e first pew on the right of the aisle, directly opposite the pew in which the bride's family sit . . . and if you are both to be in the receiving-line at the reception, you stand next to the bride's parents. Naturally, in these circumstances, it's best form to be dressed in the type of attire worn by the bride's parents, your hosts.

CHEQUE TO BRIDE AND GROOM

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I'm a widow, in my early sixties, and I have a godson w h o lives a great distance from me, and who is to be married in several months. I am not very well and so I cannot travel such a distance to the wedding. He writes me that after the wedding he may be transferred by his company to South America. So I think it best to send a cheque as a wedding present. I have never met the bride-to-be, but we have of course corresponded. How would you suggest I make out this cheque?

— Godmother.

Under these special circumstances I think it would be most practical to make out the cheque to Mary Robinson and John Robinson . . . to be endorsed by both of them after their wedding.

WIFE SHOULD WRITE THANK-YOU NOTES TO HOSTESSES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

For the past year or so my husband has had a quite important position in his company, and just lately this has meant that he is assigned to make some business trips. I have accompanied him on these trips, and doubtless we will have more of them to make. When we are on these trips we are often entertained (usually at a dinner-party) by my husband's business associates and their wives. Do you think that, when we return home, I should write a note of thanks to the wives for the hospitality they and their husbands have given us?

— Wife

Indeed I do advise that you surely write a friendly note of appreciation to each hostess, enthusiastically thanking her and her husband for the hospitable plans they made for you and your husband. Such special hospitality deserves special appreciation. And these thank-you notes will not only show your mannerliness, but will also, I should think, be helpful to your husband's business relationships.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council rejects problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. D. — Mark has become brutal.

Mark D., — It's the younger kids who are the problems.

Mrs. L. — My husband and I have been separated for the past year and we are planning to be divorced. However, I am worried about the effect all this is having on our three children.

The person most affected seems to be our oldest boy, Mark. He is 16 and has suddenly grown very big and strong. He takes advantage of this fact by beating up his younger brother and sister. These incidents have been getting worse and worse and I'm afraid of what may happen.

Mark evidently got this from his father, who was always very harsh with him. It was one of the factors that led to our breakup. I am at a loss to know how to deal with Mark.

Mark D. — My mother thinks that I'm the problem! She refuses to see that it's the younger kids who are the problem. They never obey her. They are mean and selfish and are growing up into real brats.

It's true my father was rough on me at times, but I see now that he was right. There's only one way of teaching kids right and wrong. I'm glad my parents are separated because he was mean to my mother, but unless someone is boss in the house things are going to go from bad to worse.

It isn't right that my mother should treat me like a problem child. She was engaged to be married when she was my age. She doesn't realize I'm grown up.

The Council: Mark is undoubtedly deeply scarred by the overly harsh treatment he got at the hands of his father. This probably has had a stronger effect on him than his parents' separation.

It is natural for an adolescent boy to have a yearning to be the head of the family, especially if he is the oldest and even more especially if his father is suddenly removed from the household. Unfortunately, Mark has had a very poor example of what it is to be the head of a family.

It would be very helpful for Mark to be in close contact with another man in the family — someone he can admire and who is, at the same time, gentle and firm. If Mrs. L. D. has no brother or cousin who might fill the bill, she should try to point out admirable men among friends.

Mark is old enough to be approachable in reasonable terms. Mrs. L. D. might explain that she would like to have a strong, dependable man in the family, but that she can have no confidence in a brutal man.

It is probable that Mark is far too much engrossed in the family problems. It will help him in his growth to concentrate on outside factors — his schoolwork, his future, developing skill at sports. Sportsmanship will teach him fair play, a sense of his strengths and limitations, and respect for t h e strengths and limitations of others.

"What's the verdict, Mr. Fussypot? Is it well done enough for you?"

Toronto Welcomes 281 Foreign Home Economists

by Mary Moore

The International Federation of Home Economics met in Maryland at the end of July, following which they had a post-Congress tour.

When they reached Canada they were treated to a Princess-like itinerary from Niagara Falls to Guelph's Ontario Agricultural College (which had ever so welcome beds for every 281 of them!). Then Toronto took over. Eaton's, CBC, General Foo's, Dominion Stores, the Ontario Government all feted and honored them much to their delight and fatigue!

I was with them through two afternoon receptions and the Prime Minister and Government of Ontario's Dinner which was a brilliant affair.

At the head table were seated delegates from dozens of foreign lands and the handsome native costumes of the Nigerian and Icelandic girls stole the show.

The delegate from Pakistan, Fatima (pronounced Fa'uhum — not Fat-oe'-ma) Manaoor wore a chiffon sari in the afternoon and a peacock blue lame one in the evening (easy to switch from afternoon to evening clothes!) and spoke flawless English. She is program director of Radio-Pakistan — a British African Service.

Fat-Gorsenson of Stockholm, Sweden is Home Economist Director for an Egg and Poultry "Forbunde". Mailli Mlindhaboon from Bangkok has a B.A. degree from Chulalongkorn University and is taking some post graduate work at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y.

I had dinner between two charming Home Economists Senior Lecturer at National Training College of Domestic Subjects, and Marion Howells, Home Economist for Brown and Polson Ltd., manufacturers of Corn Products of which our Cerelia Marsh Co. is a subsidiary. Sallie McKenzie from Aberdeen Scotland sat at our table too, and teaches needlework. We could have talked for hours.

One exciting piece of news I heard is that one company in Hamilton has scooped the whole food market with its aerosol pack of chocolate syrup and soon to be available in aerosol pack are catsup and instant tea and coffee. Soon, it won't be "Could I fill your cup", but "Will you have a squirt"

WELLINGTON

Special Functions Mark United Church Centennial

WELLINGTON — The church was filled to capacity with extra chairs in the aisles for the centennial concert on Friday evening. Baskets of vari-coloured gladis were behind the choir to add a touch of color and beauty. One could see in the audience many former members happy to be back home.

The Rev. A. Poulter briefly welcomed everyone, then introduced Mr. C. M. Snider, master of ceremonies. The concert was to recall in song and history, and sketched the days of the old Methodist meeting house from past to present.

Mr. Snider read a poem, composed by Mrs. R. A. Thompson. The ladies of the choir were a picture of bygone days, dressed in their old fashioned gowns and hats of years ago. They had part I of the program, which included: chorus, "Long, Long Ago," by the choir; "Love's Old Sweet Song," by Reg Bishop; chorus by the choir, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie"; duet, "In the Sweet Long Ago," by Mrs. Reg Bishop and Mrs. A. Pettingell; "Grandfather's Clock," by the choir; "Quilting Party," mixed quartet, Mrs. R. Alves, Mrs. H. Taylor, Mr. Wm. Harvey and Mr. Ed Marshall; duet, "Dearie," by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ferguson; "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet," by the choir; "Church by the Side of the Road," by the choir.

The ladies of the choir paraded in front of the lights on the platform, then retired to appear later in their new wine gowns and hats.

PART 2

Mr. Snider introduced Mrs. F. Harris, a member for 40 years of the W.M.S., who gave a brief history of the W.M.S. from the time it was first organized in 1881 with Mrs. Henry Greer as president up to the present time with Mrs. William Hamel as president.

She also told of CGIT, Explorers, Mission Band, Boy Scouts and Cubs—that all are active organizations.

The CGIT was organized in 1922 by Mrs. J. U. Robins, assisted by Miss W. Pearce. Today the leaders are Mrs. A. Poulter and Mrs. H. Pierson.

Fifteen CGIT girls portrayed a camp fire scene. They repeated the CGIT purpose, sang their hymn and several other songs, had prayer and closed with taps. The lighting made the camp fire look quite realistic.

The Woman's Association was formerly known as the Ladies' Aid, whose work is chiefly to help with the parsonage. Mrs. H. Pierson became president in 1956 and still holds that position.

Mrs. R. A. Thompson, dressed in old fashioned costume gave an amusing reading called "The Ladies' Aid Will Do the Rest." Nine members of the W.A. had a skit, "Hats Of Other Days," with monologue verses by Mrs. Reden Alves with all joining in the chorus.

The work of the Sunday school was outlined by Mr. Poulter. In 1875, John Wesley Clarke was the first superintendent and remained in this office for 36 years. Since then there have only been three others, Mr. A. A. Morden, Mr. Boyce Wilbee and the present one, Mr. C. M. Snider, with Mr. Ken Lane as his assistant.

The Couples' Club work was outlined by Mr. Pierson, he and Mrs. Pierson are the presidents. It was organized in 1956 and is the newest organization of the church. The gentlemen agreed to help on the program while the ladies were busy to supply supper for the IOOF band on Sunday. The centennial sextet gave a special ministers' number. Mr. Arnold Fowler was at the organ (a special one for this number), Gordon Parks played a zirkaphone guitar and quartet, which—rendered spirituals, comprised Dale Cleave, Brian Crong, Garrett Harris and Louis Wight. They drew a big round of applause.

The organist of 1897 was Mrs. Ethel Chatterson, who was present as was one member (Mr. Hilton Reynolds) of the choir. They both took a bow.

The present choir consists of 24 ladies and eight men and the junior choir has 23 members; the present organist is Mrs. Jack McNeill. Dressed in their new gowns the choir presented a sacred program which included a chorus, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is"; male quartet, "The Church in the Wildwood," by Messrs. Bishop, Marshall, Harvey and Tripp; chorus, "King All Glorious," obligato solo by Miss June Pierson; solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," solo and chorus, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," Miss Anne Dorland; solo and chorus, "You'll Never Walk Alone" by Mrs. Jack McNeill with Mr. McCaul of Napanee, at the organ.

A telling climax to the evening's entertainment was Reg Bishop's solo, "Bless This House." Mr. Poulter gave the benediction and paid glowing tribute to all who worked so diligently to make the evening such a wonderful success. Special vote of thanks to Mrs. McNeill and Mrs. R. A. Thompson.

AT HOME ON SATURDAY

On Saturday afternon and evening an informal "At Home" was held in the Sunday School rooms. Baskets of bright colored gladis, the gift of Mr. James Climinson, made the rooms bright and cheerful. Mrs. Poulter, assisted by several members of the W.A., greeted the many guests.

Mrs. R. A. Thompson sold souvenir plates, cards and basinotes.

On display was a communion set presented to the church in 1876, also old hymn books dated 1865; copper from the old bell; a lamp used in 1880; old skates; a knitted cotton bedspread made by Miss Cronk in 1900, who was blined from birth; also pictures of former ministers; class picnic of 1915; choirs, former church groups and a Picton Gazette of 1901 with Wellington news.

Tea was served in the ladies' parlor. A large basket of flowers a gift from the Misses Cora and Norma Clarke of Belleville, daughters of the late J. W. Clarke, the first S.S. superintendent. They were both present. Beautiful flowers from Mrs. East's garden were on the piano.

The tea table was attractively covered with white linen and bentred with a lovely bouquet of Queen Anne's Lace, and candles. Pouring tea in the afternoon were Mrs. Ida McFaul, Mrs. H. Nash, Mrs. C. Bond and Mrs. F. Harris. At night, Mrs. N. Foster, Mrs. J. Ross, Miss Valleau, Mrs. B. Crook, while Mrs. C. Cleave and Mrs. W. Hamel greeted the guests.

Members of the W.A. served dainty refreshments in the afternoon, and the W.M.S. and Evening Auxiliary served at night. Many names of former Wellington residents were registered on the guest book.

Mr. Poulter dedicated the new ladies' parlor and thanked all who had labored so hard to complete this beautiful room.

Quiet music by Mrs. H. Foster called this short service to order. Mr. Poulter read a passage of Scripture. This was followed by prayer. All joined in singing "The Church's One Foundation." A brief Litany followed and all repeated the Lord's Prayer. This proved a most enjoyable afternoon and evening when present members had the opportunity to visit with some they had not seen for many years.

MORNING SERVICE

On Sunday the Rev. Dr. Harold Young, M.A., B.D., D.D., of Toronto, was guest speaker at the morning service. The hymns were carefully chosen for this memorable occasion. The junior choir, in their new blue gowns led the procession, singing "Praise My Soul," and also sang "Stand Up and Bless the Lord" and "Jesus Shall Reign." The senior choir sang, "The Lord Is In His Holy Temple," and before the benediction, "Bless This House."

Mr. Poulter extended a warm welcome to all former members. Many letter of congratulations had been received from former members unable to attend. He was also pleased to acknowledge the friendly greetings from the parish of Wellington and Hillier Anglican Church, sent by Mrs. Charles F. Farr, the missioner; also a letter from Mrs. Stephen Spurrell, chairman of the Belleville Presbytery.

The Rev. H. H. Hillis, Belleville, a former minister, brought greetings from Bridge Street United Church. He read the Scripture lesson.

Dr. Young gave a splendid message leaving much food for thought. He was greatly honored to have been given the privilege of addressing the congregation on such a moving occasion. It was 70 years since his father occupied the pulpit of the church.

Many bouquets of memorial flowers were in the church in memory of former members of the church, placed there by their families.

The band concert presented by the I.O.O.F. Band of Picton drew a large crowd to the park in the afternoon and was much enjoyed by all present.

EVENING SERVICE

The evening service was held in the park with the band in attendance. The choir marched from the church and sat in a body. Prayer was offered by the Rev. George Tenney, home from Boylston, Nova Scotia. Greetings were expressed by Mr. C. F. Farr, missioner of the Anglican Church. He also read the Scripture. Mr. Tenney gave a talk expressing his pleasure at being back in his home church once again. He left a splendid message from St. Matthew 25:35-36. Mr. Poulter read a message from the Rev. O. V. O. Brien from the Pentecostal congregation. The Rev. J. F. Lane, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, former minister, expressed his thanks to be present. Mr. Lane, as always, left a splendid message. His text was taken from the Epistle of Paul to the Romans. "I am ready to preach the gospel to you." Mr. Lane closed with prayer for the blessing on the congregation and for the future of this church. Mr. Poulter pronounced the benediction.

As the recessional, choir and minister, returned back to the church, one realized that a wonderful day had come to an end.

Male Celebrities To Demonstrate At Barbecue

TORONTO — Celebrities from the world of sport, each one nationally known, together with outstanding personalities from the sports departments of the press, TV and radio, will be in the Family Theatre each evening of the Canadian National Exhibition, to show their skill as sultans of the art of barbecue cooking.

It will be a series of riotous shows — packed with good food and unique ways of cooking it over the open pit; the good-natured and ready banter for which all press, radio and TV folk are renowned, plus the more sedid but terrifically interesting conversation of men who have been sports celebrities over the years in Canada.

No man will want to miss it. No wife or sweetheart will dare miss it if only to acquaint herself with the delicious menus and recipes the men have prepared and will either cook or supervise.

STEAKS MOST POPULAR

Each menu and recipe has been created or compiled by one of the celebrities. The majority have selected steak as was to be expected . . . but what was not anticipated was that no two recipes for barbecuing this epicurean delight, are even remotely similar. The lowly pig's tail has no less than two champions! The lamb chop, shish kebab and spareribs are all there and two "dark horses" in the barbecue field have come to light . . . prairie chicken and wild duck . . . and the men say they're the piece de resistance!

The "Barbecue with Sporting Celebrities" Shows are from 8.30 to 9.30 each evening from August 30th to September 6th, Family Theatre, Exhibition Hall, Queen Elizabeth Building. Mrs. Elsa Jenkins, Manager of Women's Activities for the Canadian National Exhibition and originator and designer of the Celebrities Barbecue Shows, says that since these are the last shows of each day, the celebrities will be permitted to consume their succulent morsels back stage after each show!

Some of the nationally-known sportsmen who will cook and chat are: Rocket Richard, King Clancy, Phil Farley, "Whipper" Billy Watson, Gus Ryder, Mr. W. A. Hewitt, father of Foster Hewitt and Secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association since 1904, Ernst Vierrovetter of 1927 Wrigley Swim fame, "Pigskin Peters" Hap Watson and Commander Ja. Michie, immediate past Commander of the Toronto Power Squadron and a member of the Canadian Power Squadron.

These are only a few. The press, radio and TV personalities are equally colorful.

Federal Government Has Intricate Accounts System, Terms Often Baffle Public

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Federal government activity requires a lot of bookkeeping, and the accounts are often puzzling to laymen.

Much of the puzzlement centres around various accounts set up to keep track of what is going on in certain areas. Three such accounts have received particular public attention in recent years.

In his budget speech in March, 1957, Walter Harris, finance minister at the time, said he was crediting a total of $100,000,000 to two accounts.

In his budget speech last June, Finance Minister Donald Fleming said he is maintaining another account which he estimated at $150,000,000.

MERELY ENTRIES

All three accounts are bookkeeping devices. There is no money in them.

This situation will be more easily understood if all money coming into the government is regarded as coming into one big pot, from which the government draws money as it is needed.

Feeding the pot from one side are spouts labelled income tax, sales tax, excise tax and so on. Going out of the pot on the other side are spouts bearing the names of all the things on which the government spends or distributes money.

If the incoming spouts start to raise the level of the money in the pot, the government may reduce the incoming taxes, thus letting more of the outgoing spouts start to run the pot down, however, the government may step up the flow from the tax spouts, by tax increases—or perhaps pull in its horns and borrow, thereby hearing the names of all the things on which the government spends or distributes money.

If the incoming spouts start to raise the level of the money in the pot, the government may reduce the incoming taxes, thus letting more of the outgoing spouts start to run the pot down, however, the government may step up the flow from the tax spouts, by tax increases—or perhaps pull in its horns and borrow, thereby hearing the names of all the things on which the government spends or distributes money.

MONEY LABELLED

It doesn't, however—except in a relatively few instances — accumulate any specific purposes. It doesn't ladle a bit here and a bit there out of the big pot and put it on the shelf in separate pans and jars.

If this manner of doing things is sometimes confusing to the layman, it can give the government headaches, too.

For the government must see that the pot has money in it at all times and regulate both the incoming and outgoing spouts accordingly. And it must try to do this so that the over-all financial condition of the country is kept sound.

To get back to the three accounts of Mr. Harris and Mr. Fleming:

Mr. Harris, in his action, credited $50,000,000 each to accounts known as the unemployed defict in the superannuation account, and the reserve against losses in assets."

The bookkeeping result was to reduce the $109,000,000 surplus he was forecasting. It also left the net debt figure $100 much higher than it otherwise would have been.

Critics said Mr. Harris was concealing the size of his surplus to help him exert pressure for tax cuts. Defenders said however that some day the accounts would have to pay the money he credited to them. Even if the money was not being put aside, they added, the action resulted in a truer picture of the country's real financial position.

However that may be, Mr. Harris's step was followed by a change of government and a downturn in economic conditions.

The first budget last March 31—for which Mr. Harris had forecast a surplus, wound up with a deficit of $99,000,000.

The new government did not carry out Mr. Harris' intentions. If it had, the deficit would have shown at $139,000,000,

OWN DISCRETION

Credits to accounts are required by statute, but credits to others are within the discretion of the minister. Accordingly, it is likely that such credits will be made in good times rather than bad.

The account which Mr. Fleming is eliminating is the National Defence Equipment Account, and he said he is doing this in the cause of good bookkeeping and parliamentary control of expenditures.

This account was set up in 1952. In it were entered the value of equipment given to countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. From time to time purchases of equipment were shown as withdrawals from it to the extent that this was done the purchases didn't show in budgetary expenditures.

The account reached a peak of $300,000,000. At March 31 it was down to $214,000,000 and Mr. Fleming said part of this would have reduced it to $165,000,000 by next March 31.

METHOD TO DISCARD

He didn't outline how he plans to eliminate the account, but it is assumed that he will do so by charging enough defence expenditures against it to wipe it out.

If, as assumed, he eliminates it entirely this year, he will make a withdrawal from the bookkeeping account and not as a budgetary expenditure.

Accordingly, if he did not intend to eliminate it this year the forecast deficit of $648,000,000 would have been $185,000,000 more.

Neither the action of Mr. Harris nor that of Mr. Fleming has any meaning in terms of cash. It was all a matter of bookkeeping.

However both Mr. Harris and Mr. Fleming could have really done extraordinary things with bookkeeping if they had wanted to.

Mr. Harris might have credited enough to various accounts to eliminate his surplus and declare a deficit; and Mr. Fleming could have eliminated his deficit and declared a surplus.

These special bookkeeping accounts with one stroke of the pen have their defenders and critics.

Some people—schooled in accounting—are horrified if you suggest doing away with them. They say that is not bookkeeping, that it is fraud and that their removal would give people too optimistic a picture of the government's situation.

Others also schooled in accounting—say the accounts serve no purpose. They add, that the public opinion isn't putting any money into the accounts anyway—that it is just a matter of legislations as they come due. So why not just meet them as they fall due and avoid accounts."

However, if any finance minister wants to keep taxpayers, radio and television programs; they must be educated against being excited, and taught to value a free society.

Such education is a award bursaries to nine student-teachers. They include Lyn Ellen Hess, St. Catharines, Elizabeth A. Crawford, Niagara Falls, and Margaret F. Hoar, Chatham.

Inducted as Honorary members of the federation were Ethel Bale, Goderich, Hilda Cram, Carleton Place, Lucy Dobson, Carleton Place, Jean Muller, St. Thomas, and Olive Pedley, Brantford.

HOMELESS?

Alexander Crete says he will turn his seven children over to the Children's Aid Society after a fire in his home Tuesday night. Mr. Crete says the fire did not cause much damage but that it was "almost too much to bear." Mrs. Crete's first wife was killed in a gas explosion, his second wife is ill in hospital and he himself just got out of hospital. He is unemployed and two weeks ago his electricity was cut off because he was unable to pay the bill. The children are, left to right, clockwise, Paul 19 months; Suzanne, 10; Lisa 15; Marcel 3; Robert 4; Jocelyn 6 and Colette 12 and Mr. Crete. (CP Wirephoto).

Mankind Using Old-Type Minds In Modern Age

TORONTO (CP) —Mankind is entering the second half of the 20th century with minds formed in the industrial age, says Kurt Swinton, chairman of the conference committee of the Canadian Conference on Education.

He told the Federation of Home Teachers' Associations of Ontario Wednesday night:

"The great revolution affecting the whole world was not made by Marx or Lenin—but by Henry Ford. The most important single factor of this new industrial society is the impact and the preponderance of science upon peace and war, individuals and nations.

AFFECTS EDUCATION

"This affects education and teachers in the vital areas. Technical engineers and scientists, and the necessity to absorb the new principles in our every day life and to reduce the almost mortal stresses to livable proportions.

He said the task was made more difficult by the need to prepare youngster for life under unprecedented conditions basically different from those under which they were brought up.

"The four-day week will come, and teachers must consider how to train children for leisure—many persons cannot entertain themselves sensibly for a weekend, now," he said.

Children must be taught to discriminate in newspapers, radio

Official Gold Price Likely Issue for World Financial Conference in New Delhi

OTTAWA (CP)—The delicate issue of whether the official price of gold should be boosted likely will be raised at the world's top financial conference to be held at New Delhi Oct. 6.

Experts here doubt that beneficial moves will result. Canada sees slender support a boost. So does South Africa and other major gold producers.

But the United States has persistently argued against a boost in the ground it would lead to inflation and heap new riches on Soviet Russia, now attempting to expand her economic offensive. The Soviet also is a big gold producer.

Nevertheless the feeling here is that a price boost is long overdue and the issue may be raised in private talks or in conference meetings at the International Monetary Fund and World Bank.

However, there is a view, here, too, that no steps should be taken that would just lead the U.S. to putting up fresh barricades. If any providing is done at New Delhi, it will be done quietly.

Gold has been officially fixed at $35 an ounce, U.S. funds, since 1934. It has remained unchanged while production costs have increased. The situation has become so critical for Canada that over the last year she had to boost subsidies to gold mines to $13,000,000 a year from last year's $9,200,000. Many producers have maintained they cannot make ends meet at the official price. Some have become a question of getting government government aid, a higher price, or closing up. And they claim that many Northern Ontario and Quebec communities would be turned into ghost towns if the mines folded.

The experts wonder how long the government can continue paying subsidies, particularly in view of the possibility that production costs may continue to rise. Canadian government leaders argue that the present price is artificially low and should be boosted.

The U.S. which holds most of the world's gold stockpile, has argued that enhancing the price value of billions gold, increasing their purchasing power and thus give her better opportunities to expand her trade offensive.

Negro People Facing Bitter Fights to Have Orders Honored

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Four years ago the United States Supreme Court ruled that schools in 17 southern states should admit Negro students and ordered an end the practice of teaching the two races separately.

As the new school term begins Sept. 2 approaches, the Negro people still face bitter fights to have this order honored. In parts of the South, integration has been accomplished with little bitterness. Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri and Oklahoma, the northernmost states, are examples.

But Texas, Ark., which dominated newspaper headlines everywhere for much of last September when nine Negro students were denied admission of infuriated whites tried to stop nine Negro children attending Central High School, and various parts of Virginia remain certain to be centres of renewed bitterness next month.

In Little Rock, the way is legally open for Negro children to go back to school. A federal appeals court in St. Louis has invalidated a lower judge's decision

Greek Cypriots Threaten Action Against Britain

NICOSIA (Reuters) — The Greek Cypriot organization EOKA today threatened action by "every means" to frustrate British plans for partnership government on the island colony.

EOKA leaflets urged Greek Cypriots to "be ready for a big battle against the British plan for Cyprus."

The message declared that "400,000 Greeks are determined to resist Anglo-Turkish colonization, using every means."

TRUCE CALLED

The leaflets were the first to appear since Aug. 4 when the underground organization called a truce, bringing an end to 40 days of strife in which 231 Greeks, Turks and British were killed.

Greek Cypriot leaders want the island united politically with Greece. The Turkish Cypriot minority demands partition of the island between the two communities.

The British government served notice last Friday it would go ahead with plan for partnership rule in Cyprus, despite objections by the Greek and Turkish Cypriot governments and by Cyprus leaders.

The leaflets distributed today by EOKA members in Nicosia did not carry the usual signature Dighenis, Greek Col. George Grivas, EOKA's prime chief.

COMPROMISE REJECTED

"We shall not succumb to the Anglo - Turkish conspiracy," the leaflets said. "Our island is Greek. We reject all compromise. We demand self-determination . . .

"The power on earth can impose the beastly British partnership plan, which would merely lead us into double slavery to British and Turks."

Addressed to Greek Cypriots, the message said that "you must all be ready for a big battle against the British plan. Nobody should take part in any electoral preparations. Everyone must be at stand by to obey and carry out orders from the leaders of the struggle."

The British plan calls for the establishment of a bicommunal governing council of the British governor, four Greek Cypriots and two Turkish Cypriots.

Beer Supplies Now Reduced To Expensive Trickle, Men Still Not Near Settlement

TORONTO (CP) — Beer supplies have been reduced to an expensive trickle for Ontario residents, imbibers of 350,000 gallons a day before the drought caused by a strike which started two weeks ago.

Beer drinkers were investing in homebrew equipment or turning to costly imported beers as negotiations resumed today with nearly all retail outlets closed and beverage rooms running dry.

Bootleggers in Hamilton were reported asking $20 for a 24-bottle case that sells on the legitimate market for $4.25. Policies said even bootleggers have run dry in Toronto, Northern Ontario appeared the only area where beer was available in quantity at the usual 25 cents a bottle in beverage rooms.

Spokesmen for the Brotherhood Brewers' Warehousing Company Limited, which handles retail sales for all Ontario breweries, said the walkout by their 1,350 employees has closed all but four of their 366 outlets. The four outlets are in Hamilton, Sudbury, Kenora, Kapuskasing, Cochrane and Iroquois Falls.

Ontario beer could also be purchased at small breweries in Formosa near Walkerton, Sault Ste. Marie, Fort William, Port Arthur, Sudbury, Timmins and Fort Frances.

But the province's five major breweries — Canadian Breweries, Molson's and Dow — have closed outlets at 11 plants in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Ottawa, Waterloo and Kitchener. Together they produce 70 per cent of the companies, not by Brewers' Warehousing.

Unemployed and chaos would result from the rush to buy beer if they remained open, the breweries are producing only for export.

Reported beer can be obtained in government liquor stores at 36 to 40 cents a bottle, Commissioner John Spragg of the Ontario liquor control board said a large increase in sales has occurred since the strike began. A Dutch ship carrying 1,000 cases was unloaded in Toronto Wednesday.

Nearly all of the 1,500 licensed beverage rooms in Ontario hotels have run out of draft beer. Some operators are saving meagre supplies of bottled beer for cocktail lounge patrons who pay 35 cents a bottle.

"The next week everything in the province will be closed," said Clinton Melville, managing director of the Ontario Hotel Association. "Fifty per cent have closed already and even the clubs are running out."

There seems to be little smuggling. Customs officers in Toronto say they have heard no reports of contraband shipments from the United States. Canadians are allowed to bring a quart of alcoholic beverages across the border after a 48-hour stay.

It's illegal to bring beer across the Quebec border and Deputy Commissioner James Bartlett of the Ontario Provincial Police said there might be some local smuggling "but nothing worthy of a large scale."

Many drinkers apparently expect the strike to last longer than the nine days required to prepare another. Gay Gladiator report an increase in applications for licences. They operate taverns and restaurants which handles most of the malt and hops supplies sold to stores reported a 50-per-cent increase in orders.

By next week more than 7,000 men will be out of work if the strike continues.

Another 1,200 strikers, the number of laid-off brewery workers was placed at more than 1,000 by Jack Reilly, a Warehousing spokesman. Mr. Melville said they represent 20 per cent of the beverage rooms when they run dry.

The striking store employees, members of the United Brewery Workers of America (CLC), had sought a 36-hour week and $9 to $14 more than the $60 weekly paid for a 40-hour week. They also wanted a ban on hauling by non-union truck drivers.

Polish Sea Captain Happy Tending His Ice Cream Stand

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Jan Chwilinski has no regrets.

Ten years ago he was captain of the Polish transatlantic liner Batory.

Today he works 16 hours a day in a roadside ice cream stand.

"I need a piece of bread," he says, "so I am happy to get it. At Poland, when there is a bread knock on the door, you don't know if it is the millman with the milk or the security police come to take you away. I like to work hard, but I sleep."

Nine years ago, when the Batory docked in New York, Gerhart Eisler, an American Communist, asked for asylum aboard and stowed away in the laundry.

FREES ON BAIL

Eisler was free on bail after his conviction on espionage charges in connection with a passport declaration.

Eisler presented himself at sea, the captain knew him only as a passenger.

The United States wanted Eisler returned, Poland refused. He brought asylum in the Polish territory. Capt. Cwilikinski turned matter over to the Polish consul in London.

The consul refused to surrender Eisler. The consul Yard men boarded the ship and carried him off.

After that the Batory was barred from ports in the United States.

Capt. Cwilikinski fled the ship and settled in Clifton with his book, The Captain Leaves His Ship.

He came to the United States in 1954—he saw a newspaper advertisement for a vendor's job at a cream stand franchises, and he bought one. He had money from the sale of his book.

BETTER PAY TOO

He says his work is harder than that of a ship captain, but it pays better too.

The Polish captain speaks English well. It is one of seven languages he knows.

How does he feel now, working in an ice cream stand after being in command of the Batory is steaming these days between Poland, Denmark, England and Canada. Does he feel he is going to waste?

"No," the seaman is always welcome in Washington (Wednesday) Eisenhower said his feelings are "exactly as I have stated on many occasions."

At his press conference in Washington (Wednesday) Eisenhower said his feelings are "exactly as I have stated on many occasions." This was taken to mean he might send troops to Little Rock again if there is renewed violence.

Mounties Expect Kootenays Will Be Rocked by Bombings

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—The RCMP there are "similar demonstrations against us."

is tightening security precautions in the Kootenays in expectation of increased terrorist bombings.

When Premier Bennett and his cabinet held a meeting here Wednesday, the RCMP took unprecedented precautions to ensure no terrorist bombs were planted in the area. Cars were searched from roof to basement. No bombs were found.

At Krestova, 30 miles east of here, funeral services for Mrs. Sons of Freedom Doukhobor Phillip Verveerscroft, 20, killed last week in a bomb explosion, were set up roadblocks and checked all cars coming from the Trail-Grand Forks stronghold.

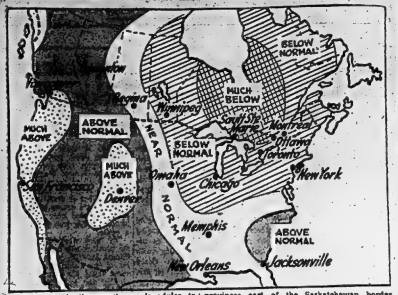
The funeral was expected to be last until late today. The RCMP says Verveerscroft was killed when a bomb he was handling accidentally exploded. Another young Freedomite was severely injured.

The Freedomite claim RCMP or vigilantes threw a bomb at the pair. Freedomite official Fred Davidoff says all the young members in the Okanagan Valley, mostly fruit pickers, have been recalled to the Kootenays in case

The funeral at tracted nearly 2,000 members of the Sect. An RCMP officer said: "They will make a martyr of him. In the past when there have been such huge meetings, trouble has generally followed."

Adding to fears of a wave of violence was the arrest of a Freedomite in possession of a gasoline in the last week. Police have set up roadblocks on all roads into the Kootenays area and are searching all cars going into the district.

The RCMP say they hope that after the funeral the Sons of Freedom Community council will discuss the recent federal-provincial agreement to clear the way for proposed migration to Russia.



RCMP Inspector C. E. Batty said: "Wednesday: "I am sure they won't go to Russia. I don't think they ever intended to."

Freedomite leader Bill Moojelsky said at Kresteva the government deadline of Sept. 30 is regarded by the Freedomites as being "designed to defeat us. It is impossible to complete registration of 3,000 people in five weeks."

"Just a Second"

"You said you- little Gwen- ie like a bird, so I gave her a worm."

Go west, is the weatherman's advice to vacationers who want to enjoy balmy weather for the next 30 days. Much below and below normal temperatures are due for all provinces east of the Saskatchewan border. Only Alberta and British Columbia are assured of above normal climate, but Saskatchewan will have near normal temperatures.

WELLINGTON

Past Matrons' Club Meets at Maple Inn

WELLINGTON — The Past Matrons' Club of Lakeside Chapter, 81, O.E.S., met on Monday evening in the form of a chicken dinner at Maple Inn. There were 30 who thoroughly appreciated the hospitality of this popular inn.

Honored guest on this occasion was the Past Matron, Mrs. George Watt of Vancouver. All enjoyed a visit with "Sister Mary." Also able to be present were Mrs. Clinton Calnan, "Sister Helen" of Belleville and Miss Jennie Monoghan, long a member of Lakeside.

After the delicious dinner almost all journeyed to the lovely home of Mrs. Ida McFaul for the business session. The president, Mrs. A. T. Fleming, opened the meeting and thanked the hostess for opening her home. Mrs. Clifford McFaul acted as secretary for Mrs. Elmer McFaul, who was absent. The president thanked all who helped with the tea and food sale. The treasurer, Mrs. Vick, reported the proceeds were over $100.

Mrs. C. McFaul, Mrs. F. Harris, Mrs. Wm. Davers and Mrs. E. Marvin were named as a committee to purchase some silver for Lakeside Chapter. Cards were to be sent to the sick. Mrs. Yott kindly invited the club to meet at her home in Picton on October 6th. At this time the election of the new officers will be held. The Bloomfield and Picton members will furnish the refreshments for this meeting.

There were three tables of court whist in play. After a few games Mrs. Vick was declared high, Miss Norma Foster second and each was presented with a pretty prize by the hostess. She also conducted an old fashioned flower contest. Mrs. Mayne had the most correct—no violets in the long list—and was presented with a lovely crocheted doily, the work of the hostess.

The hostess, assisted by Miss Monoghan, served a refreshing cold drink and cookies.

DESERONTO

Residents Can Build Sidewalk At Own Expense

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the Deseronto town council was held in the town hall on Monday night with five councillors and the mayor present. Absent was Councillor Marks.

Council decided to hold a special meeting to deal with the request for rebate of business tax paid by C. Sigsworth. Mr. Sigsworth had paid the tax but had not operated a business here during this year. They awarded the contract for the painting of the exterior of the fire hall and the tower to Thos. Thompson and Son.

Permission was granted to the residents of Prince St. from Thomas to Dundas Streets to install a sidewalk at their own expense. A survey of the proposed walk is to be submitted to the council for approval. The streets committee was also given permission to purchase a number of grates from the Region from Works for the street drains.

Councillor Gill submitted a tender for the wiring of the town barn and suggested no action was necessary by council because the members had installed the tender they wished to accept. However Councillor Howard moved that the tender of F. Toppings be accepted. The property committee was also given authority in purchase ten tons of coal for the town hall.

On recommendation of the fire committee several lengths of fire hose are to be send in for repair. An additional 100 feet of fire hose is also to be purchased.

Councillor Gill brought up the subject of the dry cleaning plant now being erected on St. George St. Some concern regarding the well on the property was voiced. The matter was left to the property committee to handle.

Britain Also May Sell Arms To Indonesia

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain is actively considering whether to follow the United States lead in selling arms to Indonesia, reliable informants said Wednesday.

An announcement on the British decision is anticipated in the near future.

Indonesia announced Tuesday that the United States is supplying arms on a commercial basis with no political strings. The arms are to be used solely for internal security.

The U.S. arms deal, following Indonesia's recent arms purchases from Communist countries, was signed last Wednesday. Since then, Globemaster transports have been flying in the arms. No details were announced on the quantity, value or types.

Relations between Indonesia and the West have improved steadily since President Sukarno's government crushed a rebellion this spring.

One reason why Britain has delayed a decision is Netherlands opposition. The Dutch fear Indonesia would use Western arms to seize their colony of West New Guinea—known to the Indonesians as West Irian.

A Dutch government spokesman said in The Hague today that Holland has received American assurances the U.S. arms to Indonesia will be used only for internal security and defence purposes.

The spokesman said this meant arms would be supplied which could be used "for aggressive purposes."

Sukarno last week reiterated Indonesia's claim to the Dutch colony. He said his government would no longer use "sweet reasoning and persuasion" to get it.

Length of Stay Of Queen Here Not Yet Decided

LONDON (Reuters) — The length of the Queen's visit to Canada to open the St. Lawrence Seaway next year has not yet been decided, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said Wednesday.

"But the visit is likely to be a substantial one, of two or three weeks," he added.

He was commenting on a report by The Daily Mail that Canadian authorities had asked the Queen and Prince Philip to stay for two months.

"I don't think it would be feasible for the Queen to spend two months in Canada," the spokesman said.

Details of the royal visit will not be decided until late in October, the palace said.

$4 Bill of 1850 Is Ottawa Find

TORONTO — A 108-year-old Canadian $4 bill turned up in Ottawa, worth $5 to $10, depending on its condition, according to Neil Carmichael, Toronto dealer and collector.

The banknote, issued by the Colonial Bank of Canada, was dated May 4, 1850. It was found in a strongbox by N. F. McKee, who said it had been given to him by the president of a bank-note company 30 years ago. With it was a U.S. banknote dated April 28, 1800, issued by the Farmer's Exchange Bank, Gloucester, Mass. It also would have value only as a collector's item, said Mr. Carmichael.

"If you're really looking for valuable old Canadian money," he said, "watch for the very rare $7 bill issued by Molson's Bank about 75 years ago. It's worth about $1,000."

ROSLIN

W.I. Enjoys Travelogue on 4-H Tour

ROSLIN — The August meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. William and Mrs. Norman White with around 20 present.

The president, Mrs. Don Hisbolin, presided and opened the meeting with a poem.

Mat Area convention in Belleville, East Hastings District will respond to the Roll Call with a talk on the Scottish W.I. achievement days, for the 4-H girls' clubs will be held in Stirling August 19th an din Madoc August 21. All interested are invited to attend.

The president expressed thanks to those who had prepared the exhibit for Belleville Fair this year.

Plans were made to hold a dinner in the Anglican Parish hall on Thursday, September 18 with proceeds to go to the three cemeteries.

The leader, Mrs. J. Empson, was in charge of the program and introduced the guest speaker, Miss Kay Homan, who has recently returned from a trip to the British Isles.

Miss Homan had won the trip as an award for outstanding work in the 4-H club and was one of a group of four Canadians under the leadership of Pedro Young of the O.A.C., Guelph, who went on the trip.

In her opening remarks, Miss Homan said they left Toronto May 16th and flew to Montreal where they boarded the super constellation and landed in Prestwick Scotland. Cities visited in Scotland were, Edinburg, a very clean city with beautiful parks flowers, Aberdeen most friendly people and the fish market; Braemore, where the Royal family is beautiful Lochlarkie, Inverness, Ayr, Dumfries and Perth.

Miss Homan told of the different currency, pounds, shillings, pence and getting used to it.

She mentioned the Highland Home Industries which provides a market for hand made articles done by various groups in the country and showed a sporrle used in stirring porridge, which she purchased there.

Next, they visited Ireland, which looked like a tiny patchwork quilt with its green, green fields and the hawthorn or MAY True all in bloom. They went to Dublin. There is a definite feud between the north and south and curfew is enforced between the hours of 7:30 and 10 pm. when no one must cross between the north and south and all are alert for spies.

GIANT'S CAUSEWAY

The giant's causeway, one of the seven wonders of the world at Ulster, was viewed also carnow Bridge Lock Ney and Isle of Man, living in the difficulty in drying hay grass silage is used.

The party returned to Scotland for the Royal Highland show in Ayr where the International beef judging competition was held.

A member of their group, a Mr. Campbell, who was used to judging beef cattle, was asked by the New Zealand team who lacked a man for their team to assist them and they called themselves the commonwealth team. After two days coaching they entered the competition, were awarded the second prize. It showed the value of the training in 4-H club work Miss Homan.

VISITS COAL MINES

From there the party went to England to Northumberland County, and visited the coal mines. The government owns the coal and can dig it whenever it is needed. The top soil is placed in one pile and sub soil in another, and after the coal has been removed it is replaced in the proper order. This is an improvement over the former practice which was ruining the land. Another improvement is the law prohibiting them from digging within a safe distance of any building, thus preventing them from being undermined.

They visited London and Hyde Park where anyone may make a speech; Bristol, the Royal Ships, numerous theatres and went for a boat ride on the Thames and saw the "Queen Oaks" a market garden area which provides produce for the London area. Robin Hood Forest, with its famous oaks was also visited.

A place must have a cathedral to be called a city in England, it is not named by the population as in Canada. The only straight roads are those built by the Romans and all streets are paved.

The group was entertained by Ontario House, in London.

They visited Madame Tussand's House of Wax figures, which are most lifelike.

DOUBLE-DECKER BUSES

Double-decker buses were used all over and she had a toy model to show. Among the souvenirs she brought back was a collection of coffee spoons, one from each city she visited, bearing the name of the place.

They returned via the "English Channel" after a two week trip.

Thanks for a most enjoyable travelogue was extended to the speaker.

Mrs. Empson gave a paper on "Psychology in Housework" and said one should plan her housework.

A reading by Mrs. K. Sharpe, "Home", a 4-H worker Hazel Slingerland gave a talk on the Garden Club and The Cereal Shelf and showed a number of their work books.

After the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses and their assistants.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JUNCTION — A good number from this community attended the Belleville Fair last week.

Misses Joan and Rose Raya have returned home to Hamilton after holidaying the past week at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Ray.

Friends here wish to extend congratulations to Miss Grace Clarke, who received word last week that she had been successful in passing her Grade XIII examinations and will be receiving her honor graduation diploma. Miss Clarke is planning to attend Teachers' College in Peterborough, in the coming school year.

The regular W. M. S. and W.A. meeting was held on August 14th at Eggleton United Church in the evening.

Buddy Hackett Teams Up With Gleason for Season

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — There are many rumors about plans for the Jackie Gleason show when it begins on CBS-TV Oct. 3, but the only solid information is that Gleason will be on it and so will Buddy Hackett.

Hackett, a 140-banana comedian in his own right who will play second banana on the new half-hour weekly Gleason series, was talking the other day to a friend who has been telephoning Gleason at a Peekskill, N.Y., number and never getting an answer.

"He's not there," said Hackett, "but if he was he still couldn't answer. That phone is just a bell up on top of a telephone pole. Gleason likes to hear it ring and know he can't answer it."

That could be Hackettisms, and then again it might be authentic Gleasonisms. At any rate, Gleason is—or was—over near the Delaware River playing golf with Hackett, an enthusiastic golfer, almost every day three days recently to discuss the new show.

EACH ADMIRES OTHER

"We played golf for three days," said Hackett, "and we talked golf for three days. As I was coming away, Jackie said, 'the more laughs you get on the show the better I'll like it.' I admire you most because you're a good actor.'

"And I'd like to say I admire Gleason most because he's the only comedian in the country who's funnier than I am and who'd have the nerve to hire me a second time.

One thing Hackett would like to get straight now is that the "pre-season" job that he will be with Gleason only one season—24 shows with the option of eight more.

The year after this, 24 Gleason returns to television. "I don't want people asking what happened to Hackett," he said. "Because I can tell you right now that Hackett will be in Europe doing a filmed series for television about an American photographer.

Maureen Stapleton Cannot Stand California Sunshine

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—I never thought Hollywood would use me. There's no place out here for a fat girl. . . .

"I can't stand the sunshine in California. It's so relentless. But it's good for you, I guess. Even at the old ladies out here look better than I do. . . .

This was Maureen Stapleton talking, and she was living up to her billing as the female Marlon Brando. She could give a baby scream at the allusion, but the similarity is there.

She has a similar disdain for the niceties of attire ("I hate clothes"). She is unimpressed by herself, Hollywood protocol and nearly everything.

Also, she is a great performer, admired by her fellow actors.

SCHARY GOT HER

Dore Schary is the man who got her to do a movie. He and director Vincent Donahue sought her to play the important role of an unhappy housewife in Lonelyhearts with Montgomery Clift, Robert Ryan and Myrna Loy.

How was she landed?

"Vinny called me up and asked me if I wanted to do it," she said. "I loved the book and I liked the setup so I said yes. Then I called up a friend and asked if he'd like to agent the deal."

This goes entirely against the Hollywood system of having agents haggle over salary, billing, and so on. But then, Maureen is not the Hollywood type. Her well-padded figure reflects her delight in good food. She has a pretty, apple-cheeked face and a large, unruly mop of brown hair.

This is Maureen's third trip to California. She was here previously while touring with Katharine Cornell in The Barretts of Wimpole Street and later with The Rose Tattoo. During the latter visit, there was a flurry of activity at MGM, which wanted to sign her.

She recalled a conference with an MGM official: "I felt perfectly at ease with him because I knew he had no interest in me or my career whatsoever. He was simply in buying and selling.

"He tried to tell me on the great number of stars who had been built by the studio, like Garbo. But then he added, 'this isn't here any more.'

"I guess I didn't seem too interested. I left the studio and never heard from them again."

MONGOL LEADER

The Mongol emperor Genghis Khan's name in Chinese is Cheng-tse, meaning perfect warrior.

AT THE PARK — Rock Hudson and Arlene Dahl are starred in Universal-International's heroic Technicolor adventure "Bengal Brigade" opening tonight at the Park Theatre, based on the story of India's most turbulent days. Ursula Thiess is co-starred in this Ted Richmond production, directed by Lesio Benedek. Torin Thatcher, Arnold Moss, Daniel O'Herlihy, Michael Ansara and Harold Gordon are cast in chief supporting roles. On the same program the west's most notorious outlaw "The Kid from Texas", in Technicolor starring Audie Murphy, Gale Storm and Albert Dekker.

Dodgers Blow More Foam Off Milwaukee's Lead

Pinch Hitting

By Carry Alexander

DEADLINE EXTENDED

Drury Denyes received good news for the McFarlands yesterday from the International Ice Hockey Federation.

Some time ago there was speculation that some of the teams entered in the world hockey tournament this winter might protest Canada's use of reinstated pros. That was cleared up and it was announced that Canada's entry, in this case the Belleville Mats, would be permitted to use any and all "pros" they wished.

But there was still a matter of concern. According to the Federation rules, all reinstated pros must be signed by August 31. This left little time to clear some of the players Hildebrand and Denyes wanted for the trip.

There is still quite a job in having a good pro reinstated and it often takes a great deal of time and considerable dickering with NHL brass to accomplish the feat. Often pro clubs want another look at a player before they decide their organization can do without him for the winter. And the training camps are not even open by the August 30 deadline.

Many of the best players become available after hockey is in full swing across the country. Where would the Dunlops have been last winter if they had not signed Sid Smith, Connie Broden and Lamorande after the deadline? We doubt if the championship would belong to Canada.

So again this year the executive of the International Ice Hockey Federation has extended the deadline for Canada, from August 30 to December 31. The matter apparently was brought to the attention of executive members of Canada, Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Russia and they agreed there would be no objections to Canada having the same time extension as last year.

And there should be no objections that we can see. After all Russia and other countries have no "pros" and are able to choose the best men on skates to mould a strong contender. Hockey is a year-around affair there, with no deadline to meet. There is no waiting around for an All-Can Cup winner in April or May to decide which team will represent Russia.

And any way you look at it, Canada and Russia make the tournament a success. They draw the crowds all through Europe and they are the ones to pack the fans in by the thousands come the final day, when the title always seems to be at stake.

The world hockey tournament needs Canada. And Canada apparently needs the reinstated pros as the European countries grow stronger in hockey talent each year. Extending the deadline was a good move from any angle.

Meanwhile Denyes and Hildebrand have talked over the situation several times and, according to the manager, have decided upon a number of players they would like to see in a Mac uniform. Some are pros, others are not. A number have been contacted but no names will be released until certain decisions have been made. One well known player with years of NHL experience will be in the fold shortly if plans progress as they have been doing recently.

It is no secret that the McFarlands also want Orval Tessier and a while ago it looked like he was in the bag. But the deal fizzled and has also had a handsome offer from Kelowna Packers, who want him for their Russian tour and he is undecided at the moment which way to move. He and Ike have played on the same team before and our bet is he will end up 4th "McFarland" on his back and "Canada" on his front.

Denyes says he should have plenty of exciting news for the district fans within a week or two concerning new players.

ACTION AHEAD

Action will be the main theme at Memorial Arena this Friday evening when the ruthless Lisowski Brothers, Reggie and Stan, tangle with the Russian brother team of Ivan and Karol Kalmikoff.

There will be no tag-team rope lovsilved as all four men will be battling inside the ring at one time. A match of this type should have the fans cheering all the way. Most of the faithful probably won't care who wins as long as both sides blast each other into oblivion. It will be a welcome sight to watch the Lisowskis and the Kalmikoffs inflicting their underhanded manoeuvres on one another instead of on some of the more sportsmanlike teams as is usually the case.

The semi-final on the card is worthy of main event billing. Lord Athol Layton, judo-chopping English mat-man, will oppose Big Bob Orton, a crowd-pleasing villain at his best.

The opening heavyweight encounter will have muscular Tarzan Tourville clashing with Karl Stelff. They pry the lid off at nine o'clock.

Take 3 Straight From Braves To Cut Margin to 5½ Games; Sox Move Into Yankee Lair

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Dodgers blew some more foam off Milwaukee's National League lead last night, taking their third in a row from the Braves, 2-1.

That slashed the champ's lead to 5½ games, with two games remaining in the series at Los Angles before Milwaukee plunges into a five-game set with the second-place Giants at San Francisco.

The "dead" Dodgers got four hits off Warren Spahn. At that, they needed only the last two, scoring in the fifth inning on Joe Pignatano's home run, a walk and Norm Larker's triple.

San Francisco took a 4-3 afternoon victory from Cincinnati as Philadelphia quit the cellar and cut a losing string at seven games by edging St. Louis 15-3 with Willie Jones driving in eight runs. Third-place Pittsburgh beat Chicago Cubs 4-2, then lost 5-1 in the second game of the doubleheader, which was halted after five innings by rain and darkness.

IMPROVE RECORD

The Dodgers, who have won eight of their last nine in a jump from last place to fourth, built a 12-6 season record over the Braves, who began their 10-game tour of California with an eight-game bulge.

Rookie Stan Williams then blanked the Braves after a one-run first on five singles, although needing Johnny Klippstein's help in the ninth.

Williams now is 9-7, Spahn 16-9.

Bob Friend, the only other 16-game winner in the NL, also failed at No. 17, taking his 13th defeat in the slightest at Chicago. Dick Drott, the Cubs' ace, gave up a hit until Bill Mazeroski slapped his 16th home run in the fifth inning. The Cubs battered Friend for 11 hits, scoring twice in the last of the fifth before the rains came.

WIN OPENER

The Giants handed reliever Brooks Lawrence (6-12) his ninth defeat in a row in Worthington (10-5) won it in relief after starter Stu Miller had given up homers to Frank Robinson and Johnny Temple.

Gene Conley belted a pair of three-run homers and a two-run double for the best one-game production by a Phillie since Del Ennis drove in seven against the same Cardinals in 1950. Harry Anderson also homered for the Phils, making Robin Roberts' 12th victory a breeze. Billy Muffett (4-5) lost it. Stan Musial, playing one game shy of Willie Richie Ashburn in the batting race, had two hits for the Cardinals—a double that gave him 2,985 extra bases on long hits, matching Mel Ott's NL record.

Six Businessmen Buy Hockey Club In Windsor

WINDSOR (CP) — A six-man group of Windsor businessmen headed by former Leafs' manager-coach Murph Chamberlain purchased the Windsor Wings OHA-NOHA Senior A hockey club Wednesday Terms were not disclosed.

The sale came less than 24 hours after Chamberlain's group made what they termed a "second and final offer" to trustee Oscar W. Zon for a company for the Windsor Buildings club formed two years ago by A. E. Tong Wing of Detroit. The club was placed in bankruptcy two weeks ago, carrying debts reported in excess $40,000.

Coincidental with the club's sale is a new franchise in the OHA - NOHA, effective Wednesday. Chamberlain asked for the franchise at a league meeting in Toronto Monday.

Identity of the five businessmen associated with Chamberlain was not disclosed.

Detroit Raiders Have Speed, Balanced Ground, Air Attack

DETROIT (CP)—Detroit Raiders are ready for their debut in Canadian football with what their figure is a winning combination: Speed and a balanced ground and air attack.

But Raiders officials aren't going overboard in predictions. With only five weeks of practice behind them, their entry into the Ontario Rugby Football Union and a new set of rules may not be a breeze.

"We'll wait and see," they say. Their first game is scheduled for Saturday night in Sarnia against the Golden Bears.

PLAY SET GAMES

Raiders have six league games slated for the season, half the eight schedule. Each of their games counts four points to the other club's two, and they're eligible for post-season playoffs. They play two each against Sarnia, Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and London Lords.

Not having played exhibition games against Canadian clubs, the Detroit club isn't sure just how well their short training stint on Canadian rules has panned out.

"But just let one of our speedy backs get loose and they'll never catch him," says Alec Small, an assistant coach who also plays guard. He claims Raiders have four men who can do 100 yards in 10 seconds or less.

He lists them as: Tom Hunter, formerly with the University of Detroit and former All-Missouri Valley Conference halfback, repute to be a 9.8-second man for the 100 yards; Albert Richmond, formerly of Wayne University; Small, who spent a year with Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Football League, and Cliff Coughlin of Regina College, B.C., a draft choice with the NFL. New York Giants who signed with Hopkins Raiders before the army.

At quarterback is Gino D'Ambrosio, who has had stints with Wayne University and Green Bay Packers of the NFL.

Playing coach is Gus Cifelli, former All-American Notre Dame tackle who had a five-year stint with Detroit Lions.

One member of the team won't be a novice to Canadian rules. He is Walt Jenkins, formerly of Detroit Lions and last year with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football union. None of the other players has played Canadian football.

The Raiders were born from the Dearborn All-Stars, a semi-pro club which played in the Michigan Inter-City Conference.

No regular games are scheduled for Detroit this season, but next season Raiders figure on a full schedule with their share of home games.

Touring Pros and Canadians Give Par Beating in Warming Up for Canadian Open Title

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Some tour-professionals said in practice they enjoyed playing Edmonton's Kenwood Golf course.

They proved their enjoyment Wednesday in the pro-amateur chase for the Canadian Open's $25,000 at the playgrounds of 100 pros and amateurs came in under Maxfield's par 70.

Don January, 27, of the one-inch Texan, and Mike Fetchik of Yonkers, N.Y., proved it most conclusively, covering the 6,557-yard course in five-under-par 65 scores.

Seven others made it in 66, another 10 in 67. Five in 68 and 13 in 69. One long-time official said it was the greatest assault on par in the 31 years of the Canadian Open.

Rod Loftus, 37-year-old Calgary pro who went out in the fourth group off the tee, checked in with the first 67-par round—the Canadian Amateur Doug Silverberg of Calgary came in 67. Unbeknown to Rod Loftus and turned in a 69. He was the only one of the 18 amateurs competing to better par.

Five other Canadians got—in their sub-par licks. Moe Norman, a native of Kitchener, now living in Toronto, Dave Mountain, local favorite Stan Leonard of Vancouver were included in the 68 status at 67.

Winnipeg - born George Knudson, now an assistant pro at a Toronto club, fired 68, while Al Balding of Weston, Ont., Jack of Montreal and Danny Stack of Winnipeg joined Silverberg at 69. DIDN'T SHOOT UP

The seven tied with 66 were all from the United States. Ernie Bernardin, 29-year-old native of Lawrence, Mass., was the first in with the four-under score and until late in the day, it appeared good enough to stand up.

But January, recovering from the gripe that sidelined him after three rounds in the St. Paul Open last weekend, and Fetchik, who hasn't won a tournament in two years, were still on the course.

Bernardin's company at 66 were Bill Collins, Baltimore; Jay Hebert, Lafayette, La.; his brother Lionel, Lafayette, La.; Tom Jacobs, Whittier, Calif.; Tony Lema, Napa, Calif. and Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill.

At 67 with Loftus, Norman and Leonard were Mike Souchak, Greenbrier, W.V., winner of the St. Paul Open; Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa.; Dow Finsterwald, Tegucsia, Fla.; Doug Sanders, Miami Beach, Fla.; John Pott, Shreveport, La.; Dick Goetz, Tulsa, Okla., and Wes Ellis, Ridgewood, N.J.

Stan Saluhi of Fort William carded twelve rounds of 37 for a 74 total and Sandy Middleton of Port Arthur was 38-43—80.

Toronto Leafs Now Four Games Behind Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last couple of days were supposed to represent move up time for Toronto Maple Leafs but they didn't figure on the wrath of the Buffalo Bisons.

For the second straight night, the Bisons whipped the Leafs — scoring a 18-2 rout Wednesday that dropped second - place Toronto four games off Montreal's pace. Thursday night, Buffalo won 7-1.

The cost to Toronto was only a half game as Montreal and Rochester played to a rain - delayed 3-3 tie in 13 innings. Columbus pulled into a fourth place tie with Miami, winning 5-0 over the Marlins, and Havana and Richmond split. Havana won the opener 5-1 and Richmond the second game, 10-5.

Lefthander Freddie Hahn's five-hit shutout over Luke Easter's slugging featured the Buffalo performance against Toronto. Easter clouted his 30th home run.

The Bisons vacated last place in favor of Havana. The Cubans won the first on Borego Alvarez' two-out homer in the 10th but slipped to last when Richmond's 13-hit attack coupled with four Havana errors made a Vees' romp in the nightcap.

Bernie Daley pitched a four-hitter for the Jets.

Rochester had scored once in the 14th inning for a 2-2 tie and was two strikes away from a victory over Montreal when the final downpour of a well-spaced evening caused umpire Ed Vanderhoff to order a rainout.

Belleville Bobcats qualified to meet Peterborough in the OASA playdowns last night by defeating the Sports Centre 6-1 at CNRA Park, completing a sweep of their intermediate "AA" series over the Centretown baseball club.

Last night's game was the best of the series until a downpour of rain and all matters short. Sports Centre took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first, but only time during the series they were ahead of the Cats.

Bobcats struck back quickly however with a pair. Floyd Crawford smashed a line drive single and Skinner Murray's glove at first and "Wiener" Brown added single later with two men down. Both Cousins plated both runners with a double to left centre.

CRAWFORD HOMERS

Crawford got the Cats under way again in the third inning with a home run into right field. The winners added a pair later with Brown and Ray Gaddis at bat. Cousins reached base on singles and Ben Faulkner sent both across the plate with a base hit. Don "Snuff" Locke completed the run - scoring when Locke simplified the scoring in the fourth frame.

Floyd Crawford was the game's top hitter, pounding his circuit blast and a single and scoring twice for the Cats. Earl Cousins had a double and single and two RBI while Bert Faulkner also drove in two runs and had two singles. Four Records Set As Roughies Trample Argos

TORONTO (CP)—Four records were set and one almost equalled as Ottawa trampled Toronto 46-7 in their second Big Four football season game in Ottawa Tuesday night.

Ottawa's 446 yards rushing broke the old mark of 425 yards set by Toronto against Montreal in 1951 and Nov. 2.

Ottawa also established a record in first downs by rushing with 30, six better than the record 24 set by Montreal in 1955.

The 46 points and 677 Yards rushing in a game by both teams —Toronto had 226—was the third mark. The old mark of 661 set by Toronto (433) and Montreal (230) in the Nov. 2 game last season.

The fourth record was in total yards gained by rushing by both teams—62. The former mark was 57 set Oct. 29, 1955, when Montreal had 23 and Toronto 14.

Ottawa came close to equalling the total of first downs by one team in a game by rolling up 31. The record, held by Montreal, is 45.

Stan (Gabby) Anderson, London Majors' right fielder is the No. 2 man with .392.

Anderson is tied with Nick Ristiche of Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen for home run lead with six. Anderson also of the season and appeared to have no challengers in his quest for the Ross Manson of Hamilton trophy.

Marlene Streit Heavily Favored To Win Title

DARIEN, Conn. (CP)—Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Forthill, Ont., stands a good chance to subdue fifty-three opposition today and gain the quarter-final of the U.S. women's amateur championship.

Mrs. Streit, who swept through the third and fourth rounds Wednesday without even needing to play well, meets Mrs. Margot Mason of Ridgewood, N.J. this morning in the qualifier for the quarter-final.

"I have two rounds tomorrow—if I'm lucky," Mrs. Streit said as she made her way back to a hotel. Wednesday for some rest after a wearying day.

Another Canadian golfer, Homa Nuendorf of Toronto, has the unenviable assignment of meeting JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle, 18-year-old defending champion who had no trouble Wednesday in disposing of Judy Darling of Hudson Heights, Que., 4 and 3. Miss Nuendorf would have to pull the upset of the tournament to get past Miss Gunderson.

Mrs. Streit must sharpen up her fairway play if she expects to stay in the running for the title she won in 1956. She took most of the morning to warm up in play against Mrs. Alan Ryan of Locust Valley, N.Y., shooting five over par on the first nine holes before winning 3 and 2.

But on the afternoon session against Marjorie Burns of Greensboro, N.C., Mrs. Streit was in great form as she chipping and putting returned to the level she maintained in her opening-round victories. After topping the ball with a fairway shot on the first hole for a one-stroke lead, Mrs. Streit proceeded to win five holes in a row, three with birdies.

In a continued display of regained form, she chipped in from off the green to the second and knocked in 10-foot putts on two other holes. She won 4 and 3.

Miss Nuendorf advanced to the fifth round when she defeated Mrs. Robert Hall of Darien, New Canaan, Conn., 3 and 2, after disposing of Mrs. Marguerite Hall of Inwood, N.Y., 6 and 4 in the morning match.

In addition to Miss Gunderson, Mrs. Streit's chief threats in later play can be expected from Mrs. George Valentine of Scotland, a member of Britain's Curtis Cup team, and from Mrs. Bill Campbell of Mexico City, a smooth-swinging daughter of one of Mexico's top pros.

Virgil Akins Scores TKO Over Tombstone Smith

CHICAGO (AP)—Welterweight champion Virgil Akins, his face a mask of red from bleeding cuts around both eyes, came alive in the last round Wednesday night with smashing right lefts to score a technical knockout over Charlie (Tombstone) Smith.

Until the decisive 10th in the non-title scrap, Akins was the loser in all points at 44-46 on both judges cards—as Smith, a 4-to-1 underdog, kept popping him with long lefts that opened cuts over both eyes.

Akins came out in the 10th like a tiger, rushed to hit 29-year-old Los Angeles opponent, caught him with a steaming left hook and followed with a right that sent Smith sprawling for an eight count.

Smith arose still dazed and Akins bore in, slamming him into a corner and hammering him at will.

Referee Frank Sikora stopped it at 1:18.

It was the champion's fifth straight kayo and gave him a total of 29 of 39 victories in 97 fights. Eight-ranked Smith now has a 26-6 record.

Nerves All On Edge From Indigestion; Couldn't Sleep

Suffered Five Years With Faulty Digestion, Heartburn, Gas, Sour, Upset Stomach. Tells of Relief by Taking Syntona.

There is such an improvement in the way I feel since I've been taking Syntona that I think it is a really great medicine," said Mr. Alan Taylor, 583 Oxford Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

His Experience

was unusual with indigestion for five years. All the time I suffered with heartburn, gas and belching up of hot, sour liquids after my meals, my nerves were all on edge and I would toss and roll at night, unable to sleep. I was always feeling tired and subject to shocking headaches.

But since I've used Syntona the shocking headaches and backaches are relieved and my appetite is 100% better. My nerves are better now. I have no more turning and tossing at night and I feel fresh in the morning. I feel more like working as I used to and more like living as I used to.

If you suffer from faulty digestion, if your nerves are on edge or if you have headaches, heartburn, constipation or feel tired and lacking energy today you, too, can find relief.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

Family Ice Box Used to Store Murder Evidence

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Use of the family ice box to store murder evidence brought objections from Mrs. Merle Kennopp, wife of the county sheriff.

The sheriff told the county board his wife rebelled against further sharing of the refrigerator and the board quickly authorized a new ice box for family use only.

Radiation Lethal Far Out in Space Says Official

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—Explorer IV is sending back startling revelations about an intense band of radiation far out in space, a project official said.

Much of the satellite's report is based on data collected with the aid of instruments aboard the globe every 114 minutes, dipping as low as 136 miles and swinging as high as 1,368 miles in space.

Launched July 26, the 37.1-pound satellite is expected to continue in orbit for about 300 years.

Ludwig said that the 1,368 miles the dials say have come close to swamping the counters within the 30-inch tube satellite. The readings have been "amazing," he said.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:— Cool air now covers the entire Great Lakes area following rainfalls on Thursday which ranged upward from an inch in some localities in southern Ontario. There will be considerable cloudiness throughout the province this afternoon but mostly sunny skies have been forecast for the balance of the weekend. Overnight temperatures will be lower than normal but will remain unchanged Saturday and Sunday the thermometer should reach pleasant low 70s on Saturday and likely a few degrees higher on Sunday.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The United Nations, its two-week emergency General Assembly concluded in unanimous agreement, is looking to the Arab states to fulfil their pledge of peace in the Middle East.

Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold is expected to make a personal visit to the area within two weeks to oversee arrangements that may result in a withdrawal of British and American troops from Jordan and Lebanon by the end of September.

The outcome of the emergency session, which ended Friday night with the assembly voting 80 to 0 with one member absent on the Arab-sponsored outline for settlement, was regarded as a victory for President Nasser of United Arab Republic.

Israel voiced reservations in the preliminary stages of the debate but voted with the rest to accept the Arab reaffirmation of non-aggression as a starting point in Middle East settlement attempts.

RUSSIA HOPES

Russia too was lukewarm over such a solution but gave in to the Arab-sponsored outline after it had shelled the session to avoid a voting split that would have negated any chance any paper solution could be reached.

From now on it is up to the Arab states, on the basis of their pledge to the assembly, to accept responsibility for the safety of Jordan and Lebanon in return for the withdrawal of the British and American forces.

Hammarskjold's mission will be to see that conditions are satisfactory for such a withdrawal and also to lay the groundwork for an economic development plan for the Middle East in consultation with the Arab countries.

The United States, through delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, said the session had achieved more than any summit conference, adding the success of this session was schieved in large measure by the Arabs themselves and other small nations who would not have succeeded in summit meetings."

NOT SOLVED YET

But his chief, State Secretary Dulles, warned against believing that mere passage of a resolution here would solve the problem of the Middle East which had "roots" and "explosive aspects which could erupt at any time."

Canada hailed the assembly settlement as "an eminently satisfactory outcome" and External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, who headed back to Ottawa today, predicted an extension of the Canadian Eisenhower blueprint to include a UN peace force.

Lodge said the "serious standby force has been dropped—but only from this session"—and Smith commented in a statement after the vote, "it will be given further consideration at the next regular session."

But the general mood was satisfactory in the Canadian view since it had been proposed by the Arab countries themselves and "all delegations will feel a sense of responsibility as they are now living before the Arab states in their mutual relations."

UNIONS AWAIT RAILWAY STAND ON CONCILIATION

Wonder If Companies Will Accept Report

MONTREAL (CP) — The main negotiating committee for Canada's non - operating railway unions today awaited word from the railway under accepting a conciliation board's recommendations for settlement of their seven-month dispute with management.

The two major railways, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific, have not said whether they also accept the recommendations that would call for an extra estimated $36,000,000 a year, nor did they disclose any reaction to the union acceptance.

The committee, representing 15 unions that bargain for those 130,000 employees who do not actually belong to the train, over-road operations from one of its most important members is voting Thursday on whether the majority report. It suggests that the workers get more than a third of the $100,000,000-a-year demands they made.

IT JUSTIFIED

The railways had argued that no increases at all were justified and they asked extension of the present contract for one year.

Negotiations said the 36,000-member Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, largest single union in the group, was one to vote against accepting the report.

Others are the only ones to vote against accepting the report.

Others are expected to have decided the conciliation board's findings were about the best they could hope for in getting into a general rail strike. Only six of some 100 officials at the committee meeting voted to reject the report, it was learned.

Acceptance of the report in a mood of compromise was a big surprise to many. The unions originally demanded a flat increase of $1 per cent, plus 10 cents an hour. The total demand would have come to about 30 cents an hour.

The majority conciliation board recommended a raise of roughly 11 cent-an-hour increase over a two-year period.

It recommends among other things:

A wage increase of four cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1, 1958.

A three-per-cent increase effective Sept. 1, 1958.

A four-per-cent increase effective April 1, 1959.

Wage rates now are $1.33 an hour for such as section hands and $1.90 for highly skilled workers such as machinists. Average non - op earnings are about $1.63, and the conciliation board findings, if accepted by the railways, would boost the average non-op earnings to about $1.77.

Some workers earn as little as $1 an hour and some as much as $3.

Danes Fear Mishap to A-Power Sub, Refuse to Let It Visit Copenhagen

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Denmark has cancelled the scheduled visit to Copenhagen of the U.S. atomic-powered submarine Skate for fear of possible radiation in case of an accident.

A commission official conceded that the chance of a serious accident was negligible. But he said that if the Skate were to run aground or be involved in a collision, and its powerful atomic reactor damaged, there would be "a certain fatal danger" for Copenhagen's 1,200,009 residents.

The Skate is due to arrive after its voyage under the polar ice was scheduled for next week.

20,000 Workers Made Idle By Rash of Labor Troubles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A rash of labor troubles has hit a half-dozen Canadian industries and almost 30,000 workers have been made idle.

They could be joined by another 30,000 or more if some contemplated strikes take place.

At issue in the disputes are wage increases, shorter hours, welfare benefits and the threat posed by automation.

About 9,200 longshoremen on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts joined the growing army of idle workers Thursday.

On the other side of the ledger, the union represents 120,000 operating railway workers and voted to accept a conciliation board's majority report giving them 13.8 cents an hour over the next two years. The railways have not been accepted yet by the railways.

Next in the picture in individual industries throughout Canada:

Labrador - Newfoundland's fresh-food supply was threatened in a flare-up of an eight-month dispute between the Newfoundland and Employers' Association and the Canadian Seamen's Union Protective Union.

The association Thursday suspended all general cargo unloading at St. John's, including supplies of perishables such as milk and vegetables. A federal industrial relations officer was given the unions and employer concerns new proposals aimed at ending the dispute. Among the issues is an employers' demand for unlimited use of mechanical equipment.

In Vancouver all deep - sea ships were halted Thursday night as 1,200 members of the International Longshoremen's Union (CLC) struck for increased wages, shorter hours and an improved pension plan.

Steel: The Steel Company of Canada's Hamilton plant, largest in Canada, was closed for the fifth day today as negotiations with the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) adjourned for the weekend.

About 7,500 production workers are on strike for a wage increase and other non-monetary demands. The union has asked a 35-cent-an-hour package, the company has offered five cents.

The Sault Ste. Marie Steelworkers local, representing 6,000 men, has applied for conciliation in negotiations with Algoma Steel Corporation that began June 23. The outcome of the inter-dispute is expected to affect the Algoma settlement, where the five-cent-an-hour offer of the four wage boosts.

Beer: Company representatives offered new contract terms for every union member in the Canadian Brewery Trade Thursday as its province-wide beer strike entered its third week.

'Bobcat' May Be Answer To Infantryman's Prayer

OTTAWA (CP) — The "Bobcat may be the answer to the infantryman's prayer.

Bobcat is the name given by the army to a new armoured, over-water armored personnel carrier now undergoing engineering trials at the army's proving grounds just east of Ottawa.

The first prototypes of the new vehicle were delivered to the army this month by Canadian Car and Foundry Company Ltd. At the same time, however, before theBobcat comes into general service, it must undergo a two-year period of extensive trials.

It the prototypes prove successful, pilot vehicles will be ordered for large-scale user trials by various units across Canada. These will be essential trials would the machine be ordered into production.

There are still little doubt, however, that the Bobcat will eventually be mass-produced for the army. The service has been working for years on its design and development and Defence Minister Pearkes has said that the Bobcat is the army canine of the battlefield. The Bobcat forms an integral part of this doctrine.

The tracked Bobcat is essentially a troop carrier but it has been designed with a chassis capable of being used for many other roles, including that of self-propelled artillery.

The armament of the Bobcat will afford protection against small arms fire and shell fragments. It will also provide protection against the effects of nuclear explosions and to a lesser extent, against blast and radiation.

The new, fully-equipped soldiers can board the carrier in 15 seconds and disembark in eight seconds. The Bobcat is powered with a modified compressed truck engines.

Authorities Detect Scrap To Freer Trade in U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian authorities detect a swing to freer trade in the United States market which last year absorbed some $3,900,000,000 worth of Canadian products.

Extent of the swing is still to be assessed but there are ample continuing complaints against existing American curbs.

But there has been recent U.S. action heartening to Canadian exporters. Some are making a fresh bow with perhaps the most dramatic one to emerge in October. At that time Canada, the U.S. and other countries will be meeting in Geneva to talk about proposal for vast expansion of the International Monetary Fund and World Bank is discussed.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has pledged his clear be in favors such expansion through increased currency contributions of the member countries. The feeling here is that the U.S. will go along and that this could be a huge increase in the Western world's resources available for loans to needy countries.

This in turn could increase the demand for goods and expand trade.

Canadian faith that the U.S. will play a leading part in Western moves during the next few years is based on indications that dent Eisenhower's action to overcome the country's balance of trouble have virtually doubled the American tariff on Canadian seed wheat.

In the realm of exports this was only a small item, involving shipments of some 3,000,000 bushels a year. But the fact the president was willing to challenge Congress on this point, following an appeal from Canadian agricultural interests, is considered a big step forward.

U.S. PREPARED TO END A-TESTS FOR ONE YEAR

Eisenhower Outlines Conditions for Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower announced today the United States is ready to suspend nuclear weapons tests for one year starting Oct. 31, provided Russia meets seven conditions.

The conditions are that the Soviet Union agrees to maintain its current ban on nuclear tests, and further agrees to open negotiations looking toward a permanent ban.

The White House said Great Britain also stands ready to join in a one-year suspension of weapons tests under the same conditions specified by the United States.

Great Britain tonight offered conditionally to join the United States and Russia in "a one-year ban on nuclear weapons tests."

At the same time the British Government proposed meeting with Russia and the United States—the world's only other two nuclear powers—in Geneva on Monday in New York on Oct. 31 to work out practical arrangements for a foolproof system of controlling the ban on tests.

British note to the Soviet Union delivered today invited Russia to join the New York talks and said Britain is ready to extend the one-year suspension provided certain other conditions are fulfilled.)

Eisenhower stressed in a statement that the United States is not proposing that nuclear tests for peaceful purposes be halted.

SEEK CONTROLS

Referring to technical talks on policing a ban, conducted at Geneva last week, Eisenhower said:

"The United States, taking account of the Geneva conference, is prepared to proceed promptly to negotiate an agreement with nations which have tested nuclear weapons for the suspension of nuclear weapons tests and the actual establishment of an international control system on the basis of the experts' report."

"If this is accepted in principle by the other nations which have tested nuclear weapons, then in order to facilitate the negotiations, the United States is prepared, unless testing is resumed by others, to refrain from withheld further testing on its part for a period of one year from the beginning of the negotiations."

MAJOR U.S. SHIFT

The announcement reflected a major shift in U.S. nuclear policy.

Eisenhower said that as part of the contemplated international agreement the United States would be prepared to "refrain from spend nuclear weapons tests on a year-by-year basis, beginning at the end of each year that:

"(a) The agreed inspection system is installed and working effectively; and

Tower of London Boss Is Happy, Test Shows Jewels Well Guarded

LONDON (AP) — The boss of the Tower of London confirmed in Scotland Yard today he set off the burglar alarm to see how safe the Crown Jewels are being guarded.

He was delighted with the test," said Brig. Leslie Frederick Eikelberi Wieler. "It worked extremely well."

Brig. Wieler is resident governor of the ancient fortress and is also responsible for safeguarding one of the world's most fabulous collections of jewels.

"Why didn't you tell us, sir, that you were going to test it?" asked a Scotland Yard sleuth.

"Because I was afraid of having a test," snapped the brigadier, "if it's not carried out properly!"

"It was carried out properly, all right.

Shortly after breakfast the recorded voice on an automatic burglar alarm boomed out in Scotland Yard:

"Intruders have entered the jewel house at the Tower of London."

At the tower itself, alarm gongs clanged and the engines racing to a three-alarm fire.

Then guards turned to action stations at the lower . . . scores of Yeoman Warders lumbered to emergency stations . . . the fly-ing squad, roared out of Scotland Yard . . . radio cars dashed to the tower . . . police patrol boats churned down the Thames . . . Bobbies controlled off Tower Hill as 16-ton steel cage clanged down around the jewels.

It was the biggest scare since Capt. Peter Blood stole the royal ice from the tower of London years ago.

All the jewels—which include the priceless Cullinan diamonds and the Koh-I-Nor diamond—were safe, however. And, concerning what happened, the governor let out a secret of the security set up permanently guarding the gem collection, viewed annually by more than 300,000 visitors.

When Brig. Wieler broke an electric eye beam, the alarm rang in Scotland Yard.

Then a second voice booming through the yard was similar to hundreds of others in London. Instead of just clanging, it announces the address of the alarm.

Back at the tower the governor was happy.

"It's been a perfect morning." he said. "Now excuse me, please, I must show a party of Middle East sheikhs the jewels."

Can Leave Union By End Of Year If They Desire

Can Indicate Their Wish In Vote on Constitution

TANANARIVE, M a d a g a s c a r (AP)—Premier de Gaulle today told Madagascar and 11 other French colonies that they can leave the French union as independent nations before the end of 1958 if their peoples desire.

Starting a swing through France's African territories, he told Madagascar that the test of their desire will be their vote in the Sept. 28 referendum on his proposed new French constitution.

The referendum, he told a special joint session of the island's representative assembly, will offer all peoples in the French union a chance to decide their future freely.

A majority vote against the constitution, "will mean that Madagascar no longer wishes to be associated with France and that the French government will draw the appropriate conclusions."

NO FORCED BID

The implication was that secession would mean an end to French financial assistance vital to the economy of the big island off the southeast coast of Africa.

The French put down a revolt in Madagascar in 1947 which resulted in killing 30,000 of the 4,000,000 islanders. Thousands of the tall ran much higher.

De Gaulle outlined the changes he is proposing in the relationship between France and her territories.

DIVISION OF POWERS

He described this as a federal community in which each area would have internal self-government but the central authority under French leadership would handle defence, foreign relations and economic policies.

Each overseas state could also join the French community by passing justice, higher education, communications and transport to the powers of the government in Paris.

"To the impatient nationalists de Gaulle had for the present no change. The new constitution, he said, will include a provision for revision. By mutual consent a member of the French bolon will be able to change its independence.

Assembly President Norbert Zafimbhova, welcoming de Gaulle said that Madagascar has always been a staunch supporter of France but wants a special status which "would be associated freely" with France. Madagascar Premier Philibert Tsiranana told reporters he thought Madagascar needed a five-year apprenticeship period before independence.

The Hotel Americana said it plans to build a $500,000 tempered pool pavilion 40 by 70 feet with a Roman bath atmosphere.

Cool Weather Over Weekend Is Promised

TORONTO (CP)—The weather office said today most of southern Ontario can expect clear days and cool nights during the weekend.

It will be clear tonight and cool particularly in the resort areas of Muskoka where minimums will be in the chilly mid-40s. Saturday and Sunday bring temperatures up to the comfortable mid-70s throughout all of southern Ontario.

Prospects for Sunday are for somewhat but the central authority under French leadership would handle defence, foreign relations and economic policies.

Each overseas state could also join the French community by passing justice, higher education, communications and transport to the powers of the government in Paris.

Councillor Says Child Bitten by Fox at Lake

The current outbreak of rabies among foxes in North Hastings county caused alarm in Hastings county council this morning following indirect suggestion from neighboring counties that some sort of conformity in payment of fox bounties be arranged.

After the subject was broached Reeve Tracey Adams said that the rabies problem was more serious than generally considered in North Hastings.

At Jamieson Lake recently the three-year-old son of a Toronto visitor was attacked by a fox, while the lad was bathing at lake. The boy was bitten on the face and on the knee but held onto the fox until the father was able to kill the animal.

The boy was rushed to hospital at Trenton where observation showed no ill effects had been suffered as result of the attack.

In another instance a fox chased a farmer's dog into the back kitchen and escaped before it could be killed, police still investigating a fox got into a house through an open door. The animal, cornered with a shot from a revolver through the kitchen window.

Councillor Spry of Rawdon said he had been approached by municipal officials from Peterborough and Northumberland counties seeking conformity in municipal bounties paid foxes when they were presented for payment at the county.

He said it was suspected that more than one bounty was being collected on the head the dead animals from one municipality to the other.

Police said Mr. Stewart had been charged with careless driving.

County Council Will Consider Grant to New Nurses' School

Consideration of a grant to the Belleville General Hospital to assist in the construction of a proposed new nurses' training school, will be given by Hastings County council before the end of their current mid-summer session.

Thursday afternoon a delegation from the Hospital Board of Governors and Belleville City County waited on county councillors with Mayor Gerald Hyde as spokesman.

Mayor Hyde said the proposed new building would cost an estimated $310,000 and with money and expected government grants about $92,000 was still required to pay for the structure.

On the basis of the ratio of city-county patients served at the hospital Mayor Hyde came up with a figure of $25,000 which he felt would be a fair county grant if Lord Day and Clegg Ltd.

He noted that in the past county council had shown great interest in the hospital as had been shown by their grant of $200,000 for the modernization of the new wing. He noted that although the hospital was a city responsibility, it still was a community effort as it was used by all.

Frank Donenico as hospital board chairman, told council that hospital work never ends and with the new national hospital scheme more and more beds would be needed. This would mean a new wing at the hospital, while a new nurses' residence was also required.

"There is just no end to hospital expense," he said .

The grant request for the nurses' training school was referred by councillors for consideration into the ways and means committee.

As this was done, however, Reeve T. N. Thrasher of Sidney reminded council that if the county went ahead with renovations at the county court House, the county finances would be strained.

WILL CONSIDER GRANT

Also to be considered during the session is a grant to the Bellville Sarnia Rifle Shooting team and the question of differential rates for those residents of the county old people's home, who are financially able to pay their own way.

County home superintendent Kenneth York said this was a move being urged by welfare department, while county home committee chairman Reeve Charles Long asked that council give the matter careful consideration. A representative of the provincial welfare department was asked to address council today.

There was considerable discussion on the matter, but the question was laid over until May Day.

The usual fair grants were recommended and in the agricultural committee, while the grant to the Ottawa Winter Fair was increased from $1,000 to $1,250. Deputy Reeve Harry Pound as committee chairman said the increase was recommended due to the big participation at county 4-H club competitions at the Ottawa fair.

The county home report showed 209 residents in the home of which 43 were from Belleville.

It was noted that the provincial and federal governments were now contributing up to 70 per cent of the net cost of operation of homes for the aged and 50 per cent of capital expenditures. Previously government assistance had been 50 per cent on all expenditures.

The report of the Administration of Justice Committee showed a net expenditure of $54,262 for the first six months of the year. Of this amount Belleville would pay $13,833 and the town of Trenton $8,385. The report was read by committee chairman Reeve George Spencer of Frankford.

Also reporting at yesterday's council session was County Assessor Cecil Geen

Expanded, Increased Pension Scheme Now a Possibility

OTTAWA (CP)— The Clark report may favor higher pensions for Canada through adoption of the United States contributory scheme but it is unlikely to support a drop in the present pension age of 70 years.

These may be the features and implications of a fact - finding study now being completed by Professor Bertram Clark of the University of British Columbia.

Pension Minister Diefenbaker estimated in the Commons Thursday that the report, initiated last January, may be in his hands by early October. Originally he had hoped it would, after surveying the American system to see whether it could be applied in Canada, would be completed in three or four months.

MAY EXPAND SCHEME

As envisaged in some informed quarters, the study may prepare the foundations for an expanded and increased national pension scheme, additional to the present $55-a-month government payment. However, over the years, there may be gradual integration with the contributory plan emerging as a single.

There is no indication that the contributory plan, if it were developed, would interfere with existing private pension schemes such as those benefiting from union - management bargaining.

And there is unlikely to be any strong pressure in the Clark report, but with the present Canadian universal pension age of 70 to 65 as in the U.S. The feeling here is that man's life span is continuing to increase with many working past 65.

MAY LIVE TO 77

One actuarial view is that if a man is able to reach the age of 65, he may on the average live another 12 years.

In Canada the universal pension of $55 a month is financed by special two-per-cent levies on personal and corporation incomes and commodity sales. This revenue pays only a fraction of the costs with the deficit charged directly to the budget.

Under the two-per-cent personal income tax, the maximum any Canadian can pay is $60 a year. But to this must be added other indirect costs borne through heavier sales taxes and higher prices for goods, so that the maximum cost might be about $90 a year.

MAXIMUM $118 A MONTH

Under the American system, the maximum monthly benefit single man at 65 could be $118 a month, depending on his lifetime contributions. He pays five per cent of his gross earnings, along with similar assessments borne by the employer on the basis of a maximum $4,200 annual salary. This ceiling is to be raised to $4,800 next January.

Thus the maximum American contribution would be about $240 next year—$120 from the worker and $120 from the employer. For this the pension — payer gets a wide range of benefits, including certain payments to his dependents in the event of death. These are not available under Canada's $55 - a - month pension scheme.

Price Controls Not Favored By Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons mention of the royal commission on price spreads grew into an exchange Thursday between Prime Minister Diefenbaker and CCF House Leader Hazen Argue on agriculture policy.

Opposition Leader Pearson urged it all be added what progress the commission is making. Michael Chudley, a 33-year-old salesman from Northampton, his wife, Diana, and six children, aged two to nine. They arrived on the liner Britannic with their German nursemaid and the bus in which they intend to tour New England.

Michael Chudley spent two years in the U.S. as a teenager evacuated from the blitz.

The commission is investigating the spread between prices paid farmers and fishermen for their products and the prices sold by consumers for those products.

Mr. Argue said producers are hoping the commission recommendations will lead to reversal of the trend of the producer getting a smaller and smaller share of the consumer's dollar spent on food. The inquiry would be important only if it led to concrete action by the government.

Mr. Argue declared that the government might look into the possibility of price controls.

The prime minister said price controls were effective in wartime but would be more successful in the days of a reasonably free economy.

NEVER PROCLAIMED

Saskatchewan in 1946 had passed legislation for price controls but it had never been proclaimed. If it had been, there would have been the case classes of people in Saskatchewan, those in jail for breaking the regulations and those waiting to get in.

The federal government wanted to introduce and pass reasonable legislation which would place the farmer in a position where he would not be subject to unfair competition and where prices bore a fair relationship to his production costs.

May Build Subway Under CNR Near Trenton After New Highway Officially Opened

Construction of a subway underneath the Canadian National Railways' double track on country road No. 4 leading from Trenton to Glen Miller on the east side of the Moira River, will likely get consideration by the Hastings county council according to the official opening of No. 401 highway.

This was indicated by Reeve James Kinlin of Hungerford township, chairman of county roads and bridges committee, following the reading of the road report at the Thursday session of council.

Mr. Kinlin said this was the most hazardous of all level crossings in the county road system due to the number of trains, the volume of traffic on the road and the fact that visibility to the north is poor on sharp grade on both sides of the track, the crossing is blind due to lack of vision.

As the county road will be the only access road to the CNR land on the east side of the Trent River, it is believed that if concerned in the construction of a subway at this point would be justified when the new highway is opened.

Reeve Kinlin said such a subway would be useful in the neighborhood of $200,000, but what share the county would pay per cent he did not mention. It was felt the county share might be about $50,000 or $60,000 as the province of Ontario could be expected to pay about 80 per cent.

There was further discussion on the probability of a subway at this point but Reeve J. V. Holt of Stirling, later stressed the danger of the crossing and urged the need for action.

Discussion on county road matters took up most of the day's session and was led off with a delegation from Marmora township protesting the extremely rough condition of the Marmora-Crow Lake road. The delegation and also Reeve Irwin Mallory of Hungerford township, said they had been promised a hardtop for this piece of road but with carried heavy tourist traffic during the summer months.

Reeve William Shannon of Marmora Village joined the discussion, noting that this was the only road north of Marmora serving tourist traffic to the Crow Lake area. "The road was very busy," he said.

Due to the extreme rough condition of the road, however, he felt that business was being driven away from Marmora and Hastings as tourists were going in to Havelock and to Peterborough for shopping rather than travel the rough road to town.

Reeve Kinlin replied that he realized the problem to hardtop this section of road and pointed out that due to the extent of the county road system it was financially impossible to hardtop all out-of-town road.

Warden Lloyd Price, however pointed out that the county had received an additional half mill for roads this year to be used for construction and said he suggested some of this might be used for the road in question.

Reeve Kinlin said the county council was granting the district municipality a grant of permanent road construction as compared with maintenance, and the councillors feeling that the county should not wait until roads were rebuilt to standard before hardtopping. "If we do wait, I am afraid it will be a long time before we get to see much hardtopping done", said Reeve Earl Sager of Madoc township.

The excessive dryness the past summer making grading operations difficult and ineffective, Reeve Kinlin said, Engineer Larry Langlois as one reason for the rough condition of roads this year.

He suggested that a prime coat or another application of calcium chloride might improve the Cordova road.

During the noon recess Mr. Kinlin visited the Marmora area and on his return declared that the Cordova road was "no worse than other county roads" nor was it worse than Marmora township road leading to the lake."

COMPLIMENTED ON INTEREST

"Everybody seems to think that his road is the worst," the roads committee chairman said.

Reeve Charles Bushman of Deloro complimented Reeve Kinlin on his interest in the county road system as was indicated by his taking the time to make an on-the-spot check of the Cordova road.

Reeve Art Wickett of Thurlow pointed to the development road grants which had been received by the county, referring specifically to the Foxboro-Frankford road, the Ridge road, the Madoc road and now the Sulphide road for which plans for reconstruction were now under and said the county really was accomplishing something.

He pointed to the big mileage of county roads, however, and declared that if good material were wanted the taxpayers must be prepared to spend more money. "We may have to do a lot of things which we do not like," he said.

Deputy Reeve Harley Hamilton put in a word for the subway on the Trenton, noting that this road served such large industries as Trenton, noting that this road served such large industries as Trenton, noting that this road served such large industries as

A POOR EXAMPLE

Ghana is the newest self-governing nation in the British Commonwealth.

The emergence of this former colonial area as an independent country has given rise to high hopes, both among Africans, who were given proof of Britain's willingness to relinquish rule, and Britons, who felt that the native regime would prove that a firm foundation had been laid in colonial days for an enlightened future.

Already, though, there have been some disappointments. It has been charged that the new government is unduly sensitive to criticism. It has taken some measures which do not fit with the British conception of freedom of speech and of the press.

Perhaps, though, the fault does not lie wholly with the men who now face the difficult task of governing Ghana in its infancy.

Consider what happened to Tanganyika the other day. Two editors were sent to jail for six months for "recklessness and irresponsible journalism." Their offence? They printed the following comment: "The British are in our country to suck our blood and to obtain raw materials, not because he is sorry for us or wishes to teach us civilization and progress. The longer he stays the more minerals and money will be taken out to his country, where they cannot exist comfortably without us."

Reckless and irresponsible? Certainly. But one of the essential ingredients of civilization, as we know it in the democracies, is a tolerance of the reckless and irresponsible and the only way for colonial rulers to teach this, it seems to us, is to practice it.

Equally reckless and irresponsible statements are made every day in this country, but no journalist goes to jail.

As a matter of fact, it would be just as reckless and irresponsible to maintain that the British are in Tanganyika to teach the natives civilization and progress, and not to obtain raw materials.

The truth almost certainly lies somewhere between the two — some of the British are primarily interested in helping the natives and some are primarily interested in helping themselves.

LOOK, NO WRINKLES

The thought struck us the other day as we strolled through one of those ladies' clothes stores in town, that in the foreseeable future the women will be able to throw their irons out the window.

An iron, incidentally, in feminine labology is an instrument used to smooth out wrinkles in clothing, not a golf club.

Clothing manufacturers are turning out more and more fabrics that require no ironing at all after washing.

Women's skirts, blouses, jackets, dresses and suits, as well as men's slacks, suits and shirts, are being produced in this material.

Some manufacturers are producing fabrics which, when spun into garments, require only a light application of heat to remove the fabrics available that are being used in men's suits which do not require dry cleaning.

The missus can throw hubby's best suit in the wash tub on Monday morning and have it cleaned and pressed for him by supper time.

Perhaps a young man or woman in the upcoming generation will be the one to discover a fabric that requires no washing. When that happens, perhaps wives will get back to the kitchen and revive some of grandmother's delicious recipes instead of reaching in the cupboard and pulling out a can of stuff that will wind up on hubby's plate for dinner.

FLOATING MUSEUM

Like the water? If you do, your enthusiasm is shared with people of many nations. Not all of them, though, get the same type of thrill when they go boating. In Poland, on the Vistula River, something new has been added.

The ingenious Poles have taken a pleasure steamer the "Golden Duck," and converted it into a floating museum.

People in provincial cities along the banks of the Vistula, who have little opportunity to visit Warsaw, now sit tight and wait until culture comes floating down to them.

The "Golden Duck" houses some 200 items from the Warsaw-Museum of Popular Art and Culture. Among the exhibits are such widely varied ones as weapons from Africa, statuettes carved by Eskimos and marionettes used in Indonesian shadow plays.

CHILDHOOD

Always smiling childhood is,
Always bright and always gay,
Always full of sunshine, too,
Very like the month of May;
Full of laughter, full of song,
Cheering us the whole day long.

Like a garden all in bloom,
Blossoms nodding everywhere,
Sweet white and roses red,
Under skies forever fair;
Like a garden scented, too,
Sweet with fragrance rich with dreams.

Always sweet and pure and holy,
Always tender, always true;
Always little arms for loving,
Stretching gladly out to you;
Always cheeks for sweet caressing,

Always faithful, always simple,
Always innocent and kind;
Little hearts that know no hatred,
Little eyes to view blind.
Childhood, white as driven snow,
That is why we love it so.

Dragon Shows Its Teeth

Montreal Gazette

It has been customary, since 1945, to consider that the world's destiny is dominated by two great forces, the United States and the Soviet Union.

It is very evident, now, that another state, Communist China, is determined to join the big-power list. The West has not considered China in this light. China, in Western eyes, is an immense, but very backward nation. It has never been a great power in the modern sense. And today, China is a huge Communist empire dominated by the Soviet Union.

There has not seemed to be any reason for considering China as a separate unit, a part of the Soviet-controlled world.

It is doubtful if Nikita Khrushchev thought of China that way. China has a population three times that of Russia (640 million to 220 million), has a long, undefended border with Siberia, which is largely uninhabited.

During the Korean War, China, by force of mob, took over control of North Korea which until 1850, was controlled himself, he has never stopped Moscow's orders as "the dictator in his early years. Mao, the "peasant leader" is the tool of Moscow control, is a puppet-Tito.

China is ready to carry Stalinist stage of Communist evolution, comparable to the Russian of the 1920's, or the Yugoslav of early thirties. Mao's rule is primitive, and irresponsible, unhanged about with rivals, enemies.

When Khrushchev accepted the invitation to summit meeting of the UN Security Council, Mao decided it was time to remind Mr. Krushchev that he, Mao, of the facts, of life in the Communist world.

In the Security Council, China would be represented by Mao's arch-enemy, Chiang Kai-shek. Also present would be Prime Minister Nehru of India, who has dreams of being the leader of Asia — a post Mao has decided shall be Mao's.

So Khrushchev was summoned to Peking (it is significant that Mao did not go to Moscow), for few days' chat. On his return to Moscow, Krushchev declared he would not attend a meeting sitting at the UN.

Also he, controlling Khrushchev of his power, Mao then decided that the West could use some remindthat, by now, he moved more jet fighters (both in Russia, assembled in China), to the islands of Quemoy, and the Matsus, the offshore islands still held by Chiang, and set the stage for another series against Chiang's Nationalist Air Force.

Some observers, particularly British analysts, have stated many times that there is more rivalry than amity in the Soviet Union-Red China alliance.

On the strength of this belief, Britain has been more friendly attitude toward the Chinese Reds (such as recognition is the possibility that Mao might be wooed away from Moscow.

This seems too much to hope for. Mao's ambitions are very much like Stalin's, and he is in better position to carry them out. When Stalin imposed industrialization and collectivization on the Russian people, he had no outside help to call upon. Red China has Russia to rely upon, and Russia is the second most powerful industrial nation in the world today.

Red China, in a generation, can be, in fact, a match for the Soviet Union. Mao is determined that, with Russian help, it will be. The Communist Stalin's revolution in China even more swiftly than Stalin could manage it.

Why should the Soviet Union feed the dragon? This is a greater problem for the Kremlin than Russian relations with the United States. Union, as the world leader of Communism, recognizes the threat of China. If it did, the myth of Communist world brotherhood would fall apart. So Russia has to give China what Mao wants the new atomic and rocket weapons and satellite, which will be launched so it falls in Chinese territory).

The Soviet Union is forced to feed the dragon in its own backyard — in the hope that, when it grows up, it will be friendly. But the Kremlin has no guarantee it will be friendly.

Are Camps Sissified?

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Are summer camps for boys equipped with so many labor saving devices that much wire, straw filled ticks on "springs" are turning out a bunch of sissies? Is self - reliance being destroyed? Are things too easy?

National Boy Scout leaders think so. David Dunbar, assistant national director of camping, has issued a call to parents to stop "babying" boys at camps which are equipped with such gadgets as electric dishwashers, potato peelers, hot showers, inner-spring mattresses, thermostat-controlled heated cabins — and even vacuum cleaners.

About a million boys will visit the nation's 3,600 scout camps this summer. About half of the camps are on the primitive side, but the other half are "too luxurious."

"Camping," said Dunbar, "has gotten boys, 12 to 17, 20 to 30, years. We have made it an entertainment for people instead of participation. We get out of doors, so that a boy now arrives at camp and says, 'Okay, I am. Entertain me."

Dunbar doesn't think too highly of a primitive camp in Delaware which has indoor toilets, showers, innerspring mattresses, refrigerators and gas and electricity.

"Crap! call it a camp," he said, "but it's just like home. There are a few more trees — and that's all."

We're rather inclined to agree with Mr. Dunbar. Camping takes us back a good many years to a YMCA camp on the shore of Lake Champlain. There was no heat — when it got cold one put on more sweaters. There was no shower — the boys slept in tents. And they slept on or-

Trend Hard To Forecast

Hamilton Spectator

Some of the more vocal economists, and not a few government leaders who are not afraid to indulge in fair and stormy weather prophesy, might learn something from Pierre S. du Pont, secretary and director of the American industrial giant, E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company.

Not so long ago, Mr. du Pont told a gathering of businessmen: "I don't have the slightest idea whether the short-term economic trend is up or down."

Across the nation economists pundits are making a more optimistic view of the future. Everywhere there are signs that the wheels of industry, slowing down these last eighteen months or so, are picking up speed again.

Government spending, represented in the sizable boost of the national debt, has jumped from $286 million to $388 billion, is the basic cause: in short, a genuine shot in the arm from the syringe of inflation.

In recession the reputations of experts suffer, particularly if they have expressed the wrong opinions. Now they are the absolutes, even the right ones. It is human nature to dislike the man whose predictions are proved right by events, particularly those days for firm prediction.

Economic trend will be up, down or even sideways. I don't believe anyone else knows, either including Congress and all the economists."

There is sound common sense in this declaration. There are too many forces capable of influencing these days for firm predictions to be made.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A PERSON'S OWN SELF

No wonder there are so many people who do not understand one another when we look upon ourself whom we do not know or understand. What a world of discovery there would be made in our own back yard! No wonder there are friends who do not know, and who do not understand us beyond an ordinary appreciation. Each of us can self is his great-est possession. Montaigne, w h o describe so hard, nor assuredly so profitable, as is the description of a man's own self." How strange, yet how natural. Does not a man fear to discover himself because? Do not most people try to themselves to some one else? pen-sive for other reason than that they crave companionship? All the glory of earth is ours as we look deeper into t h e mysteries and revelations that constantly line our pathways! When I hear the melodious song of a bird, a new life is mapped before me my eyes. Then is the presence of God is simple as it always should be.

We would greatly lessen o u r blunders and foolish notions if we looked more on the inner side of this self of ours that we invest in the happiness of others, t h e joy we are granted when we more there is that is invested in others. The love we give to others starts drawing interest the same day that it is given. We ought to bear this fact in mind, and learn the lesson of selfishness.

We are only important as we do, and as we give. We know enough about this self of ours to understand that when we give of ourselves, the response in love, good deeds, and beauty of life, is immediate.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

With exceptions so rare as to limit the calendar of saints to only a few hundred after two thousand years, most human beings find it essential to feel superior to somebody.

And sometimes I suspect i h e saints were guilty of the desire to feel superior to the rest of their generation in holiness.

The normal process for most of us is to feel superior to others in physical assets. Except on the very lowest rungs of the social ladder, it is always possible for us to feel superior to those who get less wages or salary, in a popular car gives us an immediate and most satisfying sense of superiority to hundreds of others in u s as a people.

ten mile drive through the c i t y streets.

We can feel superior to others in bodily strength, physical beauty, sport, whether golf or football, affords countless numbers of us, both young and old, an wonderful opportunity to feel superior to the rest of our perfectly confident that we are far brainier than vast multitudes of our fellow beings.

And if all else fails us, we can feel morally superior.

Perhaps the commonest and most infuriating of all these forms of superiority is that of superiority to others is the sense of moral superiority which is cherished by our statesmen, our national spokesmen, and, holy smoke, by us as a people.

Tipping Practices Unsoever Provinc

The tip has come to long way from its origin as something extra to buy something extra. "To insure Prompt Service." In fact, long since drifted from the economic sphere into the social and the psychological.

There can be few left by now who do not know that the check girt doesn't keep all those dimes and quarters, which are the consolidated revenue of the establishment she works for and few, at that, indeed who do not realize that some of the quarters in the tray are planted there on the proposition that to maintain his social status the waiter will not work for less than his supposed predecessor.

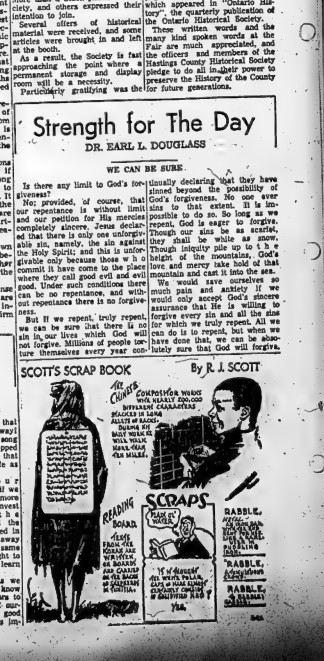
Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE CAN BE SURE.

Is there any limit to God's forgiveness?

Not provided, of course, that our repentance is without limit and our petition for His mercies completely sincere. Jesus declared that there is only one unforgivable sin, namely, the sin against the Holy Spirit; and this is unforgivable only because those who commit it have come to the place where they call good evil and evil good. Under such conditions there can be no repentance, and without repentance there is no forgiveness.



But if we repent, truly repent, we can be sure that there is no sin in our lives which God will not forgive. Those who have ceased to be themselves every year continually declaring that they have no need of repentance, no need of God's forgiveness. No one ever sins to that extent. It is impossible so long as we repent. God is eager to forgive. Search out our sins, if we can; they shall be white as snow. Though iniquity pile up to the height of the mountains, God's love and mercy take hold of that mountain and cast it into the sea.

We would save ourselves so much pain and anxiety if we would only accept God's sincere assurance that He is willing to forgive our sins, and all the sins for which we truly repent. All we can do is repent, and when we have done that, we can be absolutely sure that God will forgive.

Insurance Fund Now Reduced Below Safe Level

OTTAWA (CP) — The unemployment insurance advisory committee says the drain on the unemployment insurance fund in recent months has reduced its reserves below the safe level.

It points to the record drain of $134,300,134 on the fund during the fiscal year ended last March 31 and indications of further heavy withdrawals subsequently.

"The seriousness of this," the committee said in a report following its last meeting here, "is that it reduces the reserve below the standard accepted by authorities as safe."

The advisory committee, comprising four employer and four employee representatives, met last month under chairmanship of retired deputy labor minister Arthur MacNamara, the government's appointee. Its report now has been tabled in the Commons.

NO FIGURE GIVEN

In making its claim that current unemployment insurance fund levels are too low, the committee did not indicate a figure at which it considers the danger begins.

Federal labor officials said the danger level is largely a matter of opinion and indicated they do not necessarily share the committee's opinion.

The committee suggested that to help improve the fund's position the federal government should more than double the amount it now pays in.

SUGGESTS 50 PER CENT

At present, employers and employees each contribute an equal amount to the fund and the government pays in 20 per cent of the total. The committee recommended that the government increase its contribution to 50 per cent of the total, employer-employee payments.

The committee made its statement that the fund had ebbed below a safe level on the basis of its $744,000,134 total as of March 31. It has declined further since then, reaching $644,-330,634 on June 30.

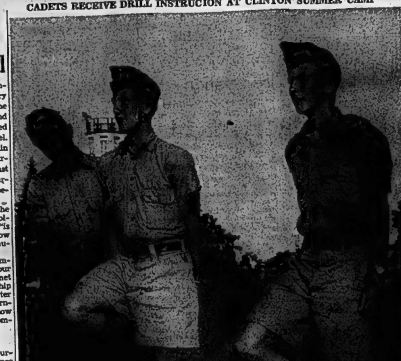
These are the lowest levels the fund has reached since the end of March, 1955, when it was about $744,000,000. The fund was established in 1941.

Might Have Told 'Little Lies' Says Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Baker acknowledged he might have told some "little white lies" about how well Vice President Averell Harriman of New York.

"I'm a ham—I drop names," the 309-pound witness confessed Thursday before the Senate rackets committee.

But Baker denied practically everything else during a long grilling about his career as an organizer of the Teamsters Union.



His ex-wife, Mollie, and a former girl friend named Ruth Brougher have told the committee Baker boasted of a close friendship with Harriman. Harriman has denied the friendship and at first Baker denied the boasts.

But when Senator John F. Kennedy, Massachussets Democrat, suggested he might have told some white lies to the women about the governor—and thereby done a great deal of damage—Baker said, "that's true, senator."

"I might have been dropping some names," he added, "probably bragging a little bit."

Baker, an ex-convict and New York waterfront tough, now is a lieutenant of James R. Hoffa, teamsters president. The Senate committee is investigating Hoffa and how he runs his union.

Ration Potatoes As Irish Rains Create Scarcity

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Irish housewives stood in lines today for their potato ration as the country faced prospects of its worst shortage of spuds since the great famine of 1848.

Potatoes were put on the ration list Thursday after heavy rains—the worst in memory — flooded and waterlogged much of the farmland, making it impossible to harvest the mid-season crop.

Agriculture Minister Patrick Smith said today his department is planning emergency assistance to farmers. Troops may be used to assist in the work.

Dublin housewives shopping for their usual stone—14 pounds—of potatoes for the weekend were allowed 3½ pounds each.

The Irish Housewives Association sent a letter to the government Thursday asking price controls for potatoes, which have jumped to six shillings (84 cents) for 14 pounds—twice the normal price.

It is not expected prices will be controlled, however, unless present rainfall continues into September, ruining the final crop which makes up a major part of Ireland's annual production of 1,000,000 tons.

Irishmen recalled the great famine of 1942 when thousands died and 1,000,000 fled the country after the potato crop failed because of rain and blight.

Makarios Renews Demand for Direct Talks

ATHENS (Reuters) — Archbishop Makarios today renewed his demand for direct talks between British government and Cypriot leaders to settle Cyprus' future.

Makarios, exiled leader of the Greek Cypriot community, was interviewed by the Hellenic news agency. He is due to leave shortly for New York to campaign for support of the Crown colony's eventual union with Greece.

The archbishop said Britain's plan of separate legislatures for Greek and Turkish communities opens up "big new possibilities" for self-determination. At the same time, he said the plan is not acceptable as it stands and no Greek Cypriots will participate in the proposed legislative elections.

Britain's decision to go ahead with plan, he said, permitted him to call off his recent effort to suspend provisionally the Greek Cypriots' claim for self-determination.

About 250 Greek Cypriots went on a 24-hour hunger strike in Limassol, today for being detained without trial. This was the latest in a series of taken hunger strikes since some 1,400 Cypriots were ordered detained three days ago on suspicion of terrorism.

The Greek Cypriot organization EOKA urged Greek Cypriots "to be ready for a big battle against the British plan for Cyprus." EOKA leaflets added that "450,000 Greeks are determined to resist Anglo-Turkish collusion by every means."

The left-wing Pan-Cyprian Labor Federation, the island's largest labor group, also joined in rejecting the British proposal.

The Greeks have turned down the plan and continued to demand union of the island with Greece. The 100,000 Turkish Cypriots demand partition into Greek and Turkish zones.

Ketcheson Clan To Hold Annual Family Reunion

The very enjoyable picnic gathering in Frankford Tourist Park last summer of descendants of the widely known United Empire Loyalist Ketcheson family calls for a repeat this year.

Mr. Cecil B. Ketcheson of Holloway, chairman of the Ketcheson Family History committee announces that the 1958 basket-picnic will be held in the Frankford Tourist Park on the afternoon of August 30th from 12:00 to 6:00 p.m. In case of rain, adjournment to the Frankford Municipal Hall has been arranged.

No more central nor pleasant ground could be chosen for such a gathering. The park lies between the Trent River and the Trent Canal, has lovely shade trees, and is easily reached from Highway 14 by turning west at Foxboro and from highway 33 by crossing the bridge at Frankford.

Full details of the program for this year's gathering have not yet been completed, however, the popular Frankford Pipe band will be in attendance again. Their contribution to the program last year was greatly enjoyed. Also, it is a foregone conclusion there will be supervised games of various kinds for the youngsters.

A good reason in the desirability of visiting with members of the clan one does not see as often as one would like.

For further information please contact the following: Cecil Ketcheson Holloway; Stan Ketcheson Trenton; Sam Ketcheson Toronto, 9 Woodway Trail, Toronto 9, Mrs. Edna Welsh, Mount Doris Smith Belleville R. Coat Suit

Here is a suit that is distinctly a suit yet manages to take on the appearance of a coat. The jacket is bloused, above the low-placed waistband, which has a covered buckle in front. Both skirt and jacket are double-breasted helping to create the coat illusion. The skirt has vertical slit pockets and a deep lap-over. The fabric is a rich red woolen.

Now Lectures On How to Manage Money

TORONTO (CP) — Nazia Dane, newly-elected president of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Ontario, knows what it is to have been burned out, blown out and starved out of a home.

It happened when she was a teen-ager, living on a farm near Indian Head, Sask. The stove overheated and destroyed the family farmhouse. They took shelter in a shack, and along came a twister to demolish it. Then a combination of depression years and drought almost ruined the family.

Miss Dane now organizes an education program for the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association. She tours the country giving talks to adult and children's groups on development in the life insurance business, and how to manage money.

ACTIVE WORKER

She is also in the Inter-Club Council for women in public affairs, being the local Council of Women, the Women's Canadian Club, the Soroptimist Club, the Order of the Eastern Star, the Canadian Public Relations Society and the Young Women's Christian Association.

"I may have a lot to do now," says Miss Dane, "but I have never worked as hard as I did on the farm. I cut my own hair, harness and handle a team of six horses, and do any amount of farm work."

Miss Dane went to a teachers' training school in Regina, and her first was at a rural school at Halliwell, near Climax, Sask. There she had 17 pupils, in grades one to eight. Later she had 34 pupils in a one-room schoolhouse. She also taught at Kincaid and Shaunavon.

Her best banking job was at Cadillac, Sask., she said, started as vice-principal at $1,400 and it was principal when I left three years later, and my salary was $900. Those were depression days.

CHEERFUL GROUP

"Nobody had any money, but we had lots of fun. Life centred around the school, and villagers made their own entertainment."

Miss Dane took a business course at Regina and then worked in Vancouver, eventually becoming a copywriter in an advertising firm.

During the Second World War she read an article which quoted Ralph P. Bell, director of aircraft production, as saying that he wanted to cut down red tape. She wrote that she would like to help, and was hired as a clerk in Ottawa. Later she became an officer in the air priorities division. She joined the insurance officers association in 1945.

A keen ballroom dancer, she says she goes dancing whenever she can. She collects books about Canada, and hopes one day to do some serious writing.

The Experts Say

Sculptors Import Most Of Materials From Europe

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Canada is missing an opportunity, says Jacolien Jonas, by not using enough sculpture or pulling "its own beautiful rocks" out of the northern wilderness to be used by the nation's artists.

Miss Jonas is an outstanding Canadian artist in sculpture. Her best - known work is a marble panel in the Bank of Nova Scotia building at Toronto, displaying various facets of Canadian industry. Other examples of her work can be seen at Trinity College, Toronto, and at the Bank of Canada building, Ottawa.

"There is little opportunity in Canada just now for sculpture in the round," she said. "But there is increasing appreciation of sculpture in buildings in the form of reliefs and wall-pieces.

IMPORTED MATERIAL

"But sculptors must import most of their materials from Europe, although Canada has marble and other stones quite as good and perhaps even more beautiful than are found in Europe."

Miss Jonas is half - English, half-Danish. She has been in Canada since 1932. Now 57, she started to study sculpture in 1925. She studied in Italy and in England, and was still a student when her work was chosen at the Royal Academy in London.

She says her first work for pay was to model bones for the operator of a tourists' "pirate cave" at a British seaside resort.

In Canada, Miss Jones specializes at first in animals, and produced bulls, horses and cows in bronze and other materials from live models recommended by the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Her first commissioned work in Canada was a plaque on a fire insurance company building at Gall, Ont. Now, commissions keep her busy.

GROWING INTEREST

"I've proved I can make a living with sculpture in Canada, and with interest in this type of work increasing all the time there is a slight possibility I may get rich. But it's very slight — the overheads in sculpture are high."

Miss Jones works in a late - model schoolhouse near Milton, Ont., now a well-lighted, well-heated country studio.

She clambers around on seat, folding on wheels to produce plaster-cast fore-runners of stone carvings. She usually wears slacks while working.

Of modern art, she says: "True art is timeless, conveying eternal verities to everybody. I don't care for the abstract. I like things to look like things."

Other works by Miss Jones include a copper model outside a store for the aged at Newmarket, Ont., and figures at Our Lady of Mercy Hospital in Toronto.

Salary Scale Approved by Federation

TORONTO (CP) — More than 300 representatives of Ontario women teachers Thursday approved a revision of women teachers' salary schedules.

Delegates to the Federation of Women's Teachers' Associations of Ontario convention set up eight categories of qualification ranging from an interim teaching certificate to a teacher with master of education degree, an honor Bachelor of Arts degree and permanent teaching certificate.

The schedule bases salary on experience, qualification and responsibility. The federation suggested a teacher with an interim certificate should start at $3,700 a year. After 13 years' teaching, one with the highest qualification could reach the top salary suggested, $9,100.

Mrs. Florence G. Irvine of Ancaster, was elected president to succeed Ruby McLean of Leamington.

Other officers elected included: Edna Calder, Sault Ste. Marie, honorary president; Annie McLennan, Sudbury, and Mrs. E. L. Hague, Toronto, vice-presidents; Ola Reith, St. Thomas, Mrs. Leona Mackie, St. Catharines and Grace E. Bailey, Peterborough, governors.

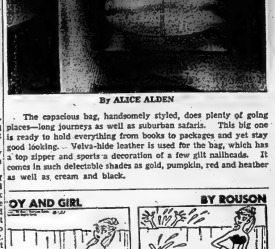
4-Leaf Clovers Collected Kept In Phone Book

By ALICE ALDEN

COQUITLAM, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Florence Podgornik and daughter Sharon, 11, collect four leaf clovers in a big way.

Their collection currently numbers 2,453, and is kept in an unusual fashion.

"We put a certain number of them on each page of an old telephone book," Mrs. Podgornik explained. "We press three flowers on each of the white pages and cover up the yellow. We'll start all over again adding one to each page from the beginning. This way it's easy to figure out how many we have. We just multiply the page number by the number of clovers on each page.



Is there any special purpose in all this?

"We don't plan to do anything special with them," she admitted. "I guess we'll just keep on collecting."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Here is a new nightgown that looks for all the world like one of those trapeze evening dresses. Fashioned of nylon point d'esprit, it swings loose from the bodice and is posed over a sheath of the same material. The sheath is made with an inset of lattice-work lace at the waistline, with a run-through of blue satin ribbon. Lace trim at the shoulder straps and hem forms a final bit of fashion frippery.

Dreamy Nightgown

Miriam K. — He brings home screwball friends.

Wilfred K. — They're not as bad as bers.

Miriam K. — I am 19 years old and my brother is 21. We are students at different colleges. I go to a women's college and Wilfred goes to a men's.

I had hoped that this would be a wonderful time of life for both of us, full of dating and fun, but because my brother is such a jerk it's turning out miserably.

Wilfred insists upon picking up all the craziest characters at school and bringing them home. The kind of screwballs who don't know how to act, dress or dance are his best buddies.

I bring home some of the most attractive girls in our school and of course they are all interested in meeting my brother and it's a friends. It is terribly embarrassing for me to have to introduce them to him.

Wilfred K. — All I can say is the heck with my sister and her pretty-pretty, oh-so-eager g i r l friends. These girls and my sister don't own one normal-sized brain between the lot of them. Their interest is men — objective, marriage — and they don't care to stop along the roadway to take one little glance at anything happening around them. They would not stop unless an H-bomb hit them.

My friends are some of the most intelligent guys at school. They are interested in meeting girls, too, but I might mention that they are very disposition in the specimens they meet at my house. So it works both ways and Miriam has no cause for complaint.

My parents are on Miriam's side. They seem to think I should make myself responsible for getting her a husband.

The Council: It sounds to us as though the parents in this c a s e are responsible for the misunderstanding and resentment that exist between, this sister a n d brother.

Certainly it is fine for a brother and sister to introduce one another to friends and possible marriage partners, but neither should be burdened with the responsibility of having to produce that partner for the other — at least not so early in the college days.

Wilfred should feel perfectly free to select friends who interest him, regardless of his sister's ardent desire for potential husbands. He cannot get the full benefit of college life if he does not exercise freedom in this area.

Miriam should recognize that she and her friends are a little more advanced than her brother and his friends in their matrimonial interests. On the other hand, they may be backward in other respects. Miriam should be willing to examine her brother's criticisms. Possibly she and her friends are missing a great deal in life by being so bell-bent on matrimony, to the exclusion of all other interests.

We'd suggest that Miriam try to get to know Wilfred's friends as persons and seek other sources for marriage material for the time being.

EGGLETON W.M.S. AND W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — The regular meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. were held last Thursday evening, at Eggleton United Church, with ten members, two visitors and one child in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Bruce Stapley presided over a program which had been prepared by Mrs. Harry Clarke.

Three members paid W.A. dues. Annamae Clarke gathered the offering, which was dedicated with prayer by Mrs. Stapley. The Scripture lesson, taken from St. Mark, 4:1-32 was read by Mrs. M. Clancy, and the meditation on the lesson was given by Mrs. William McMullen.

Mrs. Forde Stapley gave a reading, "Doing Things Worth While."

The W.A. president, Mrs. W. McMullen took charge for the business period: Mrs. N. Wannamaker had invited members of the W.M.S. and W.A. to her home in Stirling for the September meeting and Mrs. McMullen offered to prepare the program. Motion was made by Mrs. Clancy and Mrs. Bridges, that all bills be paid. Discussion on annual Bazaar took place and it was decided that Wednesday, October 29th, as the date for holding it at the home of Mrs. Bruce Stapley. Each member is to invite from three to five friends to come to the bazaar.

Mrs. Bridges, W.M.S. treasurer, gave a report of amount raised. Articles to be made up into a bale for "Overseas Needs" were handed in to the supply secretary, Mrs. Clarence Flichett.

All enjoyed the duet, "You Can S'mile", sung by Misses Lorna and Annamae Clarke with Miss Grace Clarke playing their accompaniment.

The chapter from the Study Book, "Enlarging the Border", was given by Mrs. Harry Clarke. This dealt with the expansion of the Christian religion in Japan. Thus fulfilling the words found in St. St. Matthew 28, "Go therefore and make disciples of all nations".

Mrs. Bruce Stapley served refreshments, with Misses Grace and Annamae Clarke assisting her with the serving. All also enjoyed the treat of homemade candy made by Miss Annamae Clarke.

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY
(Meatless)

Cheese Fondue or Strata, Spinach with Slivered Almonds, Pan Browned Potatoes, Squash, Tomato and Cottage Cheese Salad, Cherry Crisp, Coffee.

ANSWER:

The following recipe fits your description but since I have given one like it here before I will give another variation calling for Epsom Salts which you may omit if desired.

LEMON SYRUP:
(For Lemonade)

Juice and grated rind 6 large lemons, 2 oz. citric acid, 1 oz. tartaric acid, ½ oz. Epsom Salts (optional), 4 lbs. sugar, 7½ cups boiling water (3 pints). Mix together lemon juice and rind, citric and tartaric acids and sugar and Salts (if used). Pour on boiling water and allow to stand 2 hours. Pour into sterile jars. Allow 2 to 4 tablespoons to each glass of ice water.

LEMON SYRUP 2:
(Simplified)

Wash 4 lemons and grate the rind from them into a bowl. Cut them in halves and squeeze out the juice and add it and the empty skins. Add 1 oz. citric acid, 3½ cups sugar and 4 cups boiling water and stir until sugar dissolves. Cover. Let stand overnight. Use cup for each glass of ice and water or ginger ale. Delicious in iced tea instead of lemon juice and sugar. For a variation, chop about 4 stalks of mint and add them and a little green coloring.

QUESTION:

Could you give a recipe for maple cream candy? The cold water test never meant very much to me, so I invested in a candy thermometer — but recipes I've seen omit mention of temp. entirely! . . . would appreciate chocolate fudge and peanut brittle too. Marguerite W.

ANSWER:

EASY YET MAPLE CREAM:

One-half lb. each light brown sugar and white sugar, 1-16 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon each light corn syrup and butter, ¾ cup (1 6-oz. can) evaporated milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¾ to ¾ cup chopped nuts (optional). Mix sugars, salt, syrup, butter and milk in heavy saucepan and cook over medium heat to soft ball stage (235 to 237 deg. F.), stirring constantly. Cool until you can hold your hand on outside. Stir in vanilla and nuts and beat until it will nearly hold its shape. Turn into buttered pan and mark in squares.

I have mailed to your recipe for Chocolate Fudge which appeared here December 10, 1957.

PEANUT BRITTLE:

One and one-half cups corn syrup, ¾ cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons peanut butter, ¾ teaspoon soda 1½ teaspoons salt, 1½ cups peanuts with skins on. (Note: If peanuts are salted reduce salt to 1¼ teaspoons.) Stir together the syrup and sugar and cook to 290 deg. F. (light crack stage). Have ready the soda, salt and peanut butter mixed together, also 2 x 10" well-buttered pan, covered thickly with layer of peanuts. As soon as temperature is reached, remove syrup from heat and add soda, salt and peanut butter, stir quickly and well and quickly pour over peanuts evenly. Let harden until cold.

"Just a small token of the esteem my husband beener hold me in!"

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

ARE YOU A CO-OPERATIVE GUEST?

Are you the kind of guest a hostess can always depend on? That is, when you arrive on a visit, or at a party, does your hostess' face light up with the delightful and comforting awareness that you are the kind of person who will pull your weight in the social boat . . . that you aren't going to be pulled out of yourself and pulled along by the hostess and the other guests? If you're the right kind of delightful and cooperating guest, you're a blessing to your hostess, and so welcomed.

LET GUESTS DO AS THEY WISH ABOUT BRINGING

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY GIFTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are soon to celebrate our Fortieth Wedding Anniversary, and about the only thing we would like to ask you some questions.

1. Is it proper for the couple themselves to give the Anniversary party?

2. How does one go about giving a party to celebrate a wedding anniversary without the implication that guests (our relatives and close friends) are expected to bring gifts? I certainly do not wish to "solicit" gifts.

2. What kind of occasion would we give without involving too great an expense? —Reader

1. Yes. Customarily (unless the couple's children give the party to celebrate their parents' wedding anniversary), the couple themselves are the hosts of this important occasion.

2. Don't be at all 'concerned' about Wedding Anniversary presents. Have a happy time during the occasion and inviting family and relatives and friends to come to make the occasion memorable . . . then let nature take its course about presents. The Fortieth is a mighty important occasion, and I should think relatives and friends would naturally wish to make a gift-gesture to you and your husband and the occasion. Why take this high-hearted j o y away from them? If they don't want to bring a present, they needn't . . . or if they wish to bring a simple, inexpensive, but thoughtful present, that's right and fine . . . and if they wish to bring a consequential present, this is what they should do. Writing "No presents, please" on the invitations isn't, I think, a graceful thing to do.

3. The simplest kind of Anniversary party to give is, I should say, an "At Home" or "Open House" on, say, a Saturday or Sunday afternoon, from 3 or 4 o'clock to 8 or 7, whichever hours are most convenient. (When the actual date falls in midweek, this party may correctly be given the Saturday or Sunday after the actual date.) For the minimum expense, the maximum number of guests may be entertained. The refreshments may, and appropriately, be simple and not expensive. There should be two special features: (1) Wed Anniversary Cake, as handsome as possible, and there should be special ceremony about the cutting, f h e 'bride and groom" cutting a n d sharing the first slice together; and (2) a cold drink, perhaps a delicious fruit punch, with which to drink the toasts to the couple.

LOOK TO ARABS

Canada and Norway, who has led in sponsoring a middle-power compromise resolution in the assembly earlier this week, withdrew it when the Arab countries announced unanimous agreement among their home governments for their own plan.

In brief it renews the pledges subscribed to by the Arab countries in the charter of the Arab League with respect to mutual non-aggression and non-interference with each others' sovereignty.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban reminded the assembly that the Jewish Middle East state would assume that these principles applied to all countries in the Middle East—Arab or non-Arab. In other words, the settlement reached at the UN would be only as good as the word of the Arab nations.

The rest of the resolution does not call directly for withdrawal of the British and American forces, but asks the secretary-general to take "such practical arrangements" as are necessary to bring it about.

Mr. Eichholz heads a five-man trade information centre in the government building at the Centre, appearing for the first time this year, is sponsored by the U.S. departments of state and commerce.

SOME DOING WELL

He said Canadian firms which are able to squeeze into the American market do so profitably. Canadian-made baking products, sports equipment and sport clothes have sold well in the U.S.

The mistake made by many firms, he said, is trying to hit the market on a national basis, rather than entering cautiously customers. Two days of rain have and testing in a restricted area.

"For selling purposes, the commerce department divides the country into nine regions. Each is different and each has its own peculiarities. What sells in one area won't necessarily do as well in another."

PRODUCTS CLASSIFIED

He said an official of the U.S. customs department is working with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association classifying Canadian products for customs purposes. More than 400 have been classified during the last year.

A Canadian firm may apply to the commerce department for market information and instructions on how to meet the right people in a particular field, Mr. Eichholz said.

"We have been reducing our tariffs and we have been providing services to help Canadians break in on the world's largest market. We will arrange for agencies and introduce Canadian businessmen to the proper contacts."

RAIN HURTS GATE

Exhibition officials watched Thursday as rain continued to wash out hopes for a 3,000,000 attendance record.

The CNE was opened two days earlier this year in the hope a 16-day run would attract 3,000,000 year's fair drew 2,800,000.

Weird Rites Mourn B.C. Bomb Victim

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP)—Sixfaced bearded Doukhobor men and head-shawled women of the Sons of Freedom swayed to the chant of hymns Thursday, second day of a strange funeral service for a radical sect youth killed by a home-made bomb.

This Shacktown headquarters of the Freedomites, who refuse to obey man - made laws, was crowded for the rites. Sect members have been called from all over the Okanagan valley, 200 miles to the west across the Cascade Mountains.

Mass meetings are expected to follow the funeral.

The two-day service was for 20-year - old Philip Perverseroff, whose arms were blown off in a cabin near Kelowna last Wednesday in what police described as the premature explosion of a home-made bomb.

A companion, 20-year-old Harry Bojey, was found on a road three days later, his lung blown away. He is in hospital at Kelowna, charged by police with manufacturing explosives. He is to be flown to Vancouver in an effort to save his sight.

MARING BOMBS

RCMP officers said the two were making jar-type bombs with dynamite, apparently for use in terrorist activity.

Krestova, 17 miles southwest of Nelson, is a secluded plateau settlement and the headquarters of the sect's fraternal council, the semi-secret governing body.

Perverseroff was buried in a flower-banked grave in a small cemetery Thursday.

The strange, two-day funeral ritual was not explained in terms of what it means to religious sect, a segment of the old Russian Orthodox Church.

But an RCMP spokesman commented: "They'll make a martyr of him (Perverseroff). In the past when there have been such huge meetings, trouble has generally followed."

And authorities expect trouble, perhaps a new reign of terror and violence. Police patrols have combed the Okanagan and the west Kootenays.

Youth Arrested After Chase, 12 Shots Fired

TORONTO (CP) — Police fired 12 shots in a 100-mile-an-hour pursuit of a stolen car that took them on a 15-mile chase.

The car eluded three roadblocks despite a blowout and was stopped Thursday night after a rear tire was punctured by shot.

Lawrence McFarlane, 22, was charged with criminal negligence.

Police said the car kept sideswiping their cruiser when they tried pulling alongside it. They finally forced the car on to a boulevard on Highway 401.

CONVICT UNION LEADERS

GALT (CP)—Two union leaders and two other men, convicted Tuesday of besetting during a strike of employees at the Shaffer-Doble textile plant June 4, were fined $75. The men are Paul Swalty of Toronto, Canadian director of the Textile Workers Union of America (CLC), Charles Clark of Brantford, local business agent; William Wyness and Leonard Harrietha of Galt.

BOBCATS READY

Temple's Bobcats open their quest for OASA Intermediate provincial honors as the OMEA Park tomorrow evening at 8.30 when they play host to Peterborough in the first game of a two-of-three series.

Bobcats had their finest year in the history of the club in their regular Belleville and District Softball League and lawyer Temple, who triples as owner, manager and coach, has hopes that they will repeat their playoff record of a couple of years back when they copped all-Ontario honors.

During the district schedule the 'Cats finished in third place in the five-team grouping and is one of only three clubs to have tackled a defeat on the powerful Point Anne Connemtnes this season. They lost a very close series to Cobourg in the league playoffs and since then have kept their batting eyes sharp by defeating Sports Centre in three games for the right to enter the playdowns.

The 'Cats were the hardest hitting club in the district during the season and despite the fact they have lost clean-up hitter Bobby Hull, are still a dangerous crew with the stick.

A couple of the Allan Cup champion McFarlands carry the big wood, batting in the second and third spots in the order. Shortstop "Wiener" Brown compiled a .345 average during schedule play and led the loop in runs scored with 18. Second baseman Fred Crawford hit a solid .337, including three homers. He has continued his long-ball hitting in the playoffs to date, but also beats out a number of well-executed bunts.

Hitting in the cleanup spot is another hockey star, "Bep" Guidolin. "Bep" hit well during most of the season, dropping off a little near the end of the schedule but picking up again in the playoffs. He is another dangerous hitter. First sacker Bert Faulkner also compiled a good average, .309. Others in the lineup who can belt the ball include Earl Cousins, Doug Bone, Don Barclay, Don Locke and pitcher-outfielder Bobby Greene. Catcher-batsman Paul Russell is a dangerous man with the bunt or pinch hit.

Temple has a sound staff of three, with southpaw Bobby Green the likely starter in tomorrow's fixture. Bobby is the club's fastballer, while the veteran Lum Carson is the other starter. Ken Hall, the regular left fielder, is used in relief and when the boys field well behind either he or Carson, the opposition can look for trouble.

* * *

The 'Cats suffered both at the plate and on the mound when Bobby Hull left. He was the front line hurler and clean-up batter and they would have been favorites to take the title had he been with them all the way. Now it will be a toss up but Temple still feels they will go a long way towards bringing Belleville another championship.

* * *

Better take in the game Saturday and see for yourself.

FIREWORKS TONIGHT

There will be more fireworks exploding at Memorial Arena around nine o'clock this evening than one would expect to see at the average 24th of May celebration.

Headlining the weekly wrestling card will be two of the game's roughest seams in a free-for-all bout where all four men are battling in the ring at the same time. The brother combination of Reg and Stan Lisowski sheould have their hands full with the Russian brothers, Karol and Ivan Kazmikoff. Somebody will take a beating. The fans hope all punishment comes in large consimers and is equally divided.

In the semi-final, popular Lord Athol Layton meets another giant of the ring in the person of Big Bob Orton.

The opening bout pits Karl Steiff against Tarzan Tourville, a new face here.

DUCK SEASON

The Tweed office of the department of Lands and Forests would like to bring to the attention of sportsmen who intend to hunt partridge, rabbit, ducks and geese principally, in this district, that the season will commence one-half hour before sunrise on Saturday, September 27th and close one-half hour after sunset on December 31.

This takes in the counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Prince Edward, South Renfrew and the three northern-most townships in Lanark.

Further details will be published at a later date.

CHANGE IN FIELD

Rain postponed the third game of the South Hastings baseball league finals between Latta and Read on Wednesday night and as a result tonight's game has been changed from Latta to the Read diamond.

The series is tied, one victory per side, so both clubs will be after the lead tonight. Don't forget, that game tonight is at Read, not Latta, as originally scheduled. Game time is 8.30.

Burdette Of Braves Again Pitching The Big Shutou

Rubs Out Dodgers 4-0, Hits Homer as Milwaukee Moves 6½ Games up, Yanks Win

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Lew Burdette is pitching the big shutout again.

It's been a long summer for the big righthander who won three games for champion Milwaukee Braves in the world series last October. At the all - star game in July he had only a 6-7 record.

But since the all-star break he's won eight of 10, putting an end to all that havoc Los Angeles has been playing with the Braves by rubbing out the Dodgers 4-0 Thursday night with a four - hitter. He pitched two shutouts in the world series.

BURDETTE HOMERS TOO

Burdette also hit his 3rd home run of the season — all at the Coliseum — as the Braves reached a 3 - 2 game lead in the National League race after losing three in a row to the Dodgers.

Cincinnati broke loose for an 8-1 victory over second place San Francisco. Chicago doubled with Ernie Banks hitting his 29th and 40th home runs, both third place Pittsburgh 5-3. St. Louis plunked Philadelphia back into the cellar 6-3.

Hank Aaron's 37th home run opened a four-run fourth for the Braves against loser Bob Purkey. Andy Koufax 9-7, Duke Snider's error, Andy Pafko's double and Burdette's homer wrapped it up.

NEWCOMBE WINS

Don Newcombe, who has lost 11, picked up his third victory for Cincinnati with a six - hitter. Leon Wagner of the Giants got his 20th home run, Mike McCormick lost his sixth.

Ban's drove in all Cubs' runs. His 38th homer came with two on in the third inning off loser Vern Law 9-11, and he added an RBI double off the left - field fence in the fifth. His 40th homer — but two games off Babe Ruth's record 60 pace in 1927 — was a solo shot in the eighth. Moe Drabowsky won his ninth.

Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh hit his 33rd home run.

Larry Jackson won his 10th for the Cardinals. The Cards scored on a fourth - inning balk by loser Curt Simmons, 8-12 and Gene Freese's two-out single in the fifth.

Bob Turley has a shot at becoming the New York Yankees' biggest winner since Lefty Gomez nailed 26 victories 24 years ago.

The big right-hander, who was a lad of four when Gomez did his big job, has won 18 this year, hitting his one-season high with a six-hitter that beat Chicago 6-3 Thursday night and ended the White Sox' winning streak at seven. With 33 games left, Turley could be the first Yankee to win 22 since Gomez.

While the Yankees regained an 11½-game lead with their fourth victory in 12 games, the Boston Red Sox moved within three games of second-place Chicago by beating Cleveland 5-3. Baltimore beat Detroit for fourth by defeating the Tigers 7-6. Kansas City rapped Washington 7-4.

RIVERA HITS HOMER

Turley had a four-hitter with Jim Rivera hit a home run and Al Smith in the ninth, when Rivera hit a home run and Al Smith in the ninth, when Rivera hit a one-base and didn't put it away until a three-run double. Dick Gernert's 17th home run scored a pair in the winning spurt. Every Boston batter had a hit except Ted Williams, who left six runners stranded. Jerry Brewer won it. Hal Woodeshick was the loser for the Indians, who got homers by Vic Power, Vic Wertz and Randy Jackson.

The Tigers, scoring four runs in the fourth with the help of an error, blew a 6-3 lead when Gus Triandos' 24th homer, with two on, capped a four-run Orioles seventh. George Susce was the loser in relief. Chuck Beamon won it in relief.

Hector Lopez banged a pair of homers and Hal Smith hit a three-run single for the A's, who finished their scoring in four innings. Jack Urban won it but needed relief in the eighth, when Roy Sievers drove in two runs with a single. Vita Valentinetti lost it.

Argos and Alouettes Try For First Win of Season

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes will be trying for their first win of the young Big Four football season tonight when they meet at Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

Alouettes lost 27-14 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Argos were humiliated 44-7 by Ottawa Rough Riders in Tuesday's opening games.

The Grey Cup champion Tiger-cats open their home season Saturday night against the Rough Riders.

WEAK ON DEFENCE

Coach Hamp Pool says Argos' problem is one of finding defensive strength. The Argo line was powerless against the Rough Riders who rolled to a Big Four single-game rushing record.

Argo tackle Sam Deluca, with sprained ankle tendons and defensive halfback Phil Muntz, with strained leg muscles, will sit out tonight's game.

Montreal, with Joel Wells and Hal Patterson already on the lineup, reports that Billy Albright, 245-pound guard, will miss the game with a back injury. His place will probably be filled by hometowner Mike Kovac.

Pool said he'll again start with quarterback Dick Shatto, spelling him with Gerry Doucette. Shatto will play defensive halfback as well. Fullback Joe Trivisonno will replace Deluca.

Sam Etcheverry is now completed 21 out of 51 passes against the Tiger-Cats, will be at the controls for Alouettes.

USE NFL VETERANS

Two veteran National Football League halfbacks will probably be injected into the Hamilton lineup to spice their running attack against Ottawa Saturday night.

Frank Rogel, for several years the leading ground gainer for Pittsburgh Steelers, and Jack (Skippy) Giancanelli, speedster from Philadelphia Eagles, are expected to get plenty of work.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair has been concentrating on passing pass defence and pi the ground attack that w potent against Argos. He with quarterback Hal Lee while Tiger-cats' Bill Trip with start with Bernie Fale

Ontario Rugby Football U senior section gets under Saturday night with the Le Lords at Kitchener-Wate Dutchmen and a new entry, troit Raiders at Sarnia Log Bears.

66 Sub-Par Scores in Two Rounds in Canadian Open

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — The leaders may sort themselves out a little today in the third round of the Canadian Open golf championship, but there's no reason to expect an end to the sizzling play that has seen 66 sub-par scores in two rounds.

Thirty professionals and-one amateur in the field of 108 came to under the Marlatt Golf and Country club's 6,657-yard par 70 Thursday, three of them five below it, and the result left Doug Saunders of Miami Beach, Fla. and Bob Goetz of Tulsa, Okla., tied for the lead with 133 each.

They had a one-stroke lead over five others including Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who put a second-round 66 that included only one bogey on a missed four-foot putt on the 17th with his earlier 67.

BALDING TWO BACK

Two strokes behind and within easy striking distance were nine more, including Al Balding of Toronto, who with Saunders and Goetz, came in with the under-par 65 Thursday.

There were two 68s — by Mike Peichlik of Vancouver, N.D. and Don January of Eastland, Texas — on Wednesday's first round, when 35 players broke par. January took a 69 Thursday for 134 while Peichlik was even par for 133.

Three bracketed at 135 and three at 136 while seven reached the halfway mark in the $7,500 golf tournament with 137, five strokes off the pace. LOW AMATEUR AT 138

Three Canadians were at 138, including low amateur Doug Silverberg of Calgary, who had two rounds of 69. Professional Bud Lotus of Calgary, two strokes behind with a 67 Wednesday, slipped to 71 under pressure Thursday and Harry Macleod — Edmonton had the reverse — 71-67.

Right behind Sanders and Goetz at 133 were Leonard, 1955 Canadian Open champion, Arnie Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., Lionel Herbert of Lafayette In., Tom Jacobs of Whittier Calif., and Tony Lema of Napa, Calif.

With Balding at 134 were Bill Welsh, Kansas City, Mo., Bill Collins Baltimore, Md., Mike Souchak, Grossinger N.Y., Jay Hebert, Sanford Fla. and January.

JIGS FOR JOY

Balding a lean and lanky cigar smoker who did a jig for the gallery of 2,000 when he dropped a 30-footer for a birdie deuce on the short 13th hole, was putting well.

"I putted terrifically," he said, recalling two 20-footers, the 30-footer and a 10-footer for birdies and a 12-footer that went down for an eagle on the 563-yard 15th.

Three Canadian pro who had to go with the first-round leaders went over par Thursday to fall behind. Moe Norman of Kitchener and Toronto lost his putting touch and blew to 73 after a first-round 67. Jack Ray of Montreal took 71 and had a 140 total after his first-round 70.

George Knudson of Winnipeg and Toronto and Danny Stack of Winnipeg, who started with 69s blew to 74 and 77, respectively.

Stan Balulik of Fort William equalled his first round score of 74 for a 148 total. Sandy Mideast of Port Arthur stood at 153 after rounds of 80 and 73.

Today the low 60 and ties will qualify for Saturday's final round.

FOUR FINALISTS

Shaughnessy Pioneered Many Changes in Canadian Sport

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Shaughnessy, pioneer of many innovations in Canadian sport, tells the story of an inventor who walked into his Montreal office one day with a plan for baseball.

The silver-haired International League president said he never had built a public address device which would broadcast to the stands what was being said on the field during a game by the players, managers and umpires.

"Boy, did I get rid of him, Dukie," said Shag. "Here I am trying to get the boys to tone down a bit on the language. And this guy wanted to bring it closer to the fans."

Shaughnessy, 75, helped bring about the forward pass and the direct snap from centre in Canadian football while coaching McGill University in the early 1920s. He also introduced the quadrangle ten in the IL to maintain fan interest in the latter part of a season.

Maria Schell Deplores American Scandal Sheets

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The scandal type of magazine, on the decline in the U.S., has struck Europe, says German star Maria Schell. She deplores this American export.

The scandal magazines scourged the Hollywood social scene for a couple of years, but appear to have dwindled since the Confidential magazine trial. Now such reporting is making a stand on the Continent, says Miss Schell.

"The newspapers didn't deal in such scandal," she said, "but many of the magazines started running columns with terrible gossip. They claimed they depicted it, but they had to keep up with their competitors.

"But I am happy to say that such reporting is becoming less popular in Europe. I think people are becoming ashamed of reading such things, just as they did here."

MAKING SECOND PICTURE

Miss Schell is completing her second Hollywood picture, The Hanging Tree, with Gary Cooper. It was filmed in the state of Washington and this gave the actress more of a chance to see the country than on her first visit here for The Brothers Karamazov.

Despite her fondness for the scenery, she has no plans to settle here permanently. She and her husband are building a home in the country near Munich.

Her next film will be in Hamburg. She leaves here as soon as she finishes The Hanging Tree to make Schindehannes with Curt Jurgens and director Helmut Kautner. It's a folk tale about the Napoleonic era. An English-language version will also be filmed.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Many out - of - door errands, deals, this and that to be attended to today which busy work days would not permit of doing. Then look well into your budget, financial status. Tonight is fine for love interest.

If your child is born today ... The fine child born today is the well-rounded - to - the - point type of individual, which is fine since there will not be the complicated situations to be dealt with which a more sly youngster gets into. And your progeny will know early what he or she wants to do in life. Be sure to give a fine education, particularly the study of foreign languages, for splendid possibilities in this chart.

Sunday School Lesson

A Dream That Does Not Die

By ROY L. SMITH

The dream of international peace is an ancient one, but it is eternal. It will never die. Deep within the hearts of the nations of mankind there is a persistent confidence that sometime this world is to enjoy the blessings of peace.

THE PEACE MAKERS

In one of his beatitudes Jesus pronounced a blessing on the peace makers as though peace were not a thing that came by accident, but was an inevitable result of other things which produce peace.

The pacifist has assumed that he could end the war system by refusing to fight, but the circumstances of actual politics do not support that argument. To have a peaceful world we must remove the causes of war. Any man who labors to reduce the friction that exists between nations and peoples, who allays the suspicion that attaches to strangers, and who creates an atmosphere of good will and understanding is a maker of peace. If war can be made, then peace also can be made.

PEACE AND RESPECT

There can be no peace among men who do not respect one another. This is the problem that lies at the root of the color crash throughout the world. The white man has planted the seeds of war in this world by his failure to respect the colored races. He has assumed, because he has been economically fortunate, that he is therefore of a superior quality.

The white race needs to know (1) that it is in the minority in this world, and (2) that it cannot live apart from this world. To maintain peace, for its own benefit as well as for the world, it is necessary that white men respect colored men.

PEACE AND JUSTICE

There can be no peace without justice. And justice includes such matters as oil, jute, tung oil, bauxite and uranium.

This writer remembers the word of a young Indonesian who said, "It is true that the American oil companies are paying our workers the best wages they have ever been paid, but it is also true that they are taking out of our land the oil that is irreplaceable, for the purpose of getting farther and farther ahead of us in the race for economic security."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 24: "Justice Among Nations," Isaiah 30:1-5, 15-18; 31:1-3; Micah 4:1-7; Malachi 2:10; Acts 10: 1-35; Ephesians 2:13 through 3:21.

Throughout the world there is a dwindling supply of fossil fuels and when a land like Indonesia sells oil to a land like America, it is mortgaging its own future. The day will come when none of us will have oil. And that day there will be a levelling process. It may be too late for justice to be done.

PEACE AND OPPORTUNITY

There can be no peace in a family if one child gets all the opportunities. There can be no peace in a neighborhood if one boy gets all the toys and enjoys all the advantages. There can be no peace in a city if large numbers of the people are doomed to live in slums. And there can be no peace in this world until there is some leveling of the planes of opportunity.

What does the Church have to say in such a situation as that? Upon its answer will depend its future as a redemptive agency in the life of the world.

Struck by Train

TORONTO (CP) — Eleven-year-old Jan Kodowski was killed Wednesday when struck by a CNR diesel train as he returned home from his first day of work at the Canadian National Exhibition midway.

Police said the boy was struck by a diesel-drawn freight as he cut across CNR property at the west-end Parkdale Station, a mile north of the waterfront CNE grounds.

Jordan Premier Says He's Ready To Meet Nasser

Resumption of Relations With UAR Seen Likely

AMMAN (AP) — Premier Samir Rifai said today Jordan would be willing to consider resuming diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic if President Nasser takes the initiative. Rifai also indicated he is willing to meet Nasser, who has been accused by Jordan of attempting to overthrow the government here and assassinate King Hussein.

Rifai made the conciliatory statements at a press conference came amid other indications that long-term relations between Jordan and the U.A.R. were warming up. Friendly messages were exchanged with the Arab League and prospects were good for reopening of Jordan's border with the U.A.R. province of Syria.

BREAK AFFECTS CHIEF

Jordan's diplomatic relations with the U.A.R. and Iraq were broken after the Cairo announcement King Faisal of Iraq was killed in a coup. The coup was accompanied by charges officials here said were U.A.R. plots to overthrow Jordan's government.

The government made public exchanges of radio messages between Nasser and Hussouna, Arab League secretary - general, and both Rifai and Hussouna.

Hussouna initiated the exchange with an expression of sorrow at the tragedy displayed by unanimous UN adoption Thursday of a resolution supporting the United Arab stand by Arab nations.

ARAB UNITY WELCOMED

In his response, Nasser said the unity of the Arabs in a world organization was greatly welcomed by every Arab citizen."

Jordan's relations with the league began only last year when Cairo and Damascus launched a concerted radio campaign against Hussein.

The Amman government today told Jordanian radio stations to avoid replying to jibes from Cairo and Damascus. Jordanian press comment published, however, that the U.A.R. is continuing its broadcasts despite the UN resolution, which Jordan and Arab League pledges of non - interference appear to back.

DAG DUE IN AMMAN

Meanwhile, UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold made preparations to leave New York today for Amman on a journey that will take him to Arab capitals in search of relief in the trouble area.

The assembly resolution called on Hammarskjold to take steps that would uphold peace in the Middle East and thereby facilitate withdrawal of U.S. and British troops from the area.

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP)—Dr. Harry G. House, 56, assistant superintendent of the Westport Public Schools, died Friday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Escaped Killer Is Recaptured In N. Brunswick

LANCASTER, N.B. (CP)— Convicted killer John Stewart Simpkins, 33, was recaptured early today after 11 hours of freedom from the New Brunswick Hospital for Mental Patients.

He was picked up at nearby Grand Bay on the St. John River. With him was James London, 40, another escaped patient. Both were on foot and offered no resistance.

The pair slipped out of the mental hospital through an elevator shaft. They were reported missing about 6:30 p.m. Friday.

Some residents of southern New Brunswick slept uneasily after RCMP warned that Simpkins might be dangerous, but hospital superintendent Dr. R. A. Gregory said he was a quiet patient.

Simpkins is serving a life sentence for killing his three week-old daughter. He was transferred to the hospital from penitentiary at Dorchester, N.B., last fall.

A truck driver who heard a description of the escaped men gave police the tip that led to the arrests.

Californian Woman Wins Channel Swim

DOVER, England (AP) — Danish-born Greta Andersen of Long Beach Calif., today won the mass English Channel swimming race and defeated all the men entered for the second straight year.

The 30 - year - old blonde housewife came close to smashing the English Channel record set eight years ago by Egyptian Hassan Abdel Rehim.

Her unofficial time was 10 hours, 19 minutes. The Egyptian's record is 10 hours, 50 minutes.

CANADIAN EXHAUSTED

"Sheer exhaustion" forced the lone Canadian entry, Jacques Cloutier of Montreal, out of the water some three hours after the swim started.

Miss Andersen easily bettered the women's English Channel record of 11 hours, 46 minutes set Aug. 16, 1951, for the France-to-England swim by England's Brenda Fisher.

Miss Andersen collected the first prize of £500 and also won the £1,100 swim challenge trophy.

30 ENTERED RACE

Thirteen swimmers were still racing after she landed. Sixteen others had retired.

PRIME MINISTER WELCOMES NEWS ON NUCLEAR TESTS

Commons Takes Up Estimates of Dept.

OTTAWA (CP) — Heartened by encouraging statements on prospects of a disarmament and peace in the Middle East, the Commons today appropriately began study of departmental spending estimates of External Affairs Minister Smith.

The debate has as its background a statement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that mankind may be entering a "new era" because the achievement of world peace.

He interrupted routine House business to make that declaration, based on word that Russia and the United States are ready to suspend nuclear tests for one-year period on certain conditions.

Mr. Diefenbaker welcomed the Anglo - American announcement as a "major development" and said the government will gladly co-operate in providing facilities for control stations and inspection teams on Canadian soil. Canada had made clear in the past her willingness to open Canadian Arctic regions for inspection.

Diefenbaker's optimistic mood was echoed by Opposition Leader Pearson and CCF House leader Mr. Pearson. vitualized a lifting of the clouds of fear and mentioned it is only the first step toward international agreements. He also welcomed what he called a step toward world peace.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it is his profound hope that this announcement is the positive state-ment of United Nations deliberations about Middle East problems. The unanimous general Assembly vote Thursday, empowering UN Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold to act as conciliator in the troubled area, was another reasonable aspect of success.

Canada has supported it even though it contained no reference to a "standby" peace force, one of Canada's pet ideas. A seven-power resolution jointly sponsored by Canada and Norway, Mr. Diefenbaker said he believes the standby force will be considered at later assembly sessions.

Relief Carving 20,000 Years Old Discovered

PERIGUEUX, France (AP)—A local schoolteacher, aided by a freak landslide, Friday discovered a 20,000-year-old prehistoric relief carving said by experts to be 20,000 years old.

It is absolutely breathtaking," said Harvard professor Alan Mogey, head of the expedition sent to southwest France by Harvard's Peabody Museum and the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C.

Miss Elizabeth Bamberger, graduate of Smith College, found a large limestone block in a landslide. Carved on it was the figure of a woman about three inches high.

Iceland May Quit NATO Over Fishing Dispute

LONDON (AP) —Iceland has threatened to leave the North Atlantic Treaty Organization if Britain pursues her case in their fishing dispute.

Iceland has drawn a line 12 miles off her coast and forbidden foreign fishermen to operate inside that line.

British trawlers are selling out for their regular fishing grounds outside the 12-mile limit. But the British Iceland has announced Royal Navy gunboats will protect them when the 12-mile limit goes into effect Sept. 1.

Undaunted, crews on Iceland's eight coast guard vessels are being given gunnery training, the reports from Reykjavik, Iceland's capital.

Should Iceland to NATO would hurt strategically, though the country has no army or navy. The island is a radar picket, and about 4,000 American troops are stationed there to maintain air base facilities. They could be asked to leave on six months' notice.

Kristin Gudmundsson, Iceland's permanent UN delegate, in press conference Friday that his country would have to consider withdrawal from NATO if Britain does not behave."

RECEIVE WINGS

One Bull Refuses to Fight, Another Will Not Play Ball As Lindsay Crowd Chuckles

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Three majestic black bulls refused to be challenged stars of Canada's first bullfights—if they could be called that.

They almost turned Friday night's bloodless battle of wits against beast into a comic tragedy for the Lindsay chamber of commerce.

One bull refused to fight, or even get annoyed. Another refused to leave the ring when he was declared "dead" and obliteratingly saved the day by turning ferocious.

Five thousand customers filled most of the seats at the Lindsay Fair Grandstand for the event, which may have been the weirdest in the 300-year-old history of the noble art.

Some of the things they saw:

A reluctant bull who refused to leave the ring for more than an hour finally lassoed by a matador.

A police chief who no regard for Mexican bulls bowled over twice as he attempted the same stunt.

Some fine, and dangerous, cape work by four matadors — two women and two men.

The crowd enjoyed it.

The Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, represented by five men, found nothing wrong, although one member pulled a wrench in detective fashion from a holster when a bull tried to jump a fence.

Justice of U.S. Supreme Court Holds Answer on Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Charles Evans Whittaker of the United States Supreme Court may hold the answer to whether racial integration of schools in Rock County high school in Arkansas when it reopens Sept. 2.

The answer will not come before next Thursday, probably later.

It was uncertain whether Whittaker would act on his own or with other members of the nine-man court.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Friday asked Whittaker for an order removing all legal barriers to integration of white and Negro pupils into Central High.

The NAACP action came after the U.S. eighth circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis which would delay integration of Negro students at the school until the September term of court is held on the main issues in the case.

The NAACP petition directed to Whittaker because the full court is in summer recess until Oct. 6 and he is the justice over the eighth circuit, which includes Arkansas.

With Whittaker on his way to Los Angeles, Thurgood Marshall of New York, chief counsel for the NAACP, filed the petition with the office of the Supreme Court here.

Marshall emailed copies of the petition to some other officials.

During a train stop at Ogden, Utah, Whittaker said the NAACP documents before deciding what he will do.

Basically what the association is asking is quick implementation of a decision of federal Judge Harry J. Lemley suspending integration at Central high school for 2½ years.

The Court of Appeals last Monday reversed Judge Lemley by vote of 5 to 1.

But on Saturday the Court of Appeals stayed effectiveness of its ruling until the Supreme Court can act on appeal of the Little Rock school board. Seven days in which to petition for a review.

Marshall asked Whittaker to overrule Lemley's order granting the 2½-year delay. Should this be done, the board would be to put back in force at once an earlier order for integration at Central high.

BEER DELIVERY WORKERS REJECT COMPANY OFFER

Province's Parched Imbibers Gloomy

TORONTO (CP) — A unique management dispute in Ontario's beer industry has slipped into deadlock again, leaving a gloomy weekend outlook for the province's parched imbibers.

The United Brewery Workers of America (CLC) Friday rejected an industry offer for settlement of the strike, in its third week.

The offer included a wage increase of 12 cents an hour, a two-year contract and continuation of the 40 - hour week. But, nonwage issues overshadow wage demands and the union said the industry refused to bargain on these matters.

The industry's offer was the first to be presented made since negotiations began with Brewers' Warehousing Company Feb. 27. Contract talks broke off Aug. 9.

Company spokesman J. Clifford Adams said Friday's proposal included all issues on the table now, plus another six cents for the second year.

OPPOSITE MOVEMENT

A company statement said: "The company offered improvements in vacation coverage and numerous minor contract changes."

The two-hour session was attended by representatives of Brewers' Labor Mission and O'Keefe breweries. It ended with no prospect of further bargaining.

A union spokesman said: "The companies refused to bargain on wages. It demands that work performed by members of other unions will not be given away to other companies."

The basic disagreement is over the company's practice of hiring outside truckers to augment its own staff in peak periods. The union insists the work should be done by its members. "The company's new proposal was totally inadequate and could never form the basis for settlement."

Union members are to meet here tonight to hear reports on the strike situation.

Montreal Man Hurt in Cunplay After Robbery

MONTREAL (CP) — Warren Lay, 44, was shot in the arm Friday when he became trapped in the crossfire of a gunplay and gunfight that seriously injured a suspected bank bandit.

The 14-shot fight erupted around Lay's home in suburban Ville Lasalle, minutes after police opened fire on a car they had chased from downtown Montreal.

Lay was sitting on the front balcony of his home watching police search, when two men opened fire on him from behind the balcony. Police returned the fire and Lay was hit. He later was released from hospital.

The suspect, identified by police as Gerard Lamarche, 30, fired bullet wounds in the abdomen, an arm and a leg. An operation was performed during the night and he was reported in "fair" condition Saturday.

A companion surrendered as Seguin collapsed under a hail of bullets. Police said Seguin also they recovered four guns and a knife in the car. They said the suspects were detained early today.

Claims Blood Tranfusions Change Hens

MONTREAL (CP) — A Western scientist has criticized the port of Dr. N. I. Timofeeff-Ressovsky, Institute of Genetics in Moscow that blood transfusions can affect the genetic inheritance of hens.

Dr. Clyde Stormont of the school of veterinary medicine at the University of California said the report by Russian geneticists believe an animal can transmit only its own basic characteristics to its offspring.

The Russian scientist, in a report to the 10th International Congress of Genetics in Montreal giving "foreign blood transfusions" to pure-bred hens, found that Russian hens had feather coloring similar to that of foreign blood strains.

Dr. Stormont said that if the Russian results were valid, transfusions to Negro hens to white people would cause their children to have Negro characteristics.

He said he did not doubt the Russian's findings, however he but disagreed with the conclusions.

BUILD LONGEST CANAL

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union is building the longest canal in the world, Moscow radio said Friday. Called the Karakum canal, the waterway is being cut 562 miles across the Turkmen Desert. It will bring water from the Amudarya, central Asia's largest river, to irrigate 13,000,000 acres of pasture land.

Expect Russia Will Accept U.S. Test Ban Plan

Officials in Washington Predict Geneva Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials predicted today that Russia probably will accept Western proposals for negotiations starting Oct. 31 on a worldwide system to prevent sneak nuclear weapons tests.

The United States and Britain offered Friday to suspend nuclear tests for at least one year, provided such negotiations got under way.

The only other condition was that Russia continue its halt in Soviet tests announced 4½ months ago. The Russians announced the halt after completing a test series.

President Eisenhower called, in a statement and a note to the Kremlin, for talks in New York under United Nations auspices. Results are to be reported through Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold to the General Assembly and the Security Council.

GENEVA ACCEPTABLE

U.S. officials who forecast probably Soviet acceptance said the Russians might suggest Geneva instead of New York for the talks. This, it was said, would be all right with the West.

Moscow radio and the Tass news agency reported Western proposals without comment. There was no comment from Soviet officials.

U.S. officials said their expectation of Soviet acceptance is based primarily on results of the Geneva meeting of scientists from both sides of the Iron Curtain.

"The scientists agreed it was technically possible to control worldwide system of inspection stations, reported to number of 180, to make sure nobody cheated on any agreement to ban nuclear tests.

BRITAIN WILLING

Britain offered to suspend her tests after a projected series is completed this fall, and to participate in detailed diplomatic talks to set up the monitoring system conceived by the scientists at Geneva.

France did not promise to join in pledging any test suspension. But Premier Charle's government was consulted in advance but was reported determined to get ahead with plans to explode France's first atomic bomb.

It was learned that this was the thinking behind the U.S. proposal.

An end to nuclear tests is no disarmament measure in itself, but it would be a step toward bridging the gap between East and West. Britain and the U.S. have argued that seriously unless there were prospects for agreement on such disarmament measures as a cutoff in nuclear production, there was no point in stockpiling stockpiles and troop cutbacks.

Test explosions for peaceful purposes could continue. UN or other neutral observers would check up on these to make sure they were not bomb tests in disguise.

U.S. Rockets, Missiles, Satellites Awe But Bore Canadians at CNE

TORONTO (CP) — The largest display of United States military power shown outside the U.S. is the centrepiece of exhibits at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Visitors have been awed, impressed and captivated by a bewildering thicket of rockets, missiles, guided and ballistic flight.

Others ask me questions but they are more interested in how much it costs and what are the chances of a really getting through to knock out a Russian city. Nine out of every 10 don't.

Attendance was 134,500 Friday as pleasant weather attracted the largest crowd since the show opened Wednesday.

Tuesday is Warriors' Day. A parade at 1,000 legionnaires and soldiers was planned.

Centurion tank was undrawing a 60-foot guided missile parked nearby. Children and adults around the conventional exhibit and walk past a row of U.S. missiles.

Sgt. C. A. Andrews, U.S. Army information officer at a display containing the Snark, an anti-aircraft Nike missile and a long-range Corporal, said many people don't understand the significance of the difference between guided and ballistic flight.

"Others ask me questions but they are more interested in how much it costs and what are the chances of a really getting through to knock out a Russian city. Nine out of every 10 don't.

"The Snark is another attraction. It is a guided missile with a range of 5,000 miles. It is powered by a turbojet engine and is launched by a booster rocket. It is guided by an inertial guidance system which is preset before launching. It is not radio controlled."

Books Balanced In Four Months Of Fiscal Year

OTTAWA (CP)— The government completed the first four months of the current fiscal year with its financial books virtually balanced.

Finance Minister Fleming reported Friday a modest surplus of $24,000,000 for the period April 1 to July 31.

This compared with a four-month surplus of $210,000,000 in the previous year when expenditures included the $100,000,000 outlay to the new Canada council.

EXPECT DEFICIT

The government is not expected to stay out of the red for long. Mr. Fleming has forecast a record peacetime deficit for the current year of $650,000,000.

Friday's statement also showed that in July the Diefenbaker conservative administration had revenues of $444,300,000 against expenditures of $420,300,000 for a surplus of $80,900,000. This compared with revenues of $402,000,000, expenditures of $411,400,000 and a surplus of $90,100,000 in the same month in 1957.

On the revenue side for the month, the biggest increase was in drop in corporation income tax collections to $101,400,000 from $124,000,000 in July, 1957.

The old age security fund, not part of the regular government revenues, ran up a $12,000,000 deficit in July, bringing the accumulated deficit since 1952 to $54,400,000. Last year after four months the fund's accumulated deficit was $5,200,000. The deficits are covered by temporary loans out of general revenues.

Human Pituitary Growth Hormone Given Dwarf Girl

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A dwarfed 11-year - old girl has grown more than three inches in six months under treatment with human pituitary growth hormone, a University of California scientist reported today.

This is the largest growth rate achieved with pituitary hormone treatment so far, although previous treatments have been successfully in Boston, New York and Canadian research centres.

The case of the dwarfed girl was reported in a paper before a meeting of the American organization of cells by Dr. C. H. Li, who directed the chemical research on the hormones.

Eight months ago the girl was three inches shorter and physically than a normal child of 5½. Her trouble was diagnosed as pituitary due to an infection at six months which damaged her pituitary gland.

Under large doses of the extremely precious hormone substance, the girl shot up from 44½ inches to 47¾ inches. The normal height for her age is 54 inches and the normal growth rate before adolescence is about two inches a year.

The hormone substance is expensive because it has come from a human pituitary glands at autopsy. Li had only enough to treat one patient. This girl was selected as the case likely to yield the most information about the workings of the substance.

New Nurses' Training School Macs' Hockey Club Aided By County Council Grants

Getting down to business after two days of discussions, the Hastings county councillors gave their stamp of approval Friday afternoon to renovations costing up to $90,000 at the county court house; voted a grant of $10,000 to the Belleville General Hospital to assist in the construction of a new nurses' training school; and approved of a grant of $1,000 to the Belleville Macdonald's Hockey club to help to send them to Prague for world championship competition.

There was very little discussion on any of the three items. All councillors were generally in accord that extensive renovations to the county court house were necessary, while only the amount of the grant to be given to the hospital nursing school entered into the discussion.

And the grant for the Belleville Macdonald's was approved with only token opposition coming from one councillor, the reeve of Tyendinaga township on the Federal government or the Canadian Hockey Association did not contribute to pay the expenses of a team in international competition.

With preliminary plans and sketches of the renovations having previously been viewed by council, members voted for the finance committee's recommendation made by Reeve J. N. Brown, of Bancroft, to proceed immediately with working plans for court house renovations and to call for tenders for approval at the next session of council in December.

ONLY ANSWER

The motion was made by Reeve James Kinkin whose only question was "is it the only answer?"

Reeve Brown assured that an over-all plan of renovations was the only answer at the courthouse as alterations done each year have not been done in accordance to many cases had to be changed in later years.

He noted that a letter was on file from the Bar Association giving their unanimous approval of approval on the proposed plans for renovations.

With council approval of the over-all plan Warden Lloyd Price said council that "I am pleased council had seen fit to carry Reeve Brown's motion."

"We have made many changes at the court house but no permanent improvements have been achieved," he said. "Now members of the county are able to look back with pride and feel that we have had something to do with improvements that we hope will last for at least 50 years."

Architect for the convention job will be Bregman and Haman Toronto who drew preliminary drawings and sketch of how the completed work would appear.

The $10,000 grant for the proposed nurses' teaching school will be paid in two instalments, starting in 1959.

As county representative on the hospital board, Reeve William Shannon of Marmora village urged approval of a grant at least in the amount of $10,000 that had been cited by the finance committee, and suggested that the county "would not be out of the way in going even further than the $10,000 recommended by the finance committee."

NO LEGAL OBLIGATION

Reeve admitted the county had no legal obligation in making a grant but suggested the county had a "moral opportunity."

"It is my feeling through my contacts with members of the hospital board and realizing the calibre of people on the board that this is not a case of trying to stick the county," he said. "It does not have to be passed to meet obligations."

Reeve Irwin McCoy of Marmora township, admitted that in the past he had been critical of the hospital but in this case was in favor of the grant and moved that the county give $15,000.

Reeve Kinkin came back with an amendment calling for a grant of $10,000 as recommended by the finance department, the motion being seconded by Reeve Holt of Stirling.

Warden Price had no secondor for his original motion Reeve McCoy tabled a second amendment calling for a grant of $12,500 and this was seconded by Reeve Shannon.

Reeve McCoy's amendment was lost when the motion for the $10,000 was voted on it was carried almost unanimously.

William Davis introduced the motion calling for a grant of $1,000 to the Belleville McFarlands Hockey Club to assist in sending the team to Prague and the motion was seconded by Reeve Kinlin.

ENJOYED BROADCASTS

Noting that Ontario county had made a special gift to the Whitby Dunlops he suggested that it would be a "nice gesture" for Hastings to make a grant to the McFarlands. Many county councillors had taken pleasure in listening to the hockey broadcasts from Prague where the Belleville team won the Allan Cup, he said.

Reeve Ross Thurlow said he could not go along with the motion and said he wondered if it should be municipal business to sponsor a hockey team in International competition.

"The McFarlands will go to Prague as the Belleville team, not as the Belleville team or a county team", he said.

He suggested it should be the place of the Canadian Hockey Association or the Federal Government to finance. Kingston it "was not quite cricket to ask was "it a county ratepayers to help send the team".

Warden Lloyd Price said the federal government had not participated yet but noted that support had been dropped in the right places.

The motion approved by council for payment of the grant of $1,000 grant when arrangements were completed to send the team to Prague.

At the Friday morning session, council also approved a December meeting a recommendation of the finance committee full rate costs by residents at the Hastings county home. The motion was for the cost to be paid by those residents who could afford the charge to be carried as a debit entry in the books.

LENGTHY DISCUSSION

Reeve Charles Long as chairman of the county home board of management moved that differential rate was being asked by the provincial welfare department which, he said, the provincial government was paying 70 per cent of the net cost of county home operation.

There was considerable discussion both for and against the motion, some councillors stating the motion was out of order while others objected on the grounds that county patients at the home had always been charged and screened before they were admitted.

Reeve Charles Buskard summed the matter up by saying that if the county was prepared to accept 70 per cent subsidy in the operation of the home it would have to be prepared to accept 70 per cent direction in its operation.

Reeve Long said that approximately six months were now in force in Ontario were now charging the differential rate.

Reeve J. Ross Gillett accepting the motion to charge a differential rate at the hoofe would be quite acceptable to him and asked if it was the county intention at a later date to nursing home business or provide accomodation for those needy elderly people requiring institution.

Councillors felt they needed more time to consider the matter and it was accordingly laid over until the December session.

At the session ended, Deputy Reeve Harold Varty expressed appreciation to Warden Price for the able manner in which he had conducted the assembly. Warden Price in reply noted that although the sessions usually saw differences of opinion there was always co-operation when decisions were made.

As the "junior" member of council, Reeve Harry Alford of Deseronto was given the opportunity of his first visit to county council.

He said he had been impressed by the honest but businesslike way in which the sessions were carried out, yet members invariably came around to the other viewpoint when necessary.

"That," he assured, "is the only way to legislate."

JOSEPH MADDOCKS

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — Cited for bravery for saving the lives of seven passengers from the ill-fated S.S. Titanic when she struck an iceberg and sank in the North Atlantic in April, 1912, Joseph Maddocks, a resident of this town for the past 14 years died at his home early Thursday morning. He was 83.

Mr. Maddocks came to Campbellford from his birthplace in England 14 years ago, after serving thirty-five years in the British Merchant Navy. It was during his naval service that he was a member of the crew of the S.S. Carpathia, the first rescue ship to arrive on the scene in answer to the distress signals sent out from the S.S. Titanic, then the largest ship afloat, before she sank with the loss of 1517 lives, the worst sea disaster in history. Mr. Maddocks personally assisted in personally rescuing seven persons from the Titanic. Two of the seven he rescued were babies, each only a few months old at the time. He found them floating in an oil-skin bag, and carried for them as the Carpathia took her load of 706 survivors back to New York.

Official records state the number rescued at 706, although Mr. Maddocks in a radio interview on the occasion of the 45th sailing of the Titanic on Sunday, April 14th, 1957, told the writer that the number was 704. (It is believed official records were in error). During his naval service Mr. Maddocks kept in his own cabin until reaching New York). Mr. Maddock said later he only counted adults, because he was not sure about the two infants involved. However, he found out later.

During the Second World War his ship put in to Halifax, where he attended naval benefit which He was asked to participate in the show, because some of the performers scheduled to appear had been delayed by a storm which struck the area. The M.C. of the show, who had heard a little of Mr. Maddocks' adventures on the high seas, asked him to relate what he considered his most exciting and lasting memory of his naval service, and he told the story of finding the two babies in the oil-skin bag. A young lady in the audience fainted, but when she regained consciousness it was arranged that she meet Mr. Maddocks, as she requested. It was then that she told him that the two babies he had rescued were her parents.

Mr. Maddocks was an accomplished musician and was a valued member of the Campbellford Citizens' Band. A few years ago he fell from a moving freight car while working at the Gair Company of Canada plant and fractured both his left hip and his left arm. He was not expected to live, and the district newspaper inadvertently published a notice of his death.

Mr. Maddocks, however, remained very much of a fighter and with great determination, a year and a half later, was able to walk. He was a member of the local band, and played in many concerts, and was a keen lover of music. He took much of his time composing music for the band, and was a great encouragement to other amputees. He at that time was the only triple amputee in the province who had undergone the combined loss of leg and arm.

Surviving besides his wife, the former Annie Whitehead, whom he married nine years ago, are a brother, William of Toronto and a sister, Mrs. Sidney Bidgood (Elizabeth) of Christchurch, New Zealand. One son was killed in action during the First World War.

The Rev. Owen G. Barrow of Christ Anglican Church, of which Mr. Maddocks was a member conducted the funeral service from Christ Anglican church this Saturday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. The funeral was under the auspices of Branch 103 of the Canadian Legion, of which Mr. Maddocks was a member. Interment was in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

PUC Attempts To Remove Taste From Water

TRENTON — Everything possible will be done to remove the taste from the water which is going to residents of the east side of the Trent River, Public Utilities manager Jim Page said Thursday at the regular meeting of the board.

The matter was brought before the commission by Clint Baker who asked if anything could be done to improve the quality of the water going to the east side.

Mr. Page replied they are doing all they can and hope to find a way the water from the filtration plant can be blended with the water from the town wells. He said that although there may be a slight taste to the water, it is not objectionable and it is definitely pure. He said according to recent tests the raw water from the river has a bacterial content count of 39 and a test on the same water after it has passed through the filter beds gave a count of "0".

He said some people believe the town is pumping water directly from the river into the town mains. This is not so, he said. Except for a few houses through the filtration plant and is purified before it goes into the town's water system.

RECEIVES COMPLAINTS

He informed the board that he has received many complaints from residents on the east side of the river. He also pointed out that the same water is going into the RCAF station and he has had no complaints from there about the taste.

He said there is a difference in the taste of well water and that which is pumped through the filtration beds from the river—but there is no danger to the persons have complained of, and it is good water.

The intake for the filtration beds is in the centre of the river where the water is the deepest and clearest.

The commission instructed Mr. Page to work on the matter of blending the two waters and to see if it could be done.

The PUC manager said that both waters are being pumped into the town mains but it is impossible to control the way it travels. He said it would be necessary to blend the water in both town reservoirs which would mean two mains across the river one carrying filtration water to the west side and the other carrying well water to the east side.

Even then it is not known if the blend would be satisfactory. The only sure way would be to have one huge tank and pump all the water into it. This would be much too costly.

He said, however, that some day it may be possible to control the water by shut-off valves so that well water only will be going to the homes and the filtration plant water to industries.

The commission decided to ask the Gore and Storrie Consulting Engineers to issue tenders for additional beds to the filtration plants and that the financing of the project will be decided later.

The PUC members were also informed that at present nearly 1,000,000 gallons of water per day are accounted for. It is believed this is because of faulty meters. It was decided that all large places getting a flat rate will be given one year's notice to make arrangements to have meters put in.

The commission also decided to purchase a new addressograph for the office. The old one is becoming too costly to keep repaired.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Ross Burtt, the town representative on the commission, Cliff Baker, elected member to the board, Bert Atkinson, chairman of the commission and Jim Page manager of the PUC.

EMERGENCY STRIKE

HALIFAX (CP)—Employees of the two Halifax breweries struck for higher wages Wednesday and cut off the source of more than 50 per cent of the beer purchased in Nova Scotia. About 150 workers at A. Keith and Son Limited and Oland and Son Limited struck after Local 61 of the United Brewery and Distillery Workers (CLC) refused to accept a conciliation board's majority report recommending a 15-cent hourly wage increase and fringe benefits asked by the union.

Kiwanis Club Enjoys Tour of Pyrotenax Plant

TRENTON — A tour through the Pyrotenax plant in Trenton was the highlight of the last regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club and followed the regular dinner meeting in Hotel Gilbert.

Prior to the tour a brief description of the history carried on there was explained by Kiwanian Norm Lester.

He said the plant was of French origin and was originally designed because of the need for an electric wiring which was resistent to fire. The first of this type of wire to be made in France in 1934. He told the Kiwanians that later on in 1936, the British took over the plant to start producing it on a commercial basis.

The plant in Trenton, he said, makes only one size of wire in many sizes. It also makes products which are associated with the cable.

Mr. Lester as the brief business meeting several letters were read by the president, Grant Gooding, with a five year perfect attendance pin was presented to Kiwanian Bert Mr. James is the manager of the Trenton Cold Storage.

A letter was read from the Casa Loma Kiwanis club stating that recently elected Mr. Bill Brown, a member of the Trenton Club, had been a visitor there. The letter also enclosed a membership card to the Casa Loma publicity committee.

A letter was read asking the Kiwanians to submit names they may think fitting for the two unnamed parks in Champlain Heights sub-division.

The Trenton Fair Board sent a letter of thanks to the club for the use of the canteen during their recent "bee" in cleaning up the fair and invited them to the next meeting of the Board which will be held on Tuesday, August 26, in the board room of the municipal building at 8 p.m.

President Gooding urged as many of the club members as possible to attend the meeting. He also informed the club their rating for the past month of 97.4 of a possible 100, and reminded members of the tulip campaign which will begin shortly.

Paul Tripp informed the club that a golf journey has been arranged and all members who intend attending are invited. It will be held today (Saturday) beginning at 2 p.m.

The next meeting will be held at the Salvation Army Camp at Robbin Point. The meeting will be held on Wednesday, August 27 at the usual meeting time, 7 p.m. It is hoped that the Kiwanians have sent several boys and girls between the ages of eight and 12 for a week's holidays, paying their expenses.

Timber Cutting On Crown Land Under Discussion

Farmers in North Hastings are not happy over the fact that time for cutting restrictions under the county tree cutting by-law are not being adhered to on Crown property while they as private citizens cannot cut trees under a certain size on their own properties.

This was revealed in county council yesterday by two members present, who said they had received complaints from citizens.

Outcome of the discussion was that council passed a resolution to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests asking more supervision of timber cutting on Crown land and that such cutting conform with the county tree by-law.

Reeve Tracey Adams of Dungannon said he had received numerous complaints from residents that contractors cutting timber on Crown property were cutting trees of all sizes contrary to provisions of the county tree by-law which restricted cutting of certain species under a given size. These restrictions were also violated by the by-law and could not see why Crown land should be exempted.

"They don't feel very happy about it," commented the reeve.

Reeve C. A. Davis said he also had heard the complaints and said the point was well taken. He noted that under the tree by-law cutting of maple, birch, spruce and certain other species was restricted to over a certain size.

He said it was only fair that cutting of trees on Crown land should comply with the county tree by-law.

The resolution to petition the Department of Lands and Forests was accordingly drawn up and passed by council.

Should Go Slow In Establishment Of Park Sites

Setting up of park sites by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests as camping grounds for motorists does not always meet with the approval of cottagers who are having their quiet disturbed by midnight motorhoarding.

This was revealed at Hastings county council on Friday following a request from the county publicity committee chairman Reeve J. V. Holt of Stirling for council thought on establishing a small park area at Moira Lake.

Reeve Holt had asked council thought on developing a section of county road property at Moira Lake as a swimming area and as a spot where boats could be launched.

He also asked for council's sanction in taking an option on a small piece of property near the old Anglican Church at Hermon in North Hastings from one, he can establish a view plateau.

Reeve W. J. Davis said the county should go slow in the establishment of such sites as it would not want to make a park such as he said was made in the Lake St. Peter area. He said over the past 25 years cottages had been built on the lake and to have the Department of Lands and Forests establish a camping site right at their back door. But now there were 200 tents and possibly 1,000 people on the sites, many of whom roared around the lake in power boats at all hours of the day and night.

LAKE RUINED

"The lake has been ruined for many cottagers, and many are selling their cottages and going elsewhere," he said.

Reeve Holt assured, however, that there was no intention of setting up a camping site at Moira Lake. He said that after being developed the area would be turned over possibly to a Madoc service club for supervision.

This met with the approval of council and it was generally agreed that the county did not want to get involved in any maintenance problem.

No action was taken on the matter however, and it was left with Huntingdon township Reeve Elmer Wilson to interview Moira Lake cottagers to get their reaction.

Reeve Wilson, however, did authorize the publicity committee to take an option on the small property at the Anglican Church at Hermon.

Reeve Adams agreed that the lookout at the old Church offered a splendid view both to the north and to the south. Views in both directions looked across valleys before being lost in the distant haze. "The view to the north extends as far as Gilmour", he said.

going on each side of him. The calf was knocked against the fence. The bull was drawn away by the capes of the matadors and the calf rose again. Same result.

The chief said later "those little bulls wouldn't hurt anybody."

The matadors, almost dropping with exhaustion, kept trying to get rid of the bull, Ascona finally dropped a lasso around the bull's horn.

Manuel Maples, son of the Mexican ambassador to Canada, judged the fight. He said earlier that bullfighting would come to Canada as a perennial art.

Officials said they discovered the bull's sex before the fight that Miss Bilbao was only 20. They said a contract signed was misleading unless she was 21.

They asked her step - father, Jose Ascona, to sign a waiver absolving them of blame in case of accident. He refused and pulled his daughter from the fight. Mr. Webster and officials finally compromised and Miss Bilbao was protected for $500.

The fight was originally scheduled for the Civic Holiday weekend but was postponed when the date was delayed by United States officials at the U.S.-Mexican border. Chamber officials who expected to make a profit, said now they will break even.

But they got their publicity, main reason for the event.

'MOVING MUSSELS

While young, mussels are able to move about with a small foot protruding from their shell.

When Ontario Liberal Leader John J. Wintermeyer visited Tweed Friday night to attend the East Hastings Liberal Association general meeting he did not expect to meet residents from Kitchener, his own home town. Here the Liberal leader is seen with three former Tweed sisters now Teaching school in Kitchener, Misses Monica, Shirley and Joan Allore. Monica (left) last year taught Mr. Wintermeyer's daughter at Kitchener.

Ontario Liberal leader John J. Wintermeyer meets with Douglas McPherson, Thurlow township, named president of East Hastings Liberal Association at party general meeting held at Tweed Friday night.

East Hastings Liberals Fail To Nominate Candidate at Tweed Organization Meeting

Friday night's pre - election meeting of the East Hastings Liberal Association held at St. Carthagh's Hall in Tweed broke up without any official announcement as to whether the party would have a candidate in the forthcoming election for September 11th.

The meeting, attended by less than 100 party followers, was called for the election of officers and to discuss the "other business" which chairman Dr. D. C. McPherson of Deseronto said might include whether a candidate would be named.

Following the meeting, which saw Ontario Liberal leader John J. Wintermeyer as the guest speaker, the newly - elected executive met with Ontario Liberal organizer Jim Scott and although there was no official announcement it was felt in some quarters the East Hastings Liberals would have a candidate by next Tuesday, official nomination date.

Progressive Conservatives have as their candidate, Warden Lloyd Price of Actinolite, who was named at a party convention held in Madoc last Friday night. The by-election in East Hastings was called by Premier Leslie M. Frost following the resignation of Roscoe Robson, who quit the post to become Hastings county sheriff.

OFFICERS ELECTED

As guest speaker, the new Ontario Liberal leader criticized many aspects of the Frost government and gave out a few hints as to what would comprise the Liberal party platform in the next provincial election campaign.

The East Hastings Liberal Association will have Douglas McPherson of Thurlow township as their president, while vice - presidents elected at the meeting were Mrs. Ed. Ex-Warden Leslie McLaren, Ralph Plumley, Ex-Warden Elmer Reid, Henigan Rush and Pat J. Fitzgerald of Maynooth.

The position of Secretary-Treasurer will be Alec MacDonald.

The election of officers was conducted by Mr. Scott, executive director and secretary of the Liberal Association.

He said that the major aim of the Liberals in Ontario up to fighting strength, "There was no better time than this than now when the party had in Mr. Wintermeyer a young and capable leader", he said.

Mr. Wintermeyer agreed that there were battles ahead for Liberals in Ontario and called for unity. He refused and pulled his daughter from the fight. Mr. Webster and officials finally compromised and Miss Bilbao was protected for $500.

The fight was originally scheduled for the Civic Holiday weekend but was postponed when the date was delayed by United States officials at the U.S.-Mexican border. Chamber officials who expected to make a profit, said now they will break even.

But they got their publicity, main reason for the event.

'MOVING MUSSELS

While young, mussels are able to move about with a small foot protruding from their shell.

CALLS FOR NEW DEAL

Mr. Wintermeyer called for a new deal for Ontario farmers whom, he said had suffered under the Frost Government. They needed a new deal in markets and Liberals would also see that the rural differential in hydro rates would not continue He said this differential was unjustified and would not continue with the election of a Liberal government in Ontario.

All was not well in education in circles in the province with no clear picture presented on the teacher supply problem. Mr. Wintermeyer said one day the Minister of Education claimed there was no teacher shortage and the next day would say there was a shortage of 1,100 qualified teachers.

Under a Liberal regime young and women would be encouraged to enter the teaching field with financial assistance provided to high school graduates anxious to enter the teaching field.

"That is one way and a direct way we can help to overcome the shortage of teachers".

Liberals would also bring out in the higher education field with many young men and young women denied college education because of lack of finances.

Liberals would take that no deserving young man or woman would be denied a college education irrespective of their financial ability.

TOO MANY BOARDS

Touching on the municipal government and taxation field, the Ontario Liberal leader said representations made by local governments should not have to be approved by appointed boards or commissions, whose ruling have no appeal. He said there were too many boards or commissions in Ontario. Their decisions were binding with no right of appeal. Municipalities were taking care of some functions of government and were all appointed by the government.

Education, social and welfare services should have a greater share of costs borne by the province, where the speaker said the responsibility belonged.

Liberals will show that they are interested in the ordinary man and woman and if we do these things and accept our opportunity and challenge, we will have done something not only for Liberals but for all Ontario, he concluded.

Quebec Woman Killed in Crash Near Kingston

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Marie Elizabeth Nelmes, 49, of Sivatsmarie, Que., was killed Friday night and her two children and two other persons injured in a collision on Highway 2.

The children, John Albert, 11, and Carol Joyce, 16, were taken to hospital suffering head injuries. The boy's condition was reported critical.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Greene of Dewitt, N.J., also were taken to hospital. Mrs. Greene suffered a fractured kneecap and Mr. Green head cuts.

The Nelmes' car and the Greenes' station wagon collided.

Opposition Fires Criticisms at Health Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Opposition members Friday fired criticisms at Health Minister Monteith because Quebec still has not joined the national hospital insurance plan.

During Commons discussion of health department estimates, Premier Duplessis also was blamed because his provincial government has not signified its intention to join the five provinces whose plans went into effect July 1. Three others are due to come in next Jan. 1.

J. P. Deschatelets (L — Montreal-Mercier) questioned Monteith among others, criticized Mr. Monteith on the ground that as late as Thursday the minister said he had not communicated with Mr. Duplessis on the possibilities of Quebec joining the plan.

BLAMES DUPLESSIS TOO

"Mr. Duplessis must be blamed for the negative stand he has taken on this issue," Mr. Deschatelets said. "The minister also must be placed in the same boat for his lack of initiative."

At the night sitting, Mr. Monteith said Quebec has shown interest in the plan but has not yet indicated it intends to join.

The House completed its study of the health department estimates before adjourning.

Earlier, Mr. Monteith estimated cost to the federal treasury of the hospital insurance plan this year at $70,000,000. The four western provinces and Newfoundland entered it July 1. Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia are scheduled to start Jan. 1.

Murdo Martin—(CCF—Timmins) said only one in 15 patients would benefit by the hospital insurance plan, because it was not an all-inclusive health insurance program taking in mental and tubercular patients, others needing dental care and eyeglasses and so forth. The plan was "inadequate."

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) suggested more lenient qualifying terms for disability pensions in Ontario. At present, he said, if you have one leg to stand on you don't qualify.

He asked that the age limit for payment of family allowances be increased from 16 to 21 in cases where the recipient continued to go to school.

Robert Badanai (L—Fort William) said the plan should be extended to cover persons in nursing homes.

Break-in, Theft On Front St.

A city police officer making routine check of business premises early this morning discovered a break-in at O'Neil Sales Ltd., 115 Front St.

Inspector Clair Hayes said today that the thief or thieves smashed a window at the rear of the building to gain entry. Between $40 and $50 in change was taken from a cash register, he said.

EXTEND APPOINTMENT

OTTAWA (CP) — Mal.-Gen. F. F. Worthington Friday received a five-year extension of his appointment as honorary colonel commandant of the Canadian Rangers (reserve militia) which he was instrumental in forming on a coast-to-coast basis after the Second World War.

One Man Dead In Truck Crash

Laurie Rochefort, 29-year-old Lakeview, Ont. man, was fatally injured, and a passenger escaped injury early this morning when their truck went out of control on Highway 62 north of Bancroft near Bird's Creek.

The southbound stake truck went 130 feet along the shoulder of the highway before going into the ditch. The driver was thrown out and was found in the ditch with the rear wheels of the truck against his chest.

Provincial Police at Bancroft said the passenger in the truck, Pembroke escaped injury.

THE BUSINESS MAN - - FANCY AND FACT

Gerald G. Fisch, management consultant, recently told the Toronto Rotary Club the business man's public relations are "shockingly bad."

They are, indeed, if the public image of the business man is that which the Sarnia Observer, apparently quoting Mr. Fisch, says it is - - "a miser who spends his days counting his millions."

Actually, there are dozens of public images of the business man. There are many people who recognize, as does Mr. Fisch, that "the business men as a group are the most socially responsible members of our society and do more actively for the welfare of Canada than any other group in relation to their size and number." There are others, though, who, while they recognize that "without business men there would be no Boy Scouts, there would be fewer churches, there would be few if any chairmen of community campaigns," give these facts an uncomplimentary twist. Donations? Come off the income tax. Community service? Good publicity. So say the belittlers.

It would be easier to answer these people if, occasionally, we were not presented with this type of picture of the business men, a picture of men using "their initiative, enterprise, ingenuity, foresight and willingness to risk funds or reputation in business ventures" not because their chief motivation is to make a maximum profit, but because their primary objective is to meet the needs of society."

Most men and women who work in factories, in offices, on the farms, in stores, in mines and in mills believe that they are helping to meet the needs of society. But few of them are so altruistic, or so adept at self-deception, as to believe that this is the chief motivation of their labors. Most of them will be honest enough to admit that their primary objective is not public service but what comes wrapped up in a pay envelope.

Not being angels themselves, they find it difficult to accept the picture of the typical business man as an angel.

"Who's he kidding?" would be the retort if the business man claimed to be.

Most business men are not stupid enough to make such a claim. But then they have somebody like Mr. Fisch come along, tell them their public relations are "shockingly bad" and make the claim for them. But perhaps that is unfair. The description quoted is from the Sarnia Observer's article on Mr. Fisch's talk, but it was not in direct quotations. The inference is that Mr. Fisch said this, or something like it. If he didn't, he should sue.

But not, we hope, us.

AN APPEAL FOR HELP

This newspaper carried a short story the other day about a missing purebred Boxer dog. The story, in itself, may not have seemed important to many people, but, understood, it was very important - - at least to Mr. John Padgett, owner of the dog.

Duchess, as the dog was called, probably has a litter of pups by now. At any rate the story is that Duchess disappeared from the Belleville fair grounds last week as Mr. Padgett was preparing to move on to the Quinte Exhibition in Trenton after a successful four days at the annual fair here.

Mr. Padgett wrote this newspaper and asked help in finding his pet. A reporter checked the police, pound and a number of city and district veterinarians, but was not successful in finding the dog.

Mr. Padgett believes someone stole Duchess. He has offered a reward to the person who returns her unharmed. Of course, the pups must be returned with their mother.

Almost everyone likes dogs. Perhaps the person who took Duchess wanted her for his own. If that is the motive - - and it is a selfish one - - we hope the time will be many sleepless nights. Mr. Padgett is not sleeping well these nights. He raised Duchess from a pup and the two, under normal circumstances, are inseparable.

After a Quebec bank robbery, police were not informed for an hour, because the staff had been locked in a strong-room. As it seems to be a favorite practice of bank robbers to do this, wouldn't it be a wise precaution to make alarms standard equipment in strong-rooms? - (Stratford Beacon-Herald.)

HIS MISTAKE

He longed to find the Road to Fame,
But not a highway bore that name.

He thought to glory there — must be —
A level path that he should trace.

But every road to which he came
Possessed a terrifying name.

He never thought that Fame might lurk
Along the dreary path called Work.

He never thought to go and see
What marked the road called Industry.

Because it seemed so rough and high,
He passed the Road to Service by.

Yet had he taken either way
He might have come to Fame
some day.

House Can Protect Itself

By Arthur Blakely, Montreal Gazette

A Toronto newspaper is disturbed by the intense activity of the CCF group in Parliament, an editorial complains that the eight CCF M.P.'s — all that remain from the March 31 election — talk too much.

"The CCF members," the editorial says plaintively, "engage in silly, childish interruptions of debates. They get up, one after the other, and repeat one another's speeches. They do this to no apparent purpose — they say little that is constructive or useful and they say little that particularly critical. They just talk and talk until the other members want nothing more than to t e l l them to shut up."

This has been going on for months. The Hansard index for table index to Hansard shows that between May 12 and June 30, CCF Leader Coldwell spoke on 55 different topics — more than did Liberal Leader Pearson who spoke on 78, and less only than did the Prime Minister, who spoke on 80. Similarly, no CCF member during that period spoke on fewer than 53 subjects and three spoke on more than 70 — compared, for example, with Cabinet Minister Harris, who spoke only on 57, and D. S. Harkness, w h o spoke on 58.

The conclusion of the author of the editorial is that the CCF group is up to no good. It is guilty, in fact, of obstructionism, abuse of Parliamentary privilege, and many other things this side of malfeasance.

If there no way, short of arrest, to shut these people up? the editorial demands.

To date, the House of Commons seems to have been too busy with other matters to worry, w i t h gratitude of appropriate warmth, about the CCF. It has rescued it from a fate worse than death. LET THE SAVIOUR IN

There's a Stranger at the door;
Let Him in
He has been there oft before; Let Him in!
Let Him in ere He is gone;
Let Him in, the Holy One,
Jesus Christ, the Father's Son;
Let Him in!

Open now to Him your heart; Let Him in!
If you wait He will depart; Let Him in-
Let Him in; He is your Friend;
And your soul He will defend,
He will keep you to the end; Let Him in-

Hear you now His loving voice?
Let Him in!
Now, oh now, make Him your choice; Let Him in
He is standing at the door;
Joy to you He will restore,
And His name you will adore;
Let Him in!

Now admit the heavenly Guest;
Let Him in!
He will make for you a feast; Let Him in!
He will speak your sins forgiven,
And when earth ties all are riven,
He will take you home to heaven;
Let Him in!

Here is an American gospel song whose popularity was very great on both sides of the Atlantic in the great nineteenth century revivals of Dwight L. Moody and Ira Sankey.

J. B. Atchinson wrote the hymn to the poem and the music was composed by D. W. Excell who has turned out tunes for a long list of favorite church and Sunday School songs.

In his reminiscences of his soul winning crusades with Mr. Moody, Mr. Sankey told how the hymn, "Let The Savior In", won the heart of an English army officer as an evangelistic meeting in London. According to the anecdote, the officer — a retired colonel — attended a Moody and Sankey revival meeting in London, seeking spiritual peace. As he entered, to leave the gospel hall at t h e close of the evening service he was fascinated by a sweet voice singing "Let The Saviour In!" Later that night, the colonel boarded a train for a trip to a nearby town and as he sat there clicked along into the night he thought they struck up the rhythm of the magic hymn and its words and music kept running through his mind.

Returning to London, he sought out the girl with the gospel voice — and found her. Not long afterward the two were married, moved to America, and entertained Mr. Sankey in their Florida home when he returned to t h e States. And they did more! When they learned that Mr. Sankey was holding gospel meetings in a nearby town, they went over with him to attend the services and the colonel's wife sang "Let The Saviour In!" just as she had sung it on that night when it charmed her husband-to-be in London.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

St. Genesius the Comedian

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Monday, August 25 — This story is probably romantic fiction and not historic fact at all, but it is charming and worth repeating for only a little trouble that was popular in the early days of Christianity.

At least four different saints have been named as the hero of this story, but today is the feast of St. Genesius the Comedian, so we will tell it with him as the star.

In the beginning years of t h e fourth century the cruel Roman Emperor Diocletian was a violent enemy and persecutor of Christianity. One day to amuse the Emperor a group of actors made up an act that was supposed to be very, very funny: a burlesque of the Christian sacrament of baptism.

Everything was going along fine on the stage and the audience was in gales of laughter when all of a sudden the whole idea backfired. Genesius stopped his clowning and said in complete seriousness, "I desire to receive the grace of Jesus Christ and to be born again, and have my sins cleansed from my slate."

He then made a speech to the Emperor and all present, begging them to do as he was doing and to believe along with him. Diocletian, enraged, ordered Genesius beaten and then forced to sacrifice to the Roman gods. Of course the new convert refused to sacrifice. He was beheaded.

The lack of historical support for this legend is really not important. True or not, the story illustrates one great fact: that Christians in those days could not be taken lightly. There must have been countless occasions when those "who came to scoff remained to pray," and it is this recurring experience that is dramatized in the legend of St. Genesius the Comedian.

ANNE THE ANTINOMIAN

Saturday, August 30 — An antinomian is one who believes that because God is love, a person who believed that after one had been redeemed by the Lord Jesus he need no longer follow the moral law of the Old Testament, that is, the Ten Commandments. T h e term comes from two Greek words that mean "against t h e law." Antinomianism was not against the law in the sense of being illegal, but in the sense of opposing Old Testament regulations as a necessary part of the life of the converted Christian.

This is not really as unreasonable a proposition as it sounds. It does not mean that once converted a Christian can get away with anything and everything. Rather it means that the redeemed Christian will be in such a state of grace that rules will be unnecessary. He will live a holy life almost automatically, not because of laws but because God's indwelling presence is in his heart, guiding all his thoughts and actions.

At any rate, Anne Hutchinson, born on this day in 1591 was an antinomian, and she chose i t a worst possible place to hold and express such ideas: the Bay Colony of Massachusetts. The Puritans of that time and place were stern observers of the Mosaic Law. They had no sympathy with Anne's point of view. And they had more power than she did.

If they could not silence her they could banish her from the Colony, which is exactly what they did, in 1637.

Banishment in those days was a serious matter. America was a wild country, full of danger to anyone who was cut off from the protection of the group. Anne Hutchinson and her family lasted much longer than would normally be expected. They managed to reach a point near what is now Pelham Manor, New York, a n d farmed there until they were all massacred by Indians in 1643.

The scenic Hutchinson Parkway, which runs past Anne's farm, is named in her honor.

Recovering Our Lost Nerve

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We know what we mean when we say a person has lost his nerve. We mean he has lost t h e willingness to dare the difficult. He takes aim but he never shoots.

Sometimes this loss of nerve comes in a crisis, as in the case of Joseph Conrad's immortal character, "Lord Jim." T h e young officer, trained in the traditions of seamanship, threw honor aside when he joined the cowardly crew in abandoning his sinking ship before waking the passengers. The memories of that deed so ate into the morale of Lord Jim that the portrayal of them by Conrad has become a classic.

The reading of that story arouses questions which haunt the minds of us all. How would we feel if we had turned coward in such a crisis? How would we recover our lost nerve? Who or what could restore our self-respect?

Well, history bears record of one such restored nerve in the case of Peter, The disciple who deserted Jesus on the night of the betrayal and even denied connection with Him outside the high priests' court — that same disciple, Peter, was somehow transformed into the courageous leader of Christ's church.

Sometime within the fortnight following the crucifixion Peter caught something from the Christ which put nerve back into him. And what happened to Peter has been duplicated down the ages. Men running away from terrors have been turned about in their course and restored to courage.

LOST HIS NERVE

The more dangerous losing of nerve, however, does not come in crises, but by slow softening and subtle compromise. Lord Melbourne once gave the advice, "Do not try to do good and then you will not get into scrapes." When he said that, Lord Melbourne was revealing he had lost his nerve.

He might not have recognized his ailment for what it was, for we have such clever ways of rationalizing our lost nerve. We often call it being Practical or tactful or diplomatic. Thus we shrink into our protective shell of prudence when we should be stepping forth boldly to dare the right and resist the wrong.

But there is another sense in which nerve may be lost. We may lose our sensitivity of feeling as well as our courage in daring. When we no longer feel a twinge of conscience at evils that once would stir us; when we no longer are elevated by the joy of elevated thoughts, at sights that once would have thrilled us — then we should know we are losing our nerve. And the end of that process is the unpardonable sin, the sin against the Holy Spirit, which is the condition of becoming so callous that we no longer feel the price of conscience and, therefore, never turn in repentance.

Thus a lose our feeling of sin is worse than to lose our courage in correcting it. And who is to keep our conscience sensitive to wrongdoing? Of course, when we commit certain flagrant sins there are many to remind us.

If I become a drunkard, even the law may take me in hand. If I, in a burst of anger, strike my fellow man, he is likely to strike back, thereby making me conscious of my sin.

DANGEROUS AND DAMNING

But if I only refuse to help my fellow man who is in trouble, no one wakes me up by striking me. If I merely abstain from doing good, there often may be no one to remind me of my sins of omission. That is why these sins of omission, these shortcomings, are so dangerous and damning — in fact, it is these which do damn us according to Jesus' picture of the last judgment.

You remember His words, "Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these." Those were the words of dismissal into outer darkness.

Now when we have lost our nerve of courage and our nerve of feeling God comes to us as a quickening spirit — provided we will let Him really take hold of us. These are times which test our nerves. The tenseness of living "gets on our nerves," as we say. Nervous breakdowns are on the increase. Perhaps during t h i s period of America which is t h e general vacation season, many of us have gone away to quiet our nerves.

But let us hope our summer recreation has proven a true recreation, for these are days which try us for our nerve. God will send us nature may quiet our nerves. But we need the God of the Bible to quicken our nerve — the God who gives us courage to keep our feeling in crisis, who stirs us out of our smug complacency with medicine morality, who makes us sensitive to sin and suffering, who gives us confidence to face t h e future unashamed and unafraid.

First Woman Speaker in CNE History

TORONTO (CP) — The first woman in a directors' luncheon in the 80-year history of the Canadian National Exhibition said Friday: "This is the era of opportunity for women.

Mrs. A. K. Richardson, national president of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, spoke to mark the first sentive Women's Day at the exhibition. Previous women's days have been combined with music or arts.

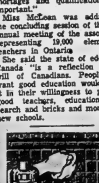
This is the first year since 1918 that women have attended one of the days directors' luncheons.

The only women previously admitted to the directors' luncheons were women members of the Royal Family, and seven women in 1918 who were the wives of sons in the First World War.

Mrs. Richardson said: "Women today live in an age of enlightenment in which our natural talents and abilities are recognized; but let us remember our womanhood and strive for those high ideals for which women have always been respected and revered."

She commented on the progress women have made in the arts professions, and education.

"Youth today must not only be given more opportunities of obtaining a higher education, but must be taught to deal effectively with the problem of moral leisure."



Teachers Have Been Talking Into Dead Mike

TORONTO (CP) — Teachers have been talking into a "dead microphone" about the shortage in their ranks for years, says the retiring president of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario.

They have been stressing the need for maintaining the highest possible qualifications for their profession, Miss Ruby McLeod said Thursday..."but it appears that a lot of people have only recently realized that teacher shortages and qualifications are important."

Miss McLean was addressing the concluding session of the 40th annual meeting of the association representing 19,000 elementary teachers in Ontario.

She said the state of education Canada "is a reflection of the will of Canadians. People who want good education would show it in their willingness to pay for good teachers, educational research and bricks and mortar for schools.

Weddings

BLEECHER — LESSARD

TWEED — St. Paul's Anglican Church, Flinton, was the scene of a pretty wedding recently when the Reverend I. E. Hawkes of Tweed, united in marriage Joan Kathleen, daughter of Mr. Wilfred L. Lessard of Flinton and the late Mrs. Lessard, to John Irvine Bleecher, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bleecher of Tweed. Mr. Hawkes was assisted by the Rev. D. Burns of Winona, a former rector of the Flinton church.

The altar was banked with vases and baskets of pink and white Shasta 'mums and vari-colored sweet peas, forming a beautiful floral setting for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautifully gowned in white embroidered nylon organza, designed with full-length bouffant skirt, with hemline matching the trimming on the petal-shaped overskirt. The sleeves were short-length complemented by matching organza mitts. An embroidered crown with seed pearls held the fingertip veil of tulle illusion in place. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Marion Lessard was her sister's maid-of-honour, and bridesmaids were Miss Marion Cox, of Belleville, and Miss Joan Bleecher of Belleville. Both were similarly attired in waltz-length gowns of pink embroidered nylon in a deep pink shade, fashioned with rounded necklines, short sleeves, and demibands, knotted in large decorative bows. Their floral bouquets of 'mums, matching back bows of material similar to the sashes, and headdresses completed the attire of the bridesmaids.

Mr. William Bleecher, of Perth, was his brother as groomsman, while ushers were, Mr. Robert Bleecher, brother of the groom, other brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Philip Webster, of Toronto.

* * *

Mrs. Arthur Carkner, of Lindsay, presided at the organ and accompanied her husband, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony and "Where'er You Walk" during the signing of the register.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception took place at the Hotel Quinte Motel in Tweed, where the bride's sister, Miss Marion Lessard, was assisted in receiving the 50 guests by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a navy dress with white accessories and corsage of pale blue orchids.

The bride's table was centred with the three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature vase of pink and white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, The Laurentians and New York, the bride chose a white linen sheath dress embroidered in pale blue, white accessories and corsage of pale blue butterfly orchids with a shoulder spray of 'mums. On their return the young couple took up residence in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Toronto; Kingston; Stratford; London; Frankford; Creigh; Belleville; Perth; Campbellford, and Fenelon Falls.

DION — FREEBURN

TWEED — Audrey May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jarmie Freeburn, of Flinton, became the bride of Leo Joseph Dion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dion, also of Flinton, at a recent Saturday morning ceremony in St. John's Church, Flinton. The Rev. J. A. Ferguson officiated before the altar which was enhanced with baskets of variegated gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the young bride was a lovely picture in a waltz-length gown of white lace and net. The finger-tip veil fell from a lace and pearl crown headdress, and she carried a white Bible circled with pink roses and stream-ers knotted with rosebuds.

Mrs. Jonas Rashotte of Tweed, matron of honour, was in shrimp colored waltz-length dress of crystalette with matching jacket of lace. She carried a nosegay of blue 'mums.

The wedding music, during the ceremony was played by Mrs. Arthur Carkner, while Mr. Arthur Carkner, the soloist, rendered two wedding hymns.

The groomsman was Mr. Jonas Rashotte, of Tweed, and the ushers were Bertram Dion and Arthur Freeburn.

A reception was held in Flinton town hall with the bride's mother receiving the guests in a navy dress with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses, assisted by Mrs. Dion, in a pale blue dress with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to eastern points, the bride donned a blue sheath with three-quarter length jacket, white accessories and corsage of red roses. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Dion took up residence in Oshawa.

NORTHEY — WOODS

TWEED—St. Mark's Anglican Church, Barrieffeld, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, July 26th when Miss Lloyd Nancy Woods became the bride of Mr. Dean Lorne Northey, Northbrook in a double-ring ceremony performed by the Reverend W. G. Hoos Swayze.

Local Artist Displays Art Exhibit at McCarthy Theatre

An interesting display of art by Belleville's young artist, Philippa Faulkner, is on display in the McCarthy Theatre, and will remain so for a week or more longer. A small cross-section of greater work appearing later this season in Toronto.

This display embodies sketches in water color, monochromee, and oils, showing local scenes around Belleville, and in Montreal and West Indies; each one depicting the artist's personal approach to color and form, light-hearted and deftly represented.

Among the local scenes, one below the railroad bridge showed the town clock reflected among the surrounding buildings, typifying a lazy afternoon's peaceful repose. The "Harvest at Gai Lake," represented a field of golden grain sheaves, on a sloping hillside, with lazily moving clouds across an autumn-blue sky, accented by tall pines.

The monochrome lithographs, represented an old time carriage, relic of bygone days, and a bull fight, caught at the psychological moment, when the matador is about to give the death thrust. The quivering arrows and the lowered head of the animal all suggest tenseness and suspense. Another lithograph, showed a lone little red color added in the matador's cloak which accents the occasion in the tragic strain of the moment is most evident.

CONTRASTING MARKETS

Two more startling and contrasting scenes were of Belleville market, and a Mexican market. Both were executed with subtle color appreciation with the vendor's wide, picturesque display, consisting of bunches of purple beets; the hamper of potatoes; the boxes of onions, and the reproduction of the vendor, herself, all typify the Belleville "Market as San Miguel" was not to be mistaken; its rich colorful display, and noted the colorful trends of those south of the border. Immediately in the scene is Mexico depicted the outside of the market buildings, and the type of architecture. The flower vendors were eye-catching with their bunches of flowers, and their spikes of most colorful flowers, as were the two seated "sewing" girls with pink and the other in shorts with striped T-shirt.

Painter's Park" showed the lower bridge, the City Hall spire, and backs of hotel and stores on the east side of the slow-moving Moira River.

A most striking black and white sketch depicted a "Pilgrimage" of priests bearing banners and flags, with the "Host" aloft, while others were surmounted by the Crucifix.

Each piece represented by a rich colorful statement of jugs backed by floral in rich effect, showing the artists' versatility in rich tones adn keen appreciation of perspective, this latter being exhibited in her murals which began with a close-up picture, gradually diminishing into a mural effect.

The "Beach at Provincetown" was refreshing with its blue waters, reclining figures on the sand, whelking gulls, and ships at anchor. One oil, entitled, "Canadian Woods," showed huge, windswept pines with dark green foliage, and brown-red carpet of pine needles with glimpse of dark, green waters, while the Club House at Barbados was rich in color with tropical foliage and trees. The little henhouse was a bright bit of country life with darker Minorca chickens against a background of rich greens and browns.

SUGGESTED MURALS

Suggested murals depicted the Quinte playground, with tent, turned up bell-tipped shoes, bell-winged hat, and diamond design tights. Here was a beaker and glass for refreshments, the whole backed by a gold and green fringed curtain against a green wall. Colorful and piquant.

Quite pretty was the bamboo canopy showing a stand of fruits, pineapple, and lemon, accented by glass goblets, backed by a water scene with sailing vessels. A pot of purple Alpine violets was shown in color beneath the eye level.

Spotlight of the exhibit was the Robinson Crusoe Hotel at the West Indies, with its flowers, palm meadows, tropical palms backed by a bit of blue sea and sandy beach.

Mrs. Faulkner is a graduate of the Ontario College of Art under Bishop Strachan Scholarship and Bishop Strachan awarded the senior art prize; later receiving from the Parsons School of Art in New York, her degree in design and advertising.

For three years she was affiliated with the display department of Simpson Company, and later, under the direction of Rene Cera and Jack Brooks, designed murals for the College Street store of the T. Eaton Company.

RENOWNED TEACHERS

She has also attended the Doon School of Art and studied with York Wilson, Frederick Varley, Carl Schaefer, Arthur Lismer, and Clare Bice as well as with the noted Swedish artist, Arthur Revera. Also the teachings of Hans Hofman, of New York and Provincetown, and Chaim Gross the foremost teachers of modern art greatly influenced her artistic trend.

One season was also spent painting in the West Indies, residenced by the Robinson Crusoe Hotel scene also in San Miguel, Mexico, where she attended the Institute Allende for the past two winters. Here she also exhibited with the Color and Form Society at Hart House, Toronto, and has had a two-man show at the London Art Gallery.

Beginning on September 19-29 Mrs. Faulkner is opening a one-man show at the Sporting Club, on Carlton Sreet Road, Toronto, where her work includes ceramic sculpture, and water colors, featuring oil paintings of Mexican and West Indian scenes.

Mr. and Mrs. William Keith Love are shown signing the register following their marriage in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, with the Reverend C. W. Coleman looking on. The bride is the former Miss Joanne Marshet Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Harry Moore, of Belleville, and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon W. Love, of Oshawa. (Photo by McCormick's Studio, Belleville.)

The bride was charming in her gown of Chantilly lace over silk having a fitted bodice with scalloped neckline and long, pointed sleeves. The full skirt in floor-length was appliqued with flowers of Chantilly lace. Mrs. Kathleen Wilson, of Belleville, was matron of honor, attired in waltz-length blue lace with white cummerbund, white gloves and carrying semi-cascade bouquet of blue and white carnations. She wore a matching blue headdress.

Planning Travel by Plane? Learn Etiquette of Flying

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Maybe you don't eat peas with your knife at home or put your pet on your host's antique sofa, but the etiquet of flying may present some unfamiliar problems by comparison.

A group of 40 or 50 persons in an airliner represents a kind of captive audience to your manners. They can't move to avoid you or get off at the next station if you offend them. They've got to put up with you until they get where they're going — or you do. You're really on your best behavior, to say the least, under circumstances, so bear in mind these tips:

On most planes seats are not reserved and are occupied on a first come, first seated basis. Winning seats and those in the rear of the plane are considered the premium ones by most travelers, and sometimes there is a rush from the gate to the plane a n d the slide.

If a choice seat matters to you, be in the waiting room close to the gate early and avoid the unseemly running, elbowing and jockeying for position that sometimes develop.

Never put your bags or coat on the seat next to you, even if you know the plane will not be full. Simply because most other seats available does not entitle you to litter it up. Another passenger shall sit in one of them instead of the one next to you if he so chooses.

Your bag goes in the luggage rack at the plane's entrance, if there is one, otherwise under your seat or on the floor. Coats will be hung in the plane's wardrobe by the stewardess as a matter of course, but ask only as soon as she can get around to it.

Don't make yourself comfortable at once by blocking the aisle with your top coat trying to get your hanger hooked properly, trying to get sealed and the girls are trying to help them.

SOME TIPS

Making the stewardesses' work — and they do work — easier is one of the big ones. Be as kindest things you can do. You can co-operate by:

1) Not hitting the call button for such things as pillows or the magazine, which you can get yourself, or to ask when dinner or coffee will be served. They will be, in due time.

2) Not trying to get in your answer tray yourself. The girls serve and pick up the trays according to the passrilled rules and you only get in their way and make more work by trying to help yourself.

3) Fastening your seat belt and putting out your cigaret when the sign says so to save the girls the trouble of asking you to do so. They try to smoke a forbidden cigar or ineffective in slowing traffic, pipe, which will also require an admonition on their parts as well as causing fellow passengers discomfort.

4) Not trying to visit the cockpit. It's against the rules and they'll have to tell you so.

The problem of whether to converse with the passenger next to you is a purely individual one. The captive audience principle again applies, privacy is at a premium in a plane cabin, your attempts at being friendly should be tentative. If your seatmate is not interested, he'll answer with a grunt, pretend to sleep, or otherwise make it apparent. Take the hint.

Two things there aren't enough of on airliners are leavities and the more popular magazines. Both are first come, first served facilities which means that you should be as well as possible with both. Never take more than one magazine at a time and replace it in the rack when you've read it. And never take one into the cockpit with you way might at home.

SEAT DISROBE

Many passengers remove jackets while traveling, but except on very long flights, the art of disrobing ought to be drawn there, Slinky feminine attire is good or otherwise, your feet belong on the floor, not on the walls, seat or the armrests of the seat in front.

Because of the-relative cramping and uncomfortable seating of coach planes, some of these rules are relaxed on them, especially as to the atmosphere of a family circle picnic. Thus, while it is nice to have your lunch aboard a first class flight, it's rarely acceptable on coach ones.

In the airport limousine, no one likes to sit in the middle of a honeymoon car seat. If you're the second one aboard and a third passenger comes along, the thing to do is take your licking and move in, not — as we've s e e n — get out and expect the latecomer to settle for the squeeze play.

Manners also apply at the ticket counter. Avoid delaying other passengers by getting your ticket squared away before y o u come to the airport. And there's a mixup in your reservation, ask to talk to the chief agent instead of arguing at length with the clerk. It's not his fault and all he can accomplish is holding up the line.

While the chemise and the trapeze lines have made inroads in summer sports and casual wear there are plenty of entries in the full-skirted division of fashion — and plenty of admirers of this most feminine line, too. At Italian beaches this summer, you would see styles like this fun-in-the-sun number by Bertoli of Milan. The full-skirted, halter-necked beauty is of sunny yellow cotton with a precise corn-flower print and matching blue piping. The yellow and blue combination is an inviting color scheme, too rarely encountered.

SPECIAL QUESTIONS ABOUT FLOWER GIRL AND RING BEARER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. My sister is to be married soon. The wedding party will consist of: matron of honor; t w o bridesmaids; flower girl, bride's niece; ring bearer, bride's nephew; best man; two ushers. Please tell us the order of t h e Processional, particularly as to the flower girl and ring bearer.

2. Where does the ring bearer stand when he is at the front of the church?

3. Do the best man and the matron of honor take the rings off the cushion and hand them to the minister? — M.

1. Processional: first, the two ushers, together; next, the two bridesmaids, together; and next, the matron of honor, alone. When there is both a flower girl and a ring bearer, the flower girl usually walks after the maid of honor, the ring bearer following her, directly in front of the bride and her father or whoever is to escort her up the aisle. However, sometimes this order is reversed, and sometimes the flower girl and ring bearer walk together. At the wedding rehearsal the minister who is to perform the ceremony will give directions about this.

2. Usually it is considered better (and safer) that the flower girl and the ring bearer, very young children, should not stand with the other attendants during the ceremony. And very often they do not take part in the Recessional. But if the ring bear er is to stand with the other attendants during the ceremony . . . and of course this will be the plan if he is carrying the actual rings on the pillow . . . then he stands to the right of the best man.

3. If the ring bearer carries the "real" rings on the cushion . . . very often, and practically, t h e rings on the cushion aren't the real ones, these being carried by the best man safe in his pocket . . . it is more convenient and less confusing procedure, I think, for the best man to take both rings from the cushion and hand them to the minister.

Question: I expect that housewives all over . . . will be leaping to your defence — extravagance is the last word to be applied to your enchanting and practical cooking column. Indeed, eating would have been much duller during the somewhat lean years of my husband's doctorate without your ingenious variations on the twin themes of Ground Beef and Less Expensive Cuts. Not that we've stopped using them, either. Have you a recipe for French bread — the long, crusty kind? Your recipe for Croissants has led me into a lot of work — but they're worth it. Incidentally, they turn out very well substituting margarine for butter, though they have a tendency to brown too quickly. I enclose a couple of old family recipes which might be useful . . . Betty C.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING

(Courtesy Betty C.) Three-quarters cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 3 eggs. Mix dry ingredients beat eggs and stir in. Add 1 cup vinegar (white or cider) and cook over slow fire till thick. When serving dilute to desired thickness with cream or milk.

AUNT OLIVIA'S SHORTBREAD

(Courtesy Betty C.) One cup each lard, butter, soft, not melted, 4 cups flour (or more), 1 cup fruit sugar. Put lard and butter on bake board and mix in flour with hands, then sugar. Roll and cut, and bake on buttered pans in a moderate oven. This is an unusually nice shortbread, and very easy.

Answer: Thanks for the recipes and for rallying to my defence — although I think the criticism was intended constructively.

FRENCH BREAD (1 loaf)

One cup lukewarm water 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1 package granular yeast, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 tablespoon soft shortening, 3 1-2 to 3 3-4 cups sifted bread flour. To 1-2 cup of the lukewarm water, add the sugar and sprinkle yeast over and let stand 10 minutes then stir. In mixing bowl put remaining 1-2 cup lukewarm water, salt and shortening. When yeast is ready add it and half of the flour and stir well with spoon. Add remaining flour—enough to make a heavy stiff dough. Turn out on floured board and knead until it squeaks and is very smooth. Return to bowl, grease top; let rise until doubled. This heavy dough must have maximum rising time. Punch down, knead again. Let rise again. Roll into 12" x 10" oblong. Roll up tightly toward you beginning with wide side. Seal edges by pinching together. With a hand on each end, roll gently back and forth to lengthen loaf and taper ends. Place it diagonally on lightly greased corn-meal-sprinkled baking sheet. Make 1-4" slashes in dough at 2" intervals, or 3 slash lengthwise. Brush top with cold water. Let stand uncovered about 1 1-2 hours at room temperature. Brush again. Bake 10 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr. Remove from oven and brush again. Sprinkle with sesame or poppyseeds. Continue baking 15 to 20 minutes until golden brown.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Elsie R. — I don't want to repeat the mistake.

Bob G. — I don't want her to deceive my friend.

Elsie R. —I am engaged to be married in two months. My best friend had to go to another part of the country in connection with a job-training program and I stayed home with my parents to wait for his return.

His friend took me out several times, and I appreciated his attentiveness. We forgot ourselves one night in his apartment, but I resisted all his efforts to repeat the occasion. Even though I slipped once, I do not want to be promiscuous and unfaithful to Ed.

Now his friend, evidently bitter at me because I will not continue the relationship with him, insists I am no good and I have no right to marry my boy friend. He threatens to tell about the illicit incident in order to prevent the marriage, but he still keeps calling me, asking me to go out with him and making demands on me. I am at a loss as to how to deal with this situation.

Bob G. — I want to break up this marriage before it takes place because I do not want my friend hurt. The night Elsie stayed with me was no accident. I contrived it because I suspected Elsie could not be faithful, and I proved my point.

I would have no further interest in Elsie if she did not insist that she still intends to go ahead with the marriage. I do not want her to deceive my friend.

The last thing in the world I want to do is to tell Ed that I had an affair with his girl, and I would not tell him anything about it if she would agree in break off with him. I feel she is being brazen because she thinks I am bluffing. In a way I am, but I may be forced to make good on my bluff.

I am convinced that if Elsie thought I just wanted to play around with her some more, she would have no scruples about going ahead with me.

The Council: Elsie has certainly gotten herself involved with a queer character.

Bob has enough things wrong with him for him to be far more concerned about himself than his friend.

He is obviously badly upset because Elsie puts her purple evening with him in the category of a dumb mistake. He would prefer that she attach more importance to his role in her life.

In addition to his extreme egotism, Bob suffers from a highly overdeveloped strain of hypocrisy. He cannot give up the pose of sacrificing his morals to save his friend from a bad marriage. We wonder how this do-gooder would feel if he knew someone else were obliging him in a similar manner.

Elsie has been too wishy-washy in her handling of this extremely difficult and mixed-up character. She must tell him off very plainly and refuse to talk to him further. She would be running a risk, but she has no alternative.

Elsie has made a stupid mistake and is now forced to take a bold risk. There is no way for her but to throw this man out of her life for good.

NO SKATES PLEASE!

Belleville McFarlands' hockey team will get together this coming Tuesday night in Trenton, but the players are asked to please leave their skates at home.

The occasion will be a softball exhibition against Charlie Drake's smart young junior "A" club, which is at the present time engaged in an OASA playdown series against Oshawa Cleaners.

Drake contacted "Bep" Guidolin, seeking an exhibition tilt to keep his charges in shape and perhaps to take in a little of that cool green stuff at the gate.

The visiting team will be composed strictly of hockey players and all, with the exception of NHL'er Bobby Hull, will be from the McFarland lineup.

Members of the Bobcats who will participate, include Guidolin, Hull, Don Barclay, Floyd Crawford and "Wiener" Brewa. Keith MacDonald will take the short hop over from Picton while Dave Jones from the Point Anne Cementeers is also expected to be out, as is Gerry Goyer. Goyer has been playing both baseball and softball in Picton.

Guidolin also has Eddie Marineau, Moe Benoit, Gordie Bell, Jean-Paul Fayette and Lionel Boitey of the Maes to fill out the squad.

If by any chance the game cannot be played on Tuesday because of rain or other commitments, it will be played the following night.

It should be interesting to watch the Maes in action without their skates. And the Juniors would like nothing better than to trim the same fellows they cheer for all winter. Game time is 8.15 p.m.

FOREST RANGERS BUSY

The fire danger rating stayed in the high range in Ontario this past week, when sixteen new forest fires were reported and controlled with fire fighters still patrolling three fires which occurred the previous week.

Twelve of these fires were caused by lightning and four by careless smokers and campers, according to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. All these fires were spotted soon after starting and brought under control before any extensive damage was done.

Coverage by fire lookout towers at strategic points throughout the district and radio communication between towers and Ranger headquarters, together with aircraft fire detection patrols following thunderstorms, and good visibility much of the time brought all the forested areas under constant observation and made it possible for ground crews to reach fires in time to prevent any serious fire outbreaks.

The men who keep a watchful eye over our forests are doing their job well. We can do our part by cooperating to the fullest extent, making sure all camp fires are extinguished and all cigaret butts are dead.

LIGHTER VEIN

Here's one passed along by the Rotary Club which may tickle your ribs: A doctor gave a patient a prescription, made out in the illegible handwriting associated with doctors, lawyers and ministers. The patient apparently recovered without having the prescription filled, but he did make good use of it. He used it for two years as a railway pass, twice it got him into Radio City Music Hall, and once into Ebbets Field for a ball game. It came in handy as a letter of introduction to the cashier to increase his salary. And to cap the climax his daughter played it on the piano and won a scholarship to a conservatory of music.

Jay Hebert Holds 2-Stroke Lead Before Last Round

EDMONTON (CP)—The jet-propelled wreckers got their last chances in the Canadian open golf championship today with at least a dozen professionals, including two Canadians, within striking distance of easy-going Florida French-man who took the third-round lead.

The blistering pace that marked the first two rounds of the 72-hole $25,000 tournament continued in the third round Friday as two players equalled the course record of 64 and two more including leader Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla.—came in with 69 over the Mayfair Golf Club's plush 6,657-yard par-70 course.

Hebert, 35, came from two strokes off the pace to take a two-stroke lead with his five-under-par 65. His 54-hole total was 198.

Two strokes behind at 201 were Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., who fired a 68 Friday; Wes Ellis, Jr. of Ridgewood, N.J., who carded the course's only 66; and Bob Goetz of Tulsa, Okla., who shot a 69.

FUTTEE COOLS

Goetz Thursday had shared the second - round lead with Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., but Sanders' putter failed Friday and brought him in with 71 for 203 total at the three-quarter mark.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, 46-year-old pro who was a previous tournament favorite, and Toronto's Lanky Al Balding were three strokes back at 204. Both with 203 totals after Leonard had 69 and Balding 67 Friday.

Four others had 203 going into the final round, three had 204 and four had 205.

Husky Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla., and two who was a previous tournament favorite, and Toronto's Lanky Al Balding were three strokes back at 204. Both with 203 totals after Leonard had 69 and Balding 67 Friday.

Four others had 203 going into the final round, three had 204 and four had 205.

Husky Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla., and two who was a previous four-time defending Open champion from Lemont, Ill., equalled the course record of 64 as they turned in the tournament's hottest rounds. The scorching pace record was set seven years ago by Leonard.

BAR SHATTERED

The red hot pace now has seen golf subpar records in three days—a statistic unequalled in the pro's 40 years.

Hebert moved two eagles and two birdies in posting his best-winning 66, dropping a 15-foot putt for an eagle on the fifth and sinking an eight-footer for another on 12th.

Ford's putter was hot — he needed only 28 putts in his record-equalling round—and he said it was "the best putting I've ever done."

The cut-off score was 318, letting in the low amateur, Lou Graham, amateur, led by Doug Silverberg of Calgary, who had rounds of 69—72—141.

Moe Norman of Toronto turned in a 70 for a 211 total.

Stan Saluk of Fort William with a 76 and 9 total of 224—four higher than the cut-off mark. Sandy Middleton of Port Arthur, who had 132 for 36 holes, with-

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP)—It has been a family affair—design and driving named Lee Henley, but a Toronto horse, owned by Doug sunshine, for a 10-year-old gelding the clouds Friday night.

Winless at Toronto Island's Old Woodbine park this year, the gelding, owned by Frank Hilborne of Orangeville and driven by Jim Somerville, came down in front in the 10th race and eventually turned a handsome $21.90.

The $4,000 Sand Turn Consolation Derby, owned by Mrs. S. Williams of Southwold, Ont., and driven by Floyd Johnston, came up with a broken wheel during the first heat.

That didn't detract from Lee Henley's victory however. The gelding won the best mile of the season to win by 1¼ lengths over Dodger Hanover, owned by Doug-ald Mackay of Parkhill, Ont., and driven by Gordon Bennett.

OTTAWA (CP)—It was long odds and a Saturday night Friday night as three winners paid $20 or better backers.

Trappers Need $55,000 to Run Team

NORTH BAY (CP)—The fate of North Bay Trappers of the OHA - NOHL Senior A Hockey League hangs on a plan to sell at least 1,200 subscriber seats within the next two weeks.

Manager Pete Palangio says a budget of about $55,000 will be needed to operate the club next season and unless the seats are sold game games must average 2,000.

The average last year was far below 2,000.

Palangio said $35,000 was used up in salaries alone last season but these have been cut, along with player rosters, in an effort to avoid financial setback.

Detroit Raiders Could Make or Break ORFU

KITCHENER (CP)—A United States football team holds the figure of Canada's oldest football league in its hands as the Ontario Rugby Football Union opens its 1958 season with games Saturday in Waterloo and Sarnia.

Detroit Raiders, who have replaced Toronto Balmy Beach as the fourth team in the circuit, can make or break the league by their showing in six games this season.

The Raiders, a late entry, will play all their league games on the road because of inability to get home dates this year. They will be four-point affairs.

MEET SARNIA

The U.S. team takes on Sarnia Golden Bears in their first game and in the other opener London Lords clash with the champion Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

Coached by Gus Cefelli, a former National League star with Detroit Lions and prior to his big name Notre Dame, the Raiders have every confidence that they can make a success of their entry into U.S. Canadian football.

Cefelli said the league be-comes a four-team race again, something it hasn't been for the past couple of seasons with the Beaches a weak sister, its future uncertain and used as interlocking national circuit.

Buffalo is planning a 1959 entry, and several other U.S. centres have sent out feelers about franchises.

There will be one game in Detroit in the season's schedule to that community. It is an exhibition at University of Detroit stadium Sept. 6 and will be Hall-ers and Kitchener - Waterloo, league champions the last four years.

WIDE OPEN RACE

On pre - season indications it should be a wide-open race with Sarnia likely to be the most improved team in the league. Sarnia as the new coach the Bears have been strengthened all through their lineup.

London, which has a new coach in Lou Kusiak, all three Canadian teams, will be piloted by former Argo star Bill Bewley. Lords are counting former Beach quarterback Vince Drake, a Fordham product, to lead the attack as a run by Jerry Thompkins, cut by Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four.

In the Dutchmen camp former fullback Royal Bailey is hoped to succeed Harvey Johnson, the winning mentor of 1954-57 inclusive.

Dutchies with only 18 holdovers, have had one biggest rebuilding job but they have been able to retain their biggest asset, quarterback Bob Cefeli.

Detroit's entry is almost unknown although most of the players have college experience and a number of them are former Argo stars. They may have the biggest line in the loop. One of their guards, Bernie Love, ups the scales at 290 pounds.

Turner Uses His Weight to Trim Stefan Redl

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight contender Gil Turner of Philadelphia used his weight and already body -attack Friday night to rack up a unanimous 10-round decision over Stefan Redl of Passaic, N.J., at Madison Square Garden. Turner weighed 151½ to Redl's 147.

The 27-year-old Turner, ranked No. 8 contender, finished strongly against his comparatively inexperienced 25-year-old rival. He swept the last two rounds on his body belting and that proved the difference.

Turner had agreed to make 150 pounds, give or take one,, but showed up at the weigh-in scaling 151½. He tried to take off the half pound but could sweat away only one quarter of a pound. Redl, however, agreed to meet him anyway. The quarter-pound fine Turner's automatic 30-day suspension for being overweight.

Kalmikoffs Take Main Bout Win Over Stan and Reggie Lisowski

BY GAREY ALEXANDER

Stan and Reggie Lisowski may yet be Canadian Open Tag-team champions but they found a pair that a little bit better at Memorial Arena last night in a four-man team contest with the ring ropes missing.

The bearded Russians, Karol and Ivan Kalmikoff, poked, punched and pile,' their way to a victory over the Lisowski brothers in the first and third falls, much to the joy of the fans.

Undecided who was supposed to be the "good guys, the fans soon discovered the team could be as nasty and mean as the other. Maybe it was the Lisowski neer or perhaps because Stan and Reggie outweighed the Kalmikoffs, but anyway Ivan and Karol drew what few cheers there were.

The Lisowski boys did not like matters on ever terms so as soon as ref Joe Golding tore bout under way they went about getting rid of one Kalmikoff at a time. They teamed on cut of the ring and went to work on Ivan, anyway Ivan as tuskie came back fighting, so they tied the other one up in the ropes and concentrated on what was left.

After about five minutes of such goings on Ivan and Karol turned the tables. They were joined and Stan was shortly down in one corner, flattened by a flying tackle from Ivan and pnd plied atop him to cop the fall.

EYE-SCRAMBLE

The second fall was a mad four minutes in which Stan went with the four wrestlers chasing each other all over the ring with Joe Golding announced Stanley kneed drunkard in a wind storm. Nachtsheim Ivan supplied a few well-placed knees as Karol and Ivan came off the ropes, tossed one of the bears- with victims out of the ring and returned the two-on-one-pile to even matters at a draw.

During a short and sweet final four minutes the Russian team, punched and groaned the Lisowskis to the mat and never gave them a chance to recover, working their boots to the best advantage. Both sides got in some tingling blows but the match finally ended much the same as the other two falls, in a pile up.

This one would have to be classed as a "Draywood." It started with a limp Lisowski on the bottom, followed by a Kalmikoff, another Lisowski and on top of it all a Kalmikoff. Side order Joe Golding banged a quick three against the man on the bottom and hoisted the Kalmikoff arms in sign of victory.

LAYTON WINS

In another good semi-final Cyril Layton tangled his long legs with those of Big Bob Nachtsheim around the ring and cleaned up with a reverse shoulder stand in 9:30 flat. In a battle of fast action, this one saw former boxer Layton use his temper and floor Grim with a series of jabs and upper cuts. He stayed down for the required three count but got up to give Layton a rough time anyway.

Tarzan Tourville won over another real nasty critter by the name of Karl Stiffl, using a couple of drop kicks and a body press in 17 minutes.

It was announced that Gene Kiniski will meet popular Terrible Terry Funk in next week's main event. The Brunetti Brothers Joe and Guy will return to the Friendly Confines to meet Henning and Tiger Tasker, while Tarzan Tourville clashes with Leo Garibaldi.

Not Decided on Minneapolis Says President of Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calvin Griffith, president of Washington baseball Senators, has not yet decided whether to seek permission to transfer his baseball team to Minneapolis.

Griffith Friday denied reports he already had reached a decision to that he already had determined on tre move.

"I have no provocation for such an outright statement, Griffith said.

Pressed for a clue of what he does intend to do, Griffith declared:

"I have not made up my mind about what I will do."

The fact he hasn't reached a final decision would appear to be needful evidence of landing the Senators.

Griffith and his board voted down a Minneapolis bid for the franchise last year, but Calvin Griffith says he is working on plans to enlarge its new stadium from a capacity of 27,000 to 41,000 in the belief a big league occupant is available.

Cleveland Indians also have held out the possibility they would look for a new location, perhaps Minneapolis.

Lagging attendance has prompted both the Washington and Cleveland front offices to reappraise their situations.

Predictions that the Senators were about to move have been intensified earlier Friday with the unexpected announcement that secretary John E. Powell and treasurer C. F. Jacobsen had resigned from the club.

Jacobsen said he wanted to give Griffith a free hand and added he would not be a party to shifting the franchise which has been in Washington since the American League acquired full-fledged status as a major one in 1901.

Preston Man First Canadian To Win Title

VANDALIA, Ohio (CP)—A 68-year-old foundry superintendent from Preston, Ont., who "had no idea of winning," Friday night became the first Canadian ever to win the Grand American trapshooting handicap, the sport's greatest honor.

Emerson Clark, shaky veteran of more than 40 years of trapshooting, won the title and about $4,000 when he defeated Jim Gering, Neb., 25-20 in a shootoff after they tied at 96 of 100 in the most exhaustive finish the "roughing grand" has seen in its 59-year history.

Clark, who said "I just came down for a holiday and it was just my day," got his chance on the top prize when Robert V. Noble, 16-year-old high school star from Lewiston, Ill., was disqualified after registering only perfect scores in a huge field of 2,314.

While the boy was telephoning his father in Lewiston to tell him he had won, officials barred him from the prize because he had paid only the $7.50 entry fee which entitled him to shoot for targets. Under the rules for the championship, he must have paid the fee the $2-yard line. Nolan shot from the 19. The total entry for the purses and options was $61.

SPECIAL TROPHY

But the U.S. Amateur Trapshooting Association plans to give him a special "high gun" trophy in recognition of his feat.

Clark, a member and former president of the Hamilton Gun Club, played all the options and lost. Gering, who finished in a shootoff after they tied at 96 of 100.

Mrs. Oliver McAteer of St. Thomas scored 79 from 18 yards. Clark, who has a lifetime average of about 85 on handicap targets, won the shoot-off Friday's score, has been shooting since he was 12 or 14, his daughter Agnes said.

Mr. Clark lives at Preston with his daughter, a sister, a retired laundry superintendent with the Canadian Blower and Forge Company in nearby Kitchener.

Born in Galt, he moved to Preston about 50 years ago. He is a member of the Brantford Gun Club and the Waterloo Wingfield Fish and Game Association.

HANDGUN CHAMPION

MOSCOW (AP)—A U.S. Marine captain from Turtle Creek, Pa., won the world hand gun championship Friday, Capt. William W. Wilson, 30, of Pittsburgh, at San Diego, Calif., matched shots with Konstantin Ira's Vladimir Kudrna in a shootoff of their tie score Thursday for first place. Capt. McMillan won with a score of 296 out of 300 in rapid fire.

A Salt Water Fishing Licence

Human nature, being what it is, seems to do strange things to some people. The history of o u r country, conservationwise, is replete with case after case of selfish interest versus public good, the latter always emerging battered the small end of the stick.

Then was a time when our forests literally covered with forests. Then came the woodsman's axe, the lumber mills, steam-driven machinery and, more recently, the bulldozer. The result — denuded watersheds, forever ruined rabbit, dust bowls and ruined streams and rivers. Wildlife, finding itself without natural habitat, had no choice but to dwindle in numbers and, in some cases, vanish entirely.

Gradually we are learning, but we learn slowly. Our watersheds, fishing, having gone through the painful throes of over-regulation, has been energetically and generalized — fishing status" which, as long ago, makes a great deal of sense. Under-fishing, they have found, does as much harm to fishing as does over-fishing.

But there is one outstanding gap in the over-all conservation picture which stands out rather glaringly in what we like to regard as a well-regulated fishing. That is the great majority of our seaboard states, any sport fisherman can go into salt water, fish to his heart's content and, regardless of season, bring back to dock just as many fish as he or she c a n catch. Species does not enter the picture, The sky is the limit for the sport-fisherman.

FISH "PURSED OUT"

The waters of the seven seas cover about 140 million square miles of the earth's surface as against 57 million that is occupied by land. It seems unlikely t h a t we shall ever see a time when it will possibly become "fished out." Yet, believe it or not, that is exactly what is happening.

Surely, there is little point in having our fisheries research and regulatory laws to control the taking of fish in our territorial waters unless they are sure of the freedom of such laws. We, went through all that sort of nonsense in the enactment and repeal of our game and fresh-water fish laws.

Obviously, the only way to go about the intelligent management of salt-water fish is through research. At the present time, we know little or nothing of the spawning habits of most salt-water species. Equally important data, it is manifestly impossible to arrive even at an approximation of population numbers of any such species.

Trained biologists, the only men who are qualified to do such work, must be paid. Research equipment is expensive stuff, but it must be bought. Men worthwhile and specially equipped for the job, cost many thousands of dollars. Research projects costs money and that money must be found somewhere before adequate work can be done.

Despite this crying need for additional funds, the anglers of the coastal states raise an awful fuss even at the suggestion of a salt-water fishing licence. They expect, I suppose, to have their cake and eat it too. That is difficult to do.

POSSIBLE SOLUTION

Collier's has arrived at what may be the solution. S o m e one suggested that licences be introduced to the coastal waters of California. At first these fish ing liscif ersbould be limited in number and their stocking and management was experimental. So they instituted a striped-bass licence.

Now, the striper having taken hold and multiplied satisfactorily, California has a salt-water fishing licence. It costs three dollars, an extra dollar, the angler can get a "sport-fishing licence" which gives him the right fi fish either in fresh or salt water. The system has worked quite well and it brings much-needed funds into the conservation treasury.

What applies in California may not be practical in other states, but the idea is sound. For federal funds, it might be practical to use the same system as now a applies to duck shooting — the migratory-bird stamp.

This may as well face facts — the days of free fishing, depending upon nature's bounty alone, are over. We who like the outdoor sports should be willing to pay for the fun. If, through the expenditure of a few extra dollars, I can be assured of better fishing in 1 h e years to come, I am more heartily in favor of the salt-water licence.

TV NOTEBOOK

by John Wetlaufer

Now and then we are asked why the focus seems to be better, sharper and more distinct, on small screen sets than it does on the larger ones.

Basically, the reason is this: A TV picture is made up of horizontal scanning lines and regardless of screen size—large or small — the number of lines is the same. Therefore, on smaller screens, the lines are closer together with the result that the picture appears sharper than a like picture on a larger screen.

However, inasmuch as the average viewer instinctively sits farther away from a large screen set, the difference becomes less appreciable.

On the subject of sharpness—unless a set is kept in good repair you can't expect to enjoy the quality picture your set is capable of producing. That's where CIRCLE TV SERVICE comes in — our repair service is tops. Try CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St., for 100% satisfaction. Phone WO 5-5791; in Trenton phone Zenith 6-3800.

Son of Famous Emcee Makes Good on Own Television Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If there's a busier 39-year-old this summer than Jack Linkletter, I'd be surprised.

Jack, son of man-about-TV Art Linkletter, is making a splurge of his own this summer, heading up the quiz show named Haggis Baggis.

Plus which, Papa Art went fishing in New Mexico and Jack ventured here from New York to take over a week of the daytime House Party show.

The Haggis Baggis show has been renewed for the fall. Jack will do it from Hollywood then, meanwhile finishing up his last year at the University of Southern California. All this, and he's married and expecting a family addition here November.

Jack is a realistic fellow who knows when he's going.

"I like the emcee business and I want to stay with it," he said. "It's stimulating work, and I think I'm getting good training for it. I've my own radio show at 15. I've appeared on the House Party once a week and taken over for Art when he goes on vacation.

"This summer I had the amazing fortune to have my choice of five different shows. The reason was that quiz shows flooded the networks, and emcees were in demand.

"I'm happy for the opportunity, but I think it's a mistake to put so many quiz shows on in the summer. All the new ones are sustaining, and that creates a problem. Without a sponsor, you have to promote merchandise to give away to contestants. That means you've got to give a one-minute plug for each item, and your show gets cluttered up.

"But there's one good thing about the flood of quiz shows: at least they're live. The rest of the network time is filled with reruns."

Jack has had the benefit of his father's 10-year experience in the emcee dodge. Ever since Jack started in the business, Art has been giving the lad critiques on his performances.

"Dad was in Hawaii when I started Haggis Baggis, Jack said. "I sent him a kinescope and he sent me back comments. Such as sitting in a corner and saying 'good' 100 times! I had dropped the G. And using 'wonderful' too many times.

"But I think he approved. If he hadn't he would have caught the first plane back from Hawaii."

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. O. R. LaFontaine of Cobourg, spent a few days last week visiting his mother, Mrs. M. LaFontaine, of North Victoria St. She has not been in the best of health.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rivers of Malden St., on the birth of a daughter on August 15 at the Belleville General Hospital. Weight 7 lbs. 6 oz. A sister for Karen.

Mr. Wesley Gardiner is still hospitalized after being badly bruised and shaken up in a mishap when a tree caved in on him. River Street last week. His condition is unchanged and he will remain in hospital for a while yet as he is under observation.

Visiting recently with Mr. and Mrs. S. B. McGee were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McGee and Nancy of Toronto.

Mrs. (Rev.) L. E. Hawks spent a few days last week in Toronto.

Mr. Simon Bowley who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital since last week is somewhat improved but must remain in hospital for some time yet.

Mr. Napoleon Langevin, who was taken to the Belleville General Hospital with a heart attack last Tuesday, is still a patient there. Although he is a little improved he will be required to stay for some weeks yet.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCreary and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCreary, Belleville, spent the weekend with Mrs. Arthur McCreary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sloss of Medford St.

Mrs. M. LaFontaine was taken to the Belleville General Hospital by ambulance on Sunday afternoon, where she is quite ill. Her son-in-law, Mr. Colleen, has been staying by her mother's bedside since a nurse is not available.

A recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Millard was Mrs. Gladys Coulter, of Caledonia, Ont.

Miss Trudy Silverthorne, proprietress of the Town and Country Shoppe, Picton, has returned from enjoying a week's holidays and Mrs. Silverthorne while in the Town and Country staff and her daughter Miss Judy Jett, on vacation with relatives in Cochrane, Ont.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Coughlin, Bridge St., were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pickerngill of Scarsdale-Twelfth-Line) came to his rescue.

IMPROPER QUESTION

"I think that is a highly improper question. Mr. Cloutier is being asked to comment on opinion about law. He is not a lawyer."

Mr. Cloutier readily agreed that he had written the letter expressing satisfaction that the $16,200,000 plant had been set up to provide a maximum of efficiency at a minimum of effort. He had written it at the request of Mr. Cormier and had visited him two days ago at homes of their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Champagne and Mr. and Mrs. F. Manion of Tweed.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacDonell on the recent birth of a 7 lbs. 4 oz. daughter, Donna Marie, in Deseronto. Mrs. MacDonell is the former Theresa Cassidy, of Tweed.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of Mr. Clifford Harman, Foxboro (his home) on Monday, Aug. 18. Mr. and Mrs. John Peck, of Moira St., left on Thursday for Toronto for a few days' holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Quinn spent last Monday in Waterown, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lalonde of Tronto, visited over the week-end with the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Lalonde of North Victoria Street, Tweed. On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Lalonde and Mr. and Mrs. John Lalonde spent the day in Flinton visiting friends and relatives, including Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Vanch and family.

Mr. Jack Mercer has been in patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital for the past two weeks and is still under observation. Many numerous friends hope he will soon be well and be able to be home again.

Mrs. Gerald Ingles and sons spent the week visiting with her mother's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Loyst at Arden.

The Rev. Boyle of the Jesuit Order, who is on the staff of Campion College, Regina, said the morning masses at St. Catharine's Church last Sunday in the absence of the parish priest, Father Murphy, who is at present on holidays.

Father Boyle is taking a summer course at Regiopolis College, Kingston.

Montreal to get some figures straightened out on construction costs.

"You were discussing the matters which are being discussed here?" asked John Drysdale (of Dundas-Richmond).

Mr. Cloutier said he had. The reason was he wanted to check on figures involved in changes he had ordered in construction. These changes had amounted to $210,000. The figures by themselves didn't mean anything to him.

WRITTEN ON REQUEST

Mr. Cloutier said Mr. Cormier had requested the letter on Mr. Cloutier's views some time ago. John Campbell (PC-Stormont) said:

Despite the fact that you knew that on that day this matter was under investigation by a parliamentary committee you, at the request of Mr. Cormier, wrote a letter commenting on the printing bureau layout?"

"I made a comment," Mr. Cloutier replied. "I attached to a comment which I made to him. It was not a new comment."

Earlier, the Queen's-Queen's printer who retires next November said he was not brought into the picture in development of early post-war plans for a printing bureau.

He agreed that the air conditioning system planned by Mr. Cormier and installed despite work department officials was "unnecessary."

Employees had set up a barrage of complaints.

Foxboro

FOXBORO — Mrs. James Lake was a Sunday guest of Mrs. R. B. Hamilton.

Member Suggests Letter Written by Queen's Printer In Contempt of Parliament

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Richard Bell suggested Friday that Edmond Cloutier, Queen's printer, may have been in contempt of Parliament when he wrote Montreal architect Ernest Cormier August 8 endorsing a printing bureau construction.

At that time, said the member for the Ottawa suburban riding of Carleton, the whole question of printing bureau construction costs was before the Commons public accounts committee. It was a question of whether Mr. Cloutier should have written such a letter.

"Don't you think that is contempt of Parliament?" he asked Mr. Cloutier who sat rather nervously, facing a two-hour barage of committee questioning.

Mr. Cloutier did not reply and later Mr. Bell again pressed for a reply, saying it was "contempt of fair" that the $18,000-a-year official be given a chance to comment. Mr. Cloutier remained silent. J. W. Pickersgill (Bonavista-Twillingate) came to his rescue.

IMPROPER QUESTION

"I think that is a highly improper question. Mr. Cloutier is being asked to comment on opinion about law. He is not a lawyer."

Mr. Cloutier readily agreed that he had written the letter expressing satisfaction that the $16,200,000 plant had been set up to provide a maximum of efficiency at a minimum of effort. He had written it at the request of Mr. Cormier and had visited him two days ago at

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Something to Do in Retirement? This Man Found Answer in Bees

By THOMAS COLLINS

"I am having difficulty trying to determine what I'll do after my retirement next January.

"I agree with the experts that I should do something beyond sitting. But, just tell me what! A retired man -or woman can't get a job except in unusual circumstances. Most of us don't have the money to start businesses of our own. And if we did we would have too little courage or too much sense to risk it in such an adventure.

"Apart from a commercial occupation there is little you can expect because our society is designed for work, not leisure. A person can offer his services to civic causes, but my observation is that older people get little satisfaction from these things, and in fact get very little to do. Younger people or paid people run those shows, and are frequently jealous of what they have.

"I have been inclined to sneer at retired people who sit around idle or take up hobbies or go off on Mickie trips. But I won't any more. I believe that's all there is for them to do.

WRONG AGE

You've sized the picture up about right, but you've got the color wrong. It's not all black.

Ideally, you would do in retirement the activity you have always longed to do . . . but could not because you had to hold a job that would pay the rent. For this dream pursuit you would lay plans and gather tools for several years before retirement, then dive in with zest when the pension came.

Many people don't have any dream pursuits by retirement time — they lost them back down the years, while making a career and a living.

Could you perhaps look in the attic and locate one of yours? Your youth was full of dream jobs.

As for re-employment, it is difficult. But there's a trick to it, and the trick is not to be lobster. Seek the new job before you're retired from the old one. Not after. Most people who have pre-retirement jobs began lining the jobs up two to three years before the pension came . . . with an allied business, the same business in a smaller town, or sometimes with a competitor.

NOT HOPELESS

A business of your own isn't hopeless. Any large public library can supply you books detailing small businesses that have been started for $200 or so.

You need some imagination for almost anything you start after retirement. You must also be brash enough to try things.

From Missouri this week came the Golden Years story of a businessman, Robert W. Ernst, who must have had all the problems and frustrations you are facing. But because he wasn't embarrassed to stick his neck out, he has found a good life.

He retired in a small town in central Missouri, set up a woodworking shop in his garage, and in the course of events was called on one day to make a beehive for a farmer who delivered vegetables to the house.

It gave him an idea. He began making hives for himself. And every time he completed one he drove out in the country and talked some farmer into letting him place the hive in a remote corner of the farm. Sometimes he would have to offer a percentage of the honey he gathered, but usually the farmer was glad to have the bees for their value in pollinating crops.

This man, who had been nothing but a retailer all his life, now has 37 of his hives scattered over his county. He is making money out of honey. He's having a fine time of it.

Personally, I can get along all right without beer. But this man is a good example of the sort of thing you can cook up fo. yourself — with a little get-up-and-go.

Your Car

Excessive Heat Will Weaken Your Car's Coil

By EUGENE MILMOE

Your car's ignition coil, acting as a transformer, receives low voltage from the battery-generator circuit, then steps it up to the three a high voltage through the distributor to the spark plugs.

Although the coil usually will give very much trouble, it is sometimes the principal source of ignition failure. Excessive heat, moisture, grease, corrosion and dirt are probably its toughest, most persistent attackers. Burned or pitted points, a missing or stalling engine, hard starting are the trouble likely results when the coil is acting up. Fortunately, there's little need for guesswork. Whenever coil trouble is suspected, test equipment can quickly indicate whether or not it's defective.

F. V. asks: "Does the starting motor have to be lubricated? If it does, how often?"

(A) It depends on your car. Some starting motors are equipped with packed type bearings which need no lubrication. Others have oil cups on the ends which require a small amount of oil every 10,000 miles or so.

• • •

O. W. writes: "When you buy a new tire is it necessary to get a new inner tube for it, too?"

(A) Even if the old tube appears in good shape, it's advisable to replace it. After a tube's age, the old tube has stretched and is more likely to wind up dart out.

Vacation Bible School is being held in Moira United Church this week under the supervision of Miss Muriel Craig and teachers.

Mrs. Mary Herrity returned from the hospital much improved in health on Saturday. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Miss Linda Ketcheson spent a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Olive Williams, Belleville, and attended the fair.

From M. F.: "Very often when I start out and step on the gas the engine stalls, or when I remove my foot from the pedal to slow up there's a heavy, dull knock from the engine. Can you suggest what this might be?

(A) Loose engine mounts will cause this type of noise, particularly under the circumstances you mention.

D. O. asks: "Since June my engine has been burning more oil than usual, although the amount is not alarming. But is the dealer being truthful in saying the engine uses more oil in summer?"

(A) Hot weather driving consumes more oil, especially if the oil used is either too light or thin or not too readily when the engine is hot.

Iron Chelates Needed by Plants

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Certain plants require more iron than others to name a few there are azaleas, dogwood, hawthorn, holly, hydrangea, mountain ash, oak and the evergreens. Many plants need an extra ration of iron in the summer but do not require it during the spring or fall. Perhaps this is due to drier soil.

But, iron like all other plant nutrients must be in liquid form to be of use to the plant.

Then too, many soils have plenty of available iron in their content but it is not in a form the plants can use. Even when applied in extra amounts it becomes useless if the soil is highly alkaline.

Iron is a catalyst, that is a substance that is needed in minute quantities to start a chain of action, as a match is needed to light a fire, certain necessary nutrients are not soluble without it.

Iron chelates is a compound for iron chlorosis (yellowing of foliage). There are two types of iron chelates, one for acid soil which is not acid enough and one for alkaline soils.

When your evergreens and other plants start to turn yellow it is hope it is a temporary condition but it is a call for help. Left unheeded the plants will gradually turn brown and die.

Evergreens for other acid-loving plants that are planted close to buildings have two counts against them before they start. The alkaline condition of the soil is often caused by the leaching out into the soil of the lime in the house foundation. This chemical action may continue for years.

Growers report that laurel, gardenias and dogwood set bloom much earlier when iron chelates are applied to the soil, and yellowing evergreens quickly recover their deep green healthy color.

While this compound releases the other soil nutrients and makes them available for the feeder roots to absorb many chemical companies are mixing in additional quantities of potash, nitrogen and phosphorous to make a balanced plant food.

If you have tried and failed to grow the hybridized blue berries as a hedge or as fruit bushes try again and use chelated iron or one of the compounds which contains it. Broadleaf evergreens and rhododendrons need it, too. And, rains take over, if you are a lover of fuchsias you Oriental poppies can be divided will need it for these house plants. as soon as the leaves die down

By the end of August evergreens New plants ordered from have completed their year's catalogue will be shipped in Aug growth and may be safely moved ust. Do try some of the new whi if you are careful not to allow the ent plus varieties. Increase yo roots to dry out for even a few ent stock by digging up a fe minutes. Prepare the hole before tiful roots. Cut them in piec you dig the shrub. Water ions and a half inches long a thoroughly and give a good soak- plant in sand in flats. Reds' Assaults On Quemoy, Tan Islands Slacken

Nationalists Claim Try At Landing Is Repulsed

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Communists today slacked off their attacks on the offshore Quemoy and Tan Islands after a weekend of bombardment and air and sea activity that aroused fears it was the curtain raiser for land invasion.

The Nationalists reported turning back a seaborne Communist attempt Sunday night to seize the island outpost of Tungting, 17 miles south of Quemoy.

After plastering the islands with nearly 80,000 artillery shells on Saturday and Sunday, the guns on the adjacent Communist territory fired only 2,500 rounds during a four-hour bombardment this morning and another 20 shells in the afternoon during the afternoon.

The Nationalist defence ministry said the defenders' guns replied but did not disclose the volume of response.

FLEET PREPARES

The U.S. defence department ordered the 7th Fleet and other American naval forces in the Far East to take normal precautions against enemy attempts "in light of the increased activity in the Taiwan (Formosa) straits."

The U.S. Navy also announced that combined U.S. - Nationalist anti-submarine exercises will be held early next month to promote "close working relations" between the two forces.

The United States is pledged by treaty to defend Formosa and the neighboring Pescadores Islands. In the event of invasion of the other offshore islands, the Eisenhower administration has followed a policy aimed at keeping the Reds in doubt whether the United States would go to their defence if the Communists tried to take them.

Defence spokesmen said Nationalist ships beat back the Communist torpedo boat and Tungting. Navy units first clashed with the Communist sea and air landing craft. An hour later the Nationalists encountered five gunboats and 30 armed motorized junks.

SHIP SUNK

The defence ministry says several Communist torpedo boats attacked the Nationalist vessel carrying wounded soldiers from Quemoy. One was sunk but all aboard were saved. The other was damaged but towed to safety.

The Nationalists said they sank two torpedo boats near Tungting.

The Red Air Force, which now has about 1,200 MIG-17 fighters, made its first assault on the islands and beaches at the height of Sunday's bombardment. They followed this up with an eight-MIG attack today.

The Nationalists said 41,000 shells hit the islands in Sunday's opening barrage, killing or wounding 1,000. Communist radio put the toll at 3,000. Eleven civilians were killed and 17 wounded. The Nationalists estimated the Reds fired 50 shells per minute.

Medical Services Of Armed Forces To Be Unified

OTTAWA (CP) — The medical services of the Canadian armed forces will be unified into a single service commencing Jan. 1, 1969, Defence Minister Pearkes announced today in the Commons.

He said the move will result in more and economical provision of medical services in the armed forces.

The new single service would be headed by an army general and the unification would apply to all medical officers, nursing sisters and administrative personnel.

Unification would result in fewer subordinate regional headquarters of the medical services across Canada.

Police Declare Death Suicide

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Tanya Yeoman, 31, a Crown witness in investigation into the slaying of a hatcheck girl, died Saturday from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Police said the death was a suicide. Detectives could find no connection between the death and the fact that the woman was a witness in the slaying investigations.

Mrs. Yeoman last March made the identification of Eileen Lorendon, 26, after she was found in a hotel room with six stab wounds in her body and a stocking knotted around her neck. Clifford Collins, 27, a hotel clerk, was later charged with murder in the slaying and committed for trial.

A detective said the woman's evidence was not vital to the case.

Minister Sees New Era of Peace In Middle East

Also Sees Road To Disarmament

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Smith is looking forward to a "new era" of peace and stability in the Middle East, and to a new era of disarmament.

Mr. Smith said Saturday, in his first last scheduled foreign affairs debate of the waning session, that the encouragement in the UN General Assembly unanimous decision to send Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold on a conciliatory mission to the Middle East.

He said the thoughts and prayers of all at the UN would go with the secretary-general in his tough task, which arose from a Syrian and Lebanese appeal, approved by a vote of 80 to 0.

Mr. Smith said Canada warmly supports the resolution, although it does not include the idea of a permanent force, long advocated by Canada.

UNSOLVED PROBLEMS

However, Opposition Leader Pearson, former Liberal external affairs minister, said that while the sense of relief in the Middle East has passed, the latent UN power still has scarcely touched underlying problems of economic and political recognition by Israel's Arab neighbors.

He added that unless practical action is taken on the Arab-Israeli dispute, "I'm afraid we will move from one critical situation to another."

But Mr. Smith said that Mr. Hammarskjold's mandate in the Middle East is a broad one. "How is the time for deeds," he added.

Mr. Smith, just back from Geneva, said he was optimistic about the possibilities of disarmament as a result of the Anglo-American announcements of conditional suspension of nuclear tests for one year.

The condition they placed on the suspension was that Soviet Russia, which suspended tests 4½ months ago, agree to negotiate in a g a g a g a g a g against sneak tests.

The external affairs minister said the announcements point the way to disarmament.

Mr. Pearson spoke prior to approval of the external affairs department's estimates, expenditures for this year.

He suggested Canada offer her services to mediate what he described as a "bitter dispute" between Iceland and Britain and NATO partners, over Iceland's extension of territorial waters from three to 12 miles.

Britain regards the move as an infringement to its historic North Atlantic fishing rights and has announced it will take steps to protect its trawler fleet.

Mr. Pearson, former deputy CCF House leader, said Canada should not hesitate to express voice on international questions.

"We become brave after an interval between the f r e r ea ns," Mr. Herridge said, urging Canada to follow a policy not to be dependent or compromised by policies abroad.

One question on which he said Canada should act on its own was recognition of Red China. "we shouldn't wait for UK action."

Four Policemen Die in Paris In Battles With Algerians

PARIS (Reuters) — Algerian nationalists struck in France today. Four policemen and three Algerians died in pitched battles in Paris and bombs destroyed oil depots in the south.

In a move apparently aimed at wrecking the Sept. 28 referendum on France's new constitution, Algerian nationalists struck simultaneously in the capital and in the south — where nearly half of France's oil is stored.

Four policemen were killed in the heart of Paris when Algerians attacked two police garages with bullets and bottles of burning gasoline. Five Algerians were killed following the strike.

Firemen battled oil fires as oil storage tanks exploded near Marseille, Toulouse and Narbonne. Fifteen firemen were injured at Narbonne. Strict security measures were taken to protect other installations.

Damage to the tanks near Toulouse, which belonged to the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, was estimated at 150,000,000 francs ($350,000).

Police, who found a number of plastic bombs in oil-depot areas, said the fires apparently were connected with this morning's attacks on police garages.

The outlawed Algerian Communist party, in a leaflet distributed in Paris today, called on all Algerians, including "anti-colonialist Europeans," to boycott the forthcoming referendum on a new French constitution. The referendum is to be held Sept. 28.

One gang of Algerians drove up to a police garage in Paris, jumped out of their car and sprayed machine-gun and pistol shots at a small group of policemen standing in front of the garage, killing three and wounding one.

The attackers then threw bottles of flaming gasoline into the open garage entrance and fled in the car. The garage fire was extinguished.

Three Algerians were killed by police fire when they drove through a police barricade in Paris after a city-wide alarm was sounded. Police stopped all cars carrying Algerians.

At another garage in eastern Paris, a car driver and two men opened fire at a policeman as he was getting out of a police car, and killed the latter in hospital.

Use Bulldozer to Rout Man After Five-Hour Gun Fight

EDMONTON (CP) — A bull-dozer ended a five-hour gun fight Sunday that left one man dead and an elderly man entrenched on a lawn in suburban Jasper Place. One man was killed and another injured in the battle in which more than 40 shots were fired.

Charged under a remand warrant with manslaughter in the Middle East is a broad one. How is the time for deeds," he added.

Mr. Smith, just back from Geneva, said he was optimistic about the possibilities of disarmament as a result of the Anglo-American announcements of conditional suspension of nuclear tests for one year.

Strijdom's Death Will Not Alter Policy of Apartheid

CAPETOWN (CP) — South Africa's announced ambitions of becoming a republic dedicated to the doctrine of white supremacy died with Premier Johannes Strijdom.

Strijdom, the stern segregationist who had been South Africa's premier since 1954, was the driving force behind the Nationalist party to victory in general elections in April, 1958. He died early today of a heart ailment complicated by a blood clot of the lung. He was 82.

A state memorial service for the dead prime minister will be held in Groote Kerk here wednesday. A state funeral will be held Thursday. Burial will be held at Pretoria next Saturday.

Strijdom's death is a special session following his death, and indications were that Minister of Justice Charles Swart would be chosen as Strijdom's successor. His decision will be announced probably this week, by a Nationalist party caucus.

Swart, 62, now acting prime minister and an unpromising supporter of the National party policy of apartheid — racial segregation — has been in parliament over 10 years ago. Since then, he has put through Parliament some of the most controversial legislation in the country's history.

In 1956, he introduced control of the immorality Act, which bans African - white sexual relations, and the Suppression of Communism Act. Recently, he set up a tribunal to hear the mass treason trial of 92 persons accused of trying to convert South Africa into a Communist state. The defendants said they only sought an end to apartheid.

Strijdom took over the government in 1954 from Dr. Daniel F. Malan after a career in Parliament as a champion of white supremacy and republicanism for South Africa.

The son of an ostrich farmer, Strijdom studied to be a lawyer. He entered politics by representing the Waterberg district in Parliament in 1929.

His byword was apartheid. It was the policy, he said, that kept South Africa, he argued, the "white man's country" where Asians and Asiatics must remain separated from them. There are about 3,000,000 whites in South Africa, 10,000,000 blacks (Bantus), about 1,000,000 colored and 400,000 Asiatics.

Another ultimate aim of Strijdom was a republic for South Africa—either inside or outside the Commonwealth.

Strijdom is survived by his wife, who was patient at the hospital during the leg ailment, a son and a daughter.

The son, a political career as private secretary to Gen. James Hertzog, the father of Premier Strijdom. Later he became an ardent supporter of party, the first elected to Parliament in 1933.

TOPS QUIZ WINNERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Teddy Nadler, operator of civil service clerk, became the all-time high television quiz winner Sunday night when he reached $252,000. Then he went on to make it $252,000 on the CBS program The $64,000 Challenge. By answering an $8,000 question on ancient history, after housewife Dolores Brown had failed on it, Nadler reached the $250,000 figure and then went on to increase his record to $242,500 set by 11-year-old Robert Strom.

Railways Likely To Reject Govt. Board Report

Issue May Land On Federal Doorstep

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's largest labor-management scrap is expected to land on the federal doorstep this week with railroads' refusal to accept a government conciliation board report.

Unions representing 120,000 non-operating rail employees accepted the board's recommendations last week after an internal split.

But informants say the railways will turn the report down, thinking that if they accept the wage increases, costing them some $28,000,000 a year, they may have trouble before the board of trans p o r t commissioners when they ask for a freight-rate increase to cover the outlay.

A similar dispute in 1950 led to a nine-day strike tying up CNR and CPR operations across Canada. It was ended by federal legislation ordering employees back to work compulsorily, and the dispute to compulsory arbitration.

CBRE TO BURY HATCHET

Measures have been started the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees-largest of the 15 unions involved—with patch up its differences with the other workers, it was announced today.

The 36,000-m e m b e r CBRE wanted a 25-cent hourly boost, but it was outvoted by other members of the unions' general conference committee in Montreal last week.

The CBRE spokesman said his union probably now will "accept the general conference committee decision for the sake of unity."

While the railways have argued that no wage increase was justified, the non - operating unions claim the board's proposals of about 34 cents an hour.

The conciliation board's report, made public July 30, recommended raises amounting over a three-year period to 14 cents an hour.

Wages now range between $1.33 an hour for section men to $1.90 for skilled men such as machinists.

The conference was issued by by Chief Justice Earl Warren after consultation with the other members of the court.

Quarter Million Slain in Decade In Bitter Colombia Political Strife

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—A wave of bloodshed, which has taken tens of thousands of lives in Colombia, fourth largest republic in South America.

The killings have reached an official total of 14,000 killed of 200,000 in 19 years. At times, nearly 100 people have been slain in a month.

Colombia's new president, Alberto Lleras Camargo, has established a special commission to try to find ways to end the mass murder. Lleras Camargo knows the answer must be found and peace re - established before he can successfully solve economic problems, raise the standards of living, and lead 13,000,000 Colombians to financial stability and prosperity.

Most of the killings appear to be born out of the bitter hatred between Liberals and Conservatives who constitute Colombia's two major political parties.

Some of the violence is attributed to pure banditry. And there are those who profit by terror, who back killer gangs to drive off small farms and farmlands and then take possession.

A young Bogota lawyer, Luis Eduardo Cardenas, reported after making a survey:

Raiders sometimes club, beat, and decapitate entire families of men, children and women with knives in their arms. Often in a raid on farmlands or a village no one is left alive to bear witness against the killers.

One Plane Falls Into Hospital, Injuring Many

Air Force Crews Rescue Patients From Flames

METZ, France (CP)—Two Canadian CF-100 jet fighters collided in flight today and one fell flaming into the hospital of the RCAF base at nearby Gros Tenquin, killing five persons.

Dead are three flyers and a woman patient and a medical man in the hospital.

Reports from the base said 18 persons were injured but the RCAF in Ottawa said it learned by telephone only four were unhurt.

Air force fire crews quickly got the hospital blaze under control and evacuated patients and personnel to an emergency shelter set up in the station recreation room.

ONE AIRMAN SAVED

The RCAF said the two Canadian-built jet interceptors collided at 1,500 feet as they were coming in to land. Both planes carried two-man crews but only one airman was saved. He was himself by using his ejector parachute seat. The plane which missed the hospital fell into an empty field.

Both belonged to the 423rd Squadron of the Second Fighter Wing.

The injured were taken to hospital in Landstuhl, Germany, and to the United States Military hospital in Lansturm, Germany.

NAMES WITHHELD

No names were released pending notification of next of kin.

In Ottawa, an air force spokesman said the plane must have struck only one corner of the hospital or the loss of life might have been greater. The hospital contained 45 patients and staff.

The hospital is in the southern area of the station. The encampment is on a knoll overlooking the town of Gros Tenquin and the surrounding countryside.

Aussie Ruling On Shillelagh Sounds Irish

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Sydney customs officials have decided the shillelagh is not a "dangerous weapon."

Last week they seized a shillelagh which was on its way from Belfast to James Herron of Haberfield, Australia.

It was sent to him by a relative, a retired policeman in Belfast, as a birthday present and was held by customs pending a decision as to whether or not it was dangerous.

But Herron, 68, still cannot have his shillelagh. Police have decided to see if he is a "fit and proper person to receive such a weapon."

Beer Drinkers Living in Ottawa Have Field-Day

OTTAWA (CP) — Certain Ontario beer drinkers believe there are the finest hours of Canada's capital.

Those quaffers, of course, happen to live here.

For once Ottawa happens to be just across the river from Hull, Que. Thank heaven, they say, there is no beer strike in Quebec.

From Toronto, the city of drought now that the Ontario beer strike has dragged on since Aug. 6, comes word that both sides have dug in for a long, thirsty siege.

THREE BRIDGES BUSY

Strategically located, this city of Ottawa has little sympathy for Toronto or other Ontario points. From this city to Hull stretch three bridges, arteries loaded with many a beer drinker. And the police have noted the traffic is getting extra heavy.

In Hull beer across provincial borders is illegal. The police have warned that those who break the law will be prosecuted.....They've r e p e a t e d l y warned. And they're making spot checks of cars' crossing to Ottawa.

The fine for transporting beer illegally could be as much as $100. Since the strike began there have been no charges and no prosecutions.

The Ontario beer drinker's heart is been a little traffic in this transport but they simply haven't caught anyone.

And of course there's nothing illegal about an afternoon going over to Hull for the evening to drink beer there. You can buy beer in Hull's taverns and nightclubs. You can even buy it in grocery stores, like shops in Ontario.

You don't even require an automobile—you can take' a bus for 15 cents. Hull business is booming and the police are doing a roaring trade.

Beer drinkers! That's a laugh. Urp!

1.76 INCHES OF RAIN ON DISTRICT SUNDAY

Sunday's rain storm in the Quinte district didn't excite weathermen at RCAF Station, Trenton. In fact, they even pre- dict more rain in the next day or so.

Yesterday's storm dumped 1.76 inches of water on the air sta- tion and winds were recorded at 20 m.p.h. from the south - southeast, gusting to 31 m.p.h.

The storm had no bearing on Hurrican Dianne, which is ex- pected off the Atlantic seaboard Tuesday.

The duty forecaster at the air station said today that "quite a few low pressure areas are mov- ing through rapidly, about 24 hours apart."

The outlook? Today and Tues- day, cloudy with a good chance of rain.

Rain Will Help Late Tomatoes, Canning Corn

The rain was too late to benefit hay and grain crops but over three-and-a-half inches of rain which has fallen on the Quinte district during August will do much for late tomatoes, canning corn and other late crops.

Rainfall so far this month has been 3.58 inches with 1.07 inches keeping Belleville residents indoors from Sunday afternoon and evening. Midweek last week saw an inch- and-a-half of rain fall in the dis- trict.

Farmers with big acreages of canning corn were happy to see the rain as the moisture will speed development of ears. Corn had tasseled but with stalks still short but now ears are expect- ed to have a good growth before they mature.

Fall pastures will also get a big boost, while after-harvest cultiva- tion will be made easier.

Hot times is always a hitch. Farmers with grain still in the stook in the field would like to get their threshing completed.

No Lay-Off At Bakelite Says Manager

The Ontario Intelligencer heard a rumor over the weekend that the Bakelite Company here is laying off a large number of employees.

Contacted at his office this morning, John E. Buchan, plant manager, said there is a "slight re-arrangement" of personnel going on at the firm, but "very few people are affected."

He said there is definitely no lay-off at the plant.

Mr. Buchan said the re - ar- rangement of some personnel at the Bakelite Company is a few and no indications that Bakelite is experiencing a slump in business.

"There is definitely no lay-off here to speak of and I would not want it reported that there is," said Mr. Buchan. "I could not tell you offhand how many em- ployees are affected, but the number is very small."

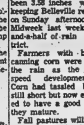
Fifth Satellite Fails to Orbit After Good Start

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Army launched a Jupiter C rocket to a pos- sible altitude of more than 600 miles early Sunday, but failed to put its Explorer V satellite into orbit.

The satellite's radio voice was heard only briefly during the upward flight by a receiving station at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. Then there was only silence.

Hours after the apparently normal blastoff at 2:17 a.m. EDT, teams of weary scientists were still studying their test data, trying to determine what went wrong. They had counted particularly on the 50-inch tu- bular satellite to help analyze the intense high altitude radia- tion that has riddled earlier satellites and stunned their in- struments.

Six hours after the launching the Defense Department in Washington said definitely that Explorer V did not achieve an orbit around the earth. A spokesman said there was every indication, however, that all four stages of the 70-foot launching rocket had fired pro- perly.



The satellite was later tow- ed back to the Belleville harbor by an officer of the Quinte Sea Cadet Corps.

Children Caused Heavy Damage In Office Fire

Last week's fire which caused heavy damage at the offices of the Belleville Public School Board at the corner of Chatham and Bridge Street, was caused by children, it has been learned following an in- vestigation by the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department.

The fire which occurred last Sunday afternoon is believed to have started downstairs in the of- fice of school administrator L. A. Kelly and swept up through the building to the attic.

Damage has been estimated at close to $40,000.

At the time of the fire children were reported to have been seen in the vicinity of the building and it is believed they forced their way into the building and in some manner set it ablaze.

Three Persons Dumped in Bay By Sailboat

Names of the three persons were not learned but the boat was said owned, by Don Ross of Wellington. Provincial Police, Belleville fire- men and the RCAF at Trenton were notified of the plight of the sailboat occupants. However, Stan McFarland, Trent Road, happen- ed to see the upset sailing craft and went out in his power launch and towed it, ashore.

Duchess Reunited With Her Master And Dog Catcher Breathes Easier

Duchess has been found!

Yes, Duchess, a female Boxer dog who "disappeared from her owner, John E. Padgett, on the night of August 16th, has been found, safe and sound.

She was found on August 18 by Mrs. Dorothy Hamilton, 191 Wel- lington St. and immediately turned over to the city's dog catcher, Charles Thorne.

Mr. Padgett came to Belleville yesterday to claim his dog and got a most pleasant surprise. Instead of finding just Duchess, he also found three gay blades she had in tow.

Charlie Thorn said this morning that Duchess gave birth to three puppies on Saturday, August 16th, the day after she became a ward of the city.

She had three of the cutest pups I have ever seen two males and a female," Mr. Thorne said. "I didn't call in a veterinar- ian, but I notified Dr. J. C. Hamil- ton and I might need him. Duch- ess gave birth to her pups with- out any trouble at all. She bore them at the pound."

Duchess is the favorite of Mr. Padgett. He got her in New Orleans when she was a pup. She has been having three puppies has thought. Duchess had been stolen, but Mr. Thorne said he knew it probably had wandered away from the fair grounds.

On August 16, Beverley Hamil- ton's mother heard a bulletin on CJBQ about the dog being lost and found. She called and said her daughter had found a strange Boxer puppy on the night of the 16th. Mr. Thorne arrived, neither Bever- ley nor the dog could be found. Subsequently, Mr. Hamilton ac- companied Mr. Thorne on a car tour of Belleville. Eventually Bev- son spotted the two "wanted" sub- jects with a group of children.

The children took Duchess to the pound, where she gave birth to her puppies under the pier end. Before that, however, the dog catcher had despatched three telegrams in an effort to locate Mr. Padgett who by then was at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. One telegram was sent to Mr. Padgett care of the exhibition grounds, Toronto. He was told to try Three Rivers, Que. No answer. Another was sent to Mr. Padgett care of Paddy Conklin at the C.N.E. in Toronto. Again, no luck.

Mr. Padgett arrived in this city yesterday.

"Was Duchess ever glad to see him," said Mr. Thorne. "The dog was so happy to see him she swerved and nearly knocked him down. Mr. Padgett, however, was not happy to see me. He was very angry with me. He thought I was a dog catcher, but I explained that I was not and in some manner got it ablaze.

"After she had her pups I would slide her into the back room she was occupying and then make a bee-line for the door. She was a fast little fellow. Once I took a broom into her room with me and she got away. While I was another Clyde Beatty fending off a wild lion. Then you bring a Dachshund and one-inch fangs sinking them in- to where I sit down! She tried hard to do it, but never quite made it," said Mr. Thorne, ob- viously relieved that Duchess had rejoined her master.

The last this reporter saw of Mr. Padgett this morning he was heading for 191 Wellington St. Mr. Padgett left Mr. Thorne a five dollar bill for Beverley Hamilton.

Fellow workers honored their retiring foreman with the pre- sentation of a platter - jointer for his home workshop, while Mrs. Lucas received a bouquet of roses.

A native of the Belleville area, Mr. Lucas worked for five years with the former Pringle planing mill on Coronation Street before starting with the railways as a section hand in the Belleville yards. In 1958 he was transferred to the freight department and has been there since.

Still feeling "as good as I did in my thirties", Mr. Lucas has no intention of taking a long retire- ment.

Printing Bureau Plans Finished Within 6 Months

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal architect Samuel Cormier stunned Parliament's printing bureau investigators today by producing what he described as a complete set of printing bureau plans developed and approved less than a year after he first took over the architectural job.

Previous testimony by public works department officials was that plans for the $16,000,000 bureau were not completed for at least four years after Mr. Cormier was retained.

The Montreal architect, giving testimony for the first time before the Commons public accounts committee, emphasized that his plans were complete in every detail and that they had been completed in stages by Nov. 30, 1948. He was retained on May 26, 1946.

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal-Laurier) insisted that these plans, produced before the committee, were "said not to have existed before."

"ACCEPTED" BY CLOUTIER

Mr. Cormier said the plans were "accepted" by Edmond Cloutier, Queen's printer, and M. E. Powers of Chicago, consulting engineer, on April 7, 1949. Mr. Cloutier previously had testified that he had not been consulted.

Questioned by Gerald Fauteux, Quebec Conservative, Mr. Cormier said he could have provided an estimate of cost on the basis of his first set of plans, but estimates never were asked for "only by clients who count pennies." The works department did not ask him for an estimate.

Previously, Deputy Works Minister E. A. Young testified that early rough estimates on the structure were about $6,000,000. That was about 1946. Total expenditures so far are about $16,200,000.

SENSED TROUBLE

Mr. Cormier said he sensed trouble ahead as soon as he saw reports of the 18 ground borings made before construction started. The borings showed evidence of sand and mud and he anticipated trouble with the water under ground. He said he gave the department estimates to cover all eventualities.

The borings were not his responsibility, he remarked. He was not the duty of the architect to supervise borings. These were done by the works department. All he did was to say where the borings ought to be made.

When excavations started, water was found and the contractor, Milner Construction Limited of Montreal, had to dig deeper into the ground than was increased.

Miron and Freres got the original digging contract on a bid of $55,000. Mr. Cormier suggested was a "surprisingly low" bid. The final cost was $328,000.

Mr. Cormier testified also that he was "pressed" to complete the plans as quickly as possible. He did not say who pressed him.

COVERED BY WATER

Mr. Cormier said re visited the site Sept. 6, 1949, and found the excavation covered with water.

"Everything was in a very muddy condition," he said, at another point describing the site as a swamp.

He said he knew right away this would change his plans for the building's foundation. To get down to bedrock for the foundations required twice the excavation originally planned. He said he figured it would double the contract's cost.

Crashes Cause $300 Damage And One Injury

TRENTON — One person was injured and $300 worth of damage was sustained in accidents on Trenton streets during the weekend with all but one slight mishap occurring on Saturday.

Sunday's only accident was a collision when one car was pushing another and it ran into the side of the building. Damage was however, only slight, and no one was injured.

On Saturday at noon George Benham of 506 Front Street was going west across the town bridge, when he was forced to stop in the line of traffic. Allan Hardy of Heller, who was directly behind him was unable to stop and rammed into the rear of the Benham car. A passenger, Gerald Baker, in the Hardy car was thrown against the windshield and suffered cuts to his head when the glass broke. He was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital where he was treated for the cuts and then released. Damage to the rear end and automatic transmission of the Trenton car was estimated at $90 and to the front end and windshild of the other car was believed to be $100. Constable Gary Davis of the Trenton Police Force investigated the mishap.

At 2.35 p.m. cars driven by Fred Ellis of 30 Leopold Street, Trenton and Grant Maines of 181 Dufferin Street, Trenton collided in the intersection of Bay Street and Dundas Street East with damage to both cars totalling $35.

According to police reports the car driven by Ellis had stopped behind a bus in west lane of traffic on Dundas East near Bay Street. The Maines car was in the yard of Lange and Fisher Motors waiting to come out. Anolher car in the line of traffic pulled ahead to allow the Maines car room to go east on Dundas. At the same time the Ellis car decided to pass the bus to go to Gould's Taxi office and both vehicles collided on the intersection in the east bound lane.

Constable R. E. Miller investigated.

The third accident of the day was only slightly with just fenders being dented and scratched. The cars were operated by Mr. Harold Reid of Reid Services Limited of Montreal, had to dig deeper into the ground than was increased.

FEW DIAMONDS

Only one deposit of diamond-bearing rock in Arkansas, has ever been discovered in the United States.

SMALL FIRE

TRENTON — A combination of children and matches was believed the cause of a fire at 29 Princess Street which destroyed a small cardboard shack the children had apparently used for a "play house." The town fire department was called by anxious neighbors when the flames and smoke started, but the small shack had burned to the ground and the fire out when the truck arrived. The shack was at the side of the children's home and could have caused serious damage. The call came in at 5.45 p.m. Saturday and was answered by Fire Chief Clarence Orser and Lieut. Gord Coughlin is the pumper.

"TERRIFIC JOB"

Councillor Charles Hilton said over the weekend the Public Works Department has done "a terrific job" in fixing up the town streets this summer and now a flusher is badly needed to keep them clean. Councillor Hilton made the statement when asked if there was "anything new" towards purchasing the street flusher. He said the committee has not had a meeting since the town's approval to buy the machine if the money could be found within current revenue. "But," Mr. Hilton said, "we are in the market for finding the money and we will have the machine."

CLEANING LIGHTS

Crews of the Public Utilities Commission have been making good use of their ladder truck during the past few days when they were seen on Dundas Street West, in the main business section of town, cleaning the globes on the street lights. It was brought up at the last town council meeting that the globes had never been cleaned and it was toned down the efficiency of the lights by about 35 percent. It was also announced over the weekend that the PUC's electrical division has installed four new street lights on Front Street near the intersection with Division street to bring the total to six. It is believed all six are of different types and the town is deciding which of the various types would be best for use along Front Street and King Street in the railway tracks.

Air and Marine Rescue Services Had Busy Time

TRENTON — Both the air and marine rescue services of the RCAF at Station Trenton were called out over the weekend to take part in searches for a missing boat and a missing light aircraft, as well as to investigate an overturned sailboat.

Officer in charge of rescue operations during the weekend was Flying Officer J. W. F. Crane.

On Saturday he received a call regarding a missing U. S. Vessel. A search plane was immediately dispatched piloted by Flt. Lt. Bert Milliken,—but 20 minutes after take-off word was received that the boat was located at Pultman Bay where it had taken shelter after experiencing trouble with its engines.

Also on Saturday a call was received from the Toronto Traffic Control Centre that a light plane was overdue on a flight from Aylmer to Northbrook, A Canso under the command of Flt. Sergeant Barry Baird, was sent out to search along Highway No. 7. The Trenton plane was in the air 45 minutes when the missing aircraft was reported in and the searchers returned to base.

On Sunday the air station received the third call, which came from the Ontario Provincial Police, requesting their help in investigation of an overturned sail boat with three persons clinging to the side of it near the Bay Bridge on the Bay of Quinte, Two minutes after the call was received, a crew alerted they reported from the water they were on their way. The boat was under the command of Cpl. H. R. McGrath and the crew was LAC J. Rooney and LAC G. F. Martin.

When they arrived at the scene another boat, which had been nearby at the time of the mishap had picked up the survivors and the RCAF boat towed the upset sailboat back to Belleville.

Bad weather Sunday cancelled the regatta planned by the RCAF and the same weather gave members of the RCAF Association a demonstration of landing big aircraft under adverse weather conditions. The two North Stars had taken the members from Belleville on a flight over the Bay of Quinte seaway project and on return ran into the rainy and stormy weather over Trenton yesterday afternoon about 5 p.m.

Town to Save Thousands Of Dollars by Tax Removal

TRENTON — The recent removal of a 10 percent sales tax by the Federal Government on sewer material when bought by the municipality for their use will save Trenton well up in the thousands of dollars during the coming years.

It was reported that in the past when the town let out a contract for new or replacing of sewers the contractor bought the material and included the cost of it in his bid. In the future, it is understood, the town will buy the sewer pipe and materials and issue it to the contractor, when he is ready for it.

In this way the town plans to save about $1,000 per year on sewer pipe and material alone. This year they had set aside $40,000 for sewer repairs as well as replacing older ones and of this about $15,000 would be for materials.

But the town's big saving will apparently come for material which will be used in the construction of the new disposal plant. In this case slightly over $500,000 will be spent on the first phase of the plan. This is building the plant itself. Of this about $200,000 will be spent for materials which will give the town a discount or saving of some $30,000.

It is also understood the removal of the sales tax will include the chassis of the new combination aerial ladder and pumper truck the town is purchasing and bring it down by 10 per cent, as well as that of the new flusher the town is about to buy. How much will be saved will not be available is not known at present but the total cost of both vehicles, combined will run close to $45,000.

The new law apparently includes the chassis of machines which are used for municipality purposes.

Drouin Proposes World Fair To Mark 100th Anniversary

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRUSSELS (CP) — Senator Mark Drouin, Speaker of the Canadian Senate, said today Canada should mark the anniversary of Confederation by holding a world fair in Montreal in 1967.

He said a brief outlining of the advantages of such an affair now is in the hands of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"I believe a fair would be a grand thing for our country and I intend to do everything I possibly can to help bring it about," he said in an interview at the Brussels World Fair.

He is attending the fair as the official representative of the Canadian government for the special ceremonies today marking Canada's national day.

Senator Drouin said he believes Montreal would be an ideal site for a world fair because it is situated in the centre of a large concentration of population and easily accessible to visitors from the United States. Toronto had met these requirements but "naturally my personal preference would be Montreal."

He said he is convinced a world fair would prove of tremendous benefit to Canada. "I believe in publicity and certainly a fair would be the best publicity possible. It would be of immense value to our trade and would of course benefit the tourist industry."

Police Blotter

Property damage amounting to approximately $400 resulted in two vehicles Saturday evening as the result of a collision at the corner of Dufferin Ave., and Pine Street.

Police said that Joseph A. Reynolds, 174 Mary Street, was southbound on Dufferin with John C. McBride, 4 McDonald Ave., westbound on Pine Street. Mr. Reynolds was charged with drunk driving.

A hydro pole in front of the Masonic Temple on Foster Ave. was struck by a hit-and-run driver some time early Sunday morning.

And a more than usual number of drunks and family quarrels kept police busy during the weekend.

Club Canara Will Be Opened To Teenagers

Belleville and district teenagers may soon enjoy dances, organized especially for them, at the new Club Canara.

The Belleville Canadian National Recreation Association will hold a meeting in Club Canara Wednesday, August 27, at 8 p.m., to organize the operation of teen-age dances.

All interested parties, including city and district parents and teenagers, are urged to attend this meeting.

With their support and cooperation, the C.N.R.A. will commence operation of these dances for the younger crowd on Saturday, September 6, at the new Club Canara. The dances will be operated under strict rules and supervision.

The organization of teen-age dances is the latest of several community projects sponsored by the civic-minded Canadian National Recreation Association. For some years the C.N.R.A. co-operation with the Belleville Recreation Committee have sponsored a children's playground, as well as making available free park facilities for minor baseball and softball leagues.

THE PROPOSED NUCLEAR TEST BAN

The offer of the United States and of Great Britain to suspend the testing of nuclear weapons is at one and the same time meaningless and meaningful.

A one-year suspension of tests is meaningless because it is no more than the inevitable pause between the testing of weapons developed by the last research and the successful conclusion of additional research to produce new weapons to be tested. Such temporary cessation of tests has been the rule, rather than the exception, ever since the work on the development of nuclear weapons commenced.

The United States has just concluded a series of nuclear tests. Britain is just commencing a similar program at Christmas Island, which seems to provide an adequate explanation of why it is proposed that the one-year suspension should not start until Oct. 31, instead of immediately.

The U.S. and British offer, therefore, is open to precisely the same criticism as that which justifiably greeted the unilateral declaration by Russia of a suspension of nuclear tests immediately following the conclusion of its series of nuclear explosions earlier this year.

What is full of meaning, and of hope for the world, is the proposal to make this pause in tests the subject of a formal international agreement and to further suggestion that this agreement could be extended on a year-to-year basis providing certain conditions are met.

Once the world comes to regard the temporary cessation of tests as the result of an agreement amongst the nuclear powers, rather than merely the result of a lack of any new weapons to test, and a nation which resumes tests will risk outraging world opinion.

Just as the momentum of a car in motion requires a vigorous application of brakes to bring it to a halt, but the inertia of the same car at rest makes necessary aperiod of acceleration before it is really rolling again, so with atomic tests.

It has proved difficult to get the nuclear powers to agree to stop them, but once they are stopped by formal agreement a resumption of regular testing procedures will be difficult. The nation which first resumes tests after a formal suspension will face unfavorable world reaction.

It is in this regard that the U.S. offer for an extension of the temporary ban on a year-to-year basis is most valuable. Indeed, there may be good reason for regarding such a procedure as a more realistic approach to the problem than any agreement for a "permanent" ban.

While the world is no hope, though, it would be foolish to suggest that there are not pitfalls which will have to be avoided. For instance, one news story describes the U.S. offer as "a major shift in U.S. atomic policy". Heretofore, it explains, the U.S. has insisted that any halt in nuclear tests should be tied to a ban on atomic weapons-making, reduction in nuclear stockpiles, troop cutbacks and a whole range of disarmament steps. It seems to us, though, that the shift in policy is more a case of appearance than of fact. President Eisenhower listed as one of two conditions for a year-to-year extension of the temporary suspension of tests "satisfactory progress — being made in reaching agreements on and implementing such substantial arms control measures as that the United States has long sought." If this does not tie a halt in nuclear tests to "a ban on atomic weapons-making, reduction in nuclear stockpiles, troop cutbacks and a while range of disarmament steps", it comes very close to it. The apparent shift in policy, therefore, exists only for the period of the original one-year suspension — and as we have already noted a suspension of approximately this duration was inevitable while additional research was conducted.

While any shift in U.S. policy is thus more one of appearances than of form, it does not mean that this shift is entirely without significance. The U.S. has evidently recognized that the agreement of the atomic experts at Geneva that it is possible to establish a practically foolproof system of detecting nuclear explosions meant that world opinion would demand some effort to halt nuclear tests. The U.S. is not the only country which must pay heed to world opinion. Russia, too, is subject to its pressures; not always in the same ways or in the same degree, but not, for that reason, always in fewer ways or to a lesser degree. As concrete evidence of the effectiveness of world opinion alone, the proposals by the U.S. and Great Britain give reason for some hope for the future.

THE ANNIVERSARY

For years they've journeyed hand in hand
And trod life's road together.
The morning path, the desert sand,
In fair and cloudy weather.
His tears have mingled with her own,
Their smiles have nicely blended;
Both joy and sorrow they have known,
Her blows has made them splendid.

They've wandered arm in arm along,
With joy their pulses throbbing.
They've had their little time of song
And had their nights of sobbing.
And still they pray that they may go
Until their days are ended,
Together, sharing, weal and woe,
With love to make them splendid.

The Khans' Two Faces

By Jordi Lorrens in UNESCO Features

Hordes of screaming horsemen, burning down forests and towns, frightful, senseless, matricidal massacres, corpses piled high, rivers of blood — that is how the Mongol invasions must have seemed to their first victims. From Japan to Poland, the 13th century looked on in horror as the conquerors from the steppes crushed, ravaged and laid waste, and swept on to Christendom.

School time memories conjure up a similar picture; but some historians (the Young Turk set in particular among contemporary writers) have given another side to the picture. They recall how European travellers in the 13th century spoke respectfully on the khans, their armies and their officials. Not one the French monk Rubruck nor the Italian Dominican Plano Carpini omitted to praise the travelling among savages; and several eulogies by soldiers, scholars and merchants, speak of them with admiration. Just recently, Genghis Khan, and his successors, Mongol leaders of the most highly-organized and well-disciplined army the world had ever known, were described as "model all Europe (it was saved by them) and, for the first time in history (and the last to date) they achieved the unity of Asia. The pagan princes also knew how to govern.

To grasp such extreme contrasts, you must read a contemporary account, not merely of one but an attentive, intelligent eye-witness — sculptor, monk and artist, painter, by attempting to understand the terrifying contradictions. Fortunately, such an eye-witness did exist, and so did his account.

His name was Ata Malik Juvaini. A Persian of great literary accomplishments, he became minister to a Mongol chieftain Baiju, between 1245 and 1260, every evening when the chief was hailed, he wrote "His History of the World Conquerer." This work, which has been frequently used by Arab and Persian historians, has recently translated for the first time into a European language by John Andrew Boyle, head of the Department of Persian studies at the University of Manchester. The two volumes, published by the Manchester University Press, are part of Unesco's "Collection of Representative Works" (Persian Series).

Juvaini was born of an old and distinguished family from the north-east of Persia. His father, after the defeat of the last Sultan, entered the service of the Mongol leader, and Malik himself became one of the principal officials of Hulegu — grandson of Genghis Khan and brother of Kubla Khan — who established him governor of Baghdad.

A highly cultured man, proud of his country's glorious past, and a devout Muslim, Juvaini was deeply wounded by his convictions. He never misses an opportunity of quoting the pathetic lament of Firdausi; he deplores the ignorance of his conquerors and openly pokes fun at their primitive culture. Recalling, for instance, how an official proclamation of his appointment because he could write the Mongol language in the Uighur script, Juvaini sarcastically remarks; "in the present age, this is considered the height of proficiency". He constantly refers to the Koran and to the poetic and religious tradition of Islam, and only praises Mongol institutions grudgingly, when they favor the spread of Islam in Turkestan and India.

He is ready, however, to recognize the Mongols' tolerance in matters of religion. Several of Genghis Khan's successors professed Buddhism, others the Nestorian form of Christianity; but this never led to any persecution to persecute other religions since, in actual fact, they had themselves attached to the ancient practices of Shamanism (which still survives in certain parts of Asia).

Governor Ata Malik Juvaini shows little tolerance for Shamanism — a set of ridiculous superstitions and of disgusting practices some of its aspects in civilisations.

terms which modern symbology would probably accept. Similarly he describes fairly accurately the Buddhist beliefs relating to ethics and the transmigration of souls, without guessing that "nom", the Mongol word for "good", is derived from the Greek "nomos" (the law).

The massacres and atrocities of the Mongols are always faithfully recorded by Juvaini. But each captured city, he takes account of the count (men, women, children) and describes how the Mongols executed the survivors according to their usual "rational" fashion — as rational in fact that it seemed to exclude any real cruelty: the vanquished (men and women) were divided into groups, each among the soldiers, each of whom received 24, or 50 or 90 people as his share. He might be told in a given time. Among the townspeople, the skilled craftsmen were spared and sent to work in the far-off steppes, building magnificent cities to replace the tent camps of Qara-Qorum and Ulaan Baatar.

Juvaini also describes, without any comment the funeral rites of Genghis Khan. They recall the "hecatomb-funerals" of the Scythians, and those of the Scythian kings described by Herodotus. Forty horses and forty young slaves were killed and precious stones were lined up in the grave with the conquered conqueror and warm up his corpse.

But there are times when Juvaini almost speaks as the son of the steppe with genuine admiration, praising their discipline and efficiency, their sense of justice and strict family ties — those same virtues whose sudden overthrowing of the Muslim kingdoms and of the Califate itself. He also praises the Mongols' generosity, devoting a whole chapter to the Yasa, in fact they are being found in different parts of the main body of work. Last evening a boy caught a 'lunge weighing ten pounds, near the lighthouse and sold it for a quarter. Fifteen 'lunge are reported on yesterday's catch.

Bowling Notes

Thirty-two rinks of mixed doubles competed for the beautiful Parker trophy at the Trenton Bowling Club on Saturday afternoon and evening and Mr. and Mrs. Pree Bell of Cobourg emerged the winners with a score for three games of 23 plus Pree. In second place were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker of Trenton with 64. A Brighton rink of Sam Netley and Mrs. Mary Hulin was in third place with 49 plus, and Mr. and Mrs. Mel Caverly of Madoc were the last three-game winners with 41 points.

A Trenton rink of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Mills were tops for two-game high score with 49 plus two, while Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Mc-Quarodale of Kingston were second with 46 plus 11. The one-game high winner was Mr. and Mrs. A. Jarvis of Kingston. The heavy rains of the past couple of days made the greens a little heavy but they needed the rain badly and the bowlers had no complaints. George Browne successfully ran the tournament with his committee and the games were concluded shortly after ten o'clock.

Four rinks from Belleville took part and tucked Mr. and Mrs Bruce Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Gordie Edwards, Wally Lavergne and Mrs. Grace Clapp and Claude Pree and Mrs. Marie Bell but no of the rinks got in the prize money. Three of the rinks won two games during the tournament. Kingston, Brighton, Madoc, Belleville, Trenton and Cobourg rinks were on hand.

A men's and women's rink from the local club journey to Otawa on Labor Day to take part in the tournament of the Ottawa Bowling Club. Rolling Bill, Bill Bruce Miller with Gordon Watkin as skip will take part in the men's tourney while Mrs. Mary Clapp, Mrs. Millie Wright, Mrs. Grace Pree and Mrs. Alma Watkin will enter the women's tournament. This year the rinks went down but were rained out. Better luck this time.

The fine response by the bowling clubs in the district to the proposed John Shaw Memorial Trophy tournament to be staged at the Belleville Club on Labor Day assures it of success in its first year. As mentioned last week it signified their intention of participating and it is expected there will be a full double draw for the beautiful prizes that will be offered. Orlo Graham, chairman of the tournament has already received a number of entries and the members of the local club are earnestly requested to enter their names on the bulletin board at the clubhouse.

Attendance Mark For People, Cars Set at Exhibition

— By KEITH KINCAID
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian National Exhibition set an attendance record Saturday but officials stood by whether the result was worth the headaches.

Neither figure was exact. By 2:22 000 visitors, the CNE also had to park 18,000 cars, making it the largest traffic jam in CNE history and sort out 1,634 lost children.

The new record swelled by 6 000 war veterans on hand for Warrior's Day Race activities, spotted out the size of 319,000 set on the second Saturday of the fair in 1952. Last year Warrior's Day drew a crowd of 310,000 set.

Police said crowds also left behind hundreds of dollars in wallets, purses, cameras and clothing.

PARKING LOTS FILLED

Parking lots on the 350-acre grounds were filled up by 9 a.m. and by noon streetcars were lined up 75 deep waiting to pass through the eastern entrance.

Cars approaching along the lakeshore from both directions were backed up for miles. One motorist said it took 30 minutes to travel the last mile to the grounds.

Legion officials said they had the largest turnout in years for a parade past the grandstand. Starting time was changed to the morning from the afternoon this year.

Lieutenant-Governor Keiller Mackay of Ontario took the salute and afterwards spoke to veterans' representatives at a directors' luncheon.

He said western Europe from the North Sea south to the Mediterranean is a sacred battleground for Canadians from which have blossomed 100,000 white crosses.

The Other Stratford Is Visited

By ROBERT TANNER

We had not planned on visiting Stratford, Connecticut, this year, but when other matters took us in that direction, it seemed that the opportunity should not be missed of seeing what progress had been made there by the American Shakespeare Festival since their first and quite disappointing production of "Julius Caesar" in the summer of 1955. The visit promised to be all the more interesting since, of the three plays being presented this year, "Hamlet" was seen at the Canadian Festival last year, and "The Winter's Tale" is one of its current productions. However, as Dogberry says in "Much Ado, "comparisons are odorous"; suffice it to say that the Connecticut company is vastly better than it was three years ago, and a common standard may be used for judging the worth of the two Festivals.

The American theatre (seating just under 1,500 people) has been quite considerably altered since its first year, so that it is now something of a compromise between the normal type of proscenium theatre and the boldly unique arrangement of Ontario's Stratford: Electrically and mechanically, it is completely equipped, and use is made of the stage facilities. The setting for all three plays consists of a most ingenious combination of steps, elevated platforms and hanging slatted screens which can be transformed, often within view of the audience, to wide variety of different arrangements. Aided by clever and discreet use of colored lighting, the stage is always attractive, and its versatility may be judged from the fact the ghost in "Hamlet" high on a platform and dimly lit, is the first really ghostly one we have seen.

VERY SERVING

The theatre is in a delightful setting on the banks of the Housatonic River, and matinee goers may spend the intervals walking on the lawns in the sun; watching the sail boats gliding up and down past them; Stratford, Conn. is an easy drive from New York over the new Merritt Parkway, and is a pleasant little town abounding in historical associations and with many interesting old buildings.

"Hamlet" is perhaps more than any other of Shakespeare's works, a one-man play, and in Christopher Weaver the American Festival have a very fine Hamlet, indeed. Playing the role with controlled passion and emotion, Mr. Weaver gives a most convincing performance in which he is ably supported by Earle Hyman, a colored actor of charm and intelligence, as Horatio and John Colicos as Laertes. Most of the other roles were competently played, particularly that of Ophelia by Inga Swenson, but Geraldine Fitzgerald as Queen Gertrude failed to be completely convincing.

It was most interesting to note that, in contrast with their first year's production, the American company had adopted a standard of English pronouncia-tion very similar to that of the Canadian company, in which the broad accents of Jason Robards, Jr. would have been equally out of place.

"The Winter's Tale", a strange play which changes from drama to comedy in the middle of the scene, and has as happy an ending as ever Hollywood could contrive, derives great interest, particularly in the earlier scenes, from the powerful playing of John Colicos as the jealous King Leontes. Perhaps at some future date this fine Canadian actor will be persuaded to return and play at Stratford, Ontario.

Another Canadian, Richard Easton, gives a good performance in the most colorless part of Polixenes (as well as in the short role of Oorie in Hamlet.) Nancy Wickwire's touching portrayal of the wronged Queen Hermione, and her knee-to-knee a stne motionless statue in the last scene were both noteworthy, as was Earle Hyman's swaggering performance as the ruffianly Autolycus. The strongest female part in the play, and probably the most powerful role Shakespeare ever gave a woman, is that of Paulina, friend and confidante of the Queen. After seeing Eileen Herlie's magnificent portrayal of this character at the Ontario Festival, it is difficult to accept any other actress an unbiased judgment, which is probably most unfair to Nancy Marchand who gave a competent performance.

Time did not permit a visit to "A Midsummer Night's Dream", though by all reports, it was the most popular of the three. From what we have learned that Stratford, Conn., is presenting this year a well rounded program of excellent plays directed, played and that the American Shakespeare Festival is definitely assuming the important dramatic events in the world today.

Swivel Units For Front Seats Of New '59 Cars

DETROIT (AP) — One of the leading auto makers will offer something new in front seats with its 1959 line.

The seat will be called swivel units. They are so designed that they will swing outward at a 90-degree angle at the touch of a lever after the door is opened. Pressure on the cushion returned it to normal position.

The manufacturer says the device offers an invitation to back into the lower cars. He adds that it should be a great help to tight-skirted women drivers and tall men.

Another device coming in 1959 models is a rear view inside mirror that automatically tips to a no-glare level when bright headlights strike it through the rear window.

MORE GLASS

The motor probably will have considerable appeal in the new models with their increased areas of rear window glass. Many 1959 models have rear window rescuing unit inside the car as well as farther around the rear quarter panels.

Another new device is intended to overcome rough engine idling after stalling due to high underhood temperatures.

The device, attached to the carburetor, has a thermostatically controlled valve which opens an air bleed to the manifold. This permits extra air to pass through the engine when necessary high temperature increases vaporization.

It will be an inexpensive extra-cost item. It is said to facilitate starting and smooth operation when the engine is hot.

These and numerous other advances will be a worthwhile promotion by the car makers when the new models reach the market in mid-September and early October.

With air - conditioning, power braking and power steering optional on most of the new models, the under-the-hood compartment of the 1959 Buick model is packed almost to capacity.

Nehru May Oust Red Government In Indian State

NEW DELHI (AP)—A widening split has developed between Prime Minister Nehru's administration and India's Communist state government in Kerala.

Two of Kerala's Communist leaders, chief ministers and party secretary, have come to New Delhi for conferences amid indications the central government may be preparing to kick out the only Communist state government among India's 14 states.

Kerala Chief Minister E. M. S. Namboodiripad met with Nehru in an attempt to show that Communist Party leaders and political leaders were responsible for recent disturbances in Kerala.

Namboodiripad said later that conversations with Nehru were just what he would like.

The Communists hold 65 of 125 seats in the Kerala legislature. They won the most recent byelections in 1957 but without a majority. The Communists say the opposition has turned to violence to overthrow them and it could not regain power by the ballot.

Russia Heaps Scorn on West Tactics to End Nuclear Tests

By VINCENT BUIST

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet newspapers have ignored the latest western proposals for resumption of diplomatic talks to prepare a summit conference and have heaped scorn on western tactics over ending nuclear tests.

No officials were available for comment on the United States, British and French notes handed to the Soviet government Friday and Saturday. The earliest any Kremlin can be expected is Tuesday.

In the first note the United States and Britain said they would suspend tests for a year if Russia agreed to talks in New York, starting Oct. 31, to negotiate a permanent international ban.

The second note, delivered Saturday, urged Russia to resume preparations in Moscow for a summit conference by answering western proposals of May 31 for a non-controversial agenda.

The question is whether Russia —after Anglo-American intervention in the Middle East and the conditions attached to a test suspension — still would be willing to resume talks at the highest level.

BITTER CRITICISM

If Soviet newspapers are any guide, their highly - critical and even bitter tone of comment on the West's test ban offer does not point to any early and favorable government reaction to summit talks.

Most newspapers lashed out with a strong criticism of what they call the West's delaying tactics on suspending tests and suggest the "foot-dragging is designed to put off a firm East-West agreement.

One of the big unknowns is the attitude of the entire Communist Camp.

Premier Khrushchev does not want to take the initiative without the full support of all members of the Communist Bloc, including China. Peiping earlier made clear its reservations to a summit meeting to discuss Middle East problems.

Consultations must be held by the Soviet leaders and then followed by consultation with China and other Communist countries before any major decision is reached.

Observers here felt this was certain to delay any Soviet reply to the western proposals.

In London, western diplomats fear Communist China may discover a "tough" Soviet reply to the latest western offers.

London observers are convinced that Russia will have to consult with China before any firm policy is decided.

It is felt that China wants to pursue a tough course and does not want a summit conference unless it takes part.

MOORCROFT — GIBSON

Before a lovely background of gladioli, interspersed with ferns, in College Hill United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, August 2nd, at 2.00 p.m. Suzanne Ruth Gibson, of Belleville, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murney K. Gibson, was united in marriage by the Reverend R. F. Darke, pastor of Foxboro United Church, to Monte Donland Moorcroft, of Belleville, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moorcroft, of Madoc, Ontario. Pink and white bows and garlands from pew to pew designated the guests' seats.

Mrs. Verna Clancy, of Harold, presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Grant Richardson, of Stirling, in his rendition of "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony, and "Because", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon net featuring a molded bodice with Queen Anne neckline, and short cap sleeves. The full skirt was accented front and back with panels of nylon net, while rows of Chantilly lace formed side panels. She wore a veil of silk fabric illusion in three - quarter length, with hand - embroidered trim, and coronet studded with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white Bible created with red, Sweetheart roses, mingled with baby's breath and fern, and rose-buttonets, satin streamers.

Mrs. Marlene Richardson, of Stirling, sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor, was gowned in blue nylon tulle over crisped taffeta, fashioned in waltz-length, with fitted bodice of pleated tulle over taffeta, flowing into a princess line skirt with butterfly bow and wide, trailing streamers, matching feathered headdress and mitts.

Miss Carolyn Gibson, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was senior bridesmaid, attired in yellow, with matching accessories. Miss Elaine Gibson, of Hamilton, cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, wore pink, with matching accessories. The senior and junior bridesmaids' gowns were fashioned similarly to that of the matron of honor. Their bouquets were of carnations and mums in shades matching their gowns.

The Misses Hillie, four-year-old flower girls, the Misses Dorothy Haight, of Corbyville, cousin of the bride, and Lois Moorcroft, of Oshawa, niece of the bridegroom, were dressed alike in white nylon net over taffeta with matching headdresses and tiny veils. They carried baskets of colored baby 'mums.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held in the church parlor, for which the College Hill W.A. catered.

White damask linen and a three-tier, all white, pedestalled wedding cake, adorned with roses and love birds, and topped by sweetpeas, centred the table. Tall, white candles in silver holders, and the bridal bouquets lent a lovely bridal accent.

The bride's mother received, wearing pure silk appliqued organza in champagne color, and sheath design, with floating back panels falling into a straight, sheath effect, with beige accessories, and corsage of orange - lee tes. The bridegroom's mother assisted, in the receiving line, gowned in rose-colored silk with black accessories, and corsage of blue carnations.

For travelling around Lake Ontario and northern points, the bride wore a pink, velvet sheath with matching jacket, white accessories, and corsage of blue carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Moorcroft will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville, Stirling, Plainfield, Toronto, Oshawa, Corbyville, Foxboro, Consecon, Thomasburg, Roslin, and Peterborough.

Showers honoring the bride were held at the home of Mrs. Allen Gibson, of Plainfield, when she was presented with a kitchen shower, with Mrs. A. Gibson as hostess. Also at a miscellaneous shower with Miss Sandra Dickens, of Belleville, as hostess at her home, and at a presentation by her fellow employees at the S. S. Kresge Company, of a set of towels.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each week in a summary of an actual case history, The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Susan B. — I can't stop my giggling fits.

Mrs. R. B. — It's a real problem in our household.

Susan B. — My problem may sound like a silly one, but it's very serious to me. I am 15 — old enough to know better — but I can't help it. I'm giddy, I have the most awful giggling fits in the worst places, like church and at assembly in school.

What makes it harder for me is that I have a kid sister of 13, who is just like me. Whenever I think I've got myself under control I hear her going off and that breaks me up.

Last year I got thrown out of classes several times because I couldn't stop giggling. I really want so much to stop and I can't help myself. If things go on this way, I won't ever be able to go out with boys because they think I'm awfully silly and they break me up worse than anything.

Mrs. R. B. — Silly as it may sound, this has become a real problem in our household. My husband is a hard-working professional man and he loves a peaceful home. But from the minute he comes home there are these constant crazy outbursts of giggles.

Every single evening we are forced to send the girls away from the table. If we have company we don't dare let them dine with the adults. We have been embarrassed dozens of times in church or other formal occasions. We are always forced to leave.

Until she was 13, Susan was the world's most beautifully behaved little girl. She never got anything but A's in conduct in school. We were rather strict with the girls and they still try hard to do as we wish, but they seem unable to help themselves.

The Council: If the R. B.'s would think of their daughters' giggling fits as a tic or a stutter it might help them deal with the problem a little better.

Any parent who has ever had to deal with a stutter or with those jerky, involuntary gestures known as tics knows that he can't order the child to stop. The order will almost always produce a much worse outbreak of the undesired habit.

The child who develops any one of these nervous manifestations is nearly always trying desperately to control it. Some sudden, some deeply rooted problem has forced him through also this expression. The child is shamed by his awareness of something he can't control and he produces even more tension.

Adolescent girls do tend to develop giggling fits, but in Susan's case it has gotten beyond the usual. It is controllable boundaries. Probably the great stress her parents have placed on good behavior has made matters much worse than necessary. The giggler Susan feels about her behavior, the more uncontrollable it gets.

The R. B.'s should stop making a problem of this. They should try to ignore it as much as possible and encourage Susan and her sister to express themselves in other ways — sports, dramatics, music and social activities. When they become deeply absorbed in something outside themselves, their giggles will gradually disappear.

Fall Fashions Feature Brightly Colored Wigs, Other Things Coming, Too

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wigs made of brightly-colored nylon material will appear on the Canadian fashion scene this fall.

The wigs are just one instance of the back - trading that old Father Time is doing when it comes to fall fashions.

The fashion line is Empire (gathered under the bust and straight to the hem) or chemise (straight) and trapeze (straight at the waist, bounced at the hem.) Hats are close-fitting, covering all the wearer's own hair.

Material are heavier, with more hair and similar fabrics for dresses and suits. Some garments are fur-trimmed—monkey fur is the latest—but the trend is toward less ornamentation.

SOFT, WIDE BELTS

Belts, worn anywhere but the waist, will be wide and mostly of soft leather.

Clothes in jewel colors like ruby and sapphire are already heading for the retail stores, with the usual autumn standbys in green and rust.

Skirts will be still shorter, but cover the knee, and brightly-colored stockings will be in style.

Shoes retain pointed toes and needle heels, but the bows on top will be dropped to facilitate overshoe wear. Those pinpoint heels seem to have been breathing easily, and some stores offer shoes with aluminum heels at $1 extra. Heels may be contoured, too.

Evening wear tends to accent drapery. Latest - style veils fall from a headdress to the hem of the gown.

Jewelry includes long necklaces in several strands. Purses are soft and pouchy in soft leather and mostly in matching rather than contrasting colors.

New winning suits are tweedy, in coarser material than usual. Jackets are short, and collars are special.

A pale-looking face is needed to match fashion, although eyes will be accentuated, and lipstick shades are becoming less striking.

While these are the general notes in fall fashions across the country, there are regional variations.

New Brunswick is offering a "tack" in a wide wavy bottom, and calling it the Breton Sailor.

In the Maritimes generally, the "tack" is on the square.

In Quebec, blue and green top the color scale, and garments have a distinct styling in the back. Prices are reported slightly higher.

In Ontario, the wigs and fluttering evening veils may make their Canadian debut.

In Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the chemise has been replaced by the "blouson", a very full tunic. Bows are bespangled on all garments, including shoes. Hats are balky.

Alberta women are keeping a close watch on eastern fashions. The chemise and trapeze are noted, but in modified styles.

British Columbia will sell dresses about 1½ inches longer than last spring. Whollens will be lighter. Hats will feature bows.

Suave Silk Coat

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Despite all the emphasis on the furry and loopy woolens, many houses report much interest in the suave silk coat for afternoon wear in town. Good as a coat and perfect for coat-dress duty is this model in ribbed silk, black or a very dark brown. The line flares decently in modified trapeze silhouette. The waistline is high, slanting down at the sides and even lower in back of the waist. The wide open collar is noteworthy.

Women Pretty Steadfast in Public Trust

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever hear of a woman shoon to be corrupt in public office?

The Republican party's national chairman, Meade Alcorn, could not think of a single instance Friday.

And he said that's one of the biggest reasons why more women should get into politics.

"Usually when you get a woman in public office," Alcorn said, "She's pretty steadfast in her trust."

"As a man," he added: "I wish I could say the same for men."

Alcorn got into the discourse on women while helping launch his new assistant chairman—head of the party's women's division—tall, attractive blonde Mrs. Frank E. Williams, 48, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

AN UNEVEN NUMBER OF BRIDESMAIDS AND USHERS

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My daughter is to be married in October. She is having a maid of honor, 3 bridesmaids, a junior bridesmaid (10-years-old); best man and 3 ushers. Will you please tell me the correct order for the Processional and Recessional?

— Processional. First, the three ushers, a pair (the two shortest) leading, followed by the other usher, the tallest. Next, the junior bridesmaid, alone. Next, the 3 bridesmaids, one pair (the shortest) leading, followed by the other bridesmaid, the tallest. Next, the maid of honor, alone. Last, you and your father or whoever is to escort you.

Recessional. First, bride and groom. Next, the maid of honor, alone with the best man. Next, if the bride is planning to have the ushers and bridesmaids paired off, the junior bridesmaid, alone, may follow the maid of honor; and then, last, each bridesmaid with an usher. (The usual plan is to have an even number of bridesmaids and ushers, as this makes far better balance, particularly for the Processional. Also for the Recessional, if the plan is not to pair off the bridesmaids and ushers.)

HOW TO EAT AVOCADOS

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Please answer two questions about eating avocados. (1) When avocados are served "on the half-shell," what is the correct way to eat them? (2) When a half or quarter or even smaller portion is served as an item in a salad, then how is it eaten? — R. M.

(1) When avocado is served "on the half-shell," use a spoon (dessert spoon or teaspoon) to scoop out and eat each spoonful with a small quantity of whatever dressing is provided, usually French dressing.

(2) When portions of avocado, large or small, are served in salads or as an item on a fruit platter, it is cut with the fork into convenient bites and eaten with the fork.

Cook Your Eggs With Tender Care

by Mary Moore

She was twenty-one and tall and dark and lovely, and managed the new baby like a veteran — but when it came to frying an egg she didn't have a clue.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

Baked Veal Hearts with Mushroom Soup Sauce; Baked Potatoes; Spinach; Carrot Sticks; Blue- or Black Berry Cobbler, Coffee.

She got up early to have it ready for her teacher-husband who had a 30 minute drive to make his class that morning. It was ready alright. There it lay — sunny side up, — but with a difference — cold, hard, flat. Reminded me of a plastic theatre soap egg. If there were any statistics on this assault on the defenceless egg it is my bet they would show that more than half the brides perpetrate it.

How should an egg be fried?

I'll tell you.

To fry one egg for your trusting husband, wait until he is seated at the table and started on his fruit. In a small frying pan melt 1 teaspoon butter or bacon fat. When it bubbles, slip the egg gently into the pan from a saucer, season, cover, reduce heat to very low. As soon as a thin film of white over this yolk becomes opaque, take it off for it is done. Carefully transfer to hot plate or toast. This low temperature and cover are the key to success. Don't overcook your eggs.

Cooking 4 fried eggs at once is slightly different. You will need more butter, and before covering them add 1 tablespoon hot water to the centre of the pan to make steam. This helps the white to cook and keeps everything soft and tender.

BACON AND EGGS

Start side bacon in cold pan over medium heat. When it begins to curl pour off excess fat and turn it over. When it curls a little more and barely begins to turn gold it is done. At once remove to absorbent paper towel in warm place. To fry eggs in bacon fat leave only 1 or 2 tablespoons in pan — eggs should not swim in it, you know. For 4 eggs add 1 tablespoon water and proceed as above for 4 eggs fried in butter — covering and cooking over low heat until "finished" as Miss Overend (our Home Economics teacher) used to say umpteen years ago.

We'd like to serve you beer again soon!

We Are Doing Everything Possible—Here Are the Facts

The Brewing Industry in the province regrets the inconvenience caused its customers by the strike against the beer distribution company, Brewers' Warehousing Company Limited.

Since the strike began on August 7th, the brewing companies and Brewers' Warehousing Company have made every effort to bring the strike to a speedy and mutually satisfactory conclusion.

Last week the brewing companies launched a new and constructive effort, not only to settle the Warehousing strike, but to ensure a lengthy period of peaceful employee relations in the Industry.

Starting August 18th, a new series of meetings began, to try to work out a pattern of settlement of labor negotiations in the brewing companies and Brewers' Warehousing as well.

On Thursday, August 21 the Industry offered a 6% raise in wages over a 2 year contract period. The offer which also included significant improvements in welfare benefits was made to employees of the following companies: Brewers' Warehousing Company Limited; Canadian Breweries Transport Limited; The Carling Breweries Limited; Dow Kingsbeer Brewery Limited; John Labatt Limited; Molson's Brewery (Ontario) Limited; O'Keefe Brewing Company Limited.

But Our Offer Has Been Rejected

On August 22 the unions rejected the industry's proposals for settlement of the issues in dispute, and turned down the industry's offer of a wage increase. Even when the industry indicated its willingness to consider a more generous monetary offer on the basis of a 3-year contract, the union refused to consider the proposal.

As an example of what this offer means to Brewing Industry employees, we have selected three typical jobs in one of the companies concerned, Brewers Warehousing Company:

For purposes of comparison in the right hand column are shown the wage rates for three similar jobs in other Ontario industries

	PRESENT WAGE: In Major Cent. Centres		NEW COMPANY OFFER for the contract period		WAGES FOR SIMILAR JOBS IN OTHER ONTARIO INDUSTRIES:
	Hourly	Weekly (40-hr. week)	Hourly	Weekly		Hourly	Weekly (40-hr. week)
Warehouseman	$1.98½	$79.40	$2.09½	$83.80	Warehouseman—(retail trade)	$1.23	$49.14
Counter Clerk	$1.98½	$79.40	$2.09½	$83.80	Sales Clerk, Male—(retail stores)	$1.45	$57.94
Truck Driver	$2.08½	$83.40	$2.20¼	$88.10	Truck Driver—(local delivery)	$1.66	$66.40

Brewing Industry employees have always been among the best paid in Canada. Further, they enjoy welfare plans, vacations, and other benefits second to none.

Here are present benefits for Brewers' Warehousing employees:

VACATIONS: 2 weeks with pay after 7 months' service; 3 weeks with pay after 10 years' service; 4 weeks with pay after 25 years' service

SICK LEAVE: 6 days per year with pay

STATUTORY HOLIDAYS: 12 paid holidays per year

WELFARE PLAN: Life insurance—$4,000.00 paid by the Company; Sickness and Accident—Weekly indemnity of $45.00 paid by Company; Hospitalization coverage—Paid by the Company; Pension plan— Equal contributions by company and employee.

We are proud of the wages and working conditions enjoyed by the employees of the Brewing Industry. Between 1946 and 1957 average wages of Brewing Industry employees in Ontario increased by 137% from $1,844.00 to $4,316.00 (DBS)

Now, we have offered our employees wage increases which average out at 12¢ per hour over the period of the contract, in addition to maintaining the cost of living provision which has increased their wages by 14¢ an hour since the last contract was signed.

The requests they have made to us would cost about $2,000 per employee, or about A MILLION DOLLARS A MONTH. Such a demand is obviously unrealistic. To accept such a request would immediately affect the Industry's ability to produce and sell beer at the lowest prices in Canada.

WHEN WILL BEER BE BACK IN ONTARIO? We hope it will be soon. We believe we have made a reasonable, indeed a generous, offer. We hope the unions will reconsider their stand and accept it so that service can be resumed.

Wolverhampton Wanderers Win Opening Game

LONDON (Reuters) — The 1958-59 English soccer season kicked off Saturday in a welter of goals and freak results.

Wolverhampton Wanderers, the defending English League champions, demonstrated they still are the team to beat by routing Nottingham Forest 5-1. Inside-left Bobby Mason scored three goals.

The peak of the scoring spree was reached in the second division where Middlesbrough steamrollered luckless Brighton 9-0.

NEW FACES WIN

West Ham United and Blackburn Rovers, new faces in the first division this season after promotion from the second division, both won—West Ham 3-1 at Portsmouth and Blackburn 3-1 at Newcastle.

The biggest crowd of the day—57,000—Turned out to watch England's "Mr. Football," Stanley Matthews, lead Blackpool to a 3-2 win over Tottenham Hotspur.

The honor of making the first goal of the season went to second division Fulham's inside-forward Johnny Haynes who scored after seconds against Stoke City. Fulham won 6-1, thanks in part to a three-goal effort by Mike Cook.

In the second division, Sunderland, demoted from the first division for the first time since it helped it in the last century, lost 3-1 to Lincoln, a team that finished near the bottom last season.

Manchester United, trying to rebuild a winner after eight stars were killed in an air crash last winter, won 5-3 over Chelsea.

In the newly-created fourth division Crystal Palace led the scoring pace with a 6-2 over Crewe Alexandra.

In the Scottish League Hearts beat Rangers 2-1, and Celtic, defending cup champions, scored a 3-0 win over Clyde.

Canadians Win Flock of Honors At Trap Shoot

VANDALIA, Ohio (CP)—Forty-nine Canadian sharp - shooters were on their way home today with a flock of honors including the biggest of them all at the 50th Grand American trapshoot that concluded Saturday.

Big winner, of course, was foundry superintendent Emerson Clark, 66, of Preston, Ont., who walked away with trapshooting's greatest honor when he won the Grand American handicap.

But other marksmen, particularly young entrants from the Prairies, made impressive showings in competition with top U.S. trapshooters.

At Saturday's final event, 17-year-old Ron Rosher of Saskatoon broke 98 for a second place tie in the Vandalia handicap. Rosher earlier was runner-up in the preliminary handicap.

STIRRING FINISH

George Genereux, 22, also of Saskatoon, was only one off the pace with a 97 in a rousing finish to his competitive shooting that saw him tie at 199 for class A laurels in the North American target race.

And R. J. Tobin of St. Lambert, Que., was runner-up for the professional clay target title and lost the championship only after a shootoff.

Ned Lilly of Stanton, Mich., came from far back with a blazing twenty-out finish to win the over-all championship as he totalled 977 of 1,000 championship targets. Lilly won the Vandalia handicap with 99 of 100 from 20 yards and 98 of 100 to tie for the national doubles title.

Lilly tied with Joe Hiestand of Hillsboro, Ohio, and then lost in a shootoff.

USED OWN AMMUNITION

Members of the Canadian contingent credited their shooting to 10,000 rounds of their own ammunition—the first time they've been allowed to bring it to the Grand American.

Ontario Retains Swim Supremacy In Tough Battle

By NAT COLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ontario has retained its Canadian swimming supremacy, but not without a tough battle.

The eastern swimmers captured the grand aggregate at the four-day Canadian open swimming championships which ended here Saturday, set the most records and gained the award for the outstanding woman swimmer. But they met strong competition from British Columbia and United States entries.

Nine of 23 records established at last meet went to Ontario. The Etobicoke Memorial Club of Toronto set four of them in relay races and Bert Rumpl of Toronto set two in breast stroke events. Sara Barber of Brantford got the other three and the award for the outstanding swimmer.

SEVEN RECORDS TO B.C.

B.C. was close behind with seven records. Bob Wheaton, 16, of Victoria set three marks in backstroke events and long - distance swimmer Bill Slater, who won the award for the outstanding male swimmer, set three in freestyle and medley events. The other B.C. record was set by Ed Cazalet of Vancouver in a junior medley event.

Seattle swimmers finished second in the grand aggregate and set six records. Nancy Ramey, Mike Corrigan and former Hungarian Olympic star Susie Orodgh each established two marks.

Miss Barber swam the 440-yard Individual medley in 6:14.1—36.2 seconds better than the old mark. She scored her greatest triumph in the 220-yard freestyle, cutting 13½ seconds from the 3-year-old record of 2:45.1.

Miss Barber also whipped the old mark of 2:52.2 in the women's 220-year backstroke, with a time of 2:49.5 in the final.

Mary Whitwell of Brantford won the 220-yard individual medley for girls 15 and 16.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

There is an active organization in this city which very few people realize exists. We were one of the majority until a few days ago when a husky blonde chap strolled into the office with a book under his arm and a smile on his face.

Bill Skelly was the fellow's name and for the next hour we listened while he related all the information he could think of about his city's skin diving club, officially known as the "Belleville Aqua Marines."

There was a ring of sincerity in his voice. This perfect meant something to Bill and apparently to the other members of the club too. This was not child's play or a game thought up by a bunch of teenagers looking for kicks. It was something different and something worthwhile.

The book had the letters "SCUBA" on the cover. We were told this stood for the international skin diving organization. The letters meant Self-Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus. Bill leafed through the book, showing diagrams and charts, as he talked of the club.

The club was formed here last May and started out with only two members. President Alex Schadan and Secretary-treasurer Skelly. It has grown over the past few months until now there are five active members. Besides Schadan and Skelly, Peter Gander, Verry Hedden and Mike Talam are active members. A sixth member of the club, not yet active but hoping to be so in the near future, is Miss Jackie Talam. Jackie has learned quickly and will better Mike Talam in diving shortly.

The sport itself was the incentive for the club's beginning. The members offered themselves to the police and fire departments to aid in rescue work and now all members are on call at any time, although they have not been needed so far this summer.

Most of their work at the present time consists of retrieving lost items, such as outboard motors, fishing equipment. Their charge for such services is just enough to cover expenses, according to Skelly.

The cost of equipment is very high and for safety sake they use nothing but the best, all approved by the International SCUBA. They have five complete skin diving units at the present time as well as some accessories but there are more new things necessary if the growth of the club is to continue. The club also has two rubber suits for use in cold water as the winter months approach. .

It is hoped in the not too distant future that the club will be able to buy it's own compressor and if possible his own decompression chamber. The club uses the diver's only suitable compressor at the present time and that is in Trenton. Each dive uses 80 of compressed air costs the local club $2.00. The decompression chamber and a compressor would cost in the neighborhood of $2,000. The club would need a king-sized tank to raise that kind of money. Compressed air is used rather than oxygen because it is safer and allows one to go deeper.

The popularity of the sport is constantly growing in Canada and in this immediate district there are clubs in Trenton, Kingston and Peterborough as well as Belleville. Toronto has a very large club.

Not everyone can join, mostly because of the safety element. Anyone wishing to join must be in top physical condition and must remain so. All members must be capable swimmers and that does not mean just the abuse of swimming, such as life saving and handling yourself if difficulty should arise under water. One must be fully equipped before becoming an active member.

The present club members are constantly learning more themselves as it takes years to become an accomplished skin diver. But they have plenty of know-how right now and are willing to teach anyone who is interested in the club. At club meetings every other Monday, the SCUBA reading material is used to further each member's knowledge of the sport.

As we said before, the club stresses safety. The members adopted a red flag with a white stripe running from the left top corner to the right bottom corner. Whenever a member is below the surface, the flag is flown so that a buoy above the spot. Boats respect the flag and stay clear when they see it. On the otherhand, the divers can hear a boat coming miles away when under water and will not surface when there is danger of coming up under or near a boat.

When working or just training, the club always tries to have two divers down together. They are able to hear each other moving about even when they are unable to see. They can tell by the sound of the other's equipment if he is having any difficulty. There is always another member on the surface in full equipment in case help is necessary. When only one person is down, he or she is tied to the partner above. All equipment can be released by a safety catch, leaving the diver ready to surface quickly if trouble arises. Divers communicate with each other by hand signals and with the man in the boat by line signals. Safety is the by-word.

When the idea of the club was first brought up here, people tried to talk Skelly and Schadan out of it. They pointed out all the dangers. But with the proper training, good physical conditions and top notch equipment, both claim that the element of danger is almost nil. Going too deep and coming up too quickly can cause trouble but divers in this district are not overly deep and by the time you are allowed to dive you have learned well how to surface.

The club is anxious to get more members and Skelly said he felt there are many in the district who would join if they knew enough about the organization. They are also looking for more jobs, big or small, and anyone wishing to employ the present members or to join them is asked to contact any members of the club.

Skelly summed it up by saying: "It is a sensation one does not soon forget, especially on the first trip down. You wonder what it is going to be like and if your equipment will work. Then you're down there, like in another world. Fish come close and stare in your mask. You move about freely. Your cares are worries are gone. It is a wonderful experience."

Pirate Hurler Only 3 Short Of Being 20-Game Winner

First Time in Ten Years Pittsburgh Has Chance to Get in Top Division of Loop

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh's youth-minded Pirates, en route to their first finish in the first division in ten years, are almost certain to boast a 20-game pitcher this season. He is Bob Friend, the oldest Pirate in point of service.

The 27-year-old right - hander has 17 victories, more than any other National League hurler, following Pittsburgh's split of its Sunday doubleheader with St. Louis. The split left them just two percentage point behind the second - place San Francisco Giants.

Friend was credited with the Pirates' 8-4 first game triumph although he gave way to Elroy Face after seven innings. St. Louis rallied for five runs in the eighth and ninth in the second game, 12-8.

In other games, Milwaukee increased its first - place margin over San Francisco to seven games, defeating Cincinnati 5-2 in 10 innings. Cincinnati nipped Los Angeles 8-5 and Philadelphia swept a doubleheader from Chicago 13-8 and 5-3. The second game was called after eight innings because of darkness.

On Saturday the Pirates beat Chicago 6-1 while Los Angeles buthered the Braves 16-1, Phila-and Dan Frazier blanked Cincinnati 5-0.

Bill Mazeroski and Hank Foiles drove in two runs each to provide Pittsburgh's margin of victory over Chicago's Moe Drabowsky. Musial's pinch single in the eighth ignited a five-run uprising that enabled Cards to overcome an 8-7 deficit in the nightcap. Ken Boyer hit a three-run homer earlier for the winners.

Hank Aaron ruined the day in San Francisco, smashing a two-run homer in the tenth as Milwaukee edged the Giants 5-4. The Braves added another run off Red Worthington when Joe Adcock's double and singles by Andy Pafko and Johnny Logan. Lew Burdette, his 16th victim, to four away for Giants.

Frank Robinson's two-out home run in the ninth, after Johnny Temple had led off with a double, gave Cincinnati a 5-4 victory over Los Angeles. Don Zimmer hit a three-run homer for Dodgers.

Ed Bouchee slammed a home run in each game in Philadelphia's double triumph over the Cubs. His first came with the bases loaded to highlight a seven-run outburst in the seventh inning.

Pinch-hitter Rip Repulski also homered in the opener with two on. Wally Post and Willie Jones homered in his first appearance as the Phillies came from behind in the second game with four tallies in the eighth. First baseman Gene Marshall, purchased from Baltimore Saturday, hit two homers and a single in the first game and came through with a home run and single in the second.

Davey West registered two touchdowns for the Dutchmen, who scored on passes from Celeri. Norcia converted one.

Though London was in charge of the game for most of the time, rushing to Kitchener-Waterloo's 251 yards, Celeri paced the victory with 12 completions in 25 attempts for 205 yards. Both his touchdowns were to Bryant Stokes (7); Hayden, Sawchez (7) and A. Alvarez.

Belleville led 20-8 at the half but while got the Bears back in the game by running the second-half kickoff back 95 yards for a touchdown.

From then on it was nip and tuck with Belleville's accurate field goal following an interception by Eric McKeever.

In the Northern Ontario Rugby Football Union Sudbury Hardrocks and Sturgeon Falls Bombers were tied for first place Thursday in the intermediate league after Sudbury walloped Kirkland Lake Aloueties 36-13 and Bombers blanked last - place North Bay Trappers Rolly Ouelette following the game. Oulette and five other players were sent to the showers during the game for fighting. The report will go to NORFU secretary Leo Troy.

Late-Game Kicks Provide Wins for Kitchener, Sarnia

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Late-game kicks provided slim margins for Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Sarnia Imperials and for Sarnia Golden Bears over Detroit Raiders in opening games Saturday night of the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union's 1958 season.

Dutchmen quarterback Bob Celeri bolsted a third-quarter 60-yard punt at Waterloo that London import Bob Miller fumbled. Lords recovered but were rouged on the play. Earlier the Londoners missed a convert that would have given them a tie. The Dutchmen won 14-13.

Raiders, playing their first season in the union, looked like winners in Sarnia until late in the final quarter when Sarnia import quarter Glen Cappelletti erased Detroit's one-point lead with a field goal and gave his club a 35-33 win.

Sarnia's four touchdowns were scored by Tex Dickinson, Emlie White, J. B. Smith and Dick Dicks. Cappelletti also counted another field goal, kicked three converts and a single. The other point came when Dick Lisabeth of Detroit was rouged.

PAIR FOR RICHMOND

Ellie Richmond, formerly with Sarnia, scored two Detroit touchdowns. Others went to Jack Crittenden, Cliff Coughlin and Charles Twitty. Lisabeth kicked two converts and a single.

Lords' convert miss by Del Thachuk came after they scored a touchdown early in the final quarter following a 50 - yard march. Ross Buckle eluded a defender on a wide end sweep.

They won the game in the game after a bad snap that Celeri was unable to pull down. Des Desmone fell on the ball over the Dutchmen line.

Peterborough Shades Bobcats 8-7 With Six Runs in Seventh Frame

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Bobcats outshone Peterborough Queen's Hotel in eight innings of nine Saturday night but blew apart in the seventh frame and dropped a 8-7 decision in the opening game of their OSAA Intermediate "AA" series.

Second game will be played in Peterborough on Wednesday night at eight o'clock.

The Bobcats were hitting the long ball and Bobby Green was hurling one his best games of the season until the seventh inning when the roof fell in on him. The Cats were out in front 5-2 and both Peterborough runs were unearned. But the whole picture was changed in the seventh.

Ab Carravaggio, leading off for the Petes, reached first on a slow roller between first and second base. Green fanned the next batter, walked one, then whiffed another for the second out. Ken Ross James Jamieson's grounder to second went for a hit when Crawford did not make a play. This loaded the sacks with two out.

Green walked the opposing pitcher to force in one run and Coach Temple ordered him to the mound with Lum Carson. Carson was greeted by a single off "Cap" Chadwick's bat, the only good hit of the frame, scoring two runs to bring the score to 5-4. A walk filled the sacks again and all three runners scored on a wild pitch over to first by Russell, putting the Petes ahead 8-5.

CASEY MIDDLED

Bobcats fought back with one run in the eighth on a single by Bill Crawford but then the lefty fielded line. They cut the margin to 8-7 in the ninth on Green's single, an error on the same play and Guidolin's fly ball. But the equalizer would not come.

The homesters led 1-0 in the first on Wesley Wells' single and Guidolin's fly to centre field. Brown's line drive double scored Wells' put through the fielder, allowing him to go all the way around to the first base bag.

Peterborough tied it briefly with two unearned runs in the top half of the fifth. A walk, Wells' single and a bad throwing error put the Petes ahead with Brown plated the runs.

Don Barclay, who had robbed the Petes' Jack Gordon of a two-run homer with a beautiful running catch against the centre field fence, "Cat" ahead again with a lined-out homer down the left field line to the bottom of the fifth. A walk to Crawford was followed by another "Cat" homer, this one off "Wiener" Brown's bat.

Bobby Green picked up three hits in 5 2/3 innings only to run out of the infield. He fanned nine batters before Lum Carson allowed only one hit, giving the Petes a total of 10. He fanned three and passed one.

Jack Gordon was the winner, going until the eight when replaced by Reg Gordon. They allowed eight hits, including three doubles. Jamieson and a triple. They issued nine free passes and struck out only one man and that batter got on base on the catcher's error.

HIGH PERFECT NIGHT

"Wiener" Brown had a perfect night at the plate with a homer, two doubles and two walks. He scored three times. Don Barclay homered and tripled while John Casey got his first hits of the season, a homer and single. Paul Russell collected a single.

Ab Carravaggio and Green's no-hitter with a single in the fifth by "Cap" Wiechorck, Ross Jamieson and Ab Carravaggio had the Petes four singles.

Ellis of San Antonio, Texas, Wins Canadian Golf Title; Stan Leonard in Fourth Place

BY JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — A soft-spoken young Texan captured the Canadian golf championship Saturday, standing up under pressure to win by a stroke in a stretch duel with a seasoned veteran.

Wes Ellis, a 36-year-old native of San Antonio now playing out of Ridgewood, N.J., overcame early nervousness and last-hole blues to score a four-putt-green 68 in the final round and finish the 72-hole contestlilun 18 strokes under par with 287.

This was one better than Jay Hebert, 35-year-old Pensacola, Fla., pro from Sanford, Fla., who held a two-stroke lead over Ellis as he stroked par 54 holes.

Hebert, playing unspectacular and conservative golf until the final holes when he knew he was behind, came around in one-under-par 69, missing a last chance for a tie when his 45-foot putt on the 72nd green stopped 12 inches short.

The victory in the $80,000 open was the greatest triumph to date for Ellis, in his first year on the pro golf tour, and it brought him $2,000 and the Seagram Gold Cup. Hebert earned $1,200 for his second-place money.

BAYER FIRES 64

George Bayer, the six-foot-five ex-footballer from Lemont, Ill., who won the open last year, finished strongly with rounds of 69 and 68 and a total of 289 to a 300 total and third-place money of $1,800.

Top Canadian was Stan Leonard of Vancouver, a 44-year-old pre-tournament favorite who finished with par 290 and a five-way tie for fourth place. He earned $1,200 and a prize of another $300 as low Canadian.

Doug Silverberg of Calgary had three birdies, rounds, including a last-day 68, to take low amateur honors, five strokes back.

The Canadian professionals left Edmonton for Calgary where the eight 54-hole Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship starts today. The regular tournament players from the United States headed west for Vancouver for the $40,000 Centennial open starting Thursday.

HURRAHING'S NO WIN

Ellis surprised even himself as he finished the best par-wrecker among a whole flock of pros, stars and veterans who ripped the 6,667-yard par-70 Mayfair course apart.

He said he had never expected to win. "I just try to play my best and make a little money."

His tense battle with Hebert went to the last putt as he dropped a 15-footer on the last green to get out of difficulty and hold his lead. It provided a fitting end to the competition that saw 141 sub-par scores in four days.

Thirty-eight of Saturday's field of 64 were under regulation figures and another seven hit par on the nose.

When the smoke cleared, Mike Souchak of Greenville, N.Y., Bob Goetz of Tulsa, Okla., Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill. and Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., were tied with Leonard at 770 and each got $1,220.

Al Balding of Toronto, with Leonard the only seasoned Canadian pro on the gold trail, slipped into a ninth-place tie at 771 when he came around in 68 Saturday. He earned $300 for that and got another $200 as second-low Canadian.

Moe Norman of Toronto finished out of the money with an even-par 280.

TiCats Defeat Ottawa Roughies To Top League

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats edged Ottawa Rough Riders 15-9 Saturday night to take first place in the Big Four Football Union before more than 23,000 fans.

The Tiats were opportunists, intercepting three passes, recovering three Ottawa fumbles and clocking a field goal by. Three of the key defensive plays led to Hamilton scores.

After Gerry McDougall booted a 30-yard field goal, Bobby Dawkins intercepted an Ottawa pass and returned it 22 yards to begin Hamilton's lone touchdown drive which stood up for a 10-7 opening-quarter lead.

TRICK PLAY

Ticats dipped into their bag of tricks for the touchdown, a 10-yard pass-and-run play. Quarterback Bernie Faloney lateralled to Stopper Glascavelli who passed to Ron Howell all alone on the Rough Rider 15-yard line. McDougall converted.

Ottawa's Hamilton-born rookie quarterback, Russ Jackson, and import fullback Ron Gaudian paced the Rough Riders in their only touchdown minutes later.

Gaudian opened the 85 - yard drive with a 30-yard run. Jackson scooted 18 on an option play and three plays later raced 19 yards off the option for the score, which Gary Schrieber converted.

Neither team could get rolling for the rest of the way although Hamilton picked up three singles in the third quarter.

Fraser booted a pair, one a 40-yarder after Ticats recovered a fumble. Another recovery of an Ottawa fumble put McDougall in position for a field goal try but the kick was low and went for a single when Don Pinney conceded the point.

Ottawa outrushed Hamilton 197 to 99, with Gaudian picking up 91 yards in 11 carries. Hamilton outpassed Ottawa 132 say 115, with Faloney connecting on seven of 13 and Hal Ledyard and Jackson combining for nine out of 18.

British Yacht Shows Amazing Speed in Trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — How fast is Sceptre?

Yachtsmen won't get the answer to that one until Sept. 20 when Sir Richard Graham defends the challenge for the America's Cup.

But here's a secret—she's at least a bucket and a beat faster than her U.S.-owned trial-horse, Gleam.

Sceptre's crew has had to put on "brakes" on as they ran off some benefit from practice races with Gleam, an overweight 12-metre.

The canvas bucket and tender are towed along astern during the drills off here.

CLOSE-TACKING TACTICS

Lt. Cmdr. Graham Mann, the challenger's skipper, acknowledged the drags have "just about slowed her down enough."

Sceptre's crew has thus been able to polish up in close-tacking drills so essential to match racing.

Cedar, Maine, a close friend of Prince Philip, was formerly sailing master aboard the prince's yacht, Bluebottle. He's in Newport.

"Everything seems to be going along pretty well," he says. "We're in no panic at all."

Since her arrival here a week ago Sunday, Queen Elizabeth Sceptre has been out almost every day.

Only Manin has any complaint over the wind, which has been on the light side since Sceptre arrived.

"The wind's been fine," he said. "Sceptre goes well in it about anything."

She's heavier than any of the four U.S. yachts now competing in a series of trials for the honor of defending the America's Cup.

Columbia, Vim, Weatherly and Easterner will resume their trials Monday. One of them will be picked by the cup selection committee sometime before Sept. 13.

RECORD CATCH.

CHAPLIN, Conn. (AP) — A Chaplin man has caught what he believes is a world's record codfish for tackle. Earle Belek, fishing off Rockport, Mass., Friday reported catching a 76-pound cod. He used a rod, reel and 40-pound test line. Belt was a clam.

George Kortsos gave up only four hits, struck out 11 and got three hits, including a triple, for Merritton; Bobby Wright was the loser.

Pigeon Racing

Fog and rain played havoc with the Quinte Racing Pigeon Club's young bird race from Brockville over the weekend with none of the birds arriving home under the deadline.

Eighty - two birds were released from Burwash, a flying distance of 322 miles, at 5.36 a.m. Sunday and to be a winner, a bird must arrive here in Belleville before sundown that day of the race. None accomplished the feat due to the bad weather. This was the second time this summer that weather has caused this to happen.

The next race will also be from Burwash on August 31. This will be a young bird race.

Quinte Trap and Gun Club

Dick Thomson scored a perfect 25 at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club over the weekend as disinfect business turned out to sharpen their eyes for the approaching clay season.

Thomson, president of the club, extends an invitation to all hunters to attend the weekly shoots, pointing out that there is no better place to get in practice sessions.

Following Thomson's perfect 25 yesterday were A. Waldorf and George Hammell with scores of 24. George Haggis, John Walsh and Gary Little each shot a 21 while Jackie Wardhaugh and Dick Roastie had 20.

Stamps Trounce Eskimos 35-7 to Take Over Lead

Visions of the Grey Cup danced in the heads of Calgary fans after Stampeders trounced Edmonton Eskimos 35-7 in the only Western Interprovincial Football Union game Saturday night.

It was the second straight one-sided win at home for the Stampeders and put them in first place.

Two games tonight give squads a chance to reply to humiliating defeats, Stampeders play Vancouver against the Lions, beaten 42-0 in Calgary, and Winnipeg Blue Bombers invade Edmonton.

Ernie Warlick, 27-year-old end from Hickory, N.C., caught two touchdown passes for Stampeders Saturday. Other Calgary touchdowns were counted by quarterback Knobby Wirkowski, halfback Dick Washington and half Harvey Wylie. Doug Brown converted all five touchdowns.

Edmonton's points came from quarterback Jackie Parker who went over for the lone Eskimo touchdown and scored a single on a quick-kick on the last play of the first half.

Maverick Wins Silver Cup by 100-Foot Margin

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Stead, driving W. T. Waggoner's Maverick, gave the U.S. west coast another victory over Detroit in their eight - year - old unlimited hydroplane feud with a spectacular triumph in the final and deciding heat of the Silver Cup regatta Saturday.

The question of disqualification was raised but it was claimed that Maverick hit a buoy on the third lap. The disqualification claim was not allowed.

Stead finished with a narrow 100-foot margin over Detroiter Joe Schoenith's Gale V, driven by 54-year-old Bill Cantrell.

The two boats never were more than 200 yards apart in the final mile heat, the only one in which points were awarded.

Bob Haywood of London, Ont., drove Miss Supertest II to a third-place finish in elimination heat 1-A won by Gale V.

SETS RECORD

DETROIT (AP) — A Toronto police sergeant Saturday set a world record of 18 feet, three inches in the 56-pound high throw. Sgt. Stan Raike's mark bettered the 17 feet 7¾ inches record set by Police Sig. Jim Henderson of Toronto last July. Raike's mark was set in the Detroit police games, in which Detroit policemen defeated Toronto policemen 8615-7754.

Splendid Movie Being Made Out of 'The FBI Story'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How could they get a movie out of Don Whitehead's best seller, The FBI Story?

That seemed a puzzle since the book had a wealth of fascinating data, but no central story line. So when I learned that Warner Brothers was off and running with the film version I went to investigate.

They were shooting a scene in which James Stewart and Vera Miles leave a church after their wedding and take off in a 1909 Dodge. I sought out director Mervyn LeRoy, the Rooney-sized movie maker.

"How on earth did you get a script out of The FBI Story?" I asked him.

"Toughest job I ever tackled," said LeRoy, and invited me on a tour.

FINDS MUDDY REALISM

I dutifully followed him to a nearby set that depicted Oklahoma in the oil-rush days. It was realistic as all get-out, even to the mud on my shoes.

"This is where Stewart goes on his first case," LeRoy said. "The banker is killing off the rich Indians to get their oil rights. It's a tough case, but the FBI solves it. I've got 160 sets on this picture, more than I've ever had on a picture before."

How does the picture end?

"Think I'm going to tell you?" he snorted.

Obviously not, I concluded as he stalked off to toss some directions at the crew. Still not having solved my case, I sought out Jimmy Stewart for an explanation of how the story was licked.

"I think the problem was solved in a very ingenious way," he said. "The Whitehead book was largely a straight history of the FBI. The picture script tries to tell the story of the FBI through the eyes of one man and his family.

STORY BEGINS IN '24

"It begins in 1924, when the bureau of investigation is pretty badly hit with corruption. I get married and decide to quit. But I go to Washington and meet the new chief, J. Edgar Hoover (who isn't portrayed in the picture). I come away so impressed with him that I decide to stay on."

The film will then show many famous cases, such as Baby Face Nelson, Machine Gun Kelly, John Dillinger, the Colorado plane bombing and a Communist surveillance in New York.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Be particularly clever in all that you do today, whether in connection with regular job, financial affairs, public efforts, etc. And be very sure you do not take any unwise gambles in anything.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You are in a mood to gain much new information and put across some fine ideas, but take care you are not too forceful with others. Spend your time in research and getting prepared for the steps you want to take; progress gradually.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Your intuitions are all quite correct today, so be sure you do not follow any such inclinations, regardless of how much force is used on you to do so by others. They do not have your best interests at heart. P.M. be economical, balanced.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Don't be typically Leonist today, roaring about loudly. This would only lead to much argument and heartache that will weaken you physically and mentally. Study what has to be done, then get at it wisely, efficiently and philosophically.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Here is a day when you feel quite frustrated. While there is no pressure on you to come through with obligations, if you failed to do so, much prestige and support would be lost quickly. Get to work and all is well.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — An unexpected meeting with or call from someone may appear to bring a big problem to the fore. But if handled astutely, this becomes a real stepping-stone for the immediate future.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — While home changes and duties appear to be of prime importance right now, in reality it is the outside interests that bring faster and greater returns. Show everyone your good will and combine slowly, happily.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You are thinking constructively today how you can make a greater success of your immediate job, as well as the over-all picture of your existence. Be sure you plan positively for best results. P. M. drive carefully.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Let your financial affairs as well as your right dealings with others play the major role in today's activities. If you are to achieve the greatest security and abundance. Be as practical as possible.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Ah, here is a day to remember! You would like to throw in the sponge and break all fixations, situations. This would be foolhardy. Take it easy instead, and work along with the tide of events. Your day will soon be here.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Private worry has you in such a dither that you would take out your ire and hurt on an innocent person you truly love the most. This would be horrid, so drown yourself in work awaiting your attention.

If your child is born today . . . The wonderful child born today is the type who forever is up to something, and keeps you guessing. Your youngster has some rather remarkable talents and is definitely a product of the New Age. He or she, will be able to take the best from the past and the present to bring forth something entirely new. Give good training in ethical, spiritual values and your progeny will live a most successful life.

Gore

THE GORE — Several members of the Women's Institute motored to Picton on Tuesday afternoon and visited the county home. They entertained the residents and took in the fine program of readings and musical numbers. Each resident was given a useful gift as a memento of the occasion and the ladies left their box lunches for the members of the home. A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the Institute members and home residents as well.

Mr. Lorne Brickman, Audra, and Miss Irma Bonter, attended the centennial services at Wellington United Church on Saturday.

Mrs. Bray Noyes is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

The 'Fun Fair' planned by the Victoria WA to be held on the church lawn on Wednesday evening had to be held in the church basement because of a heavy rain. The fun was curtailed but a pleasant time was enjoyed anyway and all were thankful for the rain which was badly needed for pastures and gardens.

Fed. Bookkeeping System Complex, Net Government Debt Increasing Sharply

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

When we speak of the federal government's debt the figure most commonly used is that of net debt.

Perhaps more than any other figure it sums up all government activities as seen by our bookkeeping system.

In current practice it goes down by the amount of budget surpluses or goes up by the amount of deficits — with some further variations for adjustments in figures of former years.

GROWTH OF DEBT

Net debt in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1939, was $3,152,600,000 and at March 31, 1946—seven years later—was $13,431,400,000.

Thus, in the war years, it increased by $10,288,800,000 despite the fact that about 38 per cent of war costs were met out of revenues of those years.

At March 31, 1958, it reached a post-war low of $11,907,700,000. In other words, in an 11 - year period it was reduced by $2,413,700,000, or just over one quarter of the wartime increase.

The decrease came almost wholly from nine annual budget surpluses, minus deficits of $151,200,000 in 1949 and $33,100,000 in 1950. More than half the reduction came in a two-year period, from surpluses of $676,100,000 in 1948 and $586,500,000 in 1949.

In the year ended last March 31 it advanced again by $40,500,000 to $11,948,000,000 as the result of a budget deficit of $29,400,000 and adjustments of $1,300,000. This year it presumably will go up again by about the amount of the deficit estimated in the June budget at $648,000,000.

RELATIVELY LOWER

Increase in net debt, however, has been accompanied by increases in population and national production, with the result that Net's per capita and percentage basis it is well down from former years.

In 1946 it was about $965 per capita compared with a present figure of about $646.

In 1938 it amounted to 60 per cent of gross national product in that year; rose to 113 per cent in 1945; dropped almost year by year to 85 per cent in 1957; and this year is estimated at 27 per cent.

Net debt is an accounting figure and may vary somewhat with the manner in which we keep our books. To understand it better some examination is needed of the things that enter into it.

It is arrived at by adding up our liabilities — also known as gross national debt — and subtracting our assets.

MAJOR DIFFERENCE

Here we find a major difference between government and business accounting.

A business can be bought or sold and, accordingly, it places a commercial value on its physical assets—buildings, plant, inventories and so on.

The government is different. It keeps on operating as long as the country lasts. And it places no bookkeeping value on its physical assets—except a nominal one of $1.

You won't find in its statement of assets any mention of the Parliament Buildings, post offices, warships, airplanes, warships or anything else of a physical nature out of its multitudinous holdings. If it did place a value of those things it could probably declare it had no net debt and most people likely would consider such a statement highly unrealistic.

If a specific item is sold, however, the price it brings goes into revenue.

DEBT LIABILITIES

Liabilities at March 31 totalled $18,208,900,000, including $14,245,100,000 in unmatured debt and $4,123,200,000 in other liabilities.

Unmatured debt consisted of 16 general issues of government securities; the fifth in the ninth victory loans, which now are being converted into other securities; issues of Canada savings bonds; and three-month Treasury bills, sort of short-term financing which goes on continuously.

Any increase or decrease in unmatured debt doesn't necessarily affect the net debt figure, as the increase or decrease may be offset by something else. An increase for investment in an asset, for instance, would be offset by the resulting increase in the value of assets.

The current refinancing of $6,400,000,000 of victory loans doesn't constitute an increase or decrease but an exchange of one debt for another.

WARTIME INCREASE

Unmatured debt in 1939 totalled $3,300,000,000. In 1946 had climbed to $16,807,000,000, a wartime increase of $13,421,000,000. The total of $14,345,100,000 at last March 31 was a post-war low and a decrease of $2,361,900,000 from the 1946 high.

The 1958 budget estimated that net new cash requirements this year to meet the budgetary deficit and non - budgetary expenditures will be about $1,400,000,000. Accordingly, unmatured debt may be expected to increase by about that amount, unless it is modified by some other financing action.

Other liabilities included in gross national debt at March 31 included $1,712,000,000 in annuity, insurance and pension accounts; current and demand liabilities $874,800,000; deposit and trust accounts $186,900,000; undisbursed balances of appropriations to special accounts $285,600,000; suspense accounts $84,100,000.

The assets side included loans to and investments in crown corporations $1,712,000,000 in international governments, including $1,098,600,000 under the United States Financial Agreement Act of 1946, and loans or advances to Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Netherlands, Norway, India.

Other asset items included $308,900,000 cash on hand and $100,000,000 cash in the hands of collectors or in transit; $1,975,000,000 in advances to the exchange fund account; and $212,000,000 in sinking funds and other investments held for retirement of unmatured debt.

LOAN TO CHINA

Among inactive loans and investments is a loan to Nationalist China of $49,428,148 under the Export Credits Insurance Act, made in 1946.

Altogether, assets totalled $7,866,600,000. However, losses may occur on some of the items. No provide for this is an accounting one since the government currently subtracts $546,600,000 from assets under the heading of reserve for losses of realization of assets."

This, at March 31, brought net assets down to $7,318,530,567, which, subtracted from liabilities, gives the net debt figure.

Reds Increase Bombardment Of Quemoy, Islets

Quicken Shelling Tempo; Pilots of MiGs Defect

TAIPEI (AFP) — The Chinese Communists stepped up their shelling in short, furious bursts for the fourth straight day today, again increasing the volume of shells poured into the Chinese Nationalist outpost island.

The bombardment, which some officials feared was a prelude to invasion of the Nationalist offshore islands, began with about 30,000 shells during the weekend but subsided Monday to some 2,500 shots. Today the Reds stepped up the tempo again.

In three rounds of shelling from the nearby mainland beginning shortly after midnight, the Communists laid down Quemoy and the nearby Tan Islets with about 200 times the Nationalist defence ministry said. Then in two hours and 40 minutes of early afternoon some 2,500 shells crashed down on the heavily-fortified islands.

SAY REDS DEFECT

Three newspapers in Taipei insisted early today that a Communist MIG-17 jet fighters flown by defecting pilots had landed on Formosa. One paper said two pilots had defected and another paper said three.

The defence ministry spokesman, Major-General Lin Hsi Ying, denied the reports but rumors persisted that something had happened which authorities found inexpedient to disclose.

With the 7th Fleet already on the alert, a landing force of 1,500 men from the U.S. Marine Division was ordered to sail from Singapore. The destination of the force, aircraft carrier and four accompanying ships was not disclosed, but it was assumed they were moving closer to Formosa.

NEEDING CLOSE WATCH

The 7th Fleet is pledged to protect Formosa but not necessarily Quemoy or the offshore islands.

Officials in Washington said close watch was being kept on the situation by the Communist air force.

Maj.-Gen. Thomas Moorman, commander of the U.S. 13th Air Force based in the Philippines, visited Formosa for talks with Nationalist U.S. officers.

Nationalist authorities were paying increasing attention to the Communist build-up, the commanding would try to seize Tungting island, 10 miles off the coast.

The island is used by the Nationalists to keep tab on ships pro-Communist port of Amoy, the Communist port opposite Quemoy, but capture would help the Reds invade Nationalist blockades. The island is believed fairly well fortified and garrisoned by the Nationalists.

STILL DEFICIT

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada shattered all records in tourist trade last year, but still ended up with a deficit as spending by Canadians in other countries exceeded foreign spending in Canada. The number of tourist visits to Canada was also not enough to offset the $700,000 from 27,700,000 in 1956, the Bureau of Statistics reports. Canadian visits to other countries increased to 27,300,000 from 27,000,000. Canadian spending totalled $325,000,000. Foreign spending in Canada rose only to $263,000,000, up $26,000,000.

FRENCH DEMAND STERN MEASURES AGAINST REBELS

Algerian Terrorists Attack Oil Depots

PARIS (AP) — Oil-depot fires touched off by Algerian terrorists still burned out of control in France as demands rose for stern counter-action.

Each barricades were being thrown up around the Mourepiane fuel tank farm on the southern skirts of Marseille in an effort to contain the blaze there. Firemen could do little but let the flaming gasoline and oil burn out.

Other fires at Narbonne and Toulouse were believed under investigation.

The interior ministry put special security measures into effect to prevent renewal of the hit-and-run terrorism that erupted across France before dawn on Monday. It was the worst outbreak in metropolitan France since the Algerian rebellion began nearly four years ago.

SPECIAL FORCES

Soldiers were posted around key points and installations. A previously - planned special battalion of 1,000 was put on active service to co-ordinate the campaign against terrorism.

The morning newspaper Le Figaro demanded in a front-page editorial that measures be set quickly to halt the terrorism.

"It is a kind of terror that he Algerian killers create at their pleasure and design on our metropolitan soil, if they do not encounter," the paper said. ". . . The time is long past when the means to act . . . they should be given carte blanche."

The right-wing L'Aurore said the Algerian nationalists were "declaring open war" and thought the new terrorism would upset plans for the constitutional referendum Sept. 28.

Four police and at least five terrorists were killed. The oil attacks followed the pattern of rebel strike action in the war across the Mediterranean in Algeria.

Authorities blamed the wave of terrorism on the group that dominates Algeria's rebel government, the National Liberation Front (FLN). It has a strong underground network in the 200,000 Algerians who work in France.

Premier de Gaulle will visit Algeria later this week on his tour seeking votes for a new constitution that would keep Algeria as part of France. The attacks obviously were timed to draw at-

5,000 Workers Out at Pontiac

DETROIT (AP) — Output of 1958 model cars was threatened anew today as more labor trouble hit the auto industry.

A walkout of 5,000 union employees at the Pontiac (Mich.) motor division of General Motors made idle 5,000 workers, bringing the number of strike-affected United Auto Workers in GM, Ford and Chrysler plants to 8,500. Settlement negotiations with other strikers back to work.

Local 594 of the UAW called the Pontiac walkout came after grievance procedure had bogged down. A company spokesman would spokesmen gave any details.

Another 2,300 employees are on strike at Ford and Chrysler plants in Detroit and Cleveland. The strike at Ford idled as many management and union headed off a sixth month of contract talks.

Lebanese Industrialist Head Shot Dead on Beirut Street

BEIRUT (AP) — Abdullah Naccallah, secretary of the Lebanese Industrialists' Organization, was shot dead today in one of Beirut's traffic-jammed streets as he was leaving his car near a friend's office.

Naccallah resigned a year ago as secretary of the Naljada Party, a Lebanese parliamentary organization now joining the rebels.

A bomb exploded in a cafe Monday but 20 United States' servicemen could were unhurt.

The blast came as 30 leaders of Lebanon's revolt gathered here and demanded of incoming president Fuad Chehab that he include some of them in his new government. They renewed their demand that Chehab get American forces out of Lebanon without waiting for UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to make the arrangements.

Rebel leaders declared a truce after the election of Chehab on July 31. They drop responsibility for frequent bombings and shootings.

The cafe bomb was the first planted in any place used by U.S. soldiers, sailors and Marines in Beirut. The cafe is in a fashionable section of the city frequented by U.S. troops on liberty or on pass.

Arkansas Legislators Meet To Stop School Integration

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas legislature gathered today to assign approval on measures aimed at keeping Negro students out of Little Rock schools unless voters approve racially-mixed classes.

The Little Rock school board scrapped one measure before the legislature met. It announced postponement of all city school openings to Sept. 8 from Sept. 2 to ease the time pressure on the legislature and the U.S. Supreme Court.

A bill requiring the delay in the fall term had been prepared for legislative approval.

School superintendent Virgil Blossom announced meanwhile that three more Negroes applied for admission to white schools. Seven who attended Central High School last year under federal court order are expected to reapply Wednesday.

The key measure prepared by Governor Orval Faubus would present him the power to close any school should the federal government seek to integrate it by court order or injunction.

The school would remain closed until voters declined — within 30 days — on whether to integrate or keep its doors shut.

A third measure would permit the student of a closed school to carry his state aid allotment with him to another district.

The Supreme Court will hold an unusual session Wednesday to deal with Little Rock's riot-marked school racial problems.

Army troops protected nine Negro students who entered Central High last fall after federal court ordered integration. The soldiers arrived one day after white demonstrators fought police until the nine were spirited away from the school.

A flood of segregation bills may be introduced Monday which would have their own ideas on how to keep schools segregated. But it is fully apparent that the governor possesses political strength to block any anything he wants the way he wants it.

Faubus said he called the emergency session to block any last-minute integration ruling by the Supreme Court.

Under current lower-court rulings, the city's schools are under no order to integrate when the fall term opens. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People appealed to the Supreme Court to override the lower-court rulings.

Noting that only seven days remained before Little Rock schools were to open, Chief Justice Earl Warren called an extraordinary meeting for Thursday to rule on the NAACP petition. He acted before the school board announced the six-day delay in the fall term.

Negro May Get Execution Stay In Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A Negro sentenced to die next week for a $1.95 robbery in which an 82-year-old white woman says he tried to rape her may get a stay of execution.

Jimmy Wilson, 55, is scheduled to die Sept. 5 but the state Supreme Court has been asked to reconsider. His execution will be postponed at least until the motion is heard.

Wilson was convicted of robbing Mrs. Estelle Barker at her home in rural Perry County the night of Jan. 31. He told police the jury the Negro, who had worked for her as a yardman, choked her, tried to rape her and took $1.95 from her purse.

Defence lawyer Allen Wiman, prosecutor Blanchard McLeod and the Negro put Mrs. Barker "in fear of her life." Under Alabama law, McLeod, said threatened violence can constitute an element of robbery the same as the use of a weapon.

Robbery is punishable by death in the electric chair in Alabama. Wilson's execution was set put into use in Alabama in 1927, only 3 Negroes have been executed for that offence.

A counsel for the Negro says he said there is little likelihood of an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court if the redetermining motion is turned down, in state court.

That would leave the Negro's fate up to Governor James E. Folsom who can commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

The village was placed under house curfew.

RCAF Identifies Four of Five Crash Victims

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF Monday night identified four of the five persons killed when two planes collided and one crashed into a hospital at the Canadian air base near Metz, FFrance.

They were FO Bruce Kirkham, 21, of Fort Credit, Ont.; FO George Raymer, 25, of Medicine Hat, Alta.; Flt. Lt. William Bice of London, Ont., and Mrs. William Stenham, 23, of Dunsville, Ont.

The only occupant of the two aircraft to bail out was FOF B. T. Pharaoh, 26, of Surrey, England. He is in Three Wings hospital at Zweibrucken, Germany, and believed not in serious condition.

WITHHOLD NAME

Name of the pilot whose-aircraft plunged into the hospital was not released pending notification of relatives.

FO Kirkham was air observer in the aircraft that hit the hospital. Mrs. Stenham was believed a patient in the hospital. Cpl. William E. Stenham, her husband, is a member of RCAF No. 1 Air Division at the Grez Tesquin base near Metz.

FO Raymer, father of three, was pilot of the aircraft that crashed into a field. Flt. Lt. Bice, father of four children, was an RCAF medical associate employed in the Grez Tesquin hospital pharmacy. His wife is the former Mary Eleanor Smeaton of Brantford.

Hammer Beating Leads to Charge

BRAMPTON (CP) — A 50-year-old man has been charged with assault occasioning bodily harm following the hammer beating saturday night of a farmer.

Wilfred Wilson is reported in satisfactory condition in hospital here. He was to have attended his 70th birthday party Monday.

Provincial police said Wilson was beaten about the head with a blunt object.

He was discovered by friends, who found the four-at-his home in the village of Castlemore. They put the blame out and found Mr. Wilson unconscious on the floor, soaked bed.

Robert Johnston, 24, was remanded without bail on an assault charge.

Toronto Pianist, Montreal Soprano Feature Canada Day at World Fair

BRUSSELS (CP) — Memorable performances by two talented young Canadians marked Canada's national day at the "Brussels World Fair on a triumphal note Monday night.

Pianist Glenn Gould of Toronto and soprano Marguerite Lavergne of Montreal captivated the audience with a program from the Bach and Britain's Benjamin Britten.

And adding the final touch to Canada's cultural evening, Toronto's Hart House String Orchestra performed the works of Godfrey Ridout and Dr. Oskar Morawetz, both of the faculty of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

Gould gave a masterly interpretation of Bach's Concerto No. 1 in D Minor. He was particularly effective in bringing out all the joyous vigor of the first and last movements.

His unorthodox mannerisms—playing much of the time with his legs crossed and in pauses dropping his hands limply to his sides — distracted the Belgian audience but their unreserved applause showed admiration for his keyboard artistry.

Miss Lavergne, now studying in Vienna under a Quebec government scholarship, was given four curtain calls for a fine rendition of Britten's Illuminations Opus 18. The work consists of 10 songs in French based on poems by Arthur Rimbaud.

One of the surprises of the evening was the depth of the Canadian program.

Many of the countries, which have lavavered national day concert programs with a mixture of light and serious music, the Canadians maintained a high classical standard throughout. And the audience, which has enjoyed the privilege in recent weeks of listening to some of the world's greatest artists, showed their appreciation with repeated calls of pleasure lasting several minutes.

Alaskans Likely to Approve Territory Becoming 49th State

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A pencilled "X" marked on three separate ballots gave Alaskans a final voice today in deciding whether the northern territory is to be the 49th state.

More than 33,000 Alaskans were expected to cast votes at 397 polling places scattered through the U.S. territory's 586,400 square miles.

When all the votes are counted and some of them won't be tabulated for days, Alaskans are expected to have approved statehood by a margin of at least 2 to 1.

Under terms of the act signed in July by President Eisenhower such a vote will mean that a 49th star will be added to the U.S. flag next year.

Anticipation of approval of the three statehood referendums, Alaskans also were voting today to nominate candidates for the first state offices.

The first of the three propositions in the special referendum balloting is the key to statehood.

On that it will read, Alaskans marked an "X" to indicate yes or no to the question "Shall Alaska be admitted forthwith into the union as a state?"

Those voting say "yes," it appears the other two propositions will be approved by a similar margin.

One of the others calls for acceptance of the territorial boundaries fixed by the Congress of the new state. The last one accepts for the new state 102,550,000 acres of public land, and reserves to the president of the U.S. the right to make military land withdrawals in periods of national emergency.

Statehood opposition has been based on the feeling that the territory is too poor financially to support a state government.

Canada May Up Colombo Plan Aid To Assist Trade

Move Seen as Example To Commonwealth Lands

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is considering a sharp boost in her Colombo Plan and other Commonwealth contributions with some informed sources today indicating this form of Canadian aid may be increased by as much as 50 per cent.

Some details of this boost, which might mean a step up in budgetary outlays to about $50,000,000 from $35,000,000 this year, likely will be disclosed to members of the Commonwealth trade and economic conference to open at Montreal Sept. 11.

The Canadian hope is that this move may stimulate other Commonwealth countries to increase their aid to India, Pakistan and other underdeveloped areas, eventually creating a bigger pool of demand for capital goods which could be supplied from the more advanced producers.

$35,000,000 ALREADY

Canada last year's contribution of $35,000,000 to the Colombo Plan countries of South and Southeast Asia, Australia and Ghana and the West Indies Federation, has been largely spent for the purchase of goods from Canadian factories shipped into the area under government-financed transportation, irrigation, hydro and other capital development projects.

So far Canada has contributed about $200,000,000 since the Colombo Plan was set up about eight years ago. She is the largest single Commonwealth donor. Britain contributed about $240,000,000 but part of this included interest credit which Canada also provides but does not include in her aid totals. Australia has provided $47,700,000 and New Zealand about $19,000,000.

Germans State Russian Moon Rockets Explode

BERLIN (AP)—The West German news agency DPA said today that three Soviet "moon rockets" have exploded after taking off this month from launching pads in Siberia.

The reports, from diplomatic sources in East Berlin, said the Russians plan to launch a fourth moon rocket in mid - September. DPA said a prominent Soviet scientist, Prof. Leonid Vitkin, told colleague: "This time we shall most probably succeed. We will not waste either scientist.

Vitkin said the rockets which misfired were said to have been improved models of the rocket which Sputnik III rode.

No further details were given.

RELIEF COSTS UP

TORONTO (CP)—Welfare Minister Cecile of Ontario says relief payments in May, 1957, were more than $900,000 above the payments in June, 1957. Total payments this June were more than $780,000. Toronto, with more than two per cent of its population on relief, drew close to $400,000. Hamilton cost the province $84,278, followed by Windsor with $60,352. For the first six months of 1958, relief cost the province $4,727,016.

MAJOR CHANGES IN BROADCASTING SYSTEM PASSED

Bill Pushed Through Despite Opposition

OTTAWA (CP) — Two decisive moves by the Liberal opposition, but the big Progressive Conservative majority easily triumphed when the votes were counted.

With CCF support, the government majority first rejected 122 to 104 a Liberal amendment aimed at killing the measure for the session, then gave the bill second reading—approval in principle—109 to 98.

Revenue Minister Nowlan, piloting the bill through the House as the minister responsible for it, has published records made light of "foreboding" and "misgivings" expressed by the Liberals. He said the new 15-man regulatory body, called the board of broadcast governors, will probably be in harness by the time the next parliamentary session starts in January.

AGAINST DELAY

Only after the legislation any longer, as the Liberals wished, would create an "atmosphere of uncertainty" on a matter under discussion since 1955, Mr. Nowlan said.

He said the present bill is only "framework" legislation "you can't legislate for broadcasting."

The new board would assume many of the powers now held by the CBC Board of governors. The board would continue virtually unchanged.

Licensing of broadcasting stations would continue to be controlled by the government but the new board would recommend on licences. It could suspend licences for short periods, of broadcasting regulations.

Opposition Leader Pearson, spearheading the attack, said the new legislation may seem super-

Woman Hears Distress Cry, Origin Unknown

What were believed to be frantic calls for help, emanating from somewhere out in the bay, caused an alert on the part of city and provincial police shortly after midnight last night.

A Belleville woman called police stating she heard calls for help from out in the bay. Police investigated but could find no reason for the alarm.

Police believe that two youths who had been out for a midnight spree tried their craft and being questioned told police that they had heard no outcry.

Police Relieve Four Boys of Catapults

Four young lads in the Starling Street district had their artillery confiscated today following complaints to police that the boys were shooting at everything in sight.

Reports were that the boys were using catapults to shoot at birds but apparently were not too particular in what direction their "ammunition" flew, with result that pedestrians had a few narrow misses.

A police sergeant investigated and the boys were relieved of their homemade cannons.

FISHERMEN RETURN HONG KONG HOME

Fifteen Hong Kong fishermen captured by Red Chinese gunboats a week ago returned to the colony Sunday after paying fines in cash and fuel. Communist courts convicted them of fishing in violation of Chinese fishery administrative regulations.

CAS Must Rely On Support of United Appeal

There are 34 Children's Aid Societies in the Province of Ontario today. They are the official instruments through which the community offers children protection against cruelty and neglect. Although each is autonomous and has jurisdiction only in the area it serves, all work in close co-operation to provide a network of essential services to children across the province. First and foremost is the result of the activities of a group of private citizens they are still directed by a local lifters board and, like other voluntary agencies, operate as non-profit charitable organizations incorporated under the Corporations Act. They come under the supervision of the Department of Public Welfare of the province and are financed by private funds, public funds, municipal and provincial funds.

One of the prime functions of a society is the protection of children from neglect. Upon receipt of a complaint a social worker visits the home and reports the conditions with regard to the physical and emotional welfare of the children. When these conditions are considered harmful, children are directed and improving the situation or family relationships in the interest of the children so they can remain home. If this rehabilitation fails, the Society can take remedial action through the court.

Under the Dependent Child Welfare Act a Society has the right to remove a child from his home if he is neglected, or can not be properly cared for, is living in an unfit environment place, associating with an unfit or improper person, is delinquent, is incorrigible because of the inadequacy of control by his parents, guardian, foster father, or is emotionally neglected or deprived of attention to a degree that is detrimental to a registered specialist in psychiatry, to his physical, mental or his emotional and mental health.

Children's Aid Societies are not responsible for the responsibility of protecting the child from neglect and other neglect. In practice this usually means working with the unwilling parent and they apply to a Society for advice and protection in any matter connected with the child or with the birth of the child.

It is only where a Society is the only organized professional service there are always appeals for help from social problems from families where no suspicion of neglect exists and where help is needed for other reasons.

WORK FULL TIME

In Belleville the local Society has a professionally trained social worker carrying full time to assist people experiencing difficulty in their day-to-day living. In addition to this, there is a worker on duty seven nights a week and seven days a year to handle emergencies. When it becomes necessary to effect a child temporary care and shelter the Society has available a secondary Receiving Home where the child can remain in pleasant, home-like surroundings until he can return home or until another plan can be made for him.

The responsibility for financing this important work rests with the local community. The cost is not great, in fact the cost of supervising a child in his own home is but a fraction of the cost of caring for him away from his home. While the Province of Ontario makes a generous grant for certain specific services, this grant, like most other provincial grants, is not intended to supplement rather than pay the entire cost of the service. Therefore, the Society must rely on the support of the Belleville United Appeal.

One Man Injured As Three Cars Get Into Tangle

TRENTON — One man was injured and taken to the RCAF hospital here last night following a three-car accident on Dundas Street East near the Bay Breeze Motel and in front of Loblaw's new store.

The two occupants of the third car were not injured, nor were the drivers of the other cars involved.

Joseph Beaupre of the RCAF Trenton suffered cuts to the right side of his face and concussion and he was driven forward into the windshield.

The police report says all three cars were going east on Dundas Street East when the two cars in front, being driven by Clayton Hughson, 39 Bower Street, Trenton and Isaac McCafferty, 229A King Street, Trenton, slowed down for traffic and the third car, being operated by George Brown of Edmonton, Alberta, rammed into the rear of the McCafferty car and slammed it ahead into the rear of the Hughson car. Damage to the cars was estimated at $60 to the Hughson car, $200 to the McCafferty vehicle; $200 to the front and rear end of the McCafferty car which was in the middle and $300 to the front end and windshield of the last vehicle.

Other passengers in the car being operated by the Edmonton man were Mrs. Beaupre, 318 S Trenton, owner of the car, and Joseph Beaupre of Trenton.

The accident occurred about 7.15 p.m. and was investigated by Provincial Constables Ernest Nokes and Sid Vickers.

A second accident, in as many days, also occurred on the town bridge. Mrs. Helen Hickie of R.R. 4 Trenton told police she was unable to stop her car in time as the truck in front of her, pulled truck in front of her. Damage to the car was estimated at $100 to the front and the rear of the truck, which was being driven by Frank H. Scott of Hammond Street, was damaged to the extent of $50 to the tail gate and trans-mission.

Constable C. Schwager investigated the mishap which took place at 3 p.m.

Horrible Smell Is Price Paid To Save Fish

TRENTON — The burning question in Trenton today is "Which is worse the pollution of the river water or the pollution of the air?"

For the past three mornings many residents of the town have been forced out of bed at an early hour to close their windows to shut out a terrible smell which one resident termed as "a cross between the fumes from a sewage disposal plant and the smoke from a burning dump."

The odor is apparently the price Trentonians must pay to save a few hundred tons of bait in Trent River because of recent protest from local fishermen against a Trenton paper mill.

The plant had apparently been dumping waste into the Trent River and this was killing some of the fish. After full investigation by top men in the proper governmental departments, the plant was ordered to dig two large pits and dump the waste material in these, where it could be treated before being put into the river.

The smell which has been complained about is apparently from the waste material in these pits. Most Trentonians who were interviewed, say they do not blame the paper mill because it is only trying to cooperate with the town authorities and others who claimed it was polluting the river. It has spent thousands of dollar to have the pits dug and change the outlet lines.

One ardent Trenton fisherman said several weeks ago, "We'll save those fish, or raise an awful stink."

They apparently did both.

AWARDED CONTRACT

TRENTON — Harry Cooke of Stirling has been awarded the contract for tearing down the Titus Block on Dundas Street West and his crews are now busy taking the brick from the second storey wall on Dundas Street. Last Friday a large number of bricks, which had been loosened by the fire and firemen's hose during the fire, were removed, as they were considered a safety threat below. They were noticed by one of the town policemen and the owner of the building was informed. The entire building will be demolished and only the two old buildings behind it, to give an open lot between the Masting Square and Dundas St. It is not known when the work is expected to be completed.

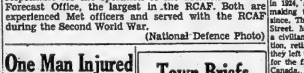
AID FIREMEN



The heavy rains in Trenton last Thursday and Friday and on Sunday have apparently eliminated the trouble local farmers have been experiencing with fire at the sawdust pile south of the softball park. They report there have been no further calls to this area, after answering 15 calls in three weeks. The town crews have also cut down many of the bushes on the shore, as well as trimming some of the larger ones in that region.

Your place in Heaven,
And He gave us strength to bear

New micro strainer equipment designed to remove algae from raw water has increased the summer capacity of the local water filtration plant through reduction in frequency of filter bed backwashes. Shown is structure holding strainer equipment with new settling basins in foreground. Plant capacity will be increased to 10 million gallons a day.

Micro strainer equipment at Belleville is the only installation of its kind in Canada. Shown are the four strainer units at the Belleville filtration plant, each with a capacity of up to two and a half million gallons daily. Water is strained through stainless steel screening with 80,000 openings to the square inch.

Water Processing Equipment Reduces Filter Backwashing, Increases Plant Capacity

New processing equipment, designed to remove up to 95 per cent of troublesome algae from raw water supplies, has made for greener lawns in Belleville this summer.

The green grass has resulted from the virtual absence of lawn watering restrictions, which normally during hot summer months keep lawns a bit parched.

This year as result of new micro straining equipment installed at the Belleville Filtration Plant, the filtered water supply has been increased and despite higher domestic usage, only normal watering restrictions were necessary.

Secret of micro strainer operation is that the units remove a high percentage of filter blocking algae with result that filter backwashing is greatly reduced and thus plant capacity is increased.

For instance, during the month of July when algae in the Bay of Quinte is fast reaching its peak, filters at the local plant were backwashed only 84 times. During July of last year when the micro straining equipment was not in operation, filters were backwashed 223 times.

But the big test is during the month of August. Without micro straining equipment filters normally would be washed probably 450 times. This year the number of washes will be reduced to about one third of that number.

Micro - strainer equipment is manufactured in England and the installation at Belleville is the only one in Canada.

DEMONSTRATED LAST YEAR

The effectiveness of micro straining equipment in removing algae was demonstrated at the local pump house last year with the installation of pilot test equipment. Since then four strainer units with a daily capacity of over two million gallons each have been installed locally.

Principal of their operation is that raw water is strained through fine stainless steel mesh with 80,000 openings per square inch.

Report of tests made by the Water Resources Commission have yet to be received by local plant officials, but local testing based on practical operation is that the units "are doing a good job."

This was the way which secretary - utilities commission manager Ernest L. Burham today referred to the efficiency of the system. "They seem to be doing a very good job", he said. Asked Mr. J. Scriven acting superintendent at the filtration plant, neede little convincing of the job which the units were doing.

He merely pointed to records which show filter washing during July had been reduced to roughly one third of that during the same period last year.

HIGH WATER USAGE

A total of 340,930,000 gallons of water was supplied to the city during the month of July with high use for one day being 3,662,000. On an average day water use in the city was 4,546,000.

Installation of the micro strainers is part of a plant expansion program at the Belleville pumphouse which will practically double its capacity. The other phase is installation of additional settling basins which have doubled this phase of capacity.

There are eight filter beds in operation at the local pumphouse, with provisions for seeing up two additional beds when the extra capacity is required.

It is expected this will follow soon after annexation which will see the city's population jump by about 6,000 persons. A percentage of these people, however, are now being served with city water.

Spend $7,000 To Give Hospital 'Face-Lift' Job

Belleville General Hospital is getting its face lifted. At least the front of the institution is.

Kenneth Box, hospital administrator, said today that the front porch will be torn down to make room for new steps, a new landing and smart, new glass doors.

Hospital maintenance crews will do the work.

A.C. Horne, the contractor who is cleaning up the exterior of city hall, has the contract to do the same sort of work at the hospital, cleaning the brick-work, waterproofing and re-pointing stone and brick-work.

Mr. Box said the total cost of the projects will be between $6,000 and $7,000. Work is expected to be completed by the end of September, he said.

Acting filtration plant superintendent James Scriven adjusts operation of one of the four micro strainer units at Belleville pumphouse. Strainer units are drum-like affairs which revolve on a horizontal axis. As the drum revolves raw water is strained through bottom while a continual backwashing process carries away algae from the top.

Three Escapees Held After Stolen Car Hits Park Tree

Three escapees from the Shawbridge Boys' Training School had their flight from Montreal, ended suddenly early this morning when the stolen car in which they were riding went out of control at the corner of Dundas and Front Streets and crashed into a huge maple tree at the entrance to Fireworks Park.

Two of the boys were admitted to Belleville General Hospital with facial injuries as they slammed against the dashboard, while the third had a fine detained at the city police station.

The 1955 Buick was said by police to have been stolen in Montreal.

Minutes before the crash which almost completely wrecked the car, the boys had stopped at May's Service Station, where they had five dollars' worth of gasoline put in the tank. Then they roared away down the street without paying for the gasoline only to crash when they reached the Front Street corner.

The crash of the car against the tree was heard by P.C. Davis at the corner of Front and Bridge Street who commandeered a ride to the scene. Almost simultaneously the city police cruiser, which minutes earlier had been despatched to May's Service Station, arrived and the two injured youths were taken to hospital.

Police said that two of the youths had escaped from the Shawbridge Training School for more than a week.

One of the boys is 14 and the other two 15 years of age.

New Parking Facilities Behind West Side Front St. Stores May Soon Become Reality

Dave Lunn, who with Cleo Colling are co-chairmen of the parking committee of the retail section of the Chamber of Commerce, gave indication today that it may not be long before work is started on improving the present parking facilities behind the stores on the west side of Front St.

Mr. Lunn said a meeting was held recently of the three-man committee.

"The indications are now that we are going to have our parking lot," said Mr. Lunn. "Property owners are going to let their property go for a nominal sum to help the city raise its share of the money."

The project is a joint merchant-city one, much like the municipal parking lot at the foot of Patterson St. was, where the Belleville Lock Co. once located.

Mr. Lunn could not estimate the cost of this new project, but said the merchants and city would bear the cost.

"The area will be graded and paved and meters will be installed," he added. "Once the debt is liquidated, revenues from the meters will go to the city."

The lot will accommodate approximately 130 to 150 vehicles.

CITY MUST MAKE MOVE

"It will be a good thing when we get rid of the mud hole behind our stores," said Mr. Lunn, manager of Zellers. "The city must make the next move and then we will be ready to start on the project."

There will be no changes in the point of entry or exit of the parking area behind Front St. stores.

"Perhaps some time in the future — if a city parking authority is ever formed — the river will be narrowed in that area. Then a bridge could be built so that cars could enter the lot from Front St. and exit over the bridge to Coleman St. That would be the ideal situation. But that, of course, is looking into the distant future," said Mr. Lunn.

After the parking area is improved, Mr. Lunn believes signs would help direct regular and tourist trade to the lot.

"The parking lot at the foot of Patterson St. was never really advertised. People had to find out about it for themselves. Now, though, especially on Friday nights and Saturdays, the lot is almost filled."

PLEDGES EXPIRE SEPT. 1

Mr. Colling said the parking committee had to move swiftly to get the project at its present stage because the money pledges made by a percentage of merchants some time ago expire September 1.

"We are in no position to say that work will start soon", said Mr. Colling. "Probably the Ontario Municipal Board will have to be dealt with first. The news is, however, that property owners are prepared to sell their land at a sum struck by the city. Just what the city will offer for it I am not prepared to say. That will come from city council."

Robert C. Hamilton, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and the third member of the parking committee, today cited the integrity and interest of Mr. Colling and Mr. Lunn as being the chief reasons why the project has come so far in such a short time of discussion.

"The people of this city should know that both Mr. Colling and Mr. Lunn have been the ones responsible for getting the project to its present stage," said Mr. Hamilton.

IS MAN NEAR LIMIT OF KNOWLEDGE?

Is this as adventurous an era as the days prior to World War I? Some people believe it is while others do not think so.

The main argument being used by those who believe the years before the 1914-18 war were more exciting than those which followed is of interest. They claim that in the good old days scientific achievements did not occur as frequently as they do today. Young people, they believe, were given more incentive some years ago to try to conquer the unknown in the world of science and engineering.

Many folks believe earthmen have almost reached the end of what they will be allowed to discover. Should they pursue their investigations further, they will surely be tampering with a mighty intelligence which demands that some things remain secret for all time. It is argued.

Today discoveries in science are almost commonplace. Hardly a day goes by but we read in the press of a new wonder drug or possibly an artificial organ which is capable of replacing a natural organ in a human being, or perhaps an engineer has designed an airplane which is capable of carrying 200 passengers at speeds ranging close to the speed of sound. New fuels are being developed from seemingly odd sources. Who would have believed a few years ago that a piece of uranium is capable of producing a devastating blast, or driving a mechanism for months without exhausting its fuel supply?

Never in the history of mankind have so many discoveries been made in science as have been made during the first fifty-eight years of the twentieth century.

But because so much has been accomplished and uncovered in little more than half a century is really no reason to believe that man has just about reached the limit of what God wants him to know. We believe God wants us to seek the truth. If we find it, He is pleased. If we do not find it, then He spurs us on still.

Youngsters of today should never lose sight of the future. They should equip themselves with education and common sense to pick up the reins in science where their predecessors let go. We do not believe that man has reached anywhere near the imaginary dividing line which separates Divine knowledge from that of mankind.

One of the things feared most by all human beings is the unknown. Probably this fear is what drives people outward into space. If that is so, then God's blessings are with them.

AN UNCOMFORTABLE QUESTION

At the recent Couchiching conference, Mr. Justice Chan Htoon of the Supreme Court of Burma had harsh words for some Western exports to Asia. The "generally featuring sex, gangsters and rock and roll" stuffer by comparison with the high quality books, periodicals, posters and leaflets with which Communist Russia and China tell their story.

"The cultured minority in Western societies no longer asserts adequate leadership or authority and the field is left open to exploitation of trash and violence," comments the Hamilton Spectator. "Far from keeping this stuff away from our children, we cannot even protect our young people from its corrosive effects. Their dimes and quarters support it and the view that the mass taste must be the right taste, however, nasty it may prove to be. To attempt to censor this, except by moral suasion, would be regarded as undemocratic. Asians are in a more privileged position. They can compare and criticize. They rarely see the high quality entertainment springing from the best in Western culture. Can we wonder that so many of them look with admiring eyes on Russia when the story we tell ourselves is so often one of viciousness, violence and rubbishy infantilism?"

All this may be true, but it seems to us to be begging the question. If viciousness, violence and infantilism satisfy the mass taste in the West, but disgust so many Asians, then are not the standards of the Asians higher than those of the Western world?

Such a conclusion would be completely unacceptable to those who persist in regarding the people of Asian lands as savages, but it may be closer to the truth than is comfortable.

JUST FOLKS

ADVICE

I've been through the mill, my boy,
I have bumped the bumps of fate,
I've seen gold turn out alloy,
I've seen friendship change to hate.
I've seen plans go for astray
When it seemed they must succeed,
Take a tip from me today:
Never go above your speed.
Never spend a cent unearned,
Never gamble on the morrow
Never a lesson man has learned
Very often to his sorrow.

Let an old man tell you now:
Save a little — you may need;
Guard yourself, and anyhow
Never go above your speed.

I've been through the mill,
I know
Just how easy life appears
To the eyes of youth, but, oh,
Far down the lane of years
Disappointments wait for you,
Vain will be regrets, indeed,
Keep your heart and purpose true;
Never go above your speed.

Reds Fear Friendship

Montreal Gazette

In 1949, when NATO was being formed, Sir Winston Churchill noted that "Under the impact of Communism, all the free nations are being welded together as they never have been before and never would be, but for the harsh external pressure to which they are being subjected."

"We may well ask," he said, "Why have they (the Russians), seized so at the chance the free world against them?"

Churchill's answer: "It is because they fear the friendship of the West more than its hostility."
